THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

William Pullman, of Brooklyn, is visiting his friend, George Allen.

Louis Cole has gone to New York for a few days visit.

Miss Lydia Warren, of Bayonne, is stopping with her brother, W. S. Emery, at Scotch Plains, for the benefit of her health.

Thomas M. Paff, Sr., is making a great hit with his real estate and insurance business, in connection with his store for the sale of school supplies.

Charles Haberle is the latest advocate of bicycling. He is now learning to ride a wheel, and although he has seen some thirty odd winters, he has experienced many more falls during the last few days.

About a dozen bicyclists from here helped swell the crowd in front of Seigel, Cooper & Company's store on Sixth avenue yesterday, but they all came home without a wheel, except a few which had them in their heads.

William Hazen, a nephew of Thos. M. Paff, Sr., and an attache of the Pennsylvania Railroad offices in New York city, has been spending his vacation between here and Washington, D. C. He returned to New York yesterday.

There is a youth in this town who goes about the streets at night casting insulting remarks at unprotected women. Complaints have become frequent, and unless the fellow desists, he will soon be arrested and held to answer. He is well known.

Robert Clark had a rather expensive experience at New Brunswick on the night of Labor Day. He had just started for home when a fellow named Dixon jumped out in the roadway, and broke a picket over his face, inflicting a compound fracture of the jaw. The man was arrested and held in $300 bail to await the action of the grand jury. His employer went on his bonds and he was released.

Mrs. Alexander Messler died at her home here yesterday morning about 7:30 o'clock, after a long and painful illness from a complication of diseases. Decedent was a patient in Muhlenberg Hospital for a long time, but a few months she was returned home as incurable. At times she seemed to rally, but the improvement was only temporary and she died as above stated. Besides the husband, four children survive her.

All the people of this place want now is water and an electric street railway. So far as water is concerned it is only a matter of a very short time before the town will be dry. In case of fire, the town would be utterly helpless, and at the mercy of the flames. Water could be easily obtained from the mountain just north from here and with comparatively little expense except for laying pipes and putting in hydrants the cost to the town and township would be trifling.

There was music and mirth, dancing and a general good time at Billy Lee's West Side hotel, last evening. The attendance was not quite so large as was anticipated, but the parlors were comfortably filled and a most enjoyable evening was spent by the guests present. Prof. Eugene O'Reilly furnished the music for the terpsichorean part of the programme, and there was banjo and guitar music, singing, jig dancing and breakdowns in another part of the house. On the whole the entertainment was a pronounced success as many of those present can attest.

The cool weather is driving most of the boarders from Flanders' summer boarding house back to the city. There are, however, a dozen or fifteen there.

DUNELLEN.

Bernard Sirisky is in Millstone today on business.

T. P. Cady has been visiting friends in Brooklyn for a few days.

Mayor and Mrs. Brakeley have been in New York for a brief visit.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Harman have been visiting friends at Somerville for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Griggs will go to Trenton Saturday for a two weeks' visit with friends.

Miss Mildred Titsworth left Monday to enter upon her duties in the State Normal School at Trenton.

On account of the crowded condition of the High School, sessions are now held from 8:30 a. m. to 1 p. m. only.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church in New Market held a meeting on Saturday evening.

J. A. Wilson, of Dunellen, and I. E. Titsworth, of New Market, left today to resume their studies at Rutgers College.

Miss Sallie Lake, accompanied by her brother Joseph, of Somerville, have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Randolph.

John Wyhusky, who has been employed about the depot park the past summer, has gone to Flemington to remain through the winter.

The Central Railroad Company is putting in new track tanks at Greenbrook. Work was begun yesterday, and will be completed within a fortnight.

J. M. Geitel's two sons, Edward and Hamlet, of Philadelphia, who have been spending the summer with their grandfather, Justice Luckey, returned home yesterday.

Bicycle riding on the sidewalks is indulged in with impunity here, both day and night, and the majority of those who ride on the walks at night do not carry either headlight or bell.

Rev. Father Goth, of Kansas City, arrived in town yesterday, and is visiting his father, George Goth, on North avenue. Father Goth will probably remain here all through the winter.

Through the agent, John R. Naylor, of Plainfield, the Metropolitan Insurance Company yesterday made an amicable adjustment of the loss on the death of the late John Taylor. His widow was awarded $190.

Two well-known residents of this place got into an altercation in front of Paul Kratzel's shoe shop, between 12 and 1 yesterday morning, over a talk about politics, and a little bloodshed resulted. No arrests have as yet been made, however.

Almost every pleasant night—Sunday included—heated political arguments are heard at the depot and in front of the stores. One prominent merchant says the arguments may be all right, but the men who do the most talking don't know what they're talking about.

Wm. Dealaman, of Newark, who has been visiting his brother Adam, drove over to Warrenville, Sunday, to see his parents. The father, an aged gentleman, was stricken down with the grip some two years ago, and he has never yet fully recovered from its effects. Mrs. Dealaman, his wife, is also ill.

The lowlands opposite the Central Railroad depot are considered a malaria-breeding district. Several cases of chills and fever within the past few weeks have been traced to this spot of swamp land. True, the Central Railroad Company is filling in a portion of the land for a siding, but the entire tract, less than six acres, should be filled in without delay. By such an improvement the health of the community would be greatly benefitted.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church of New Market held a regular monthly meeting on Saturday evening, with President A. W. Vars in the chair. Besides the regular routine business, a mock trial was held. The following persons were named to constitute a nominating committee for officers to serve for the ensuing months, from Oct. 3d, next: Miss Maude Titsworth, chairman; Miss Bertie Gaskill and Rev. F. E. Peterson.

A good story is told of three young Dunellenites who went to New York on the 3:17 a. m. train yesterday to get first show at the $10 bicycles. They lined up in front of the door, and when the crowd became so dense that the police had to force an opening, the three young men became separated and they returned home on different trains, none of them being able to get near enough to buy a bicycle. One of them, however, brought home a silk umbrella which he picked up in the crowd.

For China Painting.

Miss Beatrice Doane Craig announces that she is forming classes in china painting for the coming season. She has made a specialty of this study for four years and has been teaching for one year. Miss Craig is a pupil of Mrs. Roe of New York. In connection with the studio she has a kiln of the latest model. She would be glad to show her work to anyone calling at the studio. 815 College peace.

Colored Republicans to Organize.

Through some misunderstanding on the part of the Colored Republican Executive Committee, the announced regular meeting for last evening was not held. The executive committee have been called together for this evening at 8 o'clock when the plans for the campaign will be thoroughly discussed and steps taken in accordance with the reports.

Destructive Vices.

Mrs. Baldwin, of Newark, taught the lesson at the meeting of the Primary Teachers' Union held yesterday afternoon. Her subject was "Destructive Vices" and she handled it in a manner interesting to all. There was a good attendance, and a feature was the singing, led by E. E. Anthony, of this city.

Leal's School Opens.

Prof. Leal's School opened yesterday for the fall term with a large attendance. The new instructor, Prof. Heisz, who takes the place of William Henderson, was present and made a very favorable impression.

Presiding Elder to Live Here.

Presiding Elder G. W. Smith, who is now living in Westfield, will move to Plainfield in a few days and take up his residence on Craig place, where Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Johnston will reside with him.

Miss Nettie Mattison, of Church street, left yesterday for Asheville, N. C., where she will assist her sister in teaching school.

Miss Try Mattox, of Webster place, is slowly recovering from a serious illness. Yesterday she was able to enjoy a short ride.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Clifton, of West Second street, have returned home after spending the summer at the Clifton House, Patchogue, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Randolph, of Watchung avenue, are the proud parents of a bouncing twelve-pound boy, born on Sunday morning last.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall lately gave an interesting talk at the house of Mrs. James G. Blaine, at Bar Harbor, on "The Influence of the Press on Manners and Morals."

Advices from Charles F. Abbott's family, of Central avenue, who are summering in Europe, are to the effect that they are enjoying a season of unalloyed pleasure on the continent.

—Marsh, Ayres & Company's wagon has been treated to a coat of paint. It is one of the neatest business wagons in town.

—The trustees of Grace M. E. church are to be commended for the taking up of their dilapidated board walk on Park place, corner of Somerset street, which is to be replaced by substantial bluestone flagging.

—In Justice Newcorn's court this morning the following cases were adjourned for one week: Watts et ux against Miller; Miller against Watts et ux; Morgan against Pound. Tomorrow the celebrated case of Lawler against Jones will be tried before Justice Newcorn and a twelve-men jury.

The whole system is drained and undermined by indolent ulcers and open sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve speedily heals them. It is the best pile cure known. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

—Feed the nerves upon pure rich blood and you will not be nervous. Pure blood comes by taking Hood's Sarsaparrilla which is thusthe greatest and best nerve tonic.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sick headache, indigestion, biliousness. All druggists. 25c.

"Boys will be boys," but you can't afford to lose any of them. Be ready for the green apple season by having DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure in the house. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

Sent it to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

Poison Ivy, insect bites, bruises, scalds, burns, are quickly cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the great pile cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

TRAINING WILD BEASTS.

A Trade Requiring Unlimited Patience and Nerve.

How Such Animals as Lions and Tigers Are Subdued—Management of Elephants — Methods of Bird Trainers.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

"Afraid of the lion!" exclaimed a well-known animal trainer, a few days ago, in reply to my inquiry. "Not a bit, my friend. Why, man alive, the lion is ten times more afraid of me than I am of him. It seems that the lower animals have a natural feeling of awe for all mankind, and it is easy for the trainer to utilize this feeling by assuming a commanding presence. When the animal is not held in strict subjection, its awe quickly gives way to rage, and a trainer who would show the least hesitation or fear would be a lost man."

The speaker was J. T. Sweeny, in charge of the Lincoln park (Chicago) zoological garden and for many years the boss-animal man at one of the leading circuses. Mr. Sweeny branched off into a general discussion of animal training.

"Training animals," he said, "is not a single art. The method of training wild and ferocious beasts differs radically from that pursued with such intelligent animals as horses, dogs and elephants. Teaching birds is an entirely distinct department, and the system employed in the training of insects is unique. With a competent trainer the danger element is almost nil. Accidents are always due to carelessness of some kind. When the trainer visits his lion or panther the first time, the animal is securely tied to the floor of the cage. The trainer moves about it, pets it and feeds it with pieces of meat. Gradually the ropes are loosened; then only a collar and chain are used, and finally these also are removed. Individual animals differ in character just like men. Some are coaxed into the performance of tricks, and others must have obedience beaten into them. You may whip a stubborn fellow and whip him hard without incurring the slightest danger of being attacked. The strongest lion crouches before you apparently unconscious of his power. Tigers are most liable to give trouble. Lions are comparatively mild; leopards are tricky, and the jaguar when he is fierce at all is as unruly as any. I have noticed little difference in the temper of the sexes.

"We have all been to circuses and have seen the apparently wonderful feats of animal intelligence. These are simply mechanical motions acquired after the trainer has spent months and years of patience in teaching them. The few simple devices of playing upon the fears of the animals and of rewarding them when tricks are well performed, are alone used.

"The cage life has made all these animals of the jungle and the desert extremely nervous, and it is through fear primarily that they are taught. I need but make a move, and my lion crawls away in the furthest corner. Thus, when I teach him to jump, I place a hurdle across the cage, and walk up to him, snapping my finger. The lion tries to get away, and in order to do so he must jump the hurdle. After he has performed the feat, he is rewarded with a dainty morsel. As the trick is repeated and repeated, the sound of my snapping finger and the animal's own act of jumping become so firmly coordinated in his brain that the one necessarily leads to the other. He forgets the fear, and does the trick without being conscious of its meaning. In like manner my cats seat themselves in groups. Each is taught individually to take its particular position on the rostrum by being dragged there again and again at a certain signal. Then all the animals are brought together, and at the signal the whole group arranges itself in an entirely mechanical afshion.

"With elephants, horses and their kin it is different. They are intelligent and willing workers, and will often help you in your teaching. Thus a story is told of one young elephant who found himself rather clumsy in class drills and was detected practicing his lessons in his stall.

"It is no snap, however, to teach an elephant. He is so tremendously bulky that it takes ten, twelve, yes, fifteen men to handle a single full-grown fellow. A special structure with ropes and pulleys must be built, and the feet and body of the quinbus flestrim are tied thereto. When you give your thick-skinned friend the signal to rise the men hoist him up bodily, and when you want him to lie down his legs are pulled away from under him. To teach him to stand on his head, tie down his front feet and pull on the rear ones. When once he has learned a trick like this, he will take pride in executing it of his own accord.

"It often comes very handy to have a trained elephant as the teacher for a newcomer. This is the regular practice in India. The untrained elephant copies very readily from others and the tricks that it may have taken you months to teach the first animal are acquired in a few days by imitation.

"To speak of birds and insects, well, I haven't done much at that. I was acquainted with one famous trainer who traveled with our circus from time to time.

"The fellow had two dozen birds who went through a regular sham battle. They arranged themselves on two sides in line of battle and had toy cannons, which they ignited by pulling a string attached to the trigger. At each shot one of the birds dropped down as if dead and was carried out of the way by its companions. Some of the birds carried sticks and flags, with which they rushed against their opponents. The trainer told me that he had spent months in training a single bird. Hunger is the only agent that will overcome their natural timidity. Thus, while the cannon is exploding, the bird is signaled and fed simultaneously. It will fly away from the noise, but if it gets no other food it will approach again and will finally remain when it finds that the explosion does no harm. The bird learns to pull a string by having its food placed in a vessel on a sliding plane outside the cage. A string tied to a vessel leads into the cage. When the bird gets hungry it pecks at everything within reach, and will soon learn that by pecking at the string it may pull its food into the cage. The bird trainer taught his pets to take things into their claws by offering them food which they were not permitted to pick up with their bills. The fundamental principles having been taught, an infinite number of complications may be evolved so as to make the performance look like an entirely conscious and intelligent exhibition.

"Still more mechanical is the teaching of fleas. I knew an old crank who made a specialty of this. He got good pay for his crankiness, however. About all that you can ever teach these black-liveried gentlemen is to walk and sit still when placed in certain positions. Only human fleas will do—so the flea-crank told me—for the others are not lively enough. They are held captive by means of a fine thread that is slipped in a noose over their slender waists. My friend has a score of them and he feeds them all himself every morning—by putting them on his arm, you know. The beginners are first taught to walk, which consists simply in unteaching them the art of hopping. This is done by tying the flea's chain to a round piece of card-board revolving on a pin for a pivot. When the flea tries to hop he comes down with a thump and he soon finds out that the only way to get there is to get the card revolving by moving along in a slow walk. Sometimes my friend puts his fleas into a glass jar where they bump their heads so hard by hopping that they soon give up the practice. When the fleas had learned to walk he tied them to Lilliputian coaches of the most delicate workmanship. He assigns some of his prisoners to playing horse and ties others in an upright position on the coachman's seat. The little fellows are very strong and can pull three to four hundred times their own weight.

"A comical sight is the fleas' waltz. The piano plays and the insects, arranged in pairs, move in a circle. It is more cruel than cute, however, for if one will examine closely one will find that the unfortunate animals have had one or more of their legs cut off so that they are forced to walk sideways. The waltz may also be taught by putting sound legged fleas on a music box. When the box begins to play, the tickling vibration throws the insects into a peculiar and laughable rotary motion which may be interpreted as a dance."

Virtue's Crown of Roses.

The crown of roses and the title of the Rosarie for one year is given annually as a prize for virtue in some of the provincial towns of France, notably in Nanteere, a little town near Paris. The city confers the crown of roses and other gifts upon the fair maid who has been pronounced worthy by the municipality, who have met in solemn convocation to consider the merits of all the maids of the town.

WINGED SEEDS.

Nature's Plan of Distributing Plants Without the Aid of Man.

The terrible eruption of Krakatoa, in the Sunda strait, in 1883, furnished the opportunity for illustrating the ease with which nature can replant with vegetable life a district that has become completely isolated. The volcanic eruption was one of the most destructive recorded in history, the loss of human life being estimated to exceed 100,000. Of the 35 volcanoes on and near the Island of Java 26 were in violent eruption at the same time. The center of disturbance was the island volcano of Krakatoa, which emitted molten lava and burning ashes in such abundance that every living thing, whether animal or vegetable, on the island was destroyed, and an observer from a ship which approached close to the land declared that the whole island was red hot. Four years from the date of the eruption the island was visited by an eminent naturalist, who found that the ashes and lava had cooled to such an extent as to permit the beginnings of vegetable life, and on making a closer examination he discovered that during the brief space of four years nature had stocked the island with 246 different kinds of plants.

There are many seeds which seem, by their formation, to be specially designed for transmission though the air, and of these several are quite as good illustrations as the thistle. The seed of the common dandelion, a plant to be seen on every common, has wings which will carry it away on the slightest breath of air. The wings are very slight filaments, radiating backward from the seed, so that, when the latter finally lodges, it falls tip first, in the most favorable position for taking root. Country children in the United States often find amusement in blowing the seed from the stalk and watching to see how far they will go before falling to the ground, but whenever there is even a moderate breeze the experiment is uniformly a failure, as the fleecy seed fly out of sight and are gone in an instnat, and the next season a dandelion springs up in somebody's lawn, where the plant was never seen before. The common tumble weed is another example of the winged seed. The plant grows in a woolly bunch, which, when dried, is easily separated from the stalk, and a light breeze sets the ball rolling over the ground, to scatter its seed wherever it goes.

The seeds of many ferns and microscopic plants are so constructed as to be readily lifted and carried away by the wind, while some of considerable size are provided with an elaborate arrangement for aerial transportation. The common maple is an example of the last kind, for projecting from its large head is a membrane closely resembling in size, shape and general appearance the wing of the locust. When the seed is separated from the tree, even if the air be quite still, it does not fall directly to the earth, but, by its peculiar construction, acquires in falling a spiral motion that takes it several feet from beneath the starting point, and when a brisk breeze is blowing one of these winged seeds has been known to twirl through the air for six miles before its journey came to an end and it sank to the ground, there to germinate and start a maple grove.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WOMAN FLIES KITES.

Champion Lady at the Sport Invents a New Kind.

"Barrel kites" are the novel invention of Miss Nellie Ross, of Fruit Vale, Cal., says the New York World. Three months ago she demonstrated their practicability, and since then has proved, as she claims, that they fly higher than any other kites ever made on the Pacific coast. A recent visitor to what Miss Rose calls her "kitery" saw simply a very clean and neatly-whitewashed back yard. Against some deserted henroosts leaned some queer cloth and bamboo objects that looked like flattened balloons with the ends knocked out. The largest were five feet high by four feet broad, and they were of all colors. The string used in flying them is about two miles long.

The young kite-flyer, who holds that every woman should have a hobby and who thoroughly enjoys hers, makes all her own kites. Then she flies nine or ten at once, to the great edification of the surrounding neighborhood and to the delight of the small boys, who are always willing to help haul them in. Each kite is named, and "McKinley" and "Grover" compete with those bearing less famous names to see which can climb the highest. Barrel-kite flying is said to be as pretty as it is successful, and California's champion kite-flyer wears her distinction very gracefully.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning the fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

BOOTH NOW A PRESBYTER.

Commander of American Volunteers Ordained Yesterday at Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Ballington Booth, commander of the American Volunteers, was yesterday ordained a presbyter of the Reformed Episcopal church. The officiating minister was Bishop Fallows of St. Paul's church, where the ceremony was performed. All the staff officers under Commander Booth will also be ordained members of the Protestant church. The fact that the leader of the new salvation army was to be ordained was kept a secret, and the announcement was a surprise to his friends and the Volunteers. The ordination means a radical departure from the fundamental Salvation Army law laid down by the commander's father and a close affiliation with the church organizations. Commander Booth addressed the Protestant ministers of Chicago at the First Methodist church, explaining that it was the aim of the Volunteers to become an auxiliary of the church, reaching those whom the church did not. The ministers were won over to his support by the fervent appeal for recognition and aid.

DESERTING CANADA.

Government To Try To Prevent Immigration to Brazil.

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—In the house of commons Mr. Bergeron (opposition) again pointed out that nearly a thousand people will sail from Montreal today for Brazil, and he asked what the Dominion government had done in the matter. Premier Laurier stated that the government could not prevent people leaving Canada if they were determined to do so, but, at the same time, they advised their immigration agent in Montreal to look into the matter and to endeavor to persuade the people against going to Brazil. The government have also communicated with the church authorities, telling them to advise their flocks against being deluded into leaving the country.

WATSON AT OSCEOLA.

Would Get Off the Ticket if It Would Help Bryan.

Osceola, Neb., Sept. 15.—Thomas E. Watson spoke to an audience of 3,000 here yesterday. He claimed that of all the congressmen elected from the southern states through the aid of the Populist party he was the only one who had remained true to the faith and said that his was a fight for the preservation of the Populist party. Continuing, he said: "If I believed it best for the interests of Mr. Bryan I would willingly get off the ticket. Perish my name for ever if I cannot be instrumental in freeing this people."

"ALL WORKED OUT."

An Instructive Lesson in the Death Roll of Our Great Men.

Dr. Greene's Nervura a Protection Against Premature Death. Value of Vigorous Nerves and Pure Blood.

In the death of great and gifted men and women, who have filled the public mind and who are held in tender and tearful remembrances, how many have gone because they were "worked out?" It is a lengthy and a sad list. We can easily recall many, whom we have personally known, who have seemed to wear their precious lives out all too soon because their deaths were premature. The world feels their loss keenly for its sudden ending.

They were not worked out; they were tired out, exhausted. They stopped because they could go to no greater physical lengths. Why? Their vitality was vitiated and lost. Long years ago, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, studying this deep problem, discovered its prime cause and at once set about its correction. He found the seat of health to be strength and vigor of nerves and pure blood, and determined to discover a remedy that would re-energize the nerves and purify and enrich the blood when both become weakened, and to prevent, if taken in time, such relapse of physical force. He succeeded to such an extent that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has gained a world-wide reputation through its wonderful cures and the benefits it has conferred on the thousands who have used it. In his study of this subject he has also become the leading authority on blood and nervous ailments, and so is sought as physician by people everywhere. He charges no fee for his opinion, and can consequently be consulted, FREE OF CHARGE, by letter or in person.

If you are "worked out," if weak, nervous, run-down or you feel "out of sorts," or if you want to avoid the ills, weakness and exhaustion, so sure to come, don't delay. Get this grand restorer of health and strength, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, at once, and it will make you well.

Decorations and Orders.

"What is the difference," asked a correspondent, apropos of Li Hung Chang's journey to Europe, "between a yellow jacket, a button, or a peacock's feather, on the one hand, and a thistle, a bath, or a garter, on the other? Why do we lavish so much ridicule on the importance attached to the first set of emblems by the Chinese when we ourselves set just as much store by the second set?" There is much force in these questions, and I commend them to the attention of the wags in the press who are always poking fun at Li Hung Chang's yellow jacket and peacock's feathers. Looking at the matter impartially, it seems to me that a yellow jacket, or a glass button, or a peacock's feather is more suitable for decorative purposes than either a bath or a garter—I do not say a thistle, because no doubt that is an object highly appropriate to many of those on whom it has been conferred.—London Truth.

A Curious Effect.

"Yes, gentlemen," said an old sexton to a large party, "they exhumed a body the other day. It was that of a boy who died nearly half a century ago. He died from the effects of swallowing a sovereign."

"Ah, and what did you find?"

"Well, we came to the skeleton, of course, but the most curious thing was—"

"Somebody had stolen the sovereign, I suppose," said one.

"Turned into gold ore again, perhaps?" ventured another.

"No, gentlemen," said the old man. "We found just three pounds eight shillings, principal and interest for 48 years."—Spare Moments.

TO KILL THE CZAR

Tynan Said To Have Been Implicated with Russian Nihilists.

HOW THE PLOT WAS DISCOVERED

Alleged that the Arrests Were Brought About by Information Furnished by a Recently Released Irish Political Prisoner.

London, Sept. 15.—The latest developments growing out of the arrest of P. J. Tynan, the "No 1" of the Irish invincibles, implicated in the Phenix park, Dublin, murders, in 1882, at Boulogne, France; Edward Bell at Glasgow, and John F. Kearney and a man named Wallace or Haines, at Rotterdam, indicate that they were implicated with a number of Russian Nihilists in a plot to assassinate the czar either before or during his approaching visit to the queen at Balmoral castle. In Haines' possession, when placed under arrest at Rotterdam, were found a number of infernal machines and a quantity of correspondence, which not only incriminates the men already under arrest, but others, who may be placed in custody within a day or so. It appears that during Tynan's continental tour he passed himself off as a queen's messenger or royal courier, and claimed that Bell, who was traveling with him, was his private secretary. Tynan asserted that they were going to Copenhagen with an autograph letter from Queen Victoria to the czar.

Their Every Movement Dogged.

The following semi-official communication concerning the arrests has been issued: "There has been, within the full knowledge of the Scotland Yard officials, for some time past, a gang of desperadoes busily engaged in America in preparing the ramifications for an extensive and diabolical plot to perpetrate a dynamite outrage in this country, and establish a reign of terror. Chief Inspector Melville, who has been so prominent in tracing and arresting Fenians, has been at the head of the Scotland Yard arrangements for checking the present conspirators. Gradually and quietly a complete network was drawn round the plotters, and the fact being known that they were in intimate communication with prominent Russian Nihilists in the United States enabled the police to pursue, investigate and discover, on what is believed to be absolute evidence, that one of the most recent developments of the scheme aimed at an outrage on the czar upon the occasion of his visit to England. The prime movers were Fenians in America and when the plot had been carried as far as possible there Tynan and the other chief agents were dispatched to Europe to consummate the designs adopted. Every precaution was taken in shipping them separately and by different routes. The emissaries of Scotland Yard, however, dogged their every movement." The semi-official communication then deals with the arrests and the capture of all the appliances, documents, etc., and continues: "It was arranged that Bell should go to Glasgow to superintend a series of outrages in Scotland, the explosives necessary being sent from Belgium as required. Bell had in his pockets between £300 and £400 and American letters of credit."

Arrests Due to an Informer.

It is now asserted that the arrests were made on information received from one of the recently released Irish political prisoners. It is added that this man has also furnished the authorities with valuable information in relation to the Clan-na-Gael. In connection with this statement it is said that the government recently released several prisoners so as not to furnish an exact clue as to the source of its information.

Plot Hatched in This Country.

The Central News says that the plot, in which it is charged that Tynan, Bell, Wallace and Kearney were implicated, was hatched in the United States and that it was widespread in its ramifications, not only in England, but in various continental countries. The conspiracy was started months ago, and although those connected with it thought they were working with the utmost secrecy so far as the authorities were concerned, there were among the plotters two or three agents of the British government who kept the London police advised of every move that was made by the conspirators from the very inception of the plot. It is stated that the conspirators, before they left the United States, were taught how to mix chemicals to form high explosives and the use of clockwork to cause explosions. Their teacher was a Russian professor. Throuhg him the Nihilists and Fenians were brought together and it was due to his efforts that the alliance between them was entered into.

Tynan Admits His Identity.

A despatch from Boulogne says that Tynan was arraigned there yesterday before the deputy police prosecutor. The proceedings were confined to furnishing evidence of the arrest and the establishment of the identity of the prisoner, which the latter fully admitted. Two Scotland Yard detectives were present at these formalities, and eventually the prisoner was remanded and taken to the town jail, while awaiting the arrival from London of the documents necessary to bring about his extradition. Tynan, who seems to have had no idea that he was shadowed by English detectives from the moment he landed in Europe, feels his position keenly. He told his captors he knew that capital punishment awaited him if he was handed over to the representatives of the British government.

SPORTS

TUESDAY, Sept. 15. Sun rises 5:36 a. m., sets 6:16 p. m. Lanterns must be lighted between 7:16 p. m. and 4:36 a. m.

Cyclists desiring to join the League o American Wheelmen will be furnished with application blanks and necessary information by addressing the Cycling Department of the Daily Press.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Miss Bertha Needham, of Jackson avenue, has purchased a new wheel.

Mrs. Geo. Rogers and Miss Connett, of Watchung avenue, are among the latest to secure bicycles.

The next run of the Y. M. C. A. League will leave the Association building Thursday evening at 7 o'clock for Passaic, where a reception will be given to the wheelmen.

Among the latest entries for the Crescent Wheelmen's National circuit meet on September 26th, is that of Charles Hatfield, of the Vim Bicycle Club, of Newark. Hatfield rose into great prominence last May by finishing first in the Irvington-Milburn road race. He was suspended for unfair riding, but afterwards reinstated. He never received his prize, however. He now rides among the professionals.

Finding Places for Delegates.

At a meeting of the Assignment Committee of the convention, held last evening in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, the committees from the various churches reported that the work of finding homes for the coming delegates is progressing favorably. The city will be canvassed during the next few days by members of the different societies, and it is earnestly hoped that all who possibly can will receive delegates. Each delegate comes fully accredited, and will pay one dollar per day for board and lodging.

A Big Reunion.

The reunion of The Society of Kearny's First New Jersey Brigade, consisting of the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Tenth, Fifteenth, Twenty-third and Fortieth Regiments, N. J. V. and Battery A, was held at New Brunswick yesterday, with an attendance of 150 members. The next reunion will be held at Trenton, September 14th, 1897.

Consent Obtained Only.

The Daily Press was informed today by a prominent member of the Church of the Redeemer that as yet no property had been secured for the location of their new church. The standing committee of the church and the Bishop have both given their consent to the erection of the new church, but the property has not been secured.

Only Part of the Goods Sold.

The sale of goods belonging to the late Jersey Wheel Company was held this morning. A portion of the goods were disposed of at fair prices. The balance of the stock will be sold one week from today.

Will Need Them, Too.

Word has been received by the officials of the Street Railway Company that the new closed cars will be ready for shipment on September 23d.

On the Stump Again.

J. E. Martine will speak at the Court House, Allentown, Pa., tomorrow evening.

—With the commencement of the new season P. Ludwig Conde will again devote himself to the work of teaching that favorite instrument, the violin. While the success he achieved with his pupils was gratifying he cannot but thank the public of Plainfield and surrounding places for the generous support they have given him in his work, and the interest manifested in his concerts and recitals.

Mrs. Nevins, of Plainfield avenue, took a suite of rooms in the Jackson building today.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Warnock, of East Front street, Saturday evening.

Miss C. Florence Barnes, of Grove street, leaves on Friday for Baltimore to attend boarding school.

Mrs. Oliver P. Vosseller and daughter, of East Second street, have gone to Somerville to spend a few days.

—Four propositions for membership were received at the meeting of Plainfield Council, No. 711, R. A., held last evening.

Mrs. Jurgenson, of New York, sister of Mrs. Henry Nielson, of South avenue, sailed on the Iceland for Copenhagen, Saturday.

The marriage of Miss E. VanCourt and Wm. Randolph, both of Oak Tree, takes place Thursday evening at the Marconnier chapel.

Charles W. Burton and daughter, Mrs. Ford, of Watchung avenue, returned last night after an outing at Columbia Sulphur Springs, Stottsville, N. Y.

Joseph A. Sattels, Andrew G. Carpenter and M. A. Korff returned from Newfoundland, Passaic county, this morning on their wheels. They went on Sunday morning, and had a great day's fishing yesterday.

Both Parties Discharged.

John F. MacIntyre and William Burke appeared before Justice Mosher this morning on a counter charge of assault, the details of which were published in The Press of yesterday. After hearing both sides Justice Mosher decided that the evidence was not sufficient and both parties were discharged.

Mrs. E. E. Waldron, who conducts the ladies' shampooing parlors at 504 Watchung avenue, says of Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine Hair Tonic that she uses it exclusively in her massage and shampoo treatments, and it is the only tonic she can recommend to prevent the hair from falling out and to thoroughly eradicate dandruff. Mrs. Waldron has had considerable experience in the treatment of the scalp, and feels that she cannot praise Randolph's tonic to highly.

Cellar thieves are still on their raids in Washington Valley. Only a night or two ago the cellar of Louis Burgmiller, who resides a short distance beyond Washingtonville, was entered and all the eatables stolen.

—The Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church held their first fall meeting yesterday. Only routine business was transacted.

—Joseph Green was arrested last night by Patrolman Totten for an old offence. He will be tried Saturday, and is at present enjoying himself at the lockup, applying sweet names to Chief Grant and other members of the force.

—Michael Bailiff and Patrick McCormick, two Philadelphia machinists, were going to New York to get a job when Officer Cash assisted them to alight from a freight train last evening. They were locked up and Judge DeMeza suspended sentence on them this morning.

CHINESE HIGHBINDERS.

Bitterness of the Vendetta Shown in a Recent Incident.

The bitterness of the vendetta of local Chinese merchants was shown recently in the arrival and warlike preparations of 13 of the most notorious hatchet men in the state. The appearance of these highbinders and the announcement that the price held upon the heads of Joe Gar and Lee Mee Toy had been increased to $1,000 caused the greatest excitement in the district. The news spread rapidly and agents of both sides were on the streets, at the police stations and at the Chinese consulate. It is claimed that the highbinders have been brought to this city by Lee Yip [illegible] Chinese merchant and [illegible] who instituted the expulsion [illegible] merchants from their [illegible] and at whose door it is said [illegible] for all the recent disturbances, including the murder of the Chinese clamdiggers.

Four Chinese have reported to the authorities that they overheard a conversation in which Lee Yip Duck guaranteed to pay $1,000 for the life of either Joe Gar or Lee Mee Toy. These men are willing to swear to their statement and insist that a series of new murders is being planned. Most of the Chinese highbinders who arrived in the city are from Fresno. They belong to the Bow-on-Tong, the most notorious and most powerful highbinders' society in the state. Among its members are the most desperate Chinese criminals in California.

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00.

HIS LIP BADLY GASHED.

FRANK VOSSELER CLAIMS CHAS. WOOD HIT HIM WITH A STONE.

Prefers a Charge of Atrocious Assault and Wood is Held for the Grand Jury.—The Circumstances of the Fracas.

A large number of interested people gathered in Justice Mosher's court yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the atrocious assault case of Frank Vosseler against Charles Wood was given a hearing. Lawyer Walter L. Hetfield appeared for the plaintiff and Lawyer H. C. Runyon for the defendant. It appeared that on Friday night the defendant and plaintiff, together with several others, had been to Campbell's club house to participate in a clam bake. The evening was passed in a social manner and while there Vosseler and Wood had some trouble. The affair was evidently quashed and nothing more was thought of it for the time. Wood and his friends started for town in a wagon about 2 o'clock in the morning, while Vosseler left on his wheel a little later. Wood and his friends stopped near the Park Avenue church and were talking when Vosseler appeared.

Wood hailed him and said he wanted to tell him something. Vosseller slackened his speed and just then he fell off of his wheel with the result of having his upper lip badly cut. He claimed that he was struck with some hard substance thrown by Wood, while the latter stated that he threw nothing and that the cut was the result of the fall. Frank Hale and John Sullivan picked Vosseller up and assisted him to Dr. Hedges' office where the wound was dressed. Vosseller told the doctor that he fell off of his wheel, and later it was stated by Patrolman Flynn who was a witness, that Sullivan told him that Wood had smashed Vosseller and sneaked. The case was argued strongly pro and con. Hale says he did not see Wood throw anything and Sullivan testified to the same effect.

After both lawyers had summed up, Justice Mosher reserved his decision till this morning, which was that Wood be held in the sum of $250 to appear before the Grand Jury.

John Sullivan appeared before Justice Mosher this afternoon on the complaint of Vosseller, charging him with being an accomplice in the assault made on him by Wood. Sullivan waived examination to appear before the Grand Jury. He was held in the sum of $250.

Almost Self-Supporting.

The annual report of the executive board of the American Sabbath Tract Society, through Secretary Peterson, is a carefully prepared and able document. Some of its salient features are these: "The publishing house is in successful operation at Plainfield, N. J. Present worth, $7,171.45; liabilities, $7.12. In consequence of the favorable disposal of the old plant, and the individual gifts of valuable machinery, the establishment of the new plant has drawn from the contributions of the people less than $200. The Sabbath Recorder cost $5,248.14 during the last year; received on subscriptions, $3,011.83; for advertising, $208; present paying list, 2 265. The discussion which arose on this point was valuable. It ended in a proposition from Conference President Ingham to raise the paying list to 3,000, which would make The Recorder self-supporting."

Real Estate at Auction.

The desirable property recently occupied by Mrs. Eleanor Birdsall, deceased, and situated on the southeasterly side of Front street, Dunellen, was sold at public sale under a foreclosure yesterday afternoon. The bidding was not very spirited as there was but a very few present who could purchase the peoperty even if they felt so desired. Adam Dealamann bought the premises for $2,250. Just what Mr. Dealamann will do with the place is not definitely known, but it is understood that he will make some extensive repairs, and get it ready to put on the spring market.

Appropriation Exhausted.

The work of repairing Front street, which has been completed as far as Somerset street, on West Front street, has been stopped because the appropriation has been expended. The steam roller, as well as the laboring men on the streets, has been called off, and no one knows when work will be resumed. East Front street needs repairing badly and it's a pity that the work has to be left in such a condition.

It doesn't matter much whether sick headache, billiousness, indigestion and constipation are caused by neglect or by unavoidable circumstances; DeWitt's Little Early Risers will speedily cure them all. For sale by L. W. Randolph. 143 West Front street.

Miss Edith Boone, of West Seventh street, left this morning for Wellesley college, which she enters this fall.

A WARRENVILLE FEUD.

BRORHERS BALDWIN GIVE FARMER CARL A LIVELY TIME.

The Latter Hit the Youngest of the Baldwin Boys in an Argument Over Horses —The Whole Lot of Them Arrested.

Warrenville has got something new to talk about, and the once famous pig case is thrown in the shade. That quiet farming region is now all stirred up over an assault, a free fight and threats of murder.

The Baldwins' who figured prominently in that wonderful pig case, are "in it" again. The trouble occurred yesterday and wound up with a general scrap and a flourishing of revolvers.

John Carl, a farmer, of large stature and powerful muscles, lives in Warren township not far from the Baldwin homestead, and yesterday he stopped there for a little while. Henry, Richard and Augustus Baldwin were there and the conversation finally changed into an argument on horses. There had been some trouble about Augustus Baldwin helping Carl to haul stone, and Carl finally ended the argument by punching Augustus, the youngest of the three.

The other two thereupon pitched into their brother's assailant and things were lively for a few moments. Carl retreated and met Augustus later in the day when the latter drew a revolver and, Carl claims, threatened to shoot him. Baldwin said he did it to protect himself.

Carl went to Squire Austin and swore out a warrant against the three brothers for assault and battery. Squire Austin held them under $400 bail for their appearance before the Grand Jury.

The Baldwin Boys are not slow and they planned to get even with Carl so they made a counter charge and secured a warrant from Justice Mattison. Carl was arrested to his surprise and dismay but was released on parole by Squire Austin in the custody of Constable Stewart. The hearing will be held this evening and the entire population of the township is preparing to take possession, en masse, of Squire Austin's office to hear the fun.

AN OLD COUPLE IN TROUBLE.

Charged With Being Disorderly and Using Profane Language.

An old fashioned looking couple, both well advanced in years, appeared before City Judge DeMeza this morning charged by their neighbor, Mrs. Mary Paul, with being disorderly and using indecent and abusive language. Their home is on West Fourth street.

They were marshaled into the stuffy little court room by Patrolman Totten. The unusual sights and sounds did not phase them in the slightest and they came up to the rail and unitedly declared their innocence. They declared that Mrs. Paul would not get along with anybody, herself included, and that she had been driven out of Battle Row because of her tongue.

Edward Kelly, for that was the name of one of the prisoners, and the other was his wife, Mrs. Ann Kelly, admitted that he had called the woman a pauper and a street walker, but said he had never sworn at her.

The Judge set their trial down for Saturday morning and held each in $50 bail for their appearance at that time. After profusely thanking the Judge, the couple left the building, Mrs. Kelly adding, as she left the court room:

"I hope you'll keep your office a long time."

Evening School in Prospect.

For sometime past there has been a growing demand among certain people in the borough to have an evening school organized, so that many can reap the benefits now enjoyed by others. The matter is gradually getting into definite shape and The Daily Press feels confident in predicting that ere long an evening school will be started in the borough public school.

Rev. W. C. O'Donnell Will Officiate

The marriage of Captain Mimms and Captain Ransom, of the American Volunteers, will take place this evening at eight o'clock at the headquarters in Newark. Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, of this city will perform the marriage.

Mr. Martine to Preside.

James E. Martine will preside at a political meeting to be held in Elizabeth tomorrow night under the auspices of the Bryan and Sewall club. Senator Henry Nichols, of New York, will be the speaker of the evening.

—All young people, whether members of the Chistian Endeavor Societies and Epworth Leagues or not, are invited to attend the Union prayer service at the Congregational church, Friday evening.

Miss Mamie Stevens, of Watchung avenue, returned yesterday from a six weeks outing in Hunterdon county.

GETTING DOWN TO WORK.

REPUBLICANS SELECTED TO LOOK AFTER CAMPAIGN WORK DETAILS.

Mayor Gilbert Will Deliver an Address Tomorrow Night and Attempt to Answer All Enquiries That Doubting Ones Ask.

The Republican campaign committee and sub-committees met last evening at headquarters, at which time each sub-committee organized by selecting a chairman. W. A. Westphal was chosen chairman of the finance committee, F. W. Runyon of the literature committee, and J. Fred MacDonald of the committee having in charge the speakers, workers, etc.

It was announced at the meeting that Mayor Gilbert would address the meeting at headquarters, Thursday evening, on the subject "Why the wage-earner should vote for McKinley and Hobart." Mr. Gilbert will also be prepared to answer all questions, politically that may be asked. On Saturday evening another meeting will be held at which time John Moody, of New York, will make an address on the subject, "Why Democrats should oppose Bryan!" These meetings are open to all, both Democrats and Republicans, and a cordial invitation is extended.

The executive committee of the Colored Republican Club met in the Republican Association rooms last evening, with President A. S. Venable in the chair. William Fisher was the secretary. Routine business was transacted, and a committee, consisting of William A. Kline, Joseph Saunders and Edward Maynard, was appointed to confer with the regular Republican executive committee and state their wants, and also to look after the interests of the colored voters during the present campaign.

Other committees were appointed as follows:

Furnishing—William Fisher, L. L. Croom, Spencer Conway.

Rules—Edward Maynard, William Fisher, Ira C. Jackson.

By-laws and constitution—William Kline, L. L. Croom, Louis Peterson, Jr.

Printing—R. C. Jackson, William Kline, Louis Peterson, Jr.

A general meeting of the club will be held next Monday evening, and on the following Wednesday night a mass-meeting will be held under the club's auspices either in the Cycle Academy or Music Hall, when it is expected that T. McCarter Stewart, of the New York Sun, will deliver an address.

Gave the Officer a Chase.

A foreigner, who was selling goods from house to house in the borough yesterday, gave Chief Marshal Wilson a lively run. The peddler was informed that he could not sell without a license, and left the Chief with that understanding. Later, Chief Wilson discovered him selling his goods. The officer gave chase and the man with a broken-tongue also moved rather lively. The latter finally dropped his pack of goods and continued running. The Chief took charge of the goods, but the man got away and is not liable to return. The goods will probably be auctioned off at an early date.

Shot a Rare Bird.

A full grown crane, meausuring five feet and five inches from tip to tip and three feet from bill to toes, was shot by Charles Emmons in his father's meadow land in North Plainfield, yesterday. The bird is the largest of the kind seen in this vicinity for many a a year. Mr. Emmons will have the bird mounted and it would make a valuable acquisition to the art gallery collection.

Backed Over the Embankment.

A team of sorrel horses, attached to a stone wagon, backed over the embankment at the Wilson stone crusher on Somerset street yesterday afternoon, and the team, wagon and driver were thrown down the steep incline into a promiscuous heap. The horses were considerably cut and bruised, but the driver escaped serious injury.

Unable to Navigate.

J. B. McMurtry, of Somerset street, was arrested by Marshal Hansen this morning about two o'clock for being intoxicated. He was unable to navigate and the officer thought a few hours rest in the lockup would do him good. He was arraigned later before Justice Crosley and fined five dollars, which amount he paid.

GREEN ONLY LOOKED ON

BUT WAS THOUGHT TO BE AN ASSAILANT AND WAS ARRESTED.

A Middlesex County Man Belabors a Colored Man After His Brother Had Wrecked the Latter's Bootblack Stand

Joseph Green's little wife listened anxiously to the proceedings from the door of the court room this morning while her husband was being tried, and when the Judge declared him not guilty she turned away with a joyful face, while the kind hearted Jeremiah Cash congratulated her and told her it was only what he expected. For "Jerry" has a fondness for the gentler sex, and many is the time that he has cheered the sorrowing wife of some poor prisoner with his kind words.

The charge against Green was for being drunk, swearing and beating a colored man named Johnson. Assemblyman W. R. Codington appeared as Green's lawyer.

Several nights ago, Green and a young man named Charles Wood, from over in Middlesex county, took a ride on the trolley as far as the Dunellen terminus. Adolphus Emory runs an establishment there where soft drinks, ice cream and the like can be procured.

On that evening a young colored man named Johnson was freezing ice cream for Emery in the back shed. Now it happened that a day or two before Wood's brother had thrown Johnson's boot blacking tools into the street.

Johnson remarked on the fact to Wood and the latter, who had been drinking, did not like it. According to Johnson's story and the testimony of an unprejudiced witness, Wood invited his colored acquaintance to come out and be thrashed. Johnson, however, continued to turn the freezer. Then Wood intimated that he would come in and thrash him, but Johnson kept steadily turning the handle. Then Wood jumped in, upset Johnson and the freezer and proceeded to wipe up the floor with the colored boy. When he had wiped up all the ice cream he had spilt he dragged Johnson out doors. Johnson then thought that Green jumped in too, but all the rest of the testimony was against this, while Green declared he left at once to keep out of all trouble, leaving his soda half finished As there was no proof the judge discharged the prisoner.

CONTRACT CASES TRIED.

The Verdict in Both Actions Was No Cause For Action.

The contract case of Musgrave against Manning was tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Newcorn and the following jurors: William Thompson, Matthew Conklin, C. M. Fine, J A. Harned. J. H. Wyckoff, Eugene Marcale, William Alpaugh, J. B Clarkson, C. W. Lines, G. H. Rockafellow, Percy C. Ohl and E. D. Moffett. Lawyer Swackhamer represented the plaintiff and Lawyer W. R. Codington the defendant. The jury was out but a short time when they returned with a verdict of no cause for action.

This morning the contract case of Lawler against J. L. Jones, Jr, was tried before Justice Newcorn and the following six men jury: Walter A. Arthur, J. J. Crounce, David Smith, William Cranford, J. Pratsner and John Ross. Lawyer H. C. Runyon represented Lawler and the defendent took his own case. The plaintiff claimed that the defendant owed him some money for the treatment of a horse, while the defendant claimed unprofessional services. The jury brought in a verdict of no cause for action. The case was appealed.

A Large Attendance.

The attendance at Dr. Stearn's Bible class at the W. C. T. U. rooms on Monday, a week ago, was so large that those in charge have applied to the Y. M. C. A. to rent the hall for this purpose, and have secured it for next Monday evening, at 7:30 o'clock Whether or not the class will continue to meet at the Y. M. C. A. hall will be announced later.

The Day of Atonement.

The members of the Hebrew persuasion in this city will close their places of business at 5 o'clock this afternoon and remain closed until 5 tomorrow afternoon—tomorrow being known as the Day of Atonement. All day services will be held in the Jewish synagogue, over the city court room on West Front street.

"Life in London."

Tickets for this lecture may be obtained at the drug stores and at Edsall's dry goods store at 25 cents each. The Elizabeth Daily Journal says: "The lecture was brimful of wit, and the audience was kept in a continual state of laughter. It was one of the most interesting evenings ever spent with a lecturer."

SPENCER IN A TANGLE.

THE COLORED PLUTOCRAT BEING SUED BY HIS NEICE.

She Claims That He Has Taken Goods Her Uncle Left Her—Conway Tells of His Good Intentions With Them.

Spencer Conway, who probably has more worldly wealth than any other colored man in this city, and who is appealed to to sign bail bonds, pay fines, etc., many times during the course of a year for the release of his Ethiopian brethren who fall into the clutches of the law, is now trying to straighten out a tangle into which he has become involved with his neice, Mrs. Maria Scott.

The controversy has been going on over a year, and is over the right of Spencer to appropriate the goods and chattels of his dead brother. Mrs. Scott is a neice of Conway, and claims that she was entitled to the effects of her dead uncle for the care and attention she gave him while on his deathbed.

Spencer came to The Press office this morning and told his side of the story. He says that he brought his brother from Boston when he was sick and provided for him up to the time death. Mrs. Scott, he says, only looked after him a couple of weeks before his demise and she secured $30 of his pension money just before he died, and then appropriated some of his personal effects immediately thereafter—sufficient compensation for her services. The other things he had assumed control of and intended to settle a few outstanding bills that he had accrued during his sickness. This was vigorously objected to by the niece, who asserted that she had the right to all the goods, but Spencer was perverse in his good intentions and he took the goods and kept them. Now Mrs. Scott is suing him for their value. The case will come up before Justice Newcorn Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

OUTING FOR Y. M. C. A. LEADERS.

Plans to be Discussed for the Approaching Winter Work.

It used to be the custom, and is still among some of the country towns, for all the city officials to go off to some grove or large residence near the city and enjoy an outing, with athletic contests, a supper and then perhaps a few short speeches The Y. M. C. A. of this city has planned such an outing for the officers and committeemen of the association for next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Isaac W. Rushmore, of 751 West Seventh street. In the afternoon, athletic sports will be enjoyed while in the evening there will be a short conference about the work. Through the courtesy of Mrs. Rushmore supper will be served to all present.

Then on the following Monday the Y. M. C. A. has arranged for a reception for all the members. It will be the opening of the physical and gymnastic department and men from out of town will give a gymnastic exhibition. There will also be a literary and musical entertainment and last but not least of the attractions, there will be refreshments.

A New Glee Club.

There is considerable vocal talent among Plainfield's young men and last year it was given a chance to develope in the Lotos Glee Club. This year a double quartette has been formed under the name of the Midmer Glee Club. It is composed of the following: Herbert Schutt, Robert M. Clark, first tenors; Charles H. Angleman and Edward O. Clark, second tenors; William E. MacClymont and A. H. Comish, first basses; B. T. Barnes and Wyatt E. Barnes, second basses. They have been practicing for sometime and will make their first appearance Friday evening at a private entertainment at Port Washington, Long Island.

Anxious to Co-Operate With City.

At the next meeting of the Scotch Plains Town Commissioners, it is understood the board will be asked to communicate with the Plainfield council with reference to having East Front street repaired. The part in the road which calls for immediate attention is adjacent to Cole's hill on the west, but as this lays in the city limits of Plainfield it is the sole duty of that municipality to keep the road bed in repair. In its present condition it is unsafe for navigation, especially at night, and particularly so for bicyclists.

At the Beach.

A very happy and congenial party from this city are enjoying today at Boynton Beach. "Uncle" Dan Roberts is the chaperone and those in his charge are Mrs. D. J. Roberts, Mrs. W. L. Smalley, Sr., Miss Lizzie Smalley, Mrs. Harry Roberts, Mrs. Charles Roberts, Miss Roberts and Miss Ethel King.

SILVER MEN CONTROL

Bryan Will Be Endorsed at Buffalo and New Haven.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS TO-DAY

John Boyd Thacher Likely To Head the Ticket in New York and Joseph C. Sargent in Connecticut---Other Probable Nominees.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—As stated yesterday in these dispatches, the democratic state convention, which meets here today, will unqualifiedly endorse Bryan and Sewall and the Chicago platform. Although Senator Hill is not present, his influence will be felt, and some of the delegates believe that he will dominate the convention This, however, is mere conjecture, as no one apparently knows just what Senator Hill's wishes or plans are.

Platform and Contests.

The platform will endorse the Chicago ticket and platform; will arraign the last republican legislature as the most extravagant in the history of the state; will say that the Raines liquor law was merely for the creation of a vast republican machine and to assist in reducing at the expense of a class the tax rate, which would otherwise have been the largest in the history of the state. The state committee will have to decide at least two contests at its meeting unless it refers them without decision to the committee upon credentials when appointed. The contests are from Wyoming and Monroe counties. The complete roster of the convention made out this morning shows that the advocates of the endorsement of Bryan and the Chicago platform have a large majority. In only four cases out of the great number are the district delegates uninstructed. The delegates not instructed are those from Oneida, Clinton, one district in Dutchess, and Ontario.

The Probable Nominees.

The preliminary arrangements and work in connection with the convention have resulted in the formation of the following slate, which, it is believed, will not be subject to much change: For governor—John Boyd Thacher of Albany; lieutenant governor, Charles P. McClelland of Westchester; judge of the court of appeals, Robert C. Titus of Buffalo; national committeeman, Frank S. Campbell of Bath, Steuben county; chairman of the state committee, Elliot Danforth, Chenango. Thomas F. Grady of New York will likely be the temporary chairman and may also be the permanent chairman.

Another Slate.

Another slate, which has a good chance of winning, is as follows: For governor—John Boyd Thatcher of Albany; lieutenant-governor, Gen. Isaac Catlin of Kings; for judge of the court of appeals, Irving G. Vann, Onondaga; chairman of the state committee, Elliot Danforth; member of the national committee, Frank S. Campbell; temporary chairman, Thos. F. Grady; permanent chairman, H. H. Rockwell, Chemung.

Arrival of Tammany Delegates.

With rockets flying and red fire burning 1,200 Tammany braves entered Buffalo at 9:30 o'clock last night. The coming of the New Yorkers had been duly heralded and Buffalonians and assembled delegates awaited their arrival with deep interest. The big delegation came in on special trains over four roads—the New York Central, West Shore, Lehigh Valley and Erie roads. The schedule was so arranged that the trains arrived about the same time, which afforded the Tammanyites an opportunity to march in a body to their headquarters. The braves were met at the depot by the 74th regiment band and welcomed. The men fell into line and marched six abreast through Main street to the Genesee hotel, which will be their headquarters during the convention.

CONNECTICUT DEMOCRATS.

The Convention To-day Under the Control of the Silver Men.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 16.—The silver element in the democratic party in Connecticut has carried the day and will have undisputed control of the convention to-day. The convention, in addition to the regular state and electoral tickets, will be called upon to name twelve members of the state committee to replace as many resignations. Chairman Clinton B. Davis announced yesterday afternoon that he would resign his chairmanship immediately after the convention came to order. The state committee met last evening for the purpose of getting the preliminaries out of the way. There were no contesting delegations and the question of a temporary chairman of the convention came up at once. Horace Taft of Watertown, was named by Mr. Davis for the gold men and William Kennedy of Naugatuck by the silver element. The latter gentleman was chosen by a vote of 10 to 7. Mr. Kennedy may continue as the permanent presiding officer of the convention, although the name of Alex Troup of New Haven has been mentioned. The ticket will probably be as follows: For governor, Joseph B. Sargent, New Haven; lieutenant-governor, S. A. Crandall, Norwich; secretary of state, S. A. Gowdy, Bristol; treasurer, M. B. Dowe, Danielson; comptroller, P. Coughlin, Bridgeport.

Prohibition Nominations.

Jamestown, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The prohibition party convention was held in this city yesterday and the following nominations were made: For congress, Thirty-fourth district, Mr. Bennet of Alleghany county; for assembly, First Chautauqua district, Dr. A. Rice of Jamestown; Second district, F. A. Ellis of Sherman

TREASURY STATEMENT.

Deficit for Eleven Weeks of Current Fiscal Year Amounts to $24,000,000.

Washington, Sept. 16.—For the first half of September the treasury receipts have aggregated $12,000,000 and the expenditures $12,051,000, leaving a small deficit so far. The receipts are running $2,000,000 lighter than for the same period of last September, but expenditures are being kept down, and it is probable that at the end of September a slight excess of receipts over expenditures will be shown. For the eleven weeks of the current fiscal year the deficit foots up $24,000,000. This deficit will be increased during October to nearly $30,000,000, as October is a heavy interest-paying month. The recent heavy importations of gold is beginning to be felt in the treasury cash, the gold reserve now footing up over $114,000,000. As this reserve increases the legal tender holdings, for which the gold is exchanged, are declining. United States notes now in the treasury amounts to $75,000,000, a loss of $14,000,000 within a month. The total cash in the treasury, including the gold reserve, is stated at $242,500,000.

AN INFORMAL RECEPTION.

Lord Russell Passes a Pleasant Afternoon in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Sept. 16.—Sir Charles Russell, lord chief justice of England, was entertained yesterday afternoon at a reception in the Pennsylvania Railroad company's offices, and several hundred of the most prominent men of the city were presented to him. Vice-president Frank Thomson, whose guest Lord Russell is, had charge of the reception in the absence of President Roberts, who is indisposed. The guests were presented to the distinguished jurist in the office of the president, and luncheon was served in the directors' room, which was handsomely decorated. The reception was informal and the chief justice chatted pleasantly with all who were presented to him.

WHAT HATS WEIGH.

Some Curiously Interesting Figures Compiled by an Expert.

"Do you know the actual weight of a hat?" queried the spruce salesman, as he handed out several "new styles."

"People don't generally. I asked a man that question the other day, and he guessed 14 ounces on that hat, which weighs exactly four and a half. An ordinary silk hat weighs only seven.

"I looked up the matter recently, and so I know precisely. A 'silker' is almost the heaviest hat made, though hunting hats weigh more from their having an inner lining of great stiffness and strength to save a man if he should be thrown on his head. The hunting top hats weigh ten ounces, and the hunting derbies nine. A winter derby weighs five and a quarter ounces, varying a quarter ounce either way for size, and a summer soft felt three and three-quarter ounces.

"When it comes to women's headgear, there are all sorts of weights, though seldom does a woman's hat of any kind run more than seven ounces. It depends on the kind of trimming and fal-lals. Some ribbons are heavy, and so are some artificial flowers. Jet is heavy, too. The average little bonnet weighs two ounces to two and a half, a trimmed 'sailor' three and a half, and a 'Sennett' (the kind that have brims stiffened with glue) four and three-quarters

"The French 'creations' are heavier, but they are not so weighty as you might suppose. Six and a half to seven ouces means a big, heavy hat, and one you would need X rays to see through if you happened to sit behind it."—N. Y. Herald.

SPANISH QUEEN'S NOBLENESS.

Warm Sympathy Shown for the Family of a Dying Girl.

A beautiful act of the queen of Spain is being very favorable commented upon through the entire Spanish press. The queen was riding in her carriage with her brother, Archduke Eugene of Austria, through the Pasco de Areneros, one of the finest streets of Madrid, when they met a priest carrying the holy sacrament to a dying girl. Both the queen and her brother stepped out of the royal carriage, surrendered their places to the priest and followed the carriage on foot to Galilee street, where a young girl, Maria Louise Fuentes, the daughter of the well-known actor of the same name, was in the throes of death.

The queen showed a great interest in the family and assisted at the ceremony of administering the extreme unction to the girl, who died soon afterward. When the priest left the house the queen and her brother returned on foot behind the royal carriage, in which the priest rode, to the church of Nuestra Senora de los Dolores, where the priest dismounted and thanked the queen for her kindness.

When the population of that quarter of the city learned of the noble act of their queen regent the enthusiastic demonstration seemed never to end. When the queen had reached the palace she sent one of her adjutants to the house of the dead girl with a purse containing a round sum of money to help defray the expense incurred by the illness and death of the girl.—Philadelphia Times.

Fish Stop a Tug.

The sea tug Thomas J. Smith, of Philadelphia, was rendered almost helpless for a time the other day by getting into a tremendous school of bluefish. She could not steer, and when her propeller was worked ahead or astern, the blood of the fish slashed by its sharp blades spouted up, coloring the water all about the tug's hull. The middle of the school was held together by the outer edges pushing toward the center. As the tug got into the thickest part of the school she almost stopped, and it was impossible to handle her. Hundreds were ground up by the propellers. Suddenly, as daylight dawned, they dispersed, and their fluttering in the water was visible for miles.—N. Y. Tribune.

BUY [illegible]

Surgeons Who Want Good Subjects for Dissection Pay Cash for Them.

For reasons which can hardly be appreciated, doctors and the heads of medical institutions do not care to go into particulars regarding the purchase of living bodies, and yet, as a matter of fact, it is customary to pay cash in return for a bill of sale on the human body, to be delivered to the doctor or to the medical institution after the death of the seller.

Any persons who are compelled by fate to go through life with a malformation of body or limb may, if they choose, realize on their misfortune, and there are on record wills of persons deceased who have left their bodies to various institutions for dissection.

There are many cases of such antemortem sales, one of the most notable being that of a man known as "John," who has sold his head and trunk to the surgeons connected with a well-known New York hospital. John, who so far as records go, has no other name, has a peculiar growth on the side of his head which, while not a particularly pleasing sight, from a medical standpoint is most interesting.

The man came to the hospital as a charity patient a number of years ago, and it is said that an arrangement was made between John and the doctors whereby he was to have a home in the hospital as long as he lived, provided that he was willing that after death his body should go to the surgeon's table.

Another case was that of Allen Martin and his young wife. For some reason known only to themselves they wished to sell their bodies to the Central Medical college of St. Joseph, Mo., but the offer was refused for the reason that both man and wife were in good health and perfectly formed, and there was every prospect of their outliving the doctors to whom they wished to make the sale.

A medical college in this city has among its records and papers a bill of sale for a woman's head. The woman is alive to-day and should her name be mentioned it would be recognized by hundreds of persons. She is gifted with a marvelously tenacious memory, and the doctors are curious to know just what peculiarity her brain will show. This cannot be learned during her life, but she, being willing to advance the cause of science, has sold her head to the institution for the nominal sum of $[illegible]. In her will she has left instructions that her body shall be decapitated, and, while the trunk and limbs shall be buried in the ordinary way, the head and brain shall go to the surgeons for dissection.

In all the German hospitals every patient who enters does so with the knowledge that if he or she dies in the institution the body is by law destined for the dissecting table. Custom, which familiarizes all things, has overcome all sense of repugnance in the matter, and the charity patient gives no second thought to the final disposition of the body.

In French hospitals the same custom prevails, and any peculiar malformation of the body in a deceased patient is at once subjected to the surgeon's knife. Attempts have been made to pass a similar law in this country and in England, but the public sentiment has thus far overruled the demands of the anatomists, and with a few exceptions medical colleges are obliged to look elsewhere for the dissecting table. — N. Y. Recorder.

LAURADA AND THREE FRIENDS

The Former To Be Released—Orders To Detain the Latter.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Acting Secretary Hamlin has wired the collector of customs at Wilmington, Del., to release the detained steamer Laurada, if in his judgment the vessel is not engaged to violate the law. The Laurada's master is under arrest, charged with having recently been engaged in a filibustering expedition to Cuba. The collector is, therefore, further instructed to hold as witnesses such of the Laurada's crew as may be necessary to appear at the trial of the Laurada's master, which is set for next Saturday. The steamer Three Friends, which was arrived at Fernandina, Fla., has been ordered detained until an investigation is made as to whether she has not recently been on a filibustering expedition. Several weeks ago this vessel left Key West, Fla., without having taken out proper papers, it is alleged, and her whereabouts since has been purely a matter of conjecture. The treasury officials will endeavor to have her master give an account of the ship's movements since she left port and will exact an agreement from her owners that she will not hereafter engage in filibustering expeditions, as she is alleged to have done on several occasions. There is some doubt expressed as to the power of the treasury department to exact these conditions, and the whole matter has been left to the collector at Fernandina, Fla., who is acting under the legal advice of United States District Attorney Clark for the southern district of Florida.

AFTER CORBETT AND FITZ.

If They Arranged a Prize Fight in New York Arrests Will Follow.

New York, Sept. 16.—It transpires that Chief of Police Conlin has been trying to secure evidence that Corbett and Fitzsimmons arranged a prize fight at the Bartholdi hotel a few days ago. Mr. Conlin said that the penal code made it a misdemeanor to arrange any details of a prize fight in this city, or to even come to any agreement respecting it without signing articles. He stated that he read in several papers that a prize fight had been arranged between Corbett and Fitzsimmons. He sent letters to several newspapers, asking if they would, in the interest of justice, furnish evidence that a misdemeanor had been committed. "If I can get evidence that there was talk of a prize fight, as reported," said the chief, "I will arrest Corbett and Fitzsimmons and all the parties who had anything to do with arranging a fight."

THE RUMOR DENIED.

A. J. Moxham Says Rockefeller Is Not To Buy the Johnson Steel Works.

Cleveland, Sept. 16.—The rumor in circulation here to the effect that John D. Rockefeller has purchased the plant of the Johnson Steel company at Loraine, is denied by president A. J. Moxham of the Johnson company. Ex-representative Tom L. Johnson is now absent from the city. An incident that seemed to give some support to the rumor is that Mr. Rockefeller, during the last three days, has been driving about the country in the vicinity of Loraine, making a careful examination of the lay of the land between Loraine and Elyria. The building by Mr. Rockefeller of a fleet of ore-carrying vessels on the great lakes to carry the ore from his mines in the Superior region has led many persons to believe that he intended building or acquiring a steel plant to convert his ore into manufactured products.

Carlisle To Take the Stump.

Louisville, Sept. 16.—George M. Davie, chairman of the national democratic state central committee, has received a letter from secretary John G. Carlislie in which the secretary stated that he would come to Kentucky and stump the state for the national democratic ticket, as soon as he could lay aside the duties of his office.

The Bancroft Sails for Constantinople.

ENGLAND IS PUZZLED

Were Tynan and Associates Arrested on False Information?

POSSIBLY A BOGUS DYNAMITE PLOT

A Theory That It Was a Scheme Invented To Secure the Release of Gallagher, Daly, Whitehead and Others from Portland Prison.

London, Sept. 16.—What was at first an apparently plain case of a concerted dynamite plot nipped in the bud by the arrest of P. J. Tynan at Boulogne and his associates in other places, has deepened into a really mysterious affair, not as to who were to be the victims of the bomb-throwing, but as to why the alleged dynamiters did not take precautions to prevent the discovery of their conspiracy, if conspiracy there was. The question now agitating the minds of some English secret service officials is whether there was really a dynamite plot at all, or whether it was simply a ruse to fighten the British public. Many prominent detectives who have studied the case believe the latter to be the correct solution of the otherwise inexplicable conduct of the alleged conspirators, but they are in doubt as to what was the real object of the manner in which the whole affair was conducted. The London newspapers, usually so prolific of theories, make no claims at the present time to know it all, but are clamoring for more light.

Was the Information Bogus?

An interesting theory is put forth by a man prominently identified with Scotland Yard affairs. He says he believes that Irishmen in the United States, working for the release of Dr. Gallagher, Daly, Whitehead and others serving a life sentence for dynamiting, invented the plot and then sold the details to England, the price being the release of the three above-mentioned men. To make the alleged existence of the diabolical plot plausible, Tynan and the others were sent abroad and the release of the prisoners followed. He says that, if Tynan is extradited from France, which he does not deem probable, no evidence of a conclusive nature can be found against him, and that all the British government will have to show for their trouble and fright will be the cells made vacant by paying the price demanded for bogus information.

Russian Features of the Plot.

Throughout yesterday and to-day the uniformed police have been engaged in a systematic search of the Irish quarter of Glasgow, where, it is known, a number of sympathizers with the dynamite movement reside and where dynamite was hidden at the time of the Tradeston outrage. The object of this search is to make certain that Bell has no confederates in the Irish quarter, as asserted by the police. Friends of the prisoners here assert that everything possible is being done by the police to develop the Russian features of the conspiracy, in order that the influence of the czar may be brought to bear upon the French government with the view of obtaining Tynan's extradition. The British authorities will probably have no easy task in connecting the prisoner with the Phoenix park murders, and his connection with the present plot will not be sufficient to result in capital punishment, even if his extradition is granted, which is by no means certain.

Fenian-Nihilist Alliance Discredited.

The idea that the plot was a concerted movement between Fenians and Nihilists is becoming more and more discredited as the facts in the case develop. In fact, the evidence that such an alliance exists is rapidly falling to pieces. A dispatch from Paris says that Tynan has appealed to United States Ambassador Eustis and also to President Cleveland, demanding the protection of the United States government on the ground that he is an American citizen.

A BATTLE WITH ICE.

The American Bark Salina Unable To Reach Ivigtut, South Greenland.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 16.—The American bark Salina, 153 days from New York, bound for Ivigtut, South Greenland, has arrived here for orders, having failed to reach her destination owing to heavy ice floes which it was impossible to penetrate. She has been battling in the ice since May 12. This prevalence of ice off South Greenland will, it is believed, injuriously affect Lieutenant Peary's chances of getting north along the Greenland coast.

Official Denial from Madrid.

Lenox, Mass., Sept. 16.—Senor Dupuy de Lome, the Spanish minister, in reply to an inquiry as to the reported wholesale execution of political prisoners in Havana, said that it was not so. He has just received an official cablegram from the Duke of Tentuan, the minister of foreign affairs, Madrid, emphatically contradicting the statements published as to the reported execution of fifty-one political prisoners in Havana.

The Temple Cup Games.

Washington, Sept. 16.—At the baseball conference here yesterday it was agreed that the series of games for the Temple cup should be played under the same rules that governed last season's contest. President Young will appoint the umpires, as heretofore, and the winning team will get 60 per cent. of the receipts and the losing club 40 per cent.

To Succeed Bishop Coxe.

Albany, Sept. 16.—It is announced that the Rev. Dr. Chauncey B. Brewster, rector of Grace Protestant Episcopal church, Brooklyn, will probably be chosen as the successor of the late Bishop Coxe of the diocese of western New York.

Augustus W. Cutler was unanimously nominated as the Democratic candidate for Representative from the Fourth Congressional District yesterday.

Senator Smith, chairman of the Democratic State committee, arrived home from his European trip yesterday. He had no political opinions to express, though he expressed some surprise at the early date of the Democratic State convention. He did not say what his course would be in the campaign.

The Press regrets to learn of the retirement of T. E. Hazell as teacher of music in the public schools and his early departure to his new position in Summit. No better testimonial of Mr. Hazell's popularity or work in which he is engaged is needed beyond the fact that in all his years of service in this city there has been no attempt to displace him. He was a man whose services were appreciated.

The executive committee of the New Jersey Sound-Money Democracy held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the headquarters of the committee in Jersey City. Former Senator Henry D. Winton, of Hackensack, presided. The committee discussed the electoral ticket, which the recent convention gave it the power to appoint, but arrived at no definite conclusion. Gottfried Krueger, of Newark; Richard V. Lindabury, of Elizabeth; Nelson J. H. Edge, of Jersey City; Ashbel Green, of Bergen; and Samuel T. Smith, of Warren, were practically agreed upon as electors. There are five others yet to be chosen.

Here is a fugitive paragraph which worth republishing: "All school work is simply laying the foundation for the future educational structure—simply getting ready for the building of the tabernacle that may be erected upon it. We sometimes hear young persons talk of having 'finished their education' upon graduating from a high school or college. The minds of such persons must be shallow indeed if they consider their education to be finished when leaving school or college. In fact, it is only the beginning of an education for a sound and sensible mind—a systematic training for what is to follow. No one's education is ever complete, and thoughtful persons exist to little purpose if they do not learn something of advantage every day they live even if they have had a university education. Some of the best educated and most useful persons in the world never saw in the inside of a college."

GEN. DRAKE DISCOURAGED.

Maine Election Makes Him Feel Like Having His Hair Cut.

Gen. J. Madison Drake, the Commander of Elizabeth's Veteran Zouaves, who declared he would not have his hair cut until Bryan was elected President has become discouraged over the Maine election returns says the World. He thinks seriously of rescinding his vow, as his hair is getting uncomfortably long and he feels he is championing a hopeless cause.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

Miss Annie Miller, of LaGrande avenue, left this morning for Wellesley College, where she will study this winter. Her sister, Miss Mary Miller, accompanied her to remain for a few days.

After a delightful summer trip abroad, Miss Minnie Wilson, daughter of John F. Wilson, of Green Brook road, arrived home from Europe, yesterday, much improved in health and spirits.

Miss Maude E. Mitchell, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, and a graduate of the Plainfield High School, returned to the Colored Industrial and Training School at Asbury Park this morning.

Erwin S. Copley, of the borough, left yesterday afternoon on the Black Diamond Express of the Lehigh Valley Railroad from South Plainfield for Ithica, New York State, where he enters upon his second year at Cornell College.

The Misses Eleanor and Edith Cooley, of the borough, left yesterday for Swarthmore College where they will resume their courses of instruction. Miss Edith is a recent graduate from the North Plainfield School, and Miss Eleanor enters upon her second year's course at Swarthmore.

Jacob Blimm, Sr., proprietor of the Farmer's Hotel, Somerset street, accompanied by Mrs. Blimm, went to New York this morning to join the Exempt Firemen's Association on their annual clam bake to Two Pines, on the Kill-von-Kull. The party was to drive over from New York in a tally-ho party.

SURPRISED AT THE INN.

Mr. and Mrs. George Moulton Celebrate Their Tenth Anniversary.

One of the most pleasant events of the season was the surprise given to Mr. and Mrs. George S. Moulton, of Mountain Park Inn, last evening, by the guests and stockholders of that favorite resort. It was the tenth wedding anniversary of Manager Moulton and his wife, and their friends very kindly remembered them. The whole affair was a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Moulton. During the evening they were presented with an elegant French marble cloak as a token of the esteem in which they are held. Hon. Chandler W. Riker, in his usual happy and genial manner, presented the clock and paid a lasting compliment to the receivers for their excellent management. After the presentation the guests, about fifty in all, participated in a salmagundi party, which was a source of pleasure to all, as was also the dancing which followed. As an intermission excellent refreshments were served, which added greatly to the evening's enjoyment. Mr. and Mrs. Moulton received the hearty congratulations of all for continued health, happiness and prosperity.

THEATRICAL.

Don't miss the finest spectacular comedy of the age, with its myriad of pretty girls; with its humor, its situations and its wonderful electric light effects. Don't miss Coney Island by daylight, nor the graceful and eccentric dancing girls who do the hot tamale. Don't miss the swellest barber shop in the world. But go and see the greatest scene ever put on any stage. They are all in "Vanity Fair," and there is more to come. There is a burletta, complete in itself, which presents a swell New York yacht club interior, where comedians make merry for the guests. "Vanity Fair" is the greatest and best play of the season. It is full of movement, life and vivacity. It contains not one dull moment. See it and see the artists at Music Hall, Saturday evening, September 19th.

There can be no doubt about the great success attained by the Whitney Opera Company in the production of Messrs. DeKoven and Smith's new opera "Rob Roy." The entire press of New York City, during its two years run at the Herald Square Theatre referred to it as a revelation in the operatic line. The music is characteristic even to the necessary discords that at times are incidental to the action especially when the various pipers that lead the different clans strive for the mastery. The construction of the piece is called admirable, each act develops to a climax that is natural, and the interest in the tale is maintained steadily to the close. At Music Hall Monday evening. See ad in another column.

The whole system is drained and undermined by indolent ulcers and open sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve speedily heals them. It is the best pile cure known. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

OUR NEW FALL GOODS!

Are coming in now every day, and very soon our store will be attired in full Fall and Winter dress. Several invoices of goods of "Our Own" importation are now on exhibition in our big Basement consisting of fine French China in Plates, Cups and Saucers, Chocolate Sets, Chocolate Pitchers, Fern Bowls, Game and Fish Sets, Soup Sets and hundreds of other small French China pieces too numerous to mention. Another very handsome line of goods we imported direct is a large and complete assortment of real fine Bisque Figures and Bric-a-brac.

These goods are marked much below the usual price as we save the importers profits and allow it to our patrons. Many of our customers who have seen these goods say they are surprised to see such a large line of fine elegant goods in Plainfield. Come in and see them. During the present week a good many cases of new fall goods have been received and placed on sale on our main floor, and others are on the way and will be in next week. A look into our show windows and a walk around the store will give you some idea of what they are. We are now in the midst of a big Special Sale, affording the people of Plainfield a splendid opportunity to buy fine new fresh seasonable goods CHEAP.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mrs. Warren, of Bayonne, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. S Emery yesterday.

Mrs. E. Harte, who has been suffering from a complication of diseases, is much improved.

Mrs. Jacob Blimm, Sr., of Plainfield, has been visiting her son, John Blimm, at the Plains.

State Agent J. W. Moore, of the Satin Gloss Starch Co., and N. W. Conklin, were registered at Blimm's Hotel yesterday.

An old-fashioned down-east clambake, with all the necessary trimmings, will be held at Fitzgerald's place on Thursday evening.

McCauley's cornfield, on Bartell avenue and Forrest road, was raided again Monday night and a hundred or more ears of sweet corn carried away.

John Blimm, proprietor of Blimm's Hotel, accidentally let a heavy wagon wheel pass over his left foot, a day or two ago, and ever since he only walks with difficulty.

One of the greatest needs of the people here, outside of water, is decent sidewalks. The town committee should start the ball rolling before cold and freezing weather sets in, and order sidewalks laid. In the springtime, when the frost comes out of the ground, the walks are almost impassable.

The advocacy of a water supply for Scotch Plains, as advanced by The Press, meets with the hearty approval of all property owners here. There is a bountiful supply of water on the mountain, less than a mile from here—in fact enough to wipe the town out of existence if the Feltville dam ever gives away—and there seems to be no reason why some of the water could not be utilized for town purposes instead of letting it go to waste by running into Green brook.

On the road leading from this place to Westfield, and nestling in the centre of a ten-acre cornfield, is a good-sized watermelon patch, and vulgarly speaking the boys are "onto it." The owner is also "onto" the boys. Sunday night, when all good people were at worship, the "boys" thought it a golden opportunity to raid the patch, and the farmer thought it a golden opportunity to stay home and guard it. About 9 o'clock he heard footsteps, and stealing cautiously into the enclosure discovered four young men and as many of his largest watermelons going over a five-foot post and rail fence. The farmer threatened to shoot, but the thieves were evidently acquainted with his ways, so they hastened on, dropping one melon in their hasty exit, and the farmer's fowls feasted on the seeds next day. Now the farmer sleeps with one eye on the patch and a revolver under his pillow.

DUNELLEN.

The health of the borough was perhaps never better than now. True, there is a lot of malaria-breeding ground near the depot, but most people are aware of the fact and sleep with closed windows and plugged-up keyholes at night.

Classie Fields and Raymond Luce have been visiting Bayonne friends.

The bowling alleys at Taylor's Hotel are being put in shape for the fall and winter.

Chas. B. Mattis left for Ulster county, New York, yesterday to be gone for an indefinite period.

Captain George W. Grant, of the Plainfield police force, was in town yesterday serving subpœnaes.

The Barnes family, who have been occupying the Thomas house for the summer, have returned to Brooklyn.

After a six-weeks visit with friends here, Mrs. Harry Miller left for her home in Chicago on the 1:27 train this morning.

Conductor Rarick, of the Central Railroad, will ship his full-blooded colt to his former home in Chester, N. J., tomorrow.

The family of Thomas L. Thomas returned yesterday from their cottage in Ocean Grove, where they have been spending the summer.

Mrs. Charles Carpenter arrived home from Pennington, N. J., Monday night, where she has been visiting her mother, who is very ill.

Bernard Sirisky has been in Metuchen for a day or two feeling the pulse of the natives there with reference to opening up a branch of his barber business at that place.

The Republican flag is to be hoisted to the breeze from Dealaman's corner on Wednesday evening. A few skyrockets will also be sent heavenward the same night and from the same locality.

WRONGLY REPORTED.

Mr. Martine Did Not Use Harsh Words Attributed to Him.

Referring to the editorial in a recent issue of the News, accusing him of using harsh words about S. C. Williams, James E. Martine writes the following to the Elizabeth Journal:

"I clip the enclosed from the Plainfield News. I am not conscious of, nor did I use, the language in the enclosed clipping. I did say this was no time for hesitation or doubt; that men should be either for Bryan or against him. Above all I admired men of moral courage, and felt that fairness and honesty alike demanded that those now on the State committee who could not support the Chicago platform and its candidates should withdraw. I then presented the resolutions which had been adopted by the delegates of Union county.

"As you well know, I am always zealous in my party's cause, and very positive in my thoughts and ideas, though I trust never going so far as to forget that I claim to be a gentleman.

"Mr. Williams and I have long been personal friends, and he is the last man I would think of characterizing as 'renegade,' 'turncoat,' etc. I feel that Mr. Williams thoroughly understands this.

"It has been a principal with me, all my life, that one may be a partisan and still a gentleman.

"Respectfully,
"J. E. Martine."

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In last nights edition of the News I noticed an article under the heading of "People we meet," "that they trusted Captain John McLaughlin, of the Y. M. C. A., would in the game with the P. A. C. on Saturday next, put his regular team on deck and each man in his accustomed position, which if done, the P. A. C. may have to work even to make a run." In reply I would say that, of course, Captain McLaughlin is at liberty to put his old or any team in the field he may deem best, but at the same time I cannot see why the News should be so bitter against a team of young men, every one of whom is a Plainfielder, desiring that they may be shut out, who by their ability as ball players after a hotly contested game on Saturday last won a fair victory from the Y. M. C. A. team. Should Captain McLaughlin place his old team in the field against us, four of whom, I am informed, are not Plainfielders—three living in Somerville and one in New York—would leave the impression on the public that to defeat a purely local team it was necessary to get an outside element of semi-professional players—which should rob them of the victory if they should win. Even if this is done, the lovers of baseball and the public in general may rest assured that the P. A. C. will strive by every fair means—asking only impartial decisions of the umpires to win the game—and not be shut out as the News seems to hope for.

Benj. A. Mumford, Manager.

Fred Moore, formerly of the City Hotel, has accepted a position as barkeeper with Chas. Smith.

Sent it to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

Poison Ivy, insect bites, bruises, scalds, burns, are quickly cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the great pile cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Runk, of West Seventh street, returned yesterday from a visit out of town.

L. N. Lovell and family, of Crescent avenue, are home from their summer outing.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Baker, of West Fifth street, have returned from a trip through Maine.

Mrs. C. J. Fisk and family, of West Seventh street, returned yesterday from Jefferson, N. H.

Mrs. VanWinkle, wife of Letter-Carrier VanWinkle, of Elm street, is visiting in Somerville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smalley's young son, of Somerset street, is much improved from a severe illness.

Dr. and Mrs. Leidy, of Somerville, are visiting at the home of G. M. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street.

Mrs. Arthur Mulford, of Chicago, has returned home after spending a pleasant vacation in Plainfield.

Roundsman Mattox, of Webster place, still continues to improve under the treatment of Drs. Long and Simpson.

Miss Hyer, of Brooklyn, has returned home after visiting her cousin, Miss Amy Hyer, of East Fourth street.

D. W. Martine and sister, Miss Ella Louise Martine, will leave town tomorrow for a sojourn of a few weeks at Atlantic City.

Samuel St. John McCutchen, who has been in town for a few days, returned to Belmar today where his family are stopping.

James Baker, who has been living in Plainfield for several years, left yesterday for Montclair, where he will take up his residence.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. W. Miller's young son, of LaGrande avenue, left town yesterday for East Greenwich, Conn., to attend school.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Anderson, of Richmond, Va., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph, of Park avenue. Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Randolph are sisters.

The marriage of Miss Minnie Oltman, of East Sixth street, and Andrew L. Saffran, of East Second street, will take place Thursday evening at the home of the groom.

The condition of Frank Conshee, who fell from a tree in North Plainfield a short time ago, is reported as slightly improved, so that he was able to sit up yesterday.

Alexander Fillmore, who has been employed by Wm. Hand & Son, of Park avenue, has gone to his home in Chicago. This is the first time he has been home in years.

Miss Agnes Langhorne, of LaGrande avenue, a graduate of the Misses Scribner and Newton's school, left yesterday for Wellesley College, where she will take a four years' course.

M. B. Miller and family, who formerly occupied the house at 14 Norwood avenue and moved to New York about a year ago, will return to Plainfield and occupy a house on Hillside avenue.

If you have ever seen a little child in the agony of summer complaint, you can realize the danger of the trouble and appreciate the value of instantaneons relief always afforded by DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. For dysentery and diarrœa it is a reliable remedy. We could not afford to recommend this as a cure unless it were a cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

A Big Purchase.

J. Linn Edsall, of the Commercial Palace, completed yesterday the purchase of ladies' fall and winter coats, capes and wraps that this house ever made. They will come direct from the largest and best manufacturers in New York city, and Mr. Edsall says the prices will be lower than any ever offered before. They will begin to arrive about October 1st. Such business enterprise as this will do much to stimulate trade in Plainfield.

Better Than $100 Reward.

On receipt of ten cents, cash or stamps, a generous sample will be mailed of the most popular Catarrh and Hay Fever Cure (Ely's Cream Balm) sufficient to demonstrate its great merit. Full size 50c.

ELY BROTHERS,
56 Warren St. New York City.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind, ever since a boy, and I never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill.

"Boys will be boys," but you can't afford to lose any of them. Be ready for the green apple season by having DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure in the house. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

Band Concert and Dance.

Twenty-five of the members of Franklin Hose Company, of Rahway, will come to this city, in full uniform, tomorrow evening and after a short parade about town, headed by Prof. Guttman's Cornet Band, will participate in the band concert and dance at the Jersey Cycle Academy. The entertainment is given to assist the members of the band in getting new winter uniforms, and it will doubtless be largely patronized.

Mr. Hazell to Leave Town.

T. E. Hazell has resigned his position as supervisor of music in the public schools of Plainfield to accept a similar position in the schools of Summit, N. J. He will thus be near to his work in Morristown and equally near to New York where he has taught for several years. His family will remove to Summit sometime in October.

Fractured a Rib.

Major Godown, of West Front street, while working at carpentering at Cranford, yesterday, had the misfortune to have a ladder, upon which he was standing, to break. The Major fell some few feet, falling on his left side and fracturing one rib.

From all accounts Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a Godsend to the afflicted. There is no advertisement about this; we feel just like saying it. The DEMOCRAT, Carrollton, Ky. For sale by T. S Armstrong, Druggist.

A LAMENT.

Little Winnie's gone away—
Gone away!
Gone away for good'n all;
Been here with us since last fall.
Scolding, kissing, romping 'round;
Wan't her like a-top of ground;
Kept us feeling gay;
Now the fidget's gone away—
Gone away!
Little Winnie's gone away—
Gone away!

With her plaid waist in a bundle,
And her umbrell,' off she'd trundle
Though I almost cried boo-hoo!
"I can't always stay with you"—
That was all she'd say.
Little Winnie's gone away—
Gone away!
Little Winnie's gone away—
Gone away!

Asked a good-by kiss, but "no
Won't have any left for Joe!"
So I gave her one, for she Couldn't give Joe's kiss to me.
'Las, alackaday!
Little Winnie's gone away—
Gone away!

A CHANNEL STORY.

BY CLYDE FORD.

One may travel far without seeing a more charming stretch of river scenery than can be found along our northern boundary between Lake Superior and Lake Huron. The picturesqueness really begins at the rapids of St. Mary's river, which have been called the Soo since the times of the French occupation. Old Fort Brady, with its drill ground facing the river and some old dilapidated cabins of the half-breeds, and their forsaken burying ground are the only reminders of the modern, prosperous town of the olden time when Jesuit priests said mass in the mission chapel, and the hardy voyageurs traded on the river.

Two or three miles below the Soo the river divides around Sugar island; one arm making a bend to the east, and the other continuing nearly straight down for some miles through Hay lake. The two branches unite at the Neebish. Up to within a year or so the longer and more crooked channel on the east side has been the only navigable one; but years of dredging and blasting and scraping have opened the more direct course, and now vessels usually pass by the new channel.

One cold May day a strange flotilla might have been seen leaving the Soo. It was the tug Tam O'Shanter, moving Dredge No. 4 and her two dumping scows down below Little rapids in the new channel, where some dredging was to begin. Such scenes were common enough to people on the river, and no one thought of looking twice at the unwieldy procession, unless to remark casually that "the Tammany was hevin a pretty easy time of it chased down stream by them big tows."

Along in the middle of the summer the Tam O'Shanter was transferred to a dredge at Nine Mile point, and another tug, the W. H. Maxwell, took her place with No. 4. The new tug did not bring a very agreeable crew to the river gods on Cram's dredge. The new captain was an old man who minded his business and regarded his pilot house as his castle. The engineer was a slow, phlegmatic German, whose long and, to the tongue of the river, unpronouncable name, Jacob Zinzendorf, was speedily changed into "Jakey." This was firstly, for utilitarian reasons, and secondly, because the commune of the river lost every man's identity in the vagueness of a nickname as soon as possible. There never was any regular fireman on the W. H. Maxwell. "The old man," as the men called the captain, but not on account of his age, was too irascible to live with, and Jakey too taciturn. The latter's most extended effort at conversation never exceeded this one phrase with which he used to admonish his nondescript fireman: "Say, poy, vy you no foire up? Does you tinks I no need hot wasser any more?"

From some reason or other Jakey was regarded as a man without spirit, a personification of German simplicity. He never talked with anybody but himself, and the men reasoned that his inner nature must actually be in need of invigoration and excitement, and so they proceeded to league together for Jakey's mutual good. Jakey himself never said whether he liked this mutual benefit association or not, at any rate not till some time after this.

Meals on No. 4 were served in a good-sized room in the rear of the dredge. The washroom was down below by the side of the boiler, and as soon as noon or six o'clock came, the men made a precipitate rush for the wash trough. Sometimes the tug was out to the dumping grounds with a scow, and got back a few minutes late. As soon as Jakey appeared in the washroom he was hustled about, and was usually the last one to get to the wash trough. Of course he found the water soapy and greasy, but he said nothing—at least nothing audibly. No sooner would he bend over and begin washing, too fastidiously, the men thought, than some fellow would throw a piece of soap and hit him in the ear, or crowd him along under the big spout and turn the faucet on him. But Jakey evidently regarded all this as a manifestation of some evil spirit of chance, for he said nothing—not till later. The benighted understanding of the river did not know anything about the German speculative mind, and the great comfort it derives from abstruse and silent meditation. So Jakey's silence passed for meekness.

However, it was at mealtime that Jakey's philosophy was put to the test. It needed only a wink to give Jakey's coffee, which came traveling from hand to hand along the side of the table, a salty flavor. When pudding was served, pork gravy was usually passed to him as sauce for it, but not a word said Jakey. He helped himself to what he could reach, and met all designs upon him with this remark: "Poys, vy vill you forever shoke?"

Jakey took great pride in his engine, which he was always repairing, and oiling and rubbing. He used to hum some German song to himself as he worked—some song that carried him back to a little village in the Rheingau, where his mother lived; but how could the dredge men know that his eyes grew misty at recollections of home, or that the strange words of his song had a mournful strain in them? So his martyrdom went on. Wrenches began to disappear from the engine-room, and his tobacco never lasted long.

Late one afternoon the W. H. Maxwell was dispatched to the Soo for some repairs. In place of the regular fireman of the tug—if the fireman who had only been on for the last two weeks and had quit the day before could be called regular—one of the dredge firemen was substituted. It was only a half hour's run to the Soo, and it was expected that the captain could pick up a new fireman there.

At the Soo the captain received the needed repairs, took on a few boxes of vegetables for the dredge and was ready for the return. He had not been able to find a new fireman in any of the loafing places or saloons on Water street. Jakey went to the post office for his mail, expecting, of course, that the fireman would stay on the tug and keep up steam, but what was his chagrin to find the fireman gone, and the steam low on his return. Any hitch in the workings on his part of the boat was an annoyance to Jakey; and then the captain was particular and liked the tug to carry a good head of steam. Jakey climbed down into the firehole and fixed the fire, and just as he came up, the fireman and the captain came back. The old man was feeling pretty testy at his failure to find a new man, and the man who had fired coming up had been drinking somewhat. "Jetzt wird's los' gehen," said Jakey to himself, in German, then relapsing into English: "Die old man he get mad and die foire is most oudt."

They cast off the lines and backed out of the slip. There were a number of boats passing, and the captain signaled to go ahead, and reverse, and to slow up, and to put on steam, till poor Jakey was wild. "Py gracious! Die captain he von wild man!" he kept muttering to himself, as he sat at the lever, and the signals came pouring in like news on election night. A half mile down the river the signal bell again clanged: "Full steam! Full steam! Full steam!" "Tod und teufel!" said Jakey, aloud. "Full steam! Dot vas a shoke; ve aindt full steam."

"Jakey," yelled the captain, "there comes Morrison's tug for a race! Open her up!"

Jakey was beside himself. He crawled out and ran to the pilothouse. "Cabtain, ve no have shteam. Dot fireman he let die foire most go oudt!"

"Make him fire up!" shrieked the captain.

If the "old man" on the W. H. Maxwell had one pride more than another in his old age it was that his tug should never be passed.

Jakey hurried to the fireman, who sat on the hawser post of the rear deck, looking stolidly at the approaching tug. "Vy you make no fire, Spitzbub?" he said, with excited volubility. "We must have shteam! Ve must have foire! They beat us!"

"Shut up, old sauerkraut! I'm taking a rest," answered the fireman.

"You no shoke now. I want shteam," said Jakey, but the man only laughed; he was drunk enough to be ugly, and then he knew it was only Jakey.

In the meantime the bells came faster and faster to the engine-room. "Himmelsherrgott!" ejaculated Jakey. "Ve no have shteam, und yet the cabtain he bust."

The fireman was now around on the bow and the captain was swearing at him and telling him to fire up. Finally Jakey appeared again at the pilot house. "Ve have a krieg, a vor," said he to the captain, "but donnerwetter! I tink ve vill have peace!" Here he marched up to the fireman. His hat was off and his flaxen hair was fluttering in the wind. "Vill you make foire?" he demanded.

"Hello! You here, Germany?" growled the fireman. "I don't have to work for you."

"Oh, you don't! I makes you vurk!" and Jakey grabbed the rebel by the collar.

"Give it to him, Jakey," yelled the captain; "give it to him!"

But Jakey needed no encouragement; it was a war of conquest; old Marshal Blucher moving once more to battle, and his slow Teutonic blood was up at last. The fireman was surprised. The combat was soon decided, and Jakey sat upon his antagonist upon the deck.

"Give it to him!" yelled the captain.

"You shoke! You play fool," panted Jakey. "Vy you no laugh now?"

Suddenly a thought came to him; he quickly pulled off the cover to the manhole of the deck, then picked up the fireman, doubled him together, and literally poked him down below. It was only the work of a moment to fasten the cover—the revolt was over.

Jakey now went back to the firehole and stoked up. Then he took his seat in the engine-room and opened the lever. In a little while Morrison's tug was losing again and soon dropped out of the race. The captain was jubilant and kept signaling for more steam. "You have a good fireman now, cabtain," called Jakey, as he disappeared down into the firehole.

With great puffing and snorting, and rolling out big clouds of smoke, the W. H. Maxwell steamed up to No. 4. Groans, oaths and entreaties were coming up out of the manhole on the upper deck. The captain soon proclaimed the news, and all the dredge hands stood around to see the unfortunate fireman crawl out. Yankee generosity was quick to give Jakey the palm; and thenceforth he was treated with respect—the respect of the river, which, though it may be coarse, is always genuine. The triumph of the Teuton was complete.—Detroit Free Press.

THOREAU'S

He Made Friends in the Life Around Him.

The mice which haunted my house were not the common ones which are said to have been introduced into the country, but a wild native kind not found in the village. I sent one to a distinguished naturalist, and it interested him very much. When I was building, one of these had its nest underneath the house, and before I had laid the second floor and swept out the shavings would come out regularly at lunch time and pick up the crumbs at my feet. It probably had never seen a man before; and it soon became quite familiar and would run over my shoes and up my clothes. It could readily ascend the sides of the room by short impulses, like a squirrel, which it resembled in its motions.

At length, as I leaned, with my elbow on the bench one day, it ran up my clothes, and along my sleeve, and round and around the paper which held my dinner, while I kept the latter close and dodged and played at bo-peep with it; and when at last I held still a piece of cheese between my thumb and finger, it came and nibbled it, sitting in my hand, and afterward cleaned its face and paws like a fly, and walked away.

A phoebe soon built in my shed, and a robin for protection in a pine which grew against the house. In June the partridge, which is so shy a bird, led her brood past my windows from the woods in the rear to the front of my house, clucking and calling to them like a hen, and in all her behavior proving herself the hen of the woods. The young suddenly disperse on your approach at a signal from the mother, as if a whirlwind has swept them away, and they so exactly resemble the dried leaves and twigs that many a traveler has placed his foot in the midst of a brood and heard the whir of the old bird as she flew off, and her anxious calls and mewing, or seen her trail her wings to attract his attention, without suspecting their neighborhood. The parent will sometimes roll and spin round before you in such a dishabille that you cannot for a few moments detect what kind of a creature it is.

The young squat still and flat, often running their heads under a leaf and mind only their mother's directions given from a distance, nor will your approch make them run again and betray themselves. I have held them in my open hand, and still their only care, obedient to their mother and their instinct, was to squat there without fear or trembling. So perfect is this instinct that once, when I laid them on the leaves again, and one accidentally fell on its side, it was found with the rest in exactly the same position ten minutes afterward. The remarkable adult, yet innocent, expression of their open and serene eyes is very memorable. All intelligence seems reflected in them. They suggest not merely the purity of infancy, but a wisdom clarified by experience. Such an eye was not born when the bird was, but is coeval with the sky it reflects. The woods do not yield another such gem.—Thoreau's Life.

Afraid of Germs.

"Yes, I've broken my engagement with Miss Prettyman," declared Jones, sorrowfully.

"Have a quarrel over a philopena?" inquired his friend.

"No; it was no sudden decision, but the result of mature deliberation. I can never marry that girl."

"Why? She seemed to be absolute perfection and just suited for you in every way."

"Well, probably she is, but I couldn't stand it. You know her father is a bacteriologist who does nothing but study wiggletails through a spyglass and talk about bacilli. Every time I started to kiss the girl she would say: "'Excuse me, but you might have the germs of tuberculosis on your lips,' and she would swab her mouth with a handkerchief wet with carbolic acid before I could kiss her. I'll just be everlastingly hornswoggled if I marry a girl who has to disinfect herself every time she wants to kiss."—San Francisco Post.

Japs Are Fond of a Joke.

The skill of Japanese jugglers is illustrated by a recent incident at a Japanese dinner, where one of them was employed to entertain the company. A foreign guest determined to have no optical delusions about what the juggler did. He never let his glances be distracted, and was not once off his guard. Noticing this, the old juggler played to him entirely. An immense porcelain vase was brought in and set in the middle of the room, and the old juggler, crawling up, let himself down into it slowly. The skeptic then sat for half an hour without taking his eyes from the vase, which he had first been convinced was sound and firm and stood on no trapdoor. After this prolonged watch, the rest of the company assailed him with laughter and jeers, and pointed to his side, where the old juggler was seated fanning himself, and had been so seated for some minutes.—London Tit-Bits.

Missed the Punctuation.

Even so slight a mistake as the misplacing of a comma brought sharp disappointment to a Frenchman in Washington the other day, according to a report in the Pathfinder. The Frenchman had grown fond of horseflesh, it is explained, and was greatly pleased on taking up a bill of fare in one of the fashionable restaurants of the capital to read: "Pot roast horse, radish sauce." The waiter was at his elbow, and the people at the next table heard the Frenchman say, eagerly: "Bring to me, eef you please, some of ze roast horse wiz ze radish sauce."—N. Y. Mercury.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? INDUSTRIAL REVIVAL

Iron and Cotton and Woolen Mills and Car Shops Resume.

WORK FOR THOUSANDS OF MEN

Improvement Not Confined to Any One Locality or Even State—Pennsylvania, Delaware, Illinois and New Hampshire Represented.

Pittsburg, Sept. 16.—There appears to be an industrial revival in progress, if the number of iron mills, car shops and woolen and cotton mills resuming operations can be taken as an indication. The resumption of work is not confined to any one locality, but extends to various parts of the country, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Illinois and New Hampshire being among those states from which comes the good news. Thousands of men have either been put to work within the last day or so or they will have employment within a very short time. The W. De Wees Wood iron mills at McKeesport, Pa., have resumed operations after a six weeks' shut-down, giving employment to 1,500 men. Other mills in that district have resumed, including the National Tube works. The Wilkesbarre & Eastern Railroad company's car shops are now working on full time. The Arlington cotton mills at Wilmington, Del., have resumed after a suspension of two months. At Johnstown, Pa., the Cambria Iron works have resumed operations, giving employment to 3,000 men. The rolling mills of the Hollidaysburg Iron and Nail company at Hollidaysburg, this state, which have been shut down since June 1, have also resumed operations. After an idleness of two months, the Joliet branch of the Illinois Steel company started up this morning, giving employment to 2,000 men.

In New England.

Fall River, Mass., Sept. 16.—Only twelve mills are now closed here. These are included under eleven corporations. The mills of twenty-nine are running, the largest number since the first part of July. Within the past few days the feeling has become very strong here that no mills will remain closed much longer. This much has been settled beyond dispute—there will be no further united curtailment this year by New England mills. Advices received here are to the effect that the mills of Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Maine and Connecticut are starting up again. It is reasonably certain that some of them will not be closed until after the holidays. It is reported in mill circles this morning that all the Knights' mills in Rhode Island will continue running full time until the holidays at least. Similar reports about the northeastern Connecticut mills are heard.

IN PITIABLE PLIGHT.

A Starving Family Walk from Pittston, Pa., to New York.

New York, Sept. 16.—An entire family consisting of Michael Grevery, 43 years old; his wife, Rosalie, and three children, Theresa, Ignatz and Mary, aged 8 years, 5 years and 2 years, respectively, were brought to Yorkville police court yesterday as vagrants. They were Slavs and unable to speak any English. Through an interpreter, the father said they left Pittston, Pa., twelve days ago and had walked every foot of the distance to Jersey City. They had $3 when they started and not a penny when they reached the city and were on the verge of starvation, with their clothing in rags. Magistrate Flammer committed them to the custody of the charities commissioner to be disposed of.

POSTOFFICE CONTRACTS.

Bids Wanted for Carrying the Mails in Eastern and Middle States.

Washington, Sept. 16.—The postoffice department has advertised for bids for carrying the United States mails on all star and steamboat routes in the New England and Middle states, including West Virginia. There are 5,700 contracts to be let, amounting to $1,500,000. These bids are to include wagon service in the principal cities of these states. Bids will be received until December 1, 1896, and the contracts are for a term of four years beginning July 1, 1897.

Valuable Bric-a-Brac Destroyed by Fire.

Boston, Sept. 16.—A fire supposed to have been caused by imperfect insulation of electric wires, occured in the dining room of the handsome University club building, 270 Beacon street, yesterday, causing a loss of about $10,000. The fire destroyed some valuable paintings, china, handsome Spanish leather panels, brought at great expense from an old Spanish castle, and many other furnishings that it will be almost impossible to replace.

New Orleans Financial Situation.

Washington, Sept. 16.—The financial situation at New Orleans is reported here as improving. The treasury is continuing the daily shipment of money there, having forwarded so far about $1,000,000.

President Goes Fishing.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., Sept. 16.—The president was not kept at home by the extremely disagreeable weather which prevailed here yesterday, but spent a few hours fishing in the bay.

Sale of the Ohio Southern Ordered.

Lima, O., Sept. 16.—The sale of the Southern Ohio railroad, which is in receivers' hands, has been ordered by the court here, subject to the first mortgage bonds.

Treasury Gold Reserve.

Washington, Sept. 16.—The treasury gold reserve at the opening of business this morning amounted to $114,042,968.

ACROSS THE SEA.

The Deserted Wife Won the Race by Four Hours.

A race across 2,000 miles of water for a wife was recently ended at Ellis Island. The race was between Mrs. Franz Molineaux, a deserted wife, and a young girl, Bertha Neibling, the husband's sweetheart.

The wife won the race by four hours and, incidentally, the erring husband.

Molineaux had been wealthy in Berlin. He had married the daughter of a rich grain merchant. When he failed in business he quarreled with his wife, for she made some remark about his poverty which angered him. He left her, saying that he would go to America and begin life over again. They were proud and she permitted him to go alone, although in her heart she loved him.

The man came over here and by hard work established himself and was in receipt of a good salary. He thought sometimes of the woman over in Berlin. She was living with her wealthy father, who was very fond of her. In a spirit of pique the husband sent across the sea for another woman to share the home he had made here at 1860 Lexington avenue.

Mrs. Molineaux heard of the other woman and embarked in all haste on the steamer Lahn, bound for New York.

The other one, Bertha Neibling, was a steerage passenger on the Venetia from Hamburg. The Venetia sailed first, yet the fast steamer Lahn beat her into port by four hours, with Mrs. Molineaux in the first cabin.

She had little difficulty in interesting the authorities in her case. Detective Peter Groden found her husband and informed him that a woman was at Ellis Island waiting to see him. Molineaux was taken there and the commissioner of immigration asked some very searching questions. Then he dismissed him to another room and talked to Mrs. Molineaux. Neither husband nor wife knew of the presence of the other on the island.

They were brought into the same room. The wife at the sight of her husband threw her arms around his neck and fainted.

She recovered opportunely and told him how cruelly she had misunderstood him and that she would willingly share poverty and a crust of bread with him.

No man could resist talk like that. Molineaux kissed her on the forehead and vowed he would be true to her to the end of time. So they went to 1860 Lexington avenue together, where they will dwell.

The other woman? The story is practically finished as far as she is concerned. The immigration authorities came to the conclusion that as she had no friends here now and was likely to become a public charge the best thing they could do would be to send her back to Germany.—Chicago Record.

TOO LATE.

The Fortune Which Came at Last to a Wasted Life.

Nothing is more pathetic in this world than the fate which brings the fulfillment of ardent hopes only "when the grasshopper has becore a burden and desire hath failed." Such a commentary on the vanity of human anticipations occurred not long ago to one of the toilers of Babylon, who, longing beyond everything for the good things of this world, had, like Tantalus, reached out ever in vain for the cakes and ale of existence. They always seemed just beyond his grasp, until finally they were within touch, when they dropped from the nerveless, tired fingers that were too weak to hold them.

Born to expectations which were never realized, and rendered discontented thereby with her contrasted surroundings, Miss A——'s life was one long, unskillful desire. Instead of making the best of the present, she spent her time continually in making plans for the future. Everything was sacrificed to the elusive hope of the possible riches which would, she imagined, once obtained, make life so delightful and desirable. She might have been a happy wife and mother and a useful woman in her generation; if it had not been for the mirage of wealth ever before her longing eyes—a dream which made her commonplace surroundings insupportable.

So the years wore on; youth and beauty took flight, friends grew fewer and fewer, until in the midst of a joyless and purposeless middle age Miss A—— fell ill with a long, incurable illness. Then, and then only, when the world, as far as she was concerned, had narrowed itself down to the confines of a small room, and even that grew dimmer and more unreal day by day, came the consummation of her hopes. An aged relative died and left her the fortune for which she had so longed.

"Oh, take them away!" she cried, with exceeding bitterness, when they brought her the papers that represented so much and yet so little—for truly "man walketh in a vain shadow and disquieteth himself in vain; he heapeth up riches and cannot tell who shall gather them."—N. Y. Tribune.

No Reflection.

The festivities at the coming of age of the present Lord Hopetoun included a service at the parish church, which was filled with members of the great Hope family and also with members of the Hope clan. The feelings of the congregation thus composed can be imagined when the minister began his discourse with the words: "My brethren, the world is full of blasted hopes."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Napoleon's Reverence.

An old lady in Brussels, who recently celebrated her 100th birthday, relates that when Napoleon passed through her native village of Fumay, in 1810, a peasant having fallen on his knees to ask a favor, the emperor said: "Get up, and never kneel except to God!"—Chicago Inter Ocean

MASSACRES FEARED

Inhabitants of Constantinople Are Slaves to Abject Terror.

CONSPIRACIES AGAINST THE SULTAN

Not Armenians Only, But Turks, Implicated—Ambassadors Take Measures To Protect Foreigners in the Event of Trouble.

Constantinople, Sept. 16.—It is becoming more and more evident every day that trouble of a most serious nature is brewing here. Conspiracy after conspiracy against the existing government is discovered and crushed, but still others spring up. These conspiracies are not hatched by Armenians alone, but many Turks have been arrested and disappeared. The population lives in abject fear of more massacres, with all their attendant horrors, instigated by the occupant of the Yildiz palace. At a sign of the least disturbance, shop doors and windows are shut and barred, and residences are barricaded as though for protection from the attack of an invading army. A serious panic occurred yesterday caused by an apparently trivial circumstance, which shows clearly in what terror the inhabitants exist. An Armenian living in the Galata quarter was arrested, in whose possession were a number of incriminating letters and a revolver. Everybody rushed into their houses and the doors of shops and dwellings were hastily barred, the people fearing a repetition of the looting and massacreing. The panic spread to Pera and similar scenes were enacted there. It was not until some hours after the arrest was made that the fears of the people were allayed and the shops reopened.

PREPARING FOR TROUBLE.

Ambassadors at Constantinople Take Measures To Protect Foreigners.

Constantinople, Sept. 16.—The ambassadors of the powers at a meeting here yesterday afternoon mapped out a plan for measures to be taken for the protection of the different embassies and the foreign population generally in the event of a renewal of the disturbances here. The exact steps determined upon were not divulged, but they are understood to include the united action of the guardships of all the powers, each ship being assigned to a certain position and a certain number of men to be landed at a given signal to protect certain points. The defenses of the embassies will also, it is rumored, be considerably strengthened by an increase in the number of men now guarding them and by other precautions which will tend to make them capable of resisting attack for a considerable time. It is also reported that, under certain circumstances, a number of additional warships will reinforce the guardships now doing duty in these waters.

CONDITION OF CROPS.

Weather Bureau's Weekly Report for the Eastern States.

Washington, Sept. 16.—The weekly telegraphic crop report of the weather bureau for the eastern states says: New England—Tobacco crop curing well, so far; grass fields, pastures, late forage crops, newly seeded grass and winter grains in excellent condition. New York—Potato blight general and largely affects the crop; hops generally secured in excellent condition; corn mostly cut; apple crop immense. New Jersey—Most favorable weather conditions; corn crop nearly all cut and in shock; late buckwheat cut and thrashed; cranberry yield about one-half of average. Pennsylvania—Crops ripening rapidly but shortened by drought; buckwheat not so well filled as expected; tobacco about all housed. Maryland—Weather favorable; late tobacco being housed in excellent condition; army worm damaged crops in Worcester county and cabbage worm troublesome in Anne Arundle and Somerset counties.

SUSTAINED BY THE POPE.

Archbishop Langevin To Reopen the Manitoba School Dispute.

Montreal, Sept. 16.—Archbishop Langevin of St. Boniface has returned from Rome, where he went to lay before the pope his attitude on the Manitoba school question, claiming that the rights of Catholics to separate schools as they existed prior to 1890 had been declared constitutional and schools should be restored. It is asserted that the pope entirely approved of the attitude of the archbishop, who will now continue his propaganda, which will have the effect of reopening the whole question. Meantime M. Laurier is still endeavoring to settle the question by conciliation, and his friends claim that he will be successful.

American Health Association.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—The American Health association met here yesterday with delegates in attendance from various parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico. Dr. Stephen Smith made an address in which he especially emphasized the fact that only international co-operation can effectually cope with epidemics and suggested that Cuba be taken into the association to the end that yellow fever may be fought more thoroughly.

Massachusetts Democrats.

Boston, Sept. 16.—Hon. Wm. S. McNary of Boston has been elected chairman of the committee on resolutions for the coming state convention by the executive committee of the democratic state committee.

Papal Delegate Leaves Rome.

Rome, Sept. 16.—Archbishop Martinelli, the newly appointed papal delegate to the United States, has started for New York.

SPORTS

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 16. Sun rises 5:41 a. m., sets 6:08 p. m. Lanterns must be lighted between 7:08 p. m. and 4:41 a. m.

Cyclists desiring to join the League of American Wheelmen will be furnished with application blanks and necessary information by addressing the Cycling Department of the Daily Press.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Fred Fowler, of Oak Tree, has purchased a new wheel.

Wm. Layton, of Oak Tree, is riding a new Wilhelm wheel.

The annual election of officers for the Crescent Wheelmen will be held this evening.

The posters for the Crescent Wheelmen's national circuit meet on Sept. 26th, are out, and are quite attractive in appearance.

"Manager" Wm. Sweeney, of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company, has been confined at home with illness for several days.

Mrs. Daniel Ginna, of Watchung avenue, is the latest purchaser of a Waverley wheel from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

E. A. Sprowl, of Rockview terrace, started last Friday night on a bicycle trip to the Thousand Islands and Canada. He expects to be absent about two weeks.

The Citizens' Handicap, a 10-mile road race, will be held on the Prospect Park Boulevard, Brooklyn, Sept. 30th. J. Sorensen, of this city, is among the riders entered.

Miss Lillian Trexell, of Madison, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Miller, of West Fourth street, for the past two weeks, is perfectly captivated with Plainfield's well kept streets. She is a lady who has travelled extensively on the bicycle, and she evidently knows good roads when she sees them. Miss Trexell was accompanied home on her trip by Walter S. Arthur and A. P. Miller.

"Rocap's Hill" so often quoted in the city papers as being a dangerous spot for pedestrians, is the same as ever. It matters not whether in dry or wet weather, certain bicyclists deem it their privilege to ride on the side walk. There is little or no police protection in this particular part of the city, especially at night, and probably on this account the bicyclists take to the walk instead of the macadamized road. Some of them, too, ride on the walk without a light, and this makes it more dangerous for foot passengers. Then again the bicyclist stands less chance for arrest, than as though he were in the middle of the street.

Roselle is planning for a big coasting contest for next Saturday, under the auspices of the Roselle Athletic Club. It is called the first annual bicycle coasting championship of Union County but why it should be called so it is rather hard to see. At any rate the Roselle cyclists expect to make a big thing out of it and have offered a number of prizes. There will be first, second and third prizes for distance open to all. Gold medals are offered as the first two prizes and a silver medal as the third. There will also be a special gold medal to the lady rider making the best record for distance. The entrance fee for each attempt will be twenty-five cents, to be made at the course. There will also be prizes for manufacturers of a first for wheel and a first for tires with a prize in each case of a gold medallion. The manufacturers entrance fee will be five dollars. Plainfield will probably be represented by at least one contestant and it is expected that quite a party will go down from this city.

One of the races at the meet of the Quill Club Wheelmen of America at Manhattan Beach, to be held on September 18th and 19th, which is atrracting unusual attention from the amateurs of this section, is the five mile Metropolitan District Championship, for the handsome and valuable cup offered by the "American Wheelman." This race is open to amateurs residing within fifty miles of the "American Wheelman" office, and ever since it was offered at the Good Roads Tournament, held at Asbury Park three years ago, it has been contested for most viciously by the Metropolitan District clubs. Monte Scott, then of the Crescent Wheelmen of this city, was the first winner of this cup, and at the time he won it he broke the world's record for four and five miles. Last year the New Jersey Athletic Club won it through W. C. Roome, and this year the interest is keener than ever between the Liberty Wheelmen, Riverside Wheelmen, Harlem Wheelmen and the Kings County Wheelmen. Each of these clubs have their best men in training, and they expect to make the race a notable one, as it usually is.

Rev. C. E. Herring and Fred Bettman arrived home this afternoon from their trip abroad.

William E. Smith, of Tottenville, S. I., is being entertained at the home of A. J. Winckler, of Park place.

AROUND THE BASES.

"Little Billee" Keeler, of the Baltimores, is second in the batting average of the National League with a percentage of 386.

Frank Bonner, another Crescent graduate, whose career is watched by the followers of the game, is now captain of the Wilkesbarre team.

The baseball cranks, who follow the league games, have missed Willie Keeler's name from the scores of the Baltimore's games. He is laid up with a badly sprained wrist.

Captain MacLaughlin, of the Y. M. C. A's, was caught napping on Saturday with a weaker team than usual, and the P. A. C's took him into "Camp." There is some good material among the youngsters that could be developed into strong players.

Eddie Daly, the popular third baseman of the old Crescents, who has been playing ball with the Newark club this season, was run over on Forty second street, New York, one day last week and very seriously injured. It is feared he may lose an arm.

"Newark takes the pennant and the championship of the Atlantic Baseball League," announced President "Sam" Crane before 5,000 people on the Shooting Park grounds Sunday afternoon after the Athletics had been beaten two straight games by the Newarks. The defeat of Hartford by Paterson clinched the championship.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Ellis Campbell has purchased the trotter "Coriell Girl" from William Coriell, of Dunellen.

Charles C. Brower has shipped the trotter "Highland Boy" from Waverly to Lyndhurst, L. I., where he will enter the races.

Thos. Brantingham's "Myrtle Twig" and James Arkell's "Highland Boy" are entered in the 2:25 class trotting match at the Trenton Inter-State Fair.

Thomas Brantingham's "Myrtle Twig" defeated J. W. Johnson's "St. Albans" lat Saturday afternoon at the Gentlemen's Driving Park in three straight heats. The times were 2:27, 2:28 and 2:26¼.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The sports at the outing of the Y. M. C. A. committeemen will take place in one of A. D. Thompson's fields near the terminus of the street railway on West Seventh street, Saturday next, from 3 to 6 p. m.

A Serious Blockade Near Rahway.

The "Empire" freight train of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, bound west, and running over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, was wrecked at Perth Amboy junction, one mile west of Rahway, shortly before midnight last night. The train was going at a fair rate of speed and was making a crossing. Half of the train went over the switch all right, but a car in the centre jumped a "frog" between tracks 3 and 4. Five cars were thrown from the track, blocking the four tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Miss Mabelle Phillips, of Madison avenue, went to Wellesley College today where she will take the regular course.

Charles Masters, residence unknown, who has been ill at the hospital for some time under treatment, was discharged today completely cured.

Mrs. C. B. Matthews and Miss Virginia Hegeman, of Washington Park, are expected home tomorrow from Sunbury, Pa., where they have been visiting.

James E. Martine will speak at Allentown, Pa., this evening, and it is probable that he will speak elsewhere in Pennsylvania during the campaign.

—The Misses Marsh, of Madison avenue, will resume instruction on the piano tomorrow, the 17th. Whenever possible they use the Virgil Practice Clavier in teaching, considering it an invaluable aid to the piano student.

Many a day's work is lost by sick headache, caused by indigestion and stomach troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most effectual pill for overcoming such difficulties. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

The Mikado's American Tour.

We learn on excellent authority that the mikado contemplates a tour through the United States and Europe at some future time. If he is able to carry out this plan he will be the first Japanese emperor who has ever been allowed to leave his dominions. It seems, however, that there are great difficulties in the way, the old fanatical Japanese party objecting strongly to so remarkable an innovation. The Turkish fanatics did the same thing when Abdul Aziz announced his intention of paying a visit to Paris and London. They were unable to prevent it, and that luckless sovereign was the first Turkish sovereign who ever crossed the frontiers of his empire, except as a conqueror. The mikado is a highly educated man, who speaks several European languages and his visit, should it ever take place, will be an event of great interest.—London Chronicle.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

A batch of five local fishermen spent yesterday at New Market. They caught a number of good-sized sunfish and five larger ones of the sucker variety.

George Squiers, Albert De Nise and George Deal, of the borough, went over the mountains hunting for squirrels a day or two ago. On the return George Squires discovered a bald-headed eagle, and quickly brought him down with his gun. The bird, which measures five feet and eleven inches from tip to tip, will be mounted by John Goff, president of the New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society, and will be an ornament to the decorations in the society's rooms.

J. H. Hall and family, of Madison avenue, returned last evening from Newport.

E. Maxwell Honeyman, of Duer street, has returned from a visit at Jamestown.

Miss Elsie DeR. Suffren, of Linden avenue, left this morning for Poughkeepsie, where she will attend Vassar College.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps met last evening for practice. They will meet again on Friday.

—Andrew Love, Jr., will on Monday next, open a first-class meat market at the old stand formerly occupied by M. Weber, on East Third staeet.

—A. B. Cozey, of Jersey City, secretary of the National Colored Committee, will be in town next Wednesday evening and address the colored Republicans here.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Theories of cure may be discussed at length by physicians, but the sufferers want quick relief; and One Minute Cough Cure will give it to them. A safe cure for children. It is "the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results." For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

ALL Exempt Firemen in this city and North Plainfield, are invited to meet with the Exempt Firemens Asso'n Wednesday evening, Sept. 16, in their room, No. 9 Park avenue. A good time, and important buisness. By order of Trustees. 9 15 2

Use Randolph's

QUININE AND GLYCERINE Hair Tonic.

ONE OF THE MANY TESTIMONIALS:

Mrs. E. E. Waldron, who conducts the ladies' shampooing parlors at 504 Watchung avenue, says of Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine Hair Tonic that she uses it exclusively in her massage and shampoo treatments, and it is the only tonic she can recommend to prevent the hair from falling out and to thoroughly eradicate dandruff. Mrs. Waldron has had considerable experience in the treatment of the scalp, and feels that she cannot praise Randolph's tonic to highly.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices.

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETES

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR A YEAR OF LIVELY AND HEALTHY SPORTS.

New Officers Chosen, a Field Day Set and Plans for the Various Games Discussed and Settled on to an Extent.

Plainfield's athletes have had little chance in general athletics for the past few years except in the High School. There the Plainfield High School Athletic Association has looked after their interests and given two field days every year since it was organized. Last year, the formation of the New Jersey Inter-scholastic Atheletic Association increased the interest to a considerable degree and this year promises to be the most active in the history of the association. While the High School lost many of its best athletes last June, yet the present material is very promising and the High School will probably be well represented in the state games next spring.

The association began its fall work yesterday afternoon when the annual meeting was held, the officers elected and the autumn games, open only to the High School boys, arranged. The officers were elected as follows: President, George Proctor Smith; first vice president and manager of general athletics, Walter T. Serrell; second vice president and manager of the baseball team, Arthur Lederer; third vice president and manager of the football team, Roy T. Phillips; fourth vice president and manager of the hockey team, Carroll Runyon; secretary, Charles Noble; treasurer, Sydney R. Titsworth.

The officers of the bicycling division were then elected as follows: Captain, Lindley M. Hillman; first lieutenant, E. S. Peck; second lieutenant, V. W. Nash, Jr; color bearer, Walter Long.

The field day was next discussed and it was decided to hold it on the afternoon of Saturday, October 10, at the Crescent Oval, if possible. After considerable deliberation the list of events was decided upon.

The events which are all to be handicap are 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 440 yard dash, one-third mile bicycle race, one mile bicycle race, running high jump, putting the twelve-pound shot, pole vault and three legged race, 100 yards.

President Smith then appointed the committee of arrangements to consist of the following: Walter T. Serrell, chairman; Lindley M. Hillman, Sydney R. Titsworth, William A. Fisher, V. William Nash, Jr., and Henry W. Brower. The committee was given complete power to arrange for the field day except to make the handicap. The following handicappers were then elected: Edgar I. Serrell, Charles B. Morse and Thomas A. Cuming, all graduates of the High School. There will be the regular prize at the games for the all-round championship of the High School besides prizes for each event. The games will be open only to pupils of the High School.

The question of records was brought up at the meeting and it was decided to have a record committee of three: Charles Noble, Sydney R. Titsworth, and Walter T. Serrell, to examine a pass on the authenticity of all records and adopt a list of standard performances.

The difficulty, last year, of arranging dual field days on account of a disagreement regarding the events, showed the necessity of an advisory body of graduates to look after such matters. It was decided to elect an advisory board of five members, all graduates of the High School, and the following were selected: Charles H. Angleman, '92, Charles B. Morse, '95, John W. Kirkner, '94, Thomas A. Cuming, '93, and J. Hazelwood Craig, '96 Another meeting of the association will be held shortly.

A Stream of Oratory.

"Mr. Cadman so managed to condense his facts and intersperse his discourses with living pictures that the scene moved along like a glorious historic and human panorama, and the time passed so rapidly that the feelings of pleasure were tempered with regret, so delightful a stream of oratory had at length to cease. His skill in condensation is no less wonderful that his brilliant manipulation of every phase of his subject."—Yonkers (N.Y.) Herald. Mr. Cadman will lecture in the Y. M. C. A. hall Thursday of next week. Tickets on sale at all the drug stores in town.

BALDWINS RELEASED.

NOT SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE TO HOLD THE TRIO OF RELATIVES.

All Political and Social Problems Forgotten for the Time Being by Warrenville in the Excitement of the Fight.

McKinley, Bryan and the financial question have been lost sight of by the residents of Warrenville in their excitement over the quarrel between the Baldwin and Carroll families, as was told exclusively in yesterday's Daily Press. Everybody in that neighborhood has taken sides with one of the two factions and, of course, they all turned out for the hearing before Justice Austin last night.

Daniel Carroll was to be brought before the Squire, but all the legal papers were not secured in time and he adjourned the hearing until Friday night.

Now when Justice Austin decided to hold the Baldwins for the grand jury, he did so without giving them a hearing, so last evening their counsel, City Judge DeMeza, of this city, rose up and moved the case be reopened and the Baldwins be given a chance for life. The Judge allowed the motion and the hearing began.

Carroll, who claimed that he had been assaulted, told a very plausible story of how he had been stopped and almost dragged off his wagon by the Baldwins and then set upon and beaten.

City Judge DeMeza cross-examined him and proceeded to refreshen his memory in regard to certain facts, how he stopped his horses and jumped off the wagon of his own accord and was only struck by the Baldwins in self-protection. Carroll is a big raw-boned farmer, large enough in appearance to eat all the Baldwins, but according to the story he came out rather the worse. At first, he was positive that one of the Baldwin's stepped in his eye, but afterwards he was not quite sure of it.

The Justice decided that the evidence was not sufficient and the Baldwins were released amid great rejoicing in their faction.

VOLUNTEER CAPTAINS WEDDED.

Edward A. Ransom Married to Sarah I. Mimms in Newark.

Captain Edward Apgar Ransom and Captain Sarah Isabelle Mimms, of the Newark Post of the Volunteers, were married last night at nine o'clock in the Washington street barracks of the organization in the presence of 1,500 persons. Before the ceremony there was a regular Volunteer meeting, with a prayer by Major Walton, of New York; a vocal solo by Captain Kirk, an address by Mrs. Ballington Booth and a solo by Captain Taylor.

In her talk Mrs. Booth referred to the fact that yesterday was the tenth anniversary of her marriage to Commander Booth, and the occasion was therefore a doubly joyous one to her, although the Commander was in another part of the country and could not be present at the union for life of the two captains. She then called upon the bride and groom to stand beneath a huge bell, which was covered with the Stars and Stripes and bedecked with flowers and trailing vines. She read the Volunteer service to them and they made the responses. Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, of Plainfield, then joined the couple in matrimony in accordance with the service of the Methodist church. The attending couple were Miss Nellie Christofferson, a lieutenant of the Volunteers, stationed in Newark, and Charles C. Condit, of Orange. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ransom started on a short wedding trip.

Tried to Cut Her Child's Throat.

Frenzied at her eight-year-old girl because she refused to obey her, Antonito Tetota, an Italian woman living at Old Bridge, near New Brunswick, attempted to cut the child's throat with a carving knife yesterday. The little girl's screams attracted the attention of some men who were passing. Rushing into the house they disarmed the brutal mother. The child was unharmed. Constable Applegate arrested the woman and took her before Justice Simmons, of South River.

A Quiet Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Martin, of Raritan, and Henry Seader, of 39 Harmony street, was solemnized last evening at the home of the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, at eight o'clock. Miss Mamie Wilson, a niece of the groom, was bridemaid and Theodore Martin, a brother of the bride was best man. The affair was a quiet one and after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Seader went to the groom's home where they will reside.

HIGHWAYMEN AT WORK.

ALFRED BAKER HAS A THRILLING EXPERIENCE ON PARK AVENUE.

He Was Coming Home From New Brunswick Last Evening Was Knocked From His Wheel—Pocketbook Missing.

The cozy new clubhouse of the Crescent Wheelmen is the gathering place every evening for many of the members, and last night more than the usual number were lounging around the rooms.

It was nearly 11 o'clock when the door opened and in walked Alfred Baker, of West Fifth street. It was not the usual jovial Al, however, for he looked dazed and there was an ugly bruise on the side of his head.

"I've been sandbagged" was his explanation. And then to his comrades he told his startling experience.

Yesterday afternoon, in company with Frank Clarkson and Judson R. Giles, he rode to New Brunswick and distributed a number of posters of the Crescent Wheelmen's national circuit racemeet. Baker went to see some friends there while the other two young men returned home. He remained to dinner and came home late in the evening.

His ride from New Brunswick to Avon Park was without incident. As he passed Campbell's clubhouse, he looked at his watch and noticed that it was a few minutes past ten.

The brilliant harvest moon had partially dispelled the darkness and it was easy to see some distance ahead. Baker noticed two men walking in the road just beyond the road leading to Hillside cemetery. He yelled at them and they separated.

He doesn't remember what happened after that until he recovered his senses and found himself lying in the road. His wheel was close by, minus the lantern, and he finally managed to crawl on the saddle and ride into town. He had evidently had a severe blow, and not by collision with the ground, for the skin was broken and there was no dirt on the wound.

His pocketbook was missing, but he still had his watch. He does not remember the exact amount in his pocketbook.

ON BICYCLES THEY TRAVEL.

A Party of Massachusetts Men Lavish in Their Praise of Jersey Roads.

E. R. Ferguson, a nephew of Wm H. Sampson, of this city, accompanied by a party of friends, J. F. Turner, A. F. Turner, H. W. Davis, H. M. Saben and Frank Clark, all of Lexington, Mass., were in town over night and today, guests at the Revere House, on Park avenue. They are all well known business men in Lexington, eleven miles out from Boston, and they left there by train at 10:30 a. m. Saturday for Pittsfield. From Pittsfield they wheeled to Great Barrington, Mass., and then into Millbrook, N. Y., climbing innumerable hills, many of which were so steep that the riders had to pilot their wheels up the incline on foot.

The party then stopped over at West Point. After a long and tiresome ride took the train to New York and wheeled to Plainfield, arriving here about 6 p. m., yesterday. This afternoon, weather permitting, they will start on their wheels for Philadelphia, from which place they will take the Boston boat on the return trip Saturday morning.

J. Turner, who was at the head of the bicycling party, is connected with the Warren Institution for savings at Charleston, Mass., and both he and his collegues were universal in their praise of the New Jersey roads, for bicycling. Next season they say that a club of 150 or more will probably make the same run which these riders have just traversed, and will most likely make Plainfield the stopping place both going to and returning from Philadelphia.

Married Just a Decade.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher, of 638 West Third street, celebrated the 10th anniversary of their wedding and Mrs. Fisher's birthday last evening in a thoroughly pleasing manner. There was music, both vocal and instrumental, and recitations given by the guests and daucing was enjoyed until the small hours of the morning. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher were the receipients of many handsome and useful presents. Guests were present from New York, Jersey City, Westfield and this city.

Time Limit Reduced.

The Street Railway Company have adopted a new system of transfers, which allows only fifteen minutes time limit between the time issued and the time used on another car. Formerly, it was an hour, but the officials say that it was abused so that they had to take this new move.

WEDDED AS NIGHT CAME

MISS LILLIAN T. SLAPE MARRIED TO WM. STARR BULLOCK.

The Ceremony Performed at the Home of the Bride's Mother at 5 o'Clock Yesterday—To Reside in This City.

The home of Mrs. Slape, 1738 West Front street, was the scene last evening of a beautiful wedding, when her daughter, Miss Lillian Thompson Slape, became the wife of William Starr Bullock, of New York. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, at 5 o'clock.

The parlors were prettily decorated with potted plants, chrysanthemums and golden rod, presenting a picture of taste and beauty. The bride and groom entered the room together while Mendelssohn's wedding march was being rendered by Miss Jennie Thompson, of New Haven, niece of the bride. The bride was given away by her brother, William Slape.

Congratulations were showered upon the bride and groom after the ceremony, while several classical selections were executed on the piano by Miss Thompson. A sumptious wedding supper was served in a pleasing manner.

The bride's gown was a white organdie beautifully trimmed with valenciennes lace and embroidery, with a profusion of white satin ribbon in bows and streamers.

The gifts, consisting of gold and silverware, cut-glass china, etc., were numerous and beautiful.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Bullock left for a three weeks wedding trip and on their return will reside on East Sixth street, this city.

The bride was formerly stenographer for ex-City Judge W. A. Coddington and lately for the firm of Reed & Coddington. The groom is a well-known newspaper man and was for some time a traveling salesman. He now holds the position of city editor of The Dry Goods Chronicle, of New York.

About fifty guests were present at the wedding from New York, New Haven, South Jersey and Plainfield.

MARRIED AT OAK TREE.

Plainfield's Suburb Witnesses a Pretty Nuptial Event.

The marriage of Miss Eveline VanCourt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J VanCourt, of Oak Tree, and William H. Randolph, also of the same place, was celebrated in the pretty chapel at Marcennier yesterday afternoon at 5:30. Rev. Mr. Jones, of Oak Tree, assisted by Rev. William Judd, of Cranford, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large assemblage of friends and relatives.

The bridemaids were the Misses Margaret Bennett, of this city, and Nellie Dickson, of Willow Grove, and the maid of honor was Miss Lenora VanCourt, sister of the bride. William VanCourt, brother of the bride, was best man.

The decorations at the chapel, consisting of palms and flowers, were arranged by the Christian Endeavor Society. A reception followed the ceremony at the bride's home, which was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums chiefly. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Randolph were taken in a special car to South Plainfield. They left by the "Black Diamond" express for a three weeks trip through New York State. They will reside at Woodbridge on their return. A large collection of costly presents were received. Herbert and Haltead Freeman were the ushers.

Missing Woman Turns Up.

A message was received by Chief Grant this morning from Milburn stating that the police of that place had in custody Mrs. Harriett Jane, a demented woman, who gave her home as Plainfield. The woman lives over the mountain and has been missing from home for several days. She has wandered away several times before. The Chief notified Marshal Wilson, of the borough, who in turn sent word to her relatives.

The Exempts Uniform.

The members of the Exempt Firemen's Association met last evening and decided that they would wear white caps and gloves and dark clothing in the parade to take place Saturday afternoon, October 3d. At the next meeting the committee will make a full report.

Luccio in the County Court.

Ernest Luccio, the Italian who eloped with Louise Giles, was arraigned before Judge McCormick in the County Court yesterday, and pleaded not guilty. He will be tried next week.

Theories of cure may be discussed at length by physicians, but the sufferers want quick relief; and One Minute Cough Cure will give it to them. A safe cure for children. It is "the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results." For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

THE CRESCENTS PROSPER

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE WHEELMEN SHOW A SOUND FOOTING.

Credit Has Been Restored and Now New Members Are Flocking to the Club—The New Officers Selected Last Night.

It was with much satisfaction that the members of the Crescent Wheelmen listened last evening to the great advance that had been made in the interests of the club during the last year and to the bright prospects for the future. When the Board of Directors, who has now finished their term of office, first took charge of the club's affairs, the club was in a very precarious state—its credit was badly damaged, the treasury was in a bad condition while many of the members were leaving the club. Now all is changed, the debt has been reduced by over one-half, the credit has been restored and members are again flocking into the club.

The main object of the meeting last evening was to elect officers for the ensuing year. The following Board of Directors was then selected: Clarence E. Teel, H. E. Rider, W. J. Stephenson, Frank Jones, S. P. T. Wilbur, N. R. Titsworth, Thomas Hanna, Jos. Haynes, James Buckle, Edward White and Charles C. Lister.

Charles C. Lister was unanimously elected captain. He will appoint his own lieutenants.

The treasurer's report showed that all the old debts of the club had been paid except the notes for the building of the Oval, which had been materially reduced. The indebtedness of the club had been reduced during the year from $5,900 to $2,000, and the prospects of clearing that away during the coming year were bright.

The secretary's report told that there were seventy-five members in good standing. The rest of the meeting was spent in discussing plans for the future and listening to the details of the coming National Circuit meet on Sept. 26th.

A meeting of the Board was held after the club meeting and the officers elected and committees appointed. They were as follows: President, Clarence E. Teel; vice-president, H. E. Rider; secretary-treasurer, William J. Stephenson. The committees were, House, Frank Jones, chairman; Alonzo Titsworth, Albert Demarest, C. C. Pierson, Jr., Harry H. Coward and Thomas Hanna.

Entertainment, Edward White, chairman; N. R. Titsworth, Harry L. VanEmburgh, George O. Stevens and Charles W. Runyon.

Auditing, S. P. T. Wilbur, chairman; H. H. Coward and Wheaton S. Lowry.

Race, Charles C. Lister, chairman; S. P. T. Wilbur and N. R. Titsworth.

TEMPLAR FIELD DAY.

Line of March Planned for the Parade of the Knights.

In connection with the Knight Templar annual field day, which will be held in this city, Thursday, Oct. 1st, the following will be of interest for those who desire to decorate, and surely there will be many: The colors will be black and white. The emblems consist of a Passion and Maltese cross and a cross and crown.

The following line of march has been selected: The line will form at 2 p. m. sharp on Park avenue, right resting on Seventh street, and the centre will be at the Revere House.

The dress parade will start promptly at 2:15 and will proceed as follows: Park avenue to Seventh street, to Liberty street, to Eighth street, to Crescent avenue, to LaGrande avenue, to Franklin place, to Watchung avenue, to Seventh street, to Park avenue, to Somerset street, to Craig place, to Grove street, to Mercer avenue, to Sycrmore avenue, to Miller street, to Washington avenue, to Prospect place, to Grove street, to Front street, where the Grand Commander and other Grand officers, together with distinguished guests, will review the parade.

Plans are now being arranged to erect a hanesome arch across Park avenue near Front street, and other plans are rapidly assuming definite shape.

Married by Rev. Father Smythe.

James Fee and Miss Annie Loftus, both of this city, were united in marriage in St. Mary's church rectory, by Rev. Father Smythe, yesterday afternoon at four o'clock. John King was the best man and Miss Lillie Smith officiated as bridemaid. A reception and dancing followed at their new home corner of Plainfield avenue and Third street, during the evening at which Prof. O'Reilly furnished the music. Mr. and Mrs. Fee entered upon their duties at housekeeping immediately at the close of the reception.

Mrs. Henry Van Middlesworth's mother, of Liberty street, is very ill.

THE BATTERING BOYS.

Y. M. C. A. FOOTBALL TEAM READY FOR GAMES ON THE GRIDIRON.

A Strong Array of Athletes Will Defend the Punts and Kicks of Teams Whom They Will Line Up Against.

Now that the cool, autumn weather approaches and the first shades of red and yellow will soon begin to tint the heretofore verdant landscape, the enthusiast remembers that the football season is at hand. Last year, for the first time in several years, Plainfield had really a first-class eleven on the field, but it was only for a few games. The club was called the Y. M. C. A. team, but it received no support from outside of its own numbers. This year all will be changed. The eleven will still represent the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., but it will be actively assisted by that organization. The team will be supplied with uniform jerseys, stockings and shoes, while the Y. M. C. A. baseball grounds will be altered to suit this game. After the first few weeks of gymnasium practice the grounds will be illuminated for night practice. Games will be scheduled for the entire season, and Plainfield will have a team that will be able to hold its own with those from surrounding towns.

The supporters of the game in Plainfield will be glad to learn that Louis E. Waring will look after the team and coach the different candidates. Mr. Waring's complete knowledge of the game makes him very valuable for the position, and the result of his efforts last year showed how capable he is. Part of the season he will fill his old position at quarter, where he is the very life of the team. "Teddy" Freeman will again captain the team. He is too well known to the lovers of football in Plainfield to need any introduction. He will remain, as of old, as right half-back, and plenty of practice promises to make him a terror to opposing teams.

Thomas U. Smith is looked upon as the likely man to fill the position of left half, where he played last year. There are several candidates for the position of full-back. Geo. F. Schoonmaker seems to have the making in him of a good bucking back to send into the line, while A. P. Simmonds is a good, all round man, with lots of experience.

When Waring is not present, another man will be necessary as quarter, and Harry L. McGee, now out of college, seems just the one should he decide to remain in Plainfield.

Clarence Peck is almost sure of one end of the line, but there seems to be no special choice for the other. Volney F. Green, who will be unable to play this year on account of illness, was expected to fill that position. For tackles, Henry Lovell and Thomas A. Cuming have been suggested, although Lovell may go behind the line. Edward Brown will be the usual tower of strength as first guard, but Raymond A. McGee, who goes to Yale this fall, will be missed at the other. At present there is no candidate having the necessary weight and quickness for the position. Harry Rand will play in his old position at centre unless some wonder shows up before the games begin.

Edgar I. Serrell is a candidate for halfback, but might try tackle as on previous occasions. William L. McClure and Van Resseller Schuyler are trying for positions on the line. And then, of course, there are other candidates.

It is hoped that Walter Stewart will appear on the gridiron before the season closes, and he then would play his old position at end or go behind the line.

Of course, it is impossible to pick the men so early in the season, but the team, however formed, promises to be a rattling one. It is to be hoped that Plainfield will support her team as well as she did at the few opportunities afforded last year. The nearness of the new grounds to the centre of the city and their easy means of access will afford all a chance to witness the games.

The candidates for the team will meet tonight at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium for practice. All are requested to wear rubber-soled shoes. All who wish to try for a place on the team are requested to be present, as it is necessary to know what material there is to work with.

Lands Damaged by a Dam.

Charles C. Winkle, a farmer whose property is on Springfield avenue, in Cranford, has notified the township committee of his intention to immediately begin a suit for damages. On account of the dam at Union avenue, he says, the water is backed up on his premises.

—James Taylor, Bound Brooks' millionaire jehu, is in town today on business.

FUSION IS POSSIBLE

New York Democrats and Populists May Unite.

SITUATION AT BUFFALO THIS MORNING

Committee on Credentials Concludes Its Labors and Announces Its Decisions — No Change in the Race for Nominations.

Buffalo, Sept. 17.—Although the report sent out that the leaders of the democratic state convention, which adjourned yesterday afternoon until this morning, had arranged for fusion with the populists was without foundation, it is just possible the combination will be effected before the convention proceedings are finished. The situation before the opening of the convention this morning was about the same as yesterday, so far as the probable nominees are concerned. The platform will also be as stated in these dispatches yesterday. At a meeting of the committee on resolutions last evening Chairman Guy appointed a sub-committee to draft the platform.

The Contested Seats.

It was half past 8 o'clock last night before the committee concluded its labors and announced its decisions. In the Monroe case it was decided by a vote of 22 to 17 to give both delegations one-half representation. In Wayne county the sitting delegation was retained by a unanimous vote. The sitting delegation from Wyoming county was thrown out by a vote of 28 to 11 and the contestants seated. The "new democracy" of Albany lost their contest, the Herrick delegates retaining their seats by unanimous vote of the committee.

Permanent Organization.

The committee on permanent organization met in the Iroquois hotel late in the afternoon and organized with Edward M. Grout of Kings as chairman and George H. Brewster of Addison as secretary. The committee selected Hosea H. Rockwell of Elmira permanent chairman of the convention, and the other temporary officers were made permanent.

Speeches for Thacher and Sulzer.

The committees practically completed their work last night, and it is expected that one session to-day will be sufficient for the adoption of the platform and the naming of a ticket. Lewis W. Pratt, an office holder under President Cleveland, will present the name of John Boyd Thacher for governor. Congressman William Sulzer's name may be presented, but there will probably be no others. No fight over platform or nominations is expected, and the convention will fall far short of being the exciting affair that was expected.

First Day's Proceedings.

Yesterday's proceedings, beyond temporary chairman Thomas F. Grady's speech, were not of a sensational character, as no business of any importance was transacted, the convention being in session but a short time when adjournmen was taken until to-day.

WANT LARGER SALARIES.

Postoffice Clerks' Convention Propose an Amended Classification Law.

Denver, Sept. 17.—The National Association of Postoffice Clerks have adopted, after debate, an amended classification bill, which makes a material increase in all salaries, as follows: In the first-class offices the minimum is $600, increasing $100 each year until the maximum of $1,200 is reached. Promotion to a salary of $1,400 can be effected with the recommendation of the postmaster-general. The assistant postmaster, superintendent of mails, superintendent of city delivery, cashier, superintendent of money order and register departments receive a salary based on a percentage of the postmaster's salary. In the second-class postoffice the minimum is increased from $300 to $500, with a gradual increase of $100 annually until a maximum of $1,000 is reached. This is an increase of $200 in the maximum salary.

Steamer Reading Libeled.

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 17.—United States Marshall Campbell has libeled the steamer Reading of the Philadelphia & Reading line for $80,000 for the sinking of the fishing schooner James Dyer of Portland, off Gay Head last Sunday during the thick fog. On the arrival of the steamer at this port Capt. Hansen noted a protest.

Tom Mann Expelled.

London, Sept. 17.—A Hamburg dispatch to the Times says that Tom Mann, the labor agitator who was arrested there when about to deliver an address to laboring men, probably in furtherance of the project for a universal strike of dock laborers, was put on board a German steamer and has sailed for Tilbury, England.

Probably Fatal Runaway.

Lyons, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Benjamin McMillin, a prominent farmer near Ferguson's Corners, was thrown from his wagon during a runaway. He sustained a compound fracture of the right shoulder blade, and it is thought that he will not recover.

Lord Russell in Washington.

Washington, Sept. 17.—Lord Chief Justice Russell of England is expected to reach Washington late this afternoon. Attorney-General Harmon will meet the distinguished guest and look after his entertainment while here.

Treasury Gold Reserve.

Washington, Sept. 17.—The treasury gold reserve at the opening of business this morning amounted to $114,133,469.

SHOT FOR A COMPANION'S LIFE.

Cut the Rope by Which He Hung with a Rifle Bullet.

Cutliffe Hyne tells the story of a couple of young Englishmen in Peru who were captured by a notorious guerrilla while fighting in the Chilian service, and condemned to death on the following conditions: That one should be hung by the neck from a tree, and the other given a rifle to cut the rope by shooting at it.

"They handed me the rifle loaded and cocked. It was a single-shot Winchester, and I found afterward, though I did not know it then, that either through fiendish wish to further hamper my aim or through pure forgetfulness, they had left the sights cocked up at 300 yards. But that did not matter. The elevation was a detail of minor import, besides I was handling the weapon as a game shot fires, with head and eyes glued on the mark, and rifle barrel following the eyes by instinct alone. You must remember that I had no stationary mark to aim at. My poor comrade was writhing and swaying at the end of his tether, and the well rope swung hither and thither like some contorted pendulum. Once I fired, twice I fired, six times, ten times, and still the rope remained uncut, and the bullets rattled harmlessly against the white walls of the chapel beyond. With the 11th shot came the tingle of broken glass, and the bell, after a couple of hurried, nervous clangs, ceased tolling altogether. With the 13th shot a shout went up from the watching crowd. I had stranded the rope, and the body which dangled below the magnolia tree began slowly to gyrate.

"Then came a halt in the firing. I handed the Winchester back to the fellow who was reloading. But somehow or other the exploded cartridge had jammed in the breech. I danced and raged before him in my passion of hurry, and the cruel brutes round yelled in ecstasies of merriment. Only Garcia did not laugh. He rerolled a fresh cigarette with his thin, yellow fingers, and leisurely rocked himself in the split-cane chair. The man could not have been more unmoved had he been overlooking a performance of Shakespeare. At last I tore the Winchester from the hands of the fellow who was fumbling with it and clawed at the jammed cartridge myself, breaking my nails and smearing the breechlock with blood. If it had been welded into one solid piece it could hardly have been firmer. But the thrill of the moment gave my hands the strength of pincers. The brass case moved from side to side; it began to crumble, and I drew it forth and hurled it away from me, a mere ball of shapeless, twisted metal. Then one of the laughing brutes gave me another cartridge, and once more I shouldered the loaded weapon. The mark was easier now. The struggles of my poor friend had almost ceased, and, though the well rope still swayed, its movements were comparatively rhythmical and could be counted upon. I snapped down the sights, put the butt plate to my shoulder and cuddled the stock with my cheek. Here, for the first time, was a chance for something steadier than a snap shot. I pressed home the trigger as the well rope reached one extremity of its swing. Again a few loose ends sprang from the rope, and again the body began slowly to gyrate. But was it Methuen I was firing to save or was I merely wasting shot to cut down a mass of cold, dead clay?

"I think that more agony was compressed for me in a few minutes than most men meet in a lifetime. Even the onlooking guerrillas were so stirred that for the first time their gibing ceased, and two of them, of their own accord, handed me cartridges. I slipped one home and closed the breechlock. The perspiration was running in a stream from my chin. Again I fired. Again the wellrope was snipped, and I coud see the loosened strands ripple out as a snake unwraps itself from a branch. One more shot. God in Heaven, I missed! Why was I made to be a murderer like this? Garcia's voice came to me coldly. 'Your last chance senor. I can be kept waiting here no longer. And I think you are wasting time. Your friend seems to have quitted us already.' Another cartridge. I sank to one knee and rested my left elbow on the other. The plaza was hung in breathless silence. Every eye was strained to see the outcome of the shot. The men might be inhuman in their cruelty, but they were human enough in their curiosity. The body swung to one end of its swing; I held my fire. It swung back, and the rifle muzzle followed. Like some mournful pendulum, it passed through the air, and then a glow of certainty filled me like a drink; I knew that I could not miss that time, and I fired; and the body, in a limp and shapeless heap, fell to the ground."—Pearson's Magazine.

MADE SECURE BY WATER.

Prison Cells Rendered Impregnable Against All Attempts to Escape.

There is on exhibition in Boston a model of a cell for prisoners from which a criminal would find it practically impossible to attempt to escape without giving an alarm that would bring a guard rushing up to his door before either the lock or the door or the steel tubes of which the cell is composed were broken or even cracked, says the Philadelphia News. The protection is not afforded primarily by electricity, although electricity plays a part in the device. The chief protective agent is water, which fills every length and every joint in the steel tubes forming the entire cell. The water is maintained in the tubes at a certain pressure, indicated on a gauge in the watchman's room, and the slightest decrease in pressure of this water, such as would be made by the cracking of a tube so that no more than a cubic inch of water could escape, would release the pointer on the gauge, allowing it to turn slightly and thus make an electric connection with an electric bell. The bell then rings continuously until the circuit is broken by the watchman. At the same time that the bell rings on an annunciator above is shown the number of the cell where the water is escaping from the tube.

Unlike modern cells that are made with solid steel bars, the floors and ceiling do not have to be made of steel plates, through which the criminal can often cut his way or on which his movements in the cell keep up a continuous noise sufficient to make the cellroom too noisy for the watchman to hear the slight sound of a saw or an auger in a particular cell. This new cell is a cage. The sides, floor, ceiling and door are all made of steel tubes, set so closely together that they could not be sprung apart to any advantage. Even the hinges and the bolts of the door are filled with water, always ready to give the alarm if its pressure is changed in the slightest degree, yet inclosed in such a manner that the prisoner cannot make any attempt to break or cut his way out of the cell without changing the pressure.—St. Louis Republic.

In combination, proportion and process Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself, and unequalled in true merit.

No other medicine ever possessed so much curative power, or reached such enormous sales, or made such wonderful cures, as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It is undoubtedly the best medicine ever made to purify, vitalize and enrich the blood.

That is the secret of its success.

Read this statement:

"When my son was 7 years of age, he had rheumatic fever and acute rheumatism, which settled in his left hip. He was so sick that no one thought there was any help for him. Five sores broke out on his thigh, which the doctor said were sores. We had three different doctors. Pieces of bone came out of the sores. The last doctor said the leg would have to be cut open and the bone scraped, before he could get well. Howard became so low that he would eat nothing, and one doctor said there was no chance for him.

"One day, a newspaper recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla was left at our door. We decided to try this medicine. Howard commenced taking it the last of February, after having been sick for a year and a half. He hadn't taken it a week before I saw that his appetite began to improve, and then he gained rapidly. I gave him five bottles, when the sores were all healed and they never broke out again. The crutches he had used for four years were laid aside, as he had no further use for them. I give all the credit to Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. ADA L. MOODY, Fay Street, Lynn, Mass.

STOCKED WITH GOVERNORS.

They Are as Thick in Montana as Colonels in the South.

"Helena has a larger stock of governors on hand than any capital city in the United States that I can think of," was the observation of Judge Gilbert to an acquaintance. Judge Gilbert hadn't been in the city a great while before he met one governor in the courtroom.

"Judge Gilbert," said a friend, "permit me to introduce our friend, Gov. Leslie."

"Governor of Montana?" inquired Judge Gilbert, with a questioning elevation of one eyebrow.

"Not now," said the friend, without going further into details. "And here," he added, turning to another of the interested spectators in the courtroom, "is Gov. Toole."

"He is the governor?" said Judge Gilbert, but without omitting the question point.

"Used to be," answered the friend. "This is Gov. Carpenter, Judge Gilbert."

"He—"

"Was," the other answered him, anticipating his query. "This is Gov. Botkin."

Judge Gilbert did not speak, but he looked inquiringly around and some one ventured to explain:

"Lieutenant governor, you see."

"Ah!" was the brief reply to that.

When the court adjourned Judge Gilbert went to his hotel. On the way there the party stopped at the First national bank, where Gov. Hauser was introduced to him. In the afternoon they dropped into the courthouse and visited the state offices. There was another experience of the same kind for Judge Gilbert there.

"This is Gov. Tooker," said one of the members, as they passed through the office of the clerk and recorder.

And even then Judge Gilbert did not meet the governor of the state, for that official was out of the city on official business at the capital of the nation.

"I met some very pleasant men during my stay there," he said, as he departed the next afternoon, "and the impression I carry with me is that they were mostly governors."—Helena Independent.

A Cheerful Face.

Next to the sunlight of heaven is the cheerful face. There is no mistaking it—the bright eye, the unclouded brow, the sunny smile, all tell of that which dwells within. Who has not felt its electrifying influence? One glance at that face lifts us out of the mists and shadows into the beautiful realms of hope. One cheerful face in the household will keep everything warm and light within. It may be a very plain face, but there is something in it we feel, but cannot express; and its cheery smile sends the blood dancing through the veins for very joy. There is a world of blessed magic in the plain, cheerful face, and we would not exchange it for all the soulless beauty that ever graced the fairest form on earth.—Detroit Free Press.

Sago Souffle with Currants.

Pick from the stem three-qparters of a pound of nice large currants, weigh the same quantity of sugar and three ounces of cleaned sago. Put these ingredients in a pot in alternate layers and cook it, without stirring, for 20 minutes. Shake the pot now and then to prevent burning. Beat the whites of six eggs very stiff, and when the mixture is cooled mix in the whites. Serve in a glass compotiere, with a fresh currant sause around it.—Chicago Record.

The Factor of Safety in Bicycles.

The manufacturer of the modern bicycle presents one of the most complex and delicate problems known to mechanics. The reason is that what scientists term the "factor of safety" is lower in the bicycle than in almost any other mechanical product. In high-pressure guns, for instance, the safety is even as great as 20—that is, guns are made 20 times as strong as is theoretically necessary for the strain they are to bear. In ordinary guns the factor of safety is 12, in boilers it is about six, in bridges usually five, and in almost every other form of machine it is at least four. Such wide margins of extra strength are deemed as an offset to errors in theoretical computations or defects in material construction. With the modern light construction in bicycles it is reduced to a very small margin, being as low in instances as 1.23. Such being the case, it can be understood readily why the makers of standard high-grade machines maintain a rigid system of inspection. In fact, every well-appointed bicycle factory has a thoroughly equipped testing department, in order that there may be no miscalculations or guesswork in the material entering the construction of their wheels.—Boston Transcript.

RICHEST IN THE WORLD.

District Abandoned as Worthless Now Turning Out Millions.

The Mines of Colorado and Montana Now Yielding Ore That Is Making Men Rich—Some of the Famous Plants.

History is repeating itself in Deadwood, as it has done in Colorado and Montana. The life of a mining camp from birth to maturity is at least a question of a century. In the winter of 1874 many a miner plodded his weary way from gulch to gulch and from mountain to mountain amid the breaks of Harney's peak on the limestone ranges, weary, hungry and footsore, but never discouraged, for gold was there in the blossom rock, the float and in the gulches. Not, it is true, in big paying quantities as it was later found in the northern hills at Lead City and in the gulches of that vicinity, but enough to lure men on.

There is a fascination about prospecting that is irresistible. Once a prospector sets his eye on a bit of float, which is gold-bearing rock that may have been washed away from its source for many miles, he cannot rest until he has traced it to the ledge of which it was originally a part. Some, favored by fortune, find it quickly; others grow gray in the pursuit. Many prospectors in the Black Hills 25 years ago declared this region the richest gold mining country in the world. Many years later Marvin Hughitt expressed the same opinion. That he spoke prophetically is attested by the output of gold last year. This was upwards of $6,000,00, and it is estimated that the output will be almost double that amount this year. And yet the country is scarcely prospected.

The great rush of 1876 only skinned and cratched the surface, but did not sink or develop. It served the purpose of leaving the country demoralized, and public opinion was unfavorable to the prospect. Claims that had been taken, located, abandoned and relocated are now proving bonanzas. It is development that counts in any mining venture.

Many men in this vicinity worked until their last pound of bacon was exhausted, but they worked by the day for small pay, clung to the situation and have won. An illustration of the reward of confidence in the Deadwood district is to be found in Bob McShane, who discovered the Yellow creek district.

The golden belt of the Black Hills, according to eminent geologists, extends from Garden City in the northern hills to Harney's peak in the southern, a distance of about 50 miles. The auriferous formation comes to the surface and dips at intervals. On the Holy Terror at the base of Harney's peak it cropped out at the grass roots, and on the Homestake properties at Lead City the whole mountain is a mass of ore which continues as they sink. On the 800-foot level has been found 600 feet of solid ore, and a shaft is now being sunk which will be pushed by day and night shifts to a depth of 3,000 feet. This property is conceded to be the best mine in the world.

Up to date it has paid almost $6,000,000 in dividends, and its stock, not for sale, is priced at $34 a share. It was purchased in 1877 by Senator George Hearst, of California, who was the best judge of a mine in the world. It is located at Lead City in the heart of the gold belt.

This belt is about 2,000 feet wide. The veins are vertical and true fissures. Outside of these are the flat or blanket formation of siliceous ore, which is richer than the free milling ores of the belt. This ore is reduced by the smelting process, more extensive than the free milling process, and runs from ten dollars to the hundreds per ton. The flat formations are found in and outside of the belt. Bald Mountain, Ruby Basin, Head of Blacktail, Squaw Creek, Ruby Flats, Elk Mountain, Yellow Creek, Garden City and Carbonate Camp are the localities in which they are most successfully worked.

Mining in the Black Hills has long since ceased to be speculative. It is now a stupendous industry. Chicago capital has been invested here to good purpose. A local paper recently gave the following account of a purchase by Chicagoans:

"Extensive development work will soon be inaugurated on Elk mountain by Gen. Green B. Raum and associates, who have recently secured about 650 acres of mineral land, extending from Elk mountain toward Spearfish. As soon as preliminaries can be arranged—which will be within a week or ten days—a shaft will be started and sunk to the lower ore contact that will develop a portion of the ground secured. From this shaft drifts will be driven across the formation that will open up numerous ore shoots that pass through the ground. Yesterday a deed was filed for record transferring to Gen. Raum from Ellington the gold belt group of claims, consisting of 14 locations, embracing about 140 acres, in the same camp, the expressed consideration being one dollar. Elk mountain and vicinity is the coming camp and will, when finally developed, prove to be among the richest in the country."

The German-American Mining company is largely owned by Chicago capital. It is situated on the gold belt at the head of Blacktail and adjoins one of Samuel Allerton's properties.—Chicago Times-Herald.

FRANCE RIDICULES IT.

Says Alleged Dynamite Conspiracy Is a Political Trick.

Paris, Sept. 17.—In response to inquiries made at the prefecture of police in regard to the rumor that Alexander Sullivan of Chicago, the Irish leader, had been arrested here, a representative of the United Associated Presses was informed that not only was there no truth in the report that Mr. Sullivan had been taken into custody, but that his arrest had not even been meditated by the French authorities. The French public press systematically ridicule the whole story of the existence of a dynamite conspiracy, which they declare is an English political trick intended to interfere with the proposed visit to France of the czar. Le Soir announces that two friends of P. J. Tynan, the Irish Invincible in custody at Boulogne, have arrived at that place, having gone there at the request of the prisoner's mother. They endeavored to secure permission to communicate with the prisoner, but in the absence of the sub-prefect were unable to do so. It is stated that in any event no one will be allowed to see Tynan or communicate with him without having first secured the consent of the government. It is learned upon credible authority that the French cabinet gives so little credence to the English police officials' story of a dynamite conspiracy that it will probably refuse to grant the request for Tynan's extradition.

EXPECTS 40,000 VISITORS.

Major McKinley Preparing for a Big Day To-morrow.

Canton, O., Sept. 17.—Arrangements for the big meeting to be held here to-morrow are going rapidly forward. As the meeting is to be the formal opening of the campaign in the candidate's own county, and, as it is to be addressed by Senators Thurston and Cullom, Gov. Hastings of Pennsylvania and Congressman McCleary of Minnesota, uncommon interest is being manifested in it. There will be delegations here from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan. Ten thousand people are expected from Pittsburg and vicinity and an equally large number is coming from Cleveland and eastern Ohio. The Elkins cadets will come on a special train from Wheeling and a delegation of two thousand bicyclists is scheduled to arrive from Toledo. Major McKinley will probably make short speeches at the afternoon and evening meetings. Gov. A. S. Bushnell of Ohio will be president of the day. It is estimated that there will be upwards of 40,000 visitors in Canton.

THE LAURADA CASE.

Officers Arrested To Testify at the Trial Next Saturday.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 17.—United States Marshal Lannan has arrested James J. Rand, first mate; Hans Johansen, second mate, and Charles Camp, quartermaster of the steamer Laurada, and took them before United States Commissioner Smith. They were held in $200 bail each for their appearance at the hearing of Captain Murray on Saturday as witnesses. The crew have been paid off and discharged. The vessel is still lying in the Delaware off this city.

For Passing a Bad Check.

Boston, Sept. 17.—Michael Lehr, aged 18, the son of Herman Lehr, a wealthy jewelry manufacturerer of 48 and 50 Maiden lane, New York, is under arrest here charged with passing a worthless or forged check for $28 on Manager Sleeper of the Hotel Plaza. The check was signed "Philip Glaser," and was on the North Side National bank of New York. Lehr obtained only $5 on it pending an investigation as to its worth.

Austrian Consul Kidnapped.

Vienna, Sept. 17.—A dispatch to the Neue Freie Presse from Belgrade, Servia, says that it was the Austrian consul, not the Austrian consul's brother, as stated in a dispatch from Volo, Greece, who was kidnapped, near Seres, Macedonia, by a band of Bulgarian brigands, armed with dynamite bombs. The consul is also a wealthy landed proprietor and a Greek.

Dartmouth Medical College.

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 17.—Dr. Wm. Thayer Smith has been appointed dean of Dartmouth Medical college by the trustees, to fill the place of the late Carleton P. Frost. Dr. Smith has been professor of physiology for a number of years. Prof. Gilman D. Frost has been appointed secretary and treasurer of the medical college.

President's Brother Moves to Cleveland.

Cleveland, Sept. 17.—Rev. W. M. Cleveland, brother of President Cleveland, has arrived in Cleveland with his wife. Mr. Cleveland comes from Chaumont, Jefferson county, N. Y. He has given up active work as a minister for the present, and will live here, where his two sons also reside.

Chicago Railroad Sold.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—The South Side Rapid Transit railway, better known as the "Alley L," was sold yesterday to Leslie Carter, acting for George E Adams of Chicago, for $4,000,000. The sale was made in the interest of the bondholders.

SARGENT NOMINATED

New Haven Convention Concludes Its Labors and Adjourns.

CRANDALL FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR.

Bryan and Sewall and the Chicago Platform Endorsed—Telegram of Sympathy and Support Sent to Buffalo. Sketches of the Nominees.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 17.—After the morning session at which temporary organization was effected, the democratic state convention reassembled at 1:15 and spent half an hour in appointing committees on rules, campaign clubs and distribution of literature. The committee on organization reported making the temporary organization permanent. The resolutions were adopted as read, with cheers. Alexander Troup moved and the convention directed that a telegram be sent to the democratic convention at Buffalo tendering the sympathy and support of the loyal democracy of the state of Connecticut to the loyal democracy of the state of New York. The committee on rules reported a new set of rules providing for the election of the state committee at the state convention and that it hold office until the following convention, instead of from January to January, as at the present time. This was adopted. The convention resolved that should a vacancy occur on the national committee by reason of the retirement of Chas. French, Alexander Troupe be appointed.

The Platform.

The platform endorses Bryan and Sewall and the Chicago ticket; demands the restoration of the coinage system which existed prior to 1873; denounces the recent government bond issues; demands economical state expenditures, and denounces all attempts to intimidate voters.

The Nominations.

At 3 o'clock Judge L. N. Blyden burgh of New Haven took the platform to nominate Joseph B. Sargent of New Haven for governor, and this was done by acclamation. C. A. Crandall of Norwich was nominated for lieutenant governor. The only ripple in the convention came when E. M. Ripely of Unionville and H. S. Cummings of Stamford were placed in nomination for secretary of state. Both had earnest supporters. Then the nomination of Ripley was withdrawn and that of Cummings was made by acclamation. The ticket was completed as follows: Treasurer, Asa Ross of Thompson; comptroller, Edwin M. Ripley of Unionville. The convention then adjourned.

Careers of the Candidates.

Joseph B. Sargent of New Haven, the nominee for governor, is the head of the big Sargeant hardware factory here. He has filled various minor offices in the city government and was mayor for four years. He is about 75 years old. S. A. Crandall of Norwich, candidate for lieutenant-governor, is a lawyer by profession. He has served in both houses of the legislature. He has also been mayor of the city of Norwich. He was born in Ledyard, Conn., in 1851, and was educated in the Connecticut Literary institution, Suffield.

AFRAID OF WAR.

Prominent Englishmen Decline To Attend the Anti-Sultan Meeting.

London, Sept. 17.—Lord Hugh Richard Heathcote Cecil, fifth son of the Marquis of Salisbury and member of the house of commons for Greenwich, has written a letter expressing his regret at his inability to attend the anti-sultan meeting in London, adding: "It would be dangerous and misleading to the Armenians if we made them believe that England alone can save them. We cannot hope to save them until the feeling abroad approaches the excitement here." Sir Charles Dilke has written a long, reasoning letter, in which he says that if Great Britain shall go to war she will also plunge India, Canada and Australia into war, possibly without their consent. Sir Charles adds: "The forcible passage of the Dardanelles might lead to a general war for which we are wholly unprepared and in which our very existence as a power would be at stake." In conclusion, Sir Charles says, "Our virtual protectorate over Egypt has destroyed in the minds of the powers our credit for clean hands in relation to the Ottoman empire."

Archbishop Martinelli's Visit.

Rome, Sept. 17.—Archbishop Sebastian Martinelli, the recently appointed successor to Cardinal Satolli as papal delegate to the Roman Catholic church in the United States, paid a visit to the United States embassy yesterday. Archbishop Martinelli will continue in his office of general of the Augustin order, delegating the charge of its affairs during his stay in America.

Convicted of Kidnapping.

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—The jury in the case of O. W. Winthrop, charged with kidnapping and robbing Millionaire Campbell of Honolulu, in this city, some weeks ago, has returned a verdict of guilty after a consultation of five minutes only.

Antietam Monument Dedication.

Washington, Sept. 17.—Veterans of the blue and gray left this morning for Antietam battlefield, where they go to dedicate the monument erected to the memory of their comrades who fell in that battle.

Mr. Hill, of New York, is still Mr. Hill, it seems.

The Republicans concede the election of Agustus Cutler to Congress from the Fourth district.

If you hire a carriage in Westfield and don't return on the minute that you promised, a cell is yawning for you.—New York Tribune.

The Executive Committee of the New Jersey Sound-Money Democratic State Committee has decided to name its Presidential electors next Monday.

Ex-Mayor Charles Place, of North Plainfield, has issued the call for the Republican Third Congressional district convention, to be held in Asbury Park, Monday, October 3d.

Here we have newness. A New York Woman's Club has been discussing the subject of "How to Make Men Vote." We always thought it was "How to Make the Men Let Women Vote."

At last, Elizabeth believes she has solved the problem of making the Elizabeth creek a flowing stream of clarified water, instead of a canal of filthy and putrid sewage. This is to be done by the construction of a trunk sewer.

A Republican statistician has been figuring out the majority for McKinley and Hobart in New Jersey. He makes it 32,400. Of this he figures that Union county will give 1,200, Somerset 600 and Middlesex 500. He allows Bryan and Sewall four counties.

The custom of having women pall bearers is growing rapidly. Plainfield was one of the first towns in this section to witness such an innovation, and while there is an element about the practice that seems novel, yet wherever the gentler sex are in times when the pall of death hovers over the heads of the living, there seems to be a lessening of the sorrow for the bereaved. And so, no doubt, the custom will continue to increase.

It has been suggested that during the days of the great Christian Endeavor convention to be held in this city next month, it would be an admirable idea for all business however to close their doors at 6 p. m. A large number of the clerks in Plainfield are members of the Endeavor Society, and such a plan would afford them opportunity to attend the evening sessions without interferring with their duties to employers.

Entertained Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smalley, Sr., of Craig place, entertained about a dozen of their intimate friends at their home last evening. Music, both instrumental and vocal, was a feature, and refreshments was also a pleasing addition to the evening's enjoyment.

—A meeting of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will be held this evening at the office of W. R. Codington, corner West Second street and Park avenue.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

—By a lack of proper drainage on Madison avenue between Front and Second streets, the gutters in some places are almost continually filled with water, which after standing for a few days becomes stagnant and is therefore detrimental to the public health.

—The last day on which application could be made to the Court for naturalization papers to enable a man to vote at the next election was on Monday last. There have been 330 applications received, of which nearly 200 are yet to be passed upon by the Court of Common Pleas.

—Elizabeth property holders are discussing the fact that more than fifteen acres of valuable land in the heart of the city, which is held in trust by the Chancellor for the Howe estate, does not by his decision pay one cent of taxes to the city. It is alleged by the Chancellor that while the tract is in his hands it is State property and thereby exempt from taxation. The property comprises seventy lots and is located on Irvington avenue, Prince and Union streets, and is unimproved.

If you have ever seen a little child in the agony of summer complaint, you can realize the danger of the trouble and appreciate the value of instantaneous relief always afforded by DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. For dysentery and diarrœa it is a reliable remedy. We could not afford to recommend this as a cure unless it were a cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

From all accounts Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a Godsend to the afflicted. There is no advertisement about this; we feel just like saying it. The DEMOCRAT, Carrollton, Ky. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Druggist.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Court Crier Ritchie yesterday warned several indiscreet bicycle riders that they must keep off the sidewalk or abide by the consequences.

An attempt was made to enter and evidently rob Clark's barn in this place, Monday night, but an ever-faithful watch dog sounded the alarm and the thieves got away.

One of the present needs here at this time is an apothecary shop. Some years ago there were two drug stores in the town, but for lack of patronage they were forced to give up business.

The family of A. H. Strong, who have been summering near Fanwood, will leave for Boston the latter part of this week. J. William Klein, of Plainfield, packed up their furniture yesterday, and the family will locate in Boston for good.

The case of Cora Jones against Henry Schenck, both colored, came up for a hearing before Justice Clark, in the parlors of Excelsior Hook and Ladder Co., No. 1, otherwise styled the Town Hall, yesterday. Schenck offered amends by making her his wife, and Judge Clark tied the nuptial knot.

Real Estate Agent Thomas M. Paff, Jr., says there are no farms in this immediate vicinity to let, but there are plenty of them for sale. One or two farmers in particular, fearing a depression in business on account of the approaching election, have signified their willingness to part with their farms for a mere song, simply to get clear of their real estate interests. One man was in town yesterday looking for a farm to lease, but he couldn't find one.

Only a day or two ago The Press told of the depredations of some of the more depraved element here and of their raiding a watermelon patch near the town, but of course no arrests have or will be made. But the latest piece of depravity is the lima bean thief. Tuesday night a patch was raided and the thief was not content with stealing a half-bushel or more of beans, but he shelled them and left the pods in a heap on the ground. It is thought likely if another visit is made to the patch, under the same circumstances, that the poles might be taken for fire wood.

DUNELLEN.

Mrs. Mary Lyons is visiting among friends at Yonkers, N. Y.

The Republicans will raise their flag tonight, weather permitting.

Mrs. Joel Giddis has been visiting Plainfield relatives for a day or two.

Miss Mildred Titsworth has gone to the State Normal School, at Trenton.

Rev. Wesley Serand, a former pastor of the M. E. church here, died at Newark yesterday.

Mrs. Smith Laing yesterday removed her household goods to Brooklyn, where she will reside.

Edison Brown, the fifteen year-old son of Stephenson Brown, of New Market, while practicing on a trapeze yesterday, fell and dislocated his wrist. Dr. Brakely set the fractured bones, and the patient is now doing nicely.

Howard Wilson, of Philadelphia, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, on the New Market road.

The members of the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Company, who have been at New Market for ten days past, will close their engagement there on Monday night.

The street car tracks running into the town, or to the borough line, are rough with mud and stone, and the grinding noise made by the car wheels can be heard half a mile away.

Benjamin Smith, an old resident of Dunellen, died at Elizabeth yesterday at his daughter's house. Mr. Smith owned the property opposite the schoolhouse here, and resided in Dunellen for many years.

The work of macadamizing the old New Market road from Stelton is progressing favorably. The men are now at work directly in New Market, and the work will be pushed forward to completion before cold weather sets in.

Adolph Emory, who runs the refreshment stand at the Dunellen terminus of the street railway, is enclosing his waiting room so as to make it comfortable for waiting passengers. John Stewart, of Plainfield, is doing the work.

M. A. Davis, formerly of this place, and now of Cranford, is visiting among friend here. He moved away three years ago last April and when he returned could hardly recognize some of the business places, so great had been the change in that time, he declared.

The Board of Borough Commissioners met Tuesday evening, when it was announced that the board and the contractors for the new town hall would come together and sign the contracts for the erection of the hall. Through some misunderstanding, however, the articles of agreement were not signed, and the matter was laid over until another meeting. This will necessarily retard the beginning of the work.

THEATRICAL.

The most striking hit of the season is "Vanity Fair," under which name has been collected a burletta, a vaudeville olio and a magnificent spectacular comedy, "Jay New York, or Fun at Coney Island." There are in all four scenes, which are so original in design and conception that they have attracted attention everywhere. With electrical effects which seem superhuman, and with the cleverest and highest-priced artists in the world, it is easy to see why "Vanity Fair" has swept everything before it. Nothing could be finer than the interior of the swell New York Yacht Club, and the height of realism was reached in the famous scene of Coney Island by day. Presented at Music Hall Saturday evening, Sept. 19th.

DeKoven & Smith's "Rob Roy," presented by the celebrated Whitney Opera Company, will finally be brought to this city on Monday evening, Sept 21st, at Music Hall. The opera is full of life and color, contains actual merit, staged with great taste and liberality, with an earnest effort to give the opera its true Scottish setting. It is splendidly interpreted. See ad. in another column.

—The first prize for the best lady's costume at the Plainfield Daylight Carnival was won by Miss Grace Peck and not Miss Clara Peck.

—It is hoped that every Christian Endeavorer will attend the union service to be held tomorrow evening in the Congregational church.

—A Republican mass-meeting, especially for mechanics, will be held in the Republican Association rooms this evening. Mayor Gilbert will make the address of the evening.

—The Epworth Leagues of Plainfield, Dunellen and Westfield will hold a rally this evening in the M. E. church in Dunellen. The Christian Endeavor societies of Dunellen will also participate.

Sent it to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

SOME PLURALS.

We'll begin with a box, and the plural is boxes,
But the plural of ox should be oxen, not oxes;
Then one fowl is a goose, but two are called geese.
Yet the plural of mouse should never be meese.
You may find a lone mouse or a whole nest of mice,
But the plural of house is houses, not hice.
If the plural of man is always called men,
Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen?
The cow in the plural may be cows or kine,
But a bow if repeated is never called bine,
And the plural of vow is vows, never vine.

If I speak of a foot and you show me your feet,
And I give you a boot, would a pair be called beet?
If one is a tooth, and a whole set are teeth,
Why shouldn't the plural of booth be called beeth?
If the singular's this and the plural is these,
Should the plural of kiss ever be nicknamed keese?
Then one may be that and three would be those,
Yet hat in the plural would never be hose,
And the plural of cat is cats, not cose.

We speak of a brother, and also of brethren,
But though we say mother, we never say methren:
Then the masculine pronouns are he, his and him,
But imagine the feminine she, shis and shim.
So the English, I think you all will agree,
Is the queerest language you ever did see.

THE PASSION FLOWER.

BY B. B. DE LUNA.

The gardens are tangled, the ruins are old and gray, hardly one stone standing above another. The bells are silent and covered with moss. Even the gravestones which mark the resting-places of the dead are dull and dark; the names being almost illegible. All is quiet, all is sad, all is deserted, save in one place, where, climbing on a broken arch glows in unwonted luxuriance the warm brilliance of the passion flower. A thing of life amidst the universal death, a thing of beauty amidst the desolation. Quivering in the wind, burning in the sunshine, whispering in the moonlight. It springs from a grave apart from all the rest, a grave scarcely recognizable as such, save for the fallen stone, upon which can be faintly traced one word—a word which once drove the city mad, a name which lives in song and story, the name "Chonita."

The people shake their heads over the tale even now, and in the soft moonlight evenings the dark-eyed maids lightly touching their guitars, sing with tender pathos of Chonita. Chonita, the wondrous dancer, the beautiful, the gay.

Never were eyes so dark and tender, never were lips so red, never was siren more bewitching. With her dainty feet she danced into the hearts of all who saw her. The whole city went mad. Men died with her name on their lips. Still she laughed and danced. Cruel? Heartless? Yes. But, ah! the most beautiful thing on earth.

The young maids hated her, for their lovers forgot them after one look into her dark eyes. The mothers cursed her, for love of her meant death to their sons. The priests feared her, for, to them, she was the very incarnation of evil; the devil who tempted their disciples to sin. Yet what cared Chonita? Tears, prayers, curses, alike fell unheeded on her rosy ears. One smile from her lips and she set at naught all priestly teachings. One glance from her eyes and the teachers themselves could not resist her.

Dance on little feet! Over the hearts of men, anywhere, everywhere. In all of Mexico there is but one Chonita, and life is short! Dance on, dance on, the waves are not more light. Soon will all be over. The music, the passionate pleadings, the cry from a thousand adoring hearts: "Brava! brava! Chonita! Chonita!". Soon the curtain drops, the lights are out, all is silent. Not for thy beauty, thy wondrous grace, thy cruelty, do they remember thee. Not these the burden of the songs the dark-eyed maidens sing—ah, no, Chonita!

One day there came to the city a stranger. "Americano," the people called him, and he was tall and fair and handsome. He, too, saw Chonita, and after one glance at her radiant beauty, he, too, loved her. That was nothing. Was she not the idol of them all? But the moment that she looked into his eyes, her heart awoke and so she learned what love was.

Night after night she danced, each time more wonderfully than the last. Ah! how they loved her, adored her. But she heard no longer their shouts of praise, she cared not for the lights, the music. She danced but for his eyes, his love. Alas, Chonita!

The days passed quickly—ah, so quickly! Then over the sunny land broke the dark storm of war. Awakened from their dreams, forgetting love, their idol, all, save their country, Mexico's sons responded to her call. At the first whisper of the coming strife, the stranger, too, hastened away; his country also demanded aid; and with him, but all unknown to him, went Chonita for love's sweet sake.

Disguised as his servant, her lovely face darkened with dyes, her beautiful hair cut short, through all the hard times that came she followed him. Her little feet that had danced so merrily rested in the stirrups night and day. Many a time her life stood between him. Many a time her hand, once covered with jewels, showered upon her by the passionate sons of her native land, turned aside their flashing swords lest they should harm him.

Naught did she care for peril or privation. All would she bear, though reared like a tender flower. Only to be near him, to look upon him, even if all unknown. Only to hear from his lips the careless praise a master gives a servant. She, the adored; she, whose love he had once begged for. Ah, well, soon it would be over, soon she would tell him. Then he would know how she loved him. Then she would be happy. Wait, wait! Alas! alas! Chonita!

Already, though she knew it not, he had forgotten her and the days gone by. Already there had crept into his heart a love more pure, more holy. A maiden of his own land had won him with her gentle ways. A maiden whom, when Texas should be free, he would call his wife. A maiden with eyes as blue as his own, whose feet had always trodden sedately. He had never really loved before; ah, no!

Chonita watched him jealously. In the brief times of peace, when the war for a little space lulled its fury, she would hold his horse for hours before the little house covered with vines, patient, though her eyes burned. All for love's sweet sake. Ah, Chonita, love is cruel! Many have died of it for thee!

At last she saw the maid. Saw him linger and kiss her at the door, while the silver moonlight flooded the garden. The days were never the same after that. The noisy camp wearied her. Ah, she longed for the old city! She longed for the lights, the music, the applause, the roses showered at her feet. She longed to dance fiercely, madly; to dance till her brain should reel, and she should fall exhausted, unconscious. Patience, Chonita; soon comes the end.

There came a night of horror. At last the walls were down, and over the fallen stones poured the invaders. Into the thickest of the fight she followed him. Many times she threw herself between him and the flashing death. Many a time her hand was stained with the blood of those who had kissed it. Many a time she forced back the hungry steel that threatened him. Weary and wounded, all, all for him, hoping that shot or shell would still her aching heart. Chonita, Chonita! who would know thee now?

Suddenly she saw in the hands of her countrymen the maid he had kissed. He could not reach her, and they were dragging her away. Chonita's eyes glowed. If she were gone the old love would return. She would kneel at his feet, show him her wounds; ah, surely then he would remember. The devil whispered in her heart, and for a moment she listened willingly. Then she saw the anguish on the face she loved, and with one last despairing look, she sprang forward. Fiercely she fought them back, freeing their captive. She dragged her to a place of shelter, and standing before her defended her with the fury of a lioness until help could reach them.

Was it for this she had left her home? Was it for this she had followed him? Was it for this she had suffered? Her eyes were blinded, she grew dizzy, her strength faltered. Courage; they are coming! A dozen hands are on her; cheery voices sound in her ears; strong arms support her. Too late! too late! Beyond their praise or blame she lies wounded unto death by those who would have died for her! Farewell, Chonita!

Little feet, dance no more; thou must be quiet now through all eternity. Lips, thou dost not feel the kisses of anguish which he, knowing all too late thy faithfulness, showers upon thee. Eyes, thou canst not raise thy dark, fringed curtains to see the tears he sheds for thee. Ah, Chonita! low lies thy head! Never more will the old city ring with thy name. Never more will thy laughing face lure men to love thee! Yet in the soft moonlight evenings shall be sung the story of thy love, for thou wert faithful. Not for thy beauty, thy wondrous grace, thy cruelty, do they remember thee, but for thy death for love's sweet sake. Sleep well, Chonita!

Radiant, beautiful as herself, there grows on the grave of Chonita the passion flower. Never drooping, never fading, year by year it climbs higher under the cloudless skies. 'Tis the soul of the maiden, which, not pure enough to enter Heaven, was yet, by virtue of her love and faith, saved from eternal punishment. The sun and the south wind kiss it lovingly, and its beauty is unsurpassed. But some day the blossoms will wither and fall to the ground. Then will the soul of Chonita enter Heaven, and her sins be forgiven her.—Leslie's Illustrated Monthly.

Dueling in Hungary.

The criminal court at Buda-Pesth had to deal with a case of offense against the dueling laws on the part of two young engineers, Ignaz Reiner and Leo Lichtblau, who were each sentenced to three days' imprisonment, allowance being made for "extenuating circumstances." The couple had come to blows, and, following the fashion of the times, they determined to wipe out the insult in blood. Reiner sent Lichtblau a challenge and the seconds arranged for a duel with pistols on the most stringent terms. The affair did not come off, however, for Lichtblau waited a couple of hours before the appointed time on the police superintendent of eighth division and gave him notice of the impending duel. The superintendent calmly listened to the "brave champion's" detailed report, and then quietly observed that he already knew all about the matter. "How is that?" "Why, simply because your opponent was here only an hour ago with a similar statement."—Pesti Naplo.

A Pretty Tea Cloth.

A tea-cloth a yard square is made from pale blue linen ornamented by Renaissance lace braid in cream white. These braids are laid on the stamped design and sewed down along the edges. The design itself is a wide band in conventional figures that extend diagonally across the cloth in leaves and flowers. The same design is used in the corners. Each side the band there is appliqued a wide band of Torchon lace in a beautifully open pattern. The same lace is used as a frill round the cloth. The design would be pretty for a bedroom stand-cover if worked on pale green or canary-colored linen.—N. Y. Post.

confronts some one in every home each year. Whoever the work devolves upon should know about

NONE SUCH MINCE MEAT

It's a labor-saver—a woman-saver. Without the long and wearying peeling, chopping, boiling, seeding and mixing, a woman can quickly make mince pie, fruit pudding, or fruit cake that will be the delight of her household. Since None Such is sold everywhere there is no more need of making your own mince meat than of making your own yeast. Try one package—10 cents. Take no substitutes.

An Unfortunate Speech.

"I never pass a Fourth of July without remembering the awful break I made several years ago," said a Water street business man.

"Here was a Clevelander with whom I was slightly acquainted, only knowing him well enough to exchange greetings when we met. The day after a certain firecracker holiday I met the man and nodded in a friendly way.

"'I suppose,' I said, in a manner that was intended to be jocular, 'that you are glad the fourth has gone?'

"'What's that?' he said, sharply.

"I was chump enough to repeat my remark and he looked as black as a thundercloud and stalked away.

"I found out a day or two later that he had just buried his fourth wife.

"I hate a man who is so egotistically sensitive."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE ISLAND CONTINENT.

Australia Is a Land of Loveliness Through All the Seasons.

"There is nothing," we are told "that astonishes the stranger visiting Australia for the first time so much as the variety and beauty of its flowers." Australia is, indeed, a land of floral loveliness, and nowhere has nature been more lavish in her gifts of bud and blossom than in New South Wales. The landscape is an endless panorama of surpassing beauty.

There is a plethora of color in the flowers that everywhere meet the gaze. They are not placed here and there only, to give one the impression of limit; they cover mountains and valleys in all kinds of forms and shades of beauty. Climbers, in rich crimson and interspersed with every color, are multiplied by millions and scattered with a prodigal hand that knows no stint nor bound, save that of infinitude itself, until every shrub and plant and bush, robed in splendor, makes the country gay with blue and gold and many colored dyes.

The gorgeous coloring of the Australian floral kingdom is hardly to be excelled anywhere. Among the favorite native flowers is the stately waratah, or native tulip, as it is sometimes incorrectly designed. It grows to the height of four or five feet, the slender stem being surmounted by a large dahlia-shaped flower of the deepest crimson. It is sometimes grown as a garden flower, but thrives best in the bush. The native rose, which has no resemblance save in its delicate pink tint to the favorite garden flower, is exceedingly plentiful. The blossom is small and modest, but wonderfully enduring and forms a charming addition to an Australian bouquet.

The rock lily, of which a beautiful specimen, imbedded in ice, was lately sent to the queen, is so called from its being most abundant in rocky country, where its masses of yellowish-white blossoms stand out in picturesque relief from the dense background of dark green foliage. The gigantic lily is, perhaps, the most magnificent of Australian native flowers.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

For the Outing Season.

Overskirts in long pointed effects are among the leading features of autumn fashions.

Silver nail polishers have dainty-colored—fawn, blue, pink, etc.—chamois leather buffers.

The cream and white veils having an applique border can but receive a new impetus for the remainder of the summer.

Silk muslin embroidered with pearls and made over white silk is the latest thing for wedding gowns, and with sprays of orange blossoms here and there it is vastly more becoming to the average bride than the severe white satin.

Pique and silk is a rather incongruous combination, but it is fashionable, and so we must look upon it with favor whether we like it or not. The pique is used for collars, revers and cape effects on silk gowns, and edged around with Irish lace.—Chicago Record.

A Census Experience.

In the recent census of the county of London, the occupier of a tenement handed back a blank paper to the collector with a confused statement that it didn't apply to her. "And where do you live, then?" asked the bemuddled enumerator after a long struggle to disentangle witness. "Where do I live? Why, where should I live but in my own 'ome?" "Well, where is your home?" "This is my 'ome, of course it is." "But you said just now that you didn't sleep here last night." "No more I did. I never slept a minute all night long, and my 'usband 'll tell 'e the same."—Household Words.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

Our Coal Is as Clean
as though it were washed and brushed. Each lump stands by itself, good solid coal—So much solid fire. After the coal reaches the surface of the earth from the mines, impurities are picked out by hand. Thereafter it is screened several times before it reaches you, and dirt, slate, etc., really have no chance—if the dealers are careful.
We are very careful.
Just now we are quite busy filling bins for winter. The prices are lower than in cold weather, and dealers are able to give better service. When may we have your order?

NO NEW DREIBUND

England, United States and Italy Not Likely To Combine.

MUCH OPPOSITION TO THE PROJECT

Difference of Opinion as to Whether the St. James Gazette's Suggestion Was Inspired by the British Government To Ascertain Our Feelings.

London, Sept. 17.—The editorial published yesterday in the St. James Gazette suggesting an alliance of England, the United States and Italy in a new dreibund for the purpose of holding the sultan in check, has aroused widespread discussion here, both among the people and the newspapers. Although this is not the first time that this or similar projects have been suggested, it has stirred up much excitement. Those who are in favor of the downfall of the Turk and yet fear the other European powers in case England should alone attempt to accomplish the desired object, believe the scheme is entirely practicable. They point out that, with the assistance of so great a nation as the United States, England could defy all the countries of Europe. On the other hand, those who look askance at the enormous power of their cousins across the water and their growing influence in the political affairs of the old world, are not at all favorably inclined to such a plan. They prefer, rather, to hold to what Lord Salisbury recently termed the principle of "England's splendid isolation," and claim that all alliances bring with them responsibilities which they do not care to assume. They also say that even if the government proposed the plan to the officials at Washington, it would be instantly rejected, because it is simply the old scheme of an Anglo-American alliance brought up to date and with some new features added. It is not generally believed here in well-informed circles that the government inspired the article, although some do not hesitate to say that, in view of the growing manifestations of popular feeling that the sultan should be deposed, the article may have been put forth as a feeler to discover the concensus of opinion in America as reflected in the press of that country and to ascertain just how far the citizens of the United States would go in assisting England to depose Abdul Hamid in the event that the British government should decide to take such a course, despite the apparent opposition of the continental powers. Opponents of the scheme also claim that there is much ill-feeling in the United States toward this country and a corresponding measure of affection for both France and Russia, which has become historical. They point out, moreover, that Italy, in her present condition, is almost useless as an ally, especially since the news of the humiliating terms of peace imposed upon her by King Menelek of Abyssinia has caused her another great loss of prestige in the cabinets of even her firm allies, Austria and Germany.

THE LABRADOR FISHERY.

Latest Reports Confirm Previous Stories of Almost Complete Failure.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 17.—The latest Labrador reports confirm the failure of the fishery, which is now practically over, ending one of the worst catches ever recorded. Numbers of vessels have returned home, having abandoned the fishery, and their crews are now seeking employment upon the railway in order to secure enough food to carry them over the winter. It is feared that considerable destitution will exist in the northern portion of the island next winter owing to the failure of the fishery. The bark Salina will make another attempt to reach Greenland.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Alfred Featherstone, a wealthy bicycle maker of this city, has been sued for $100,000 for breach of promise by Miss Maud Stevens. Nobody appears to know much about the young woman and her attorneys decline to talk. The defendant is now in New York, and it is said has been playing the races with great success, having won, it is claimed, $25,000 in the last four days.

Guards at the Sultan's Palace.

Berlin, Sept. 17.—A dispatch to the Frankfort Zeitung from Constantinople says that the guard of Turkish troops on duty at the Yildiz palace, composed of four battalions of Albanians, was forcibly disarmed last evening, in the presence of a large body of troops, and was replaced by five Seraskier battalions.

MRS. SUSAN BERTRAM'S WILL.

Large Sums Bequeathed to Various Catholic and Benevolent Institutions.

Boston, Sept. 17.—The will of the late Mrs. Susan Bertram of this city was filed for probate yesterday. She directs her executor to deposit with the Massachusetts Hospital Life Insurance company and the New England Trust company $25,000 each, the income of these sums to be paid to the Sisterhood of Holy Nativity, Providence, R. I., and if this society should cease to be either a corporation or a sisterhood, then to pay the sum over to the St. Margaret's Sisterhood, this city. She gives to Rev. C. C. Grafton, bishop of Fon du Lac, Wis., $5,000, which sum is to be used for the benefit of the Sisterhood of Holy Nativity. She gives $10,000 to St. Luke's Home for Convalescents, Duxbury, Mass., after the death of Julia A. Putnam, who is to have the income of the sum for life. She gives $10,000 to the Homeopathic hospital, Boston, after the death of both Mary S. Putnam and Eliza S. Pierce, who are to have the income of the sum for their lives. She gives $5,000 to the Home for Aged and Indigent Women at Salem, after the death of Thomas O'Hara, also of Salem, who is to have the income of that sum for his life. She gives to St. Margaret's hospital of this city $5,000, upon the death of one heir who receives the income for life. Another $5,000, the income of which is given to an heir, reverts to the Sisterhood of the Holy Nativity, Providence, upon the death of the beneficiary.

ACCIDENT OR SUICIDE?

Much Mystery Surrounds the Death of J. Morton Hall.

Pittsburg, Sept. 17.—J. Morton Hall died at his residence in Allegheny yesterday from the effects of a pistol shot which passed through his body, near the heart. Much mystery surrounds the shooting; his wife maintaining that it was the result of accident, but others maintain the suicide theory. The shooting occurred while Mr. Hall was alone in the basement of his house. He ran up stairs to his bedroom and died within five minutes. Mr. Hall was 51 years of age. For many years he was general agent of the Allegheny Valley Railway company. In recent years he has been prominently identified with several of the largest coal producing companies in western Pennsylvania and in the Hocking valley. He leaves a widow and three children.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

Almost Complete Returns Give Powers About 50,000 Plurality.

Lewiston, Me., Sept. 17.—Returns have been received from all but 61 of the towns and plantations. These returns give Powers, rep., 80,221; Frank, dem., 32,663; Bateman, peo., 3,253; Ladd, pro., 2,096; Clifford, national dem., 653. Powers' plurality is 47,558 in these towns. The same towns gave in 1894, Cleaves, rep., 66,831; Johnson, dem., 28,968; Bateman, peo., 5,462; Hersey, pro., 2,444. Cleaves, plurality for these towns was 37,863. In the remaining 61 towns and plantations Cleaves had a plurality of 1,054. These figures confirm the previous estimate that the republican plurality will be about 50,000 votes.

Fusion in Illinois.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Complete fusion between the democrats and populists on state and electoral tickets was effected yesterday at a meeting held at the Sherman house. Under the agreement reached the resignations of three democratic electors were tendered and accepted and the vacancies filled by populists. Andrew L. Maxwell, populist, was subsituted for state auditor in place of Gore, withdrawn.

Killed by a Skyrocket.

THE TEXAS ASHORE

Runs Her Nose Into the Mud Near Newport, R. I.

BIG BATTLESHIP IN NO DANGER

Futile Efforts of Tugs To Release Her—Engines Refuse To Stop When Required—Another One of Her Many Mishaps.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 17.—United States second class battleship Texas last night added another mishap to her already unhappy career. In compliance with orders she was coming here for her torpedo outfit. She made the harbor shortly after 6 o'clock and at about 6:20 landed upon the torpedo station, having first gone over toward the Jamestown shore, and then turned and came across the bay for an anchorage. For some reason the ship's engines did not stop when they should, and she kept forging ahead. Her anchor was dropped, but still she did not stop, and when too late her helm was thrown over with the hope of clearing the island and going to sea again. The water shoals very rapidly here and when she struck, with land on her port quarter, she ran her nose some two feet out of the water and her stern was crowded under. Drawing some twenty-three feet of water, with the tide three hours down, she was embedded hard and fast in the heavy mud. It was just about dusk and signal rockets were sent up. A tug was sent to her assistance and pulled tight on the towline but made no impression. It was some time after the ship struck before her engines finally stopped. The tide was still falling, but it is not believed that her position is serious, as divers say that the bottom is quite free from rocks.

Later—The Texas has been floated.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Annual Meeting of the Society in Progress at Burlington, Vt.

Burlington, Vt., Sept. 17.—The annual meeting of the Society of the Army of the Potomac is in progress in this city and will continue until this evening. The town is profusely decorated. Owing to the fact that the reunion follows so many meetings, military and political, and coming as it does just at the close of the vacation season, the attendance was not as large as was expected. Following the meetings of the various corps and the parade there was a business meeting late yesterday afternoon. It was called to order by John T. Lockman of New York, senior vice-president of the society, and prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. E. M. Baynes. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and accepted. Troy, N. Y., was selected as the place of the next meeting by a vote of 89 to 2 for Nashville, Tenn., and two for Cleveland. Gen. William Henry of Burlington was elected president, with a vice-president from each corps in the society. Gen. Horatio King of New York was re-elected recording secretry; Gen. Samuel Truesdell of New York was re-elected treasurer, and Dr. C. W. Scott of Boston was elected corresponding secretary.

Window Glass Manufacturers.

Cincinnati, Sept. 17.—The conference of the window glass manufacturers yesterday agreed upon a plan by which the western and eastern men will act in perfect harmony and distribute orders equitably. A price was agreed upon by which it will be made unprofitable to import glass and an endeavor will be made to secure the American market for American manufacturers.

Mrs. Dwight Moody's Mother Dead.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Emma Revell, mother of Mrs. Dwight L. Moody, wife of the evangelist, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Theodore Reese, in Evanston, aged 80 years. She came direct from England, where she was born, to Chicago in 1848, and has lived here since. Pneumonia was the cause of her death.

Delayed by a Hurricane.

Boston, Sept. 17.—Word has been received by the Boston Fruit company that the steamer Ethelred, five days overdue, and concerning which there was great anxiety, has arrived at Fortress Monroe, Va., with serious damage to tanks, decks and other portions of the vessel. She was caught in last week's hurricane.

Where Is Capt. Tredway?

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 17.—Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tredway of this city are much concerned over the prolonged absence of their son, Ralph B. Tredway, the famous Yale captain, who has not been heard from in three weeks. The last known of his whereabouts he was at Black Rock, Conn., in company of Brone Thorne, the football captain.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

The regular monthly shoot of the Climax Gun Club held yesterday afternoon, was but slimly attended, only three members shooting full scores in the regular club handicap. T. H. Keller, and Louis Shoitemeire, both scratch men, were high, the former breaking 24 out of a possible 25, Schoitemeire, scoring 23 and J. Goodman, with an extra allowance of 7 birds, got a total of 24.

THAT STIFLING SMOKE.

A Pen Picture of the Ills of Burning Leaves in Bonfires.

Numerous complaints have been already received by the Town Improvement Association from people who have been troubled by their neighbors building bonfires in proximity to their property. The annoyance has chiefly been caused by the smoke and disagreeable odors which arise from the burning rubbish. The wind that blows the smoke from A's house (and A usually waits until such a wind arrives) fills B's house with the disagreeable odor, obliging him to keep his windows closed a part of the day and sometimes the whole night. In the late autumn, when the leaves are so generally burned in all sections, the smoke hangs over the town like a great pall, and obliges sufferers from asthma and kindred affections to leave their homes until the burning mania ceases. When we remember that many people with bronchial troubles are sent from New York and Brooklyn to Plainfield by their physicians, for purer air, we must now wonder

When their homes are filled with bad odors
And the smoke always blows their way,
That they pack their trunks in a hurry
And mournfully go away.

Ensign Brewer to Talk.

Ensign Brewer, of the Salvation Army, will address the meeting at the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday at 4:15 p. m. Mrs. John Manley, soprano soloist, will sing. Mrs. Manley was the leading soprano of the American Temperance Union when their meetings were held at Chickering Hall, New York city.

Another Close Call.

Still another narrow escape was recorded at the North Avenue station this morning, when two women who were late ran out from the waiting room to catch the 7:31 train after it had started. One of them boarded the car in safety, but her companion stood still, horror stricken.

The train was finally stopped and the other woman was allowed to get on board. Scarcely a morning passes that one or more narrow escapes are not recorded at the station, and it is feared unless the dangerous practice is stopped some fatal accident will result.

AN ELEVATING SPIRIT.

GREAT CHRISTIAN EFFECT GAINED AT THE NORTHFIELD CONFERFNCE.

Al LaBoyteaux Tells of the High Moral Tone of the Conference and the Earnestness and Enthusiasm of the Speakers.

Northfield, Mass., with its beauty and grandeur in fancy, and its spirit and enthusiasm in reality, was present at the Congregational church last evening. An attentive and appreciated audience listened with a great deal of interest to the admirable address delivered by A. C. LaBoyteaux, on his experience of one week at this wonderful place, made so in no small measure by D. L. Moody, whose fame is world-wide. As a novel and helpful introduction to the address, a quartette, composed of Miss Morse, Miss Whiting, Stacy Raynolds, and Herbert Schutt, rendered several exceeding pretty hymns which were favorites at the great conferenoe held last summer at Northfield. Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux was the accompanist.

Previous to Mr. LaBoyteaux's remarks, Mrs. C. L. Goodrich read the scripture lesson which was taken from the book of Ephesians. The speaker prepared his address by giving a glowing description of Northfield. He pictured the mighty, majestic mountins and the beautiful Connecticut river winding its course around and through the valleys abundantly fruitful in nature's rich gifts.

In speaking about the place morally, he said that during the week he was there he did not see a vestage of rum, and there was no profane language used. Once he saw a man smoking while he was riding his wheel. In all he thought the place was one delightful spot to be in.

Mr. LaBoyteaux then gave his audience an excellent idea of the meetings held at Northfield. He told of the renowned speakers from both sides of the Atlantic ocean who were present and of their powerful sermons that were wonderful. He spoke of "Round Top," the spot noted for the fact that so many young men had at that particular place given their lives up to foreign mission work. He also told of "Temptation Hill," named such by Mr. Moody, for the reason that he wanted to tempt someone to erect a chapel on the hill. Mr. Moody said that after the chapel was erected, he would call it "Chapel Hill." During the week the speaker said that Mr. Moody was prevailed upon to preach several times, and he gave wonderful discourses that moved the large audience present. He was particularly impressed with Mr. Moody's humility. Having talked before kings, queens and potentates, he was just as humble as it was possible to be. Mr. LaBoyteaux dwelt at length upon the last sermon he heard Mr. Moody preach. He was also moved exceedingly by Dr. Western's discourses. The speaker said that many found fault with Mr. Moody because he never had a set programme, but this Mr. Moody would not do, as there were often noted speakers present and he reserved the privilege to give them a place in the exercises. He spoke of the music at the conference, how Mr. Moody would often devote an hour to the singing of favorite hymns. Mr. LaBoyteaux closed his remarks by speaking words of praise for Mr. Moody in his general work.

The quartette then sang "There will be no Dark Valley When Jesus Comes," and the audience joined heartily in the chorus. Rev. C. L. Goodrich then pronounced the benediction.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices.
We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

EPWORTH LEAGUE RALLY

YOUNG CHRISTIANS HOLD A PROFITABLE CONFERENCE.

Rev. W. B. Judd, of Cranford, Defines the Duty of the Christian in Reference to Participating in Governmental Affairs.

Members of the Epworth Leagues of this city, Dunellen and Westfield, held a rally at the Dunellen M. E. church last evening and, although the storm of the afternoon kept many away, those that did come made up in enthusiasm for their lack of numbers. Rev. S. F. Custard, pastor of the Dunellen M. E. church and president of its Epworth League, acted as leader and opened the service with a hymn. Prayer by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, of the Monroe Avenue chapel, followed and then Rev. Mr. Custard welcomed the visitors in a few words. After another hymn, Rev. W. B. Judd, D. D., of Cranford, was introduced as the principal speaker of the evening. His subject was "The Young Christian, the Young Methodist, and the Young American." His address was short and was listened to with great interest by all. He said that there was no life without a belief of some kind and that Christ was the indwelling power in all his deciples. He referred to the mystical connections between Christ and the human soul and compared it in a measure to the general influence of a teacher over a pupil in which the ideas and thoughts of the former are gradually instilled into the latter. Methodism was, he said, very much in line with the primitive Christianity. There was the free gospel for one and for all; it was possible to know when one is saved from sin, and the laymen of the church have their share of the work to do. The pastor, he said, does his work, but the Epworth Leagues and Christian Endeavor Societies are expected to do theirs also.

Christianity and the government were practically united in this country, he said. The men that formed this country were, with few exceptions, strong Christian men, while Christianity and its teachings are constantly being recognized by the judicial and legislative powers of the nation. Such being the case, it is the duty of every Christian not to turn away from governmental duties but to take hold and do his share. All must seek, not individual good, but the good of the country. He then referred to the dark clouds on the political horizon, and he said if the spirit of applied Christianity be used the troubles would pass away.

George W. Stevens, of Plainfield, then sang "The Progress of our Country," after which the representatives of the different societies spoke. Robt. Davis, from Chapter 1, at the First M. E. church, Plainfield, told something of the work being done in his society. Walter L. McGee, of the Epworth League at Monroe Avenue chapel, spoke of the necessity of being always ready and prepared. Miss Etta Raybert, of Plainfield, recited the humorous selection "The Simple Story of George Washington." Mr. Stevens then sang "An Old Man's Story." after which W. H. Burr, of the Westfield Epworth League, told of the work of the officers, and Charles Hummer, from the Grace M. E. church, Plainfield, spoke of the relation of young people's societies to the church. Then everyone adjourned to the lecture room where refreshments were served by the enterprising social committee, Miss Millicent Vail, chairman; Miss Ella Fisher, Mrs. Arthur Vail and Rev. S. F. Custard.

FUNDS FOR THE COVENTION.

Warren Chapel Endeavorers Adds $30 to the Receipts for the Convention.

An entertainment and sociable for the benefit of the Christian Endeavor convention, which is to be held in this city early in October, was held in Warren Mission chapel last evening, and the amount realized for the good cause was about $30.

The weather was far from being favorable, but the cozy chapel was nevertheless well filled during the evening. The programme opened with a piano solo by Mr. Squier, followed by a solo, "Dear Little Wooden Shoes," Miss Raynolds, and reading by Miss Morse. Then came a piano duet by Miss Shepherd and Miss Lillie Zeisz, and a dialogue in one scene entitled "Fortune's Wheel." There was also a Japanese drill and tableaux by eight young ladies, and another one, "The Old Oaken Bucket." There was also vocal and instrumental music by several members of the society, and each one acquitted themselves in a very creditable manner.

The committee of arrangements consisted of Miss M. Zeisz, the Misses Anna and Sadie Searing, Miss Mamie Koller, Henry Seader and John Hermann.

—Rob Roy Monday night.

AFTER THE POT HUNTERS

WARDEN SEBRING BOUND TO BREAK UP ILLEGITIMATE SPORT.

His Exciting Episode With a Violator Whom He Had Arrested and Convicted, and Who Afterward Escaped.

Fish and Game Warden Charles P. Sebring, of Somerset county, some time ago made complaint before Justice Ayers Coddington, of Bound Brook, against one Peter Larsen, who lives near Adamsville, a small place between Bound Brook and Somerville, on the mountains, for Sunday hunting. A warrant was issued by the Justice and placed in the hands of a constable, who arrested Larsen and brought him before Justice Coddington. He fined Larsen and in default of payment committed him to the Somerset county jail for thirteen days. The officer who had the prisoner in charge was prevailed upon by the latter to take him to his employer, who, he said, would pay his fine. He accordingly did so, and through some trickery the prisoner escaped.

Warden Sebring made up his mind to attend to that part of the business himself hereafter, and had a new warrant issued yesterday. He found the fugitive in the freight yard at Bound Brook, where, after a tremendous resistance on the part of the prisoner, Warden Sebring finally brought Larsen again before the Justice, who fined him $20, and in default of payment he was committed to the county jail for ninety days.

Warden Sebring is determined to break up Sunday shooting in Somerset county, and the pot hunters who roam with dogs and guns on Sunday, would better heed this warning, for this class will be particularly looked after from now on until the game season opens. Any person found with dog only on Sunday in the woods will be arrested.

BOYS' CLUB ELECTION.

Annual Meeting Held Last Evening in the Club's Own Home.

The annual meeting of the Boys' Club Association was held in the new quarters on Sycamore street last evening. The building, which has lately come into the possession of the managers of the club, was originally the headquarters of the Plainfield Bicycle Club. It is being thoroughly rejuvinated and the plumbing about the building is being generally overhauled. When all the improvements are completed it is the intention of the managers to hold an "open house" for an afternoon and evening, and perhaps all day.

The following officers were elected: President, William B. Wadsworth; vice presidents, Charles J. Fish Edward F. Milliken, A. D. Shepard; secretary, D. O. Tiffany; treasurer, Dr. W. H. Murray; executive committee, A. W. Duxbury. H. M. Maxson, E. F. Milliken.

The following constitute the ladies' auxiliary committee: Mrs. D. W. Pond, Mrs. I. L. Miller, Miss Kate Erskine, Mrs. George H. Frost, Mrs. J. L. Slevin, Miss Emily Sandford, Miss Florence Tweedy, Mrs. W. L. Patton, Mrs J. Douall Miller.

After the reports of the treasurer and superintendants had been read and approved, an informal talk was indulged in by the members, as to the methods and ways to better increase the club's usefulness.

The Boys' Club Association is a comparatively new organization, but its weight and influence has already become manifest among the younger element of the city. It's a splendid thing and the Association should never lack funds to carry the good work along.

Traveled Overland.

B. S. Braider and wife, of 39 Manning avenue, North Plainfield, arrived home from Easton in a carriage Wednesday evening. They drove there on pleasure trip some days ago, and the trip home was made in about ten hours from the time of starting. This is considered good time when is taken into consideration the fact that the distance is fifty miles by air line and much of the route is dotted with high hills and steep inclines. Mr. Braider says the worst roads he struck on the entire was between Bound Brook and Dunellen.

Cadet Officers.

The High School Cadets are getting down to steady work now and yesterday the commissioned officers of the corps were elected. The election resulted as follows: Captain, George Proctor Smith; first lieutenant, Sydney R. Titsworth; second lieutenant, Henry W. Brower.

Theories of cure may be discussed at length by physicians, but the sufferers want quick relief; and One Minute Cough Cure will give it to them. A safe cure for children. It is "the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results." For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

CUPID DEFIES DEATH AND RULES OF SOCIETY!

TWO WEDDING EVENTS TINGED WITH ROMANCE THAT HYMEN DOES NOT ENCOUNTER EVERY DAY.

A Woman, the Picture of Health, Marries a Man in the Last Stages of Consumption so She Can Make His Last Days Happy.

Clarence Demarest Falls in Love With a New Brunswick Catholic Girl and Weds Her Without the Usual Formalities.

A quiet little romance was enacted at the Huntersdon Sanitarium, once the Hotel Netherwood, Wednesday, when the first two guests, falling in love with each other, kneeled by the bedside, and were united in wedlock by a minister that was hurried secured for the occasion. The groom was Frank S. S. Greenwalt, of Reading, Pa., while the bride was Miss Kate Levan, of the same city. They were not unknown to each other for they came together, she, a perfect picture of health, and he an invalid in the last stages of consumption—weak and emaciated in form and feature. She introduced herself as a relative of his and seemed to come to look after him.

Their coming was rather sudden for those in charge of the Sanitarium, as the letter telling of their expected visit arrived at the same time as the guests. They were not quite prepared for the reception of guests without warning but Mr. Greenwalt and Miss Levan were made as comfortable as possible.

Wednesday evening, the attendants were very much surprised at the request of the two guests, who are, by the way, 40 years old, that they might be married. They declared that they had intended to be married next week but the would-be bride thought that the last days of her intended's life would be happier if she, as his wife, could be at his side every moment and administer to his every want. So they decided to get married then and there.

Now whether this was a runaway match or planned on the spur of the moment, the attendants did not know but the novelty of the idea aroused their enthusiasm. A messenger was dispatched to this city in hot haste to secure a minister to perform the ceremony. After searching vainly for four different ones, the messenger found Rev. E. M. Rodman, D. D., who consented to unite the two in marriage.

But when the minister was ready, there was another difficulty to surmount. The groom was stone deaf and it was impossible for him to hear what his betrothed or the reverend gentleman said. So another prayer book was procured and, kneeling by the bed in one of the luxuriant sleeping apartments, he read the marriage service to himself while Rev. Dr. Rodman read it for the benefit of the bride. They were pronounced man and wife, and in the mind Cupid might have been seen running up and down the long corridors in high glee at his victory.

Greenawalt was found to have the ravages of consumption so fastened on him that Dr. Hunterson would not continue to have him as a guest after he had made an examination of his condition, telling him that he was beond the hope of recovery and that the institution was not to be conducted as a hospital. The couple then decided to return to their home in Reading, Pa., and thence they went yesterday morning.

A Pleasant Church Entertainment.

An entertainment and social was held in the First Church of Christ last evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. There was a fair sized audience present, and a most creditable programme consisting of instrumental and vocal music, and recitations, were given. Those taking part were the Misses Benner, Miss Mabel VanMiddlesworth and Henry Staats. Each number was heartily encored. At the close refreshments were served in abundance. Owing to the illness of Mr. Brown, of Clinton avenue, several numbers were omitted from the programme, including a dialogue.

Epworth Leagues to Convene.

The first annual convention of the Epworth League of the Elizabeth district will be held at Perth Amboy, Thursday, October 29th. Dr. H. K. Carroll, of the borough, will open the discussion on the subject of "Should the Christian Endeavor Society and the Epworth League be brought into Closer Relations." In the afternoon a welcome rally will be given in honor of Presiding Elder George W. Smith, of this city, who will deliver an address. In the evening a vocal duet will be rendered by Miss Alice and Grace Carroll, of North Plainfield.

Charged With Non-Support.

John Burns was arrested by Chief Grant last night on complaint of his wife, charged with non-support. He was locked up and brought before City Judge DeMeza this morning. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set down for tomorrow morning at nine o'clock.

A marriage which is of considerable interest in New Brunswick and Plainfield became known yesterday. On Monday afternoon last Miss Jennie Cuddy, of New Brunswick and Clarence Demarest, of Plainfield, were married by Rev. John O Grady at the rectory of St. Peter's Catholic church, in New Brunswick. Miss Cuddy is an attractive and accomplished young woman, and Demarest moves in the best social circles. Both are about twenty years old. His father is engaged in business in New York, and is a Congregationalist. Miss Cuddy and Demarest became acquainted about one year ago, and he has frequently called upon her at the house of her mother, Mrs. John Harding, and also of her aunt, Mrs. Thomas McCann, in New Brunswick.

A few months ago young Demarest told Mrs. Harding that he and her daughter were engaged. Mrs. Harding was surprised, but had no objection, as she considered Mr. Demarest an excellent young man. Demarest went to New Brunswick on Monday, bringing a dress suit case with him, and with Miss Cuddy he took dinner at Mrs. McCann's house. In the afternoon the marriage took place. In the evening they had supper at Mrs. Harding's, and there told of the marriage. After supper the couple left the house. They did not say where they were going. Miss Cuddy and Demarest, who still had his dress-suit case with him, went to the home of Mrs. McCann, and after Miss Cuddy secured clothes they went away without mentioning that they were married or where they intended to go. The couple boarded a train for New York. It is thought they are still in New York City where the bridegroom has friends.

A Daily Press reporter called at the residence of the groom's parents this noon and learned that Mr. Demarest went to New Brunswick last evening and took dinner with the young couple at the Mansion House, where they are now staying.

The parents do not object to the marriage, but feel grieved that he should have been married without confiding in them.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Demarest have not yet decided where they will take up their residence in the future.

At the Inn.

The following are some of the recent arrivals at Mountain Park Inn: Mr. and Mrs. Cohen, Edward Cohen, Raymond Cohen, Philadelphia; R. W. Hawlew, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McCullough, Mrs. Martha West, Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs John David son, Mrs. Wyatt, Newark; Miss Jennie Miller, Perth Amboy; Mrs. West, London, England; Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Andress, Mr. and Mrs. E G. Ames, Miss Margaret Ames, Mrs. L. E Potter, Mrs. S. E Potter, Woodbridge; William M. Dodd, New York; Col. and Mrs. John Byers, John Byers, Jr., Claude Byers, Valparaiso, Chili; Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Brewster, Leroy Brewster, New York; Mrs. William V. Brewster, Sewaren; Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Howell, L. A. Howell, Mrs. Munn, New Brunswick; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bennett, Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Wight, Mrs. S. N. Ogden, Perth Amboy; Mr. and Mrs. H. Valentine, Mrs. H. R. Valentine, Miss Evelyn Valentine, Woodbridge; George L. Loomis, Miss Porter, Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bettman, Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, Miss C. R. Tomlinson, M. Tomlinson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lawson, G. B Brainard, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Faber, Jr., Mrs. E. P. Williams, Mrs. F. C. Harder, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. William Roome, Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Brewster, Plainfield.

Temporarily Embarrassed.

The New York Strawboard Company, at the head on which is G. S. Cook, of Somerville, is temporarily embarrassed. Two checks, it is said, one for $1,600 and another for $1,200, were given recently. The first one was met promptly, but the latter was not to be presented at the bank for collection until several days later. The checks were given to the Standard Company, of whom the little fellows, it is further said, are obliged to buy their goods.

Interior Work of the New Bank Building.

The building committee of the City National Bank met at the bank yesterday afternoon to consider the detail plans for interior work furnished by Andrews & Co., of New York, who have the contract. The wood work is to be mahogany and the floor will be mosaic marble. The interior will be very handsome throughout.

TO LIVE WHERE WEDDED

SAFFRAN-OLDMAN NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED AT THE GROOM'S HOME.

The Ceremony Performed in a Veritable Bower of Flowers by Rev. Geo. Hauser—Honeymoon to be Spent in Easton, Pa.

A pretty September wedding was celebrated last evening when Miss Minnie Oldman, of East Sixth street, was united in marriage to Andrew L. Saffron, of East Second street. The house recently furpished by the groom presented a bright and cheery appearance. In one corner there was a massive bank of flowers consisting of golden rod, potted plants and bridal vine. In the centre was an elegant wedding cake. In front of this elegant floral display the marriage was performed by Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church. The bride was attractively gowned in brown cashmere, trimmed with white satin and pearl trimmings. She carried a bridal bouquet. The bridemaid was Miss McKay, of Paterson, who wore a gown of dark cloth, and carried pink roses. The best man was Elmer Mills, of Summit avenue. A reception and supper followed the marriage, during which Mr. and Mrs. Saffron received the congratulations of all. Later in the evening the bride and groom left for Easton, Pa., where they will spend their honeymoon. A number of costly and handsome presents were received.

Among those who witnessed the ceremony were: Mr. and Mrs. Hess, Miss Lillian Hess. John Hess, Miss Staats, Miss Saffron. George Saffron, Miss Hill, Miss Kennell, Miss Johnson, Mrs. William Sharp, Miss Snyder, Mrs. Jackson, Miss McClain, Miss Brennan, Henry Bergen, of Plainfield; Miss Anna Oldman, Frank Oldman, Charles Oldman and Mr. Johnson, of Perth Amboy. Eugene O'Reilly furnished the music for dancing which was enjoyed until a late hour.

ARRANGING A BIG TIME.

The Veteran Firemen to Be Given a Good Taste of Hospitality.

The general committee having in charge the reception and entertainment of the New York Volunteer firemen, met last evening and received a communication from Warren Engine Company, accepting the invitation extended to participate in the festivities on Saturday, October 3d. The committee decided to invite the borough officials to join with the city officials in the affair.

It was stated that there would be fourteen apparatus, all local, in line, also four brass bands, the local drum corps and one from out of town. It is expected that in all there will be 351 men in line. In the afternoon a fire alarm box will be pulled for an exhibition time run. Several banners of welcome will be erected on the main streets.

The parade will probably be inspected on North avenue and reviewed at the Casino. The committee would like to see the contributions of money come in more rapidly, and they earnestly ask the co-operation of all.

Death of Adam Snyder.

The death of Adam Snyder, of Chimney Rock, occurred Thursday afternoon. Mr. Snyder owns the large cider mill and distillery at that place. He leaves a wife, son and brother to mourn him. Jacob Snyder, brother of the deceased, lives in this city. He was one of the leading men of the above section, and was well-known in this city. He was about sixty-five years old. His funeral will be held from his late residence tomorrow afternoon.

Apples Plentiful.

B. S. Braider, of the borough, who has just returned from a carriage drive through the northern part of the State and in Pennsylvania, says there are a great many farmers who have thousands of bushels of choice apples, which they are feeding to their hogs, simply because they cannot realize more than ten cents a bushel by sending them away.

Convention Choir Practiced.

A meeting of the chorus choir for the Christian Endeavor State convention was held at the First Presbyterian church last night. The attendance was very large. The distinctive badge of the members of the choir will be a white yachting cap for the men and a white tam o'shanter for the women. There will be a light green and white ribbon around it.

Mr. Martine Presided.

A large Democratic meeting was held last evening in the Assembly rooms at Elizabeth. J. E. Martine presided. Senator Nichols, of New York, Hon. Walter Anthony, Hon. Edwin S. Abbett, and Samuel Russ, of Westfield, addressed the meeting.

Capt. Edward Ransom and wife, (nee Captain Mimms,) are spending their honeymoon in this city.

THE MAYOR TALKS MONEY

TELLS WHY HE THINKS THE WORKMAN SHOULD VOTE FOR M'KINLEY.

Says the Demonetization of Silver Will Not Increase its Commercial Value, and the Wage Earner Will Suffer From It.

The Republican headquarters on East Front street were formally opened last evening, when Mayor Alex. Gilbert gave an address on the money question. Councilman Charles J. Fisk, presided and introduced the Mayor in a few well-chosen words. The speaker was greeted with hearty applause throughout his address, which was in substance as follows:

"Fellow citizens and neighbors, and I might add sound money Democrats, for I see several in the audience; If we could reduce the Democratic platform and all the speeches made by Mr. Bryan and his supporters during the campaign, into a few short pithy sentences, the substance of it all would be that during the past four years the experience of this country has been a general depression in business, the equal of which has seldom been felt. In 1873, Congress passed a law discontinuing the coinage of silver. This law, according to the Democratic platform, was passed by stealth and a great crime was enacted, by which, in one blow, wages were reduced one half and suffering was universal. The only remedy was to undo this great wrong and go back to the free coinage of silver. The Democratic party favored an income tax, and because the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional the income tax last winter, the party now favors a law giving Congress the power to increase the number of Supreme Court Judges, so that they may pass any law that suits the party. Now, if I was going to reply to these propositions, I should say that the demonetization law was not passed by stealth, and that the volume of money doubled. The panic was due to a different cause than alleged.

"The Republican party is opposed to a law that would change the construction of the Supreme Court for partisan purposes, and they favor law and order to the extent of giving the President full and unlimited power to protect this country without first obtaining the consent of any Governor.

"The Democratic platform, or that wing of the party which allied itself with Mr. Bryan, says that if they succeed they shall pass a law giving free coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1. Now 371¼ grains of silver are worth 51 cents, and it follows that the man who receives these silver dollars will be defrauded of just 49 cents. Commerce cannot be cheated. It knows how to estimate value. The silver dollar now in circulation has the pledge of the United States Government to maintain it at a parity with gold The United States stands prepared to redeem them in gold. With the Bryan dollars there is no Government behind them, and under such conditions the silver dollar would be nothing but a coin that acknowledges our National dishonor, and the United States bonds, which are paid for in gold, will be paid off in silver dollars worth 51 cents. Is it any wonder that Maine and Vermont rolled up such majorities and repudiated the Democratic party.

"Bryan tells the farmer that if they will vote for him and free silver and elect him President he will secure the passage of a law that will double the price of commodities. He don't tell the farmer that he will raise his wages. Bryan promises cheap money. If there is anything we want it is an honest dollar. It is now only fair that I give the other side of the question.

"Free silver advocates say that at first the silver dollar will remain at the value of fifty-one cents, but it will increase in value. Silver is now worth sixty-five cents an ounce and to equal gold it would have to be worth $1.29 an ounce. In 1890, Congress passed what was known as the Sherman law, which provided that the government should take four and a half million ounces of silver monthly. This was about the limit of production and if anything would increase the price of silver it would be that, but why didn't the price of silver go up. The fact remains that there was a slight spurt in the market value, but it was followed with a downward tendency which reached the lowest point. Dollars are only valuable when you have a place to redeem them. The money system of the world and of the civilized earth is a product of evolution, a child of experience. Mr. Bryan is trying to influence the minds of the laboring men against capital. There can be no enmity between capital and labor. Some people spend their money, while others are saving, frugal and thrifty. The position for the laboring man is on the side of law and order and he

TO PREVENT A SPLIT

No Second Democratic Ticket in New York Now Expected.

PRINCIPAL OBJECT OF THE LEADERS

Believed That the Naming of Conservative Men at Buffalo and the Endorsement of the Chicago Platform Will Satisfy Both Factions.

Buffalo, Sept. 18.—The outcome of the democratic state convention was not much of a surprise to those who had been following the trend of politics for the past few weeks. While the work was completed in one short session, which was not at all times altogether harmonious, there was no serious hitch at any stage of the proceedings, and in one sweeping sentence the Chicago platform and nominees were endorsed. The nomination of John Boyd Thacher, mayor of Albany, for governor on the first ballot, was a victory for the regular organization, as Mr. Thacher was repeatedly denounced as a gold bug and an enemy of all that the Chicago platform stands for. His name was received with applause, while his chief opponent, William Sulzer of New Yor, was cheered on every possible occasion. Wilbur F. Porter of Watertown, who was placed in nomination for governor, was named for second place on the ticket without opposition. Judge Robert C. Titus was nominated for judge of the court of appeals. Senator Hill and his workers never lost control of the convention for a moment, though several attempts were made to stampede the delegates to Sulzer. The organization rolled over all opposition, and though strong protests against naming a gold man on a silver platform were made the programme mapped out by the conference at Senator Hill's house went through without a serious hitch.

May Prevent a Second Ticket.

The naming of conservative men instead of extreme silverites will, it is claimed by leaders, prevent the placing of a second democratic ticket in the field by the national democracy when their convention is held in Brooklyn on September 24. If this result is reached the threatened split of the democratic party in this state is probably averted. The leaders apparently had this in view when they put forward Mayor Thacher and opposed all candidates who were antagonistic to Messrs. Shepard, Fairchild and other members of the sound money democracy. The platform and the pledges of support to Bryan and Sewall is expected to overcome the objections of extreme silver men to the candidates named and the endorsement of the Chicago platform is tempered by the naming of Thacher for governor. There were many changes made in the state committee and Elliott Danforth succeeded James W. Hinkley as chairman. No action was taken upon the resignation of William F. Sheehan as member of the national committee from this state.

Meeting of New York Anarchists.

New York, Sept. 18.—A meeting of anarchists, the majority of whom were Hebrews who hold the feast of Yom Kippur in contempt, was held in Clarendon hall yesterday afternoon, and the 500 people who composed the audience listened to a number of rather inflammatory speeches. The principal speaker was Herr Most, the well known anarchist, who delivered his address with great earnestness and worked up his audience to the highest pitch of excitement. He denounced all forms of government, private property and all religions.

Joseph C. Sibley for Congress.

Erie, Pa., Sept. 18.—Hon. Joseph C. Sibley was formerly nominated by the democratic party as its candidate for congress from this district yesterday. The conferees from Erie and Crawford counties met at Conneaut lake and complied with instructions imparted by the democratic convention of the twenty-sixth congressional district. The populist conferees met at Union City last Saturday and placed Mr. Sibley in nomination as their candidate for congress.

Cotton Mill Starting Up.

Salem, Mass., Sept. 18.—At a meeting of the Naumkeag Steam Cotton company it was voted that 400 looms in mill No. 4 should be started next Monday, giving employment to 100 hands. Mill No. 3 will not be started as yet. The hands in No. 5 will work four days a week. The plant has been idle since June 15.

Rescued by the Czar's Yacht.

Copenhagen, Sept. 18.—The czar's new steam yacht Standard, which went on a trial trip in the North sea, has arrived here. She reports that she found the Norwegian steamer Corisande in a sinking condition, and took off her crew, landing them at this port.

To Run on Half Time.

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 18.—Notice has been posted in Farnum cotton mills Nos. 2 and 3 that beginning next week the mills will run half time. Slack demand for goods is the assigned cause. About 700 hands are affected.

A Vanderbilt After Mar Lodge.

London, Sept. 18.—The Daily Mail says it is reported that the Duke of Fife, son-in-law of the Prince of Wales, is negotiating with one of the Vanderbilts for the sale of Mar Lodge, Braemar.

The Courier-Journal's Silver Editorials.

Louisville, Sept. 18.—The Courier-Journal explains that its free-silver editorials in 1886 were written by the commercial editor, whose mind was impaired, and who was soon placed in an asyldm, where he died.

RAIN, HAIL AND [illegible]

Considerable Damage by Storm Last Night in Two Pennsylvania Counties.

Reading, Pa., Sept. 18.—A violent hail and thunder storm did great damage late yesterday afternoon at various points in western Berks and in southern and western Lehigh counties. The storm came from the southwest. At Myerstown a shed was blown to pieces and many trees uprooted. At Lynport, Lehigh county, a school building was wrecked and many dwellings were more or less damaged. A small circus tent was blown over and wrecked. The storm then continued eastward and struck the East Pennsylvania road near Alburtis. At Macungie lightning struck and set fire to a shirt factory, but the flames were extinguished. Hundreds of trees were uprooted and many small buildings damaged. Large hailstones fell and covered the earth to a depth of two inches. Many window panes were broken in the path of the storm in the vicinity of Macungie and Emaus and it is reported that the damage in some localities was very great. It is impossible to get full details owning to a lack of telephone and telegraph facilities in the territory covered by the storm. Fourteen of the poles of the Long Distance Telephone company were blown down west of Robesonia and all communication west is interrupted. The lines between here and Lancaster are also down.

Damage Around Burlington, N. J.

Burlington, N. J., Sept. 18.—This city was struck by a cyclone yesterday afternoon at 5:30 that left considerable damage in its wake. The thunder and lightning was terrific and was accompanied by hail, followed by a deluge of rain. The hail broke the windows in several residences and flooded the rooms. The McNeal pipe foundry, No. 1, was damaged by a large smokestack blowing over on it. The ice houses of John A. Vandegrift and Peter L. Vandegrift were blown down. Owing to the damage to the electric light plant the city was in darkness last night.

WEYLER TO TAKE THE FIELD.

Severe Fighting Expected, as the Rebels Are Determined To Capture Him.

Havana, Sept 16, via Key West, Sept. 18.—Maceo has left his stronghold in the mountains and is encamped with large forces on the Danes estate south of Pinar del Rio city. An attack on the city is expected. It is rumored that Weyler will soon take command of the Spanish forces in Pinar del Rio, with the intention of expelling Maceo from the province. If true, great fighting is expected on account of the strong positions held by the rebels. The Cuban chiefs have determined to make any sacrifice to affect Weyler's capture. The excitement in commercial and financial circles is increasing. Bank bills have fallen to 15 per cent. discount. Sixteen houses have cancelled foreign orders, and there have been no transactions on the stock and produce exchanges for the last two days.

Butchery of Govin.

Havana, Sept. 18.—Nothing has been published here concerning Charles Govin, an American newspaper correspondent, who, it is alleged, was killed in the province of Havana on July 9 last by Spanish soldiers acting under orders of Col. Ochea. It is officially stated that there are 11,000 patients in the military hospitals throughout the island, of which number 1,150 are suffering from yellow fever.

To Arrange for Sewall's Withdrawal.

New York, Sept. 18.—A morning paper to-day publishes the following: "Senator Gorman of Maryland, according to a story current yesterday, has been detailed by Chairman Jones of the democratic national committee to arrange the withdrawal of Arthur Sewall as vice presidential candidate. Senator Gorman and Mr. Sewall served for several years together upon the democratic national committee, and there was an affinity between them owing to the fact that both are protectionists."

Information Regarding Banks.

Washington, Sept. 18.—A United States treasury circular will be issued in a few days giving information respecting national banks, state banks, savings banks, loan and trust companies and private banks of the United States compiled from reports of the comptroller of the currency. It furnishes tables showing the aggregate resources and liabilities of the national banks at the date of each call for report of their condition from October 5, 1895.

The Triple Alliance.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 18.—The Novoe Vremya declares that the triple alliance of Germany, Austria and Italy has joined Russia and France because they have undertaken to withstand Great Britain's designs, which are directly opposed to those of all the nations on the continent of Europe.

Tried To Kidnap His Child.

Winsted, Conn., Sept. 18.—Frank Jennings of New Haven is under arrest here for attempting to kidnap his 4-year-old child from his wife, who lives here.

Simply a Canard.

London, Sept. 18.—A special dispatch to the Chronicle from Rome denies that the pope is sick.

ICED PUDDINGS.

Something Good to Eat and Easy to Make.

It is a pity that more cooks do not understand the preparation of the many delicious iced puddings which French artists of the kitchen make from rice and from nuts. The iced rice pudding is most delicious, made as a simple rice custard, frozen and served with preserved fruits. Boil a scant teacup of nice Carolina rice in a double boiler with a quart of milk, half a cup of sugar and half a teaspoonful of salt. When the rice is soft take it up and stir in the yolks of four eggs. Return the pudding to the fire and beat it hard for two or three minutes. Add a pint of rich cream, and, when the pudding is cold, two tablespoonfuls of maraschino or some sherry, or, if you prefer it, a tablespoonful of orange extract. Freeze the pudding and serve it on a base of golden orange jelly or with sweet preserved oranges or quinces heaped over it. It is also nice served on a low crystal platter with a wreath of whipped cream, tinted pink with preserved strawberry or raspberry juice.

An especially ornamental way to serve this pudding is in a coating of water ice. Apricots make one of the most delicious ices for this purpose. Slice 12 apricots, or use the same amount of canned fruit. Add half a pound of sugar to the apricots and squeeze in the juice of two lemons. Mix them well. Strain the whole through a sieve. Add a half pint of sirup made by boiling half a cup of sugar rapidly for 20 minutes in half a cup of water. Stir the water and sugar so that the sugar is dissolved before the boiling point is reached. Mix the sirup and fruit juice. Freeze the apricot ice, and line a mold, imbedded in salt and ice, with this apricot water ice. Press it on the sides and fill the cavity in the center with the iced rice pudding. Cover the mold and seal it up hermetically, rubing butter thickly around the edges of the cover, so that the salt and ice cannot penetrate within. Cover the mold with ice and salt, pack newspapers around it, and tie them over it to prevent the water penetrating to the packing. Leave it for four hours or longer; then uncover it, turn it out on a low glass platter and decorate it with a wreath of whipped cream flavored to suit the taste.—N. Y. Tribune.

GIANT LOCOMOTIVES.

Heaviest Railway Engine in the World in Old Mexico.

The heaviest locomotive in the world was made at Providence, R. I., and is in daily operation on the most difficult and mountainous section of the Mexican Central railroad. It weighs 260,000 pounds, or 130 tons, and is especially designed for mountain climbing.

The railroad men call it a Siamese, because it is, in fact, two locomotives permanently united. It is used for the purpose of freight trains, and is unique in the mechanical world.

The locomotive was designed by F. W. Johnston, and his professional rivals said that it was impracticable. The same was said of the first railroad locomotive and of the pioneer steamboat. The locomotive is double in all its parts, in fact, two locomotives end to end, with a single cab in the center. One single stiff frame carries the two boilers and driving mechanisms, each machine resting on three rollers which are placed close together. The difficulty of running this colossal engine on comparatively short curves is met by so arranging the fore and rear parts that they accommodate themselves to the curves. The engine, therefore, despite its great length, can go around much shorter curves in safety than the ordinary single locomotive.

The mechanical arrangement of the driving wheels was the chief difficulty met with by the builder. The crank shafts of the driving wheels are provided with immense ball joints near the cylinder heads, so that when the driving wheel assumes an angle other than 90 degrees in reference to the frame the crank shafts connecting with the cylinder heads and the driving wheels follow the movement of the wheels without injury to the engine.—N. Y. Journal.

Shake it off
The general belief among doctors is that consumption itself is very rarely inherited. But the belief is becoming stronger that the tendency to consumption is very generally transmitted from parent to child. If there has been consumption in the family, each member should take special care to prepare the system against it. Live out doors; keep the body well nourished; and treat the first indication of failing health.
Scott's Emulsion
of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is a fat-producing food and nerve-tonic. Its use is followed by improved nutrition, richer blood, stronger nerves and a more healthy action of all the organs. It strengthens the power of the body to resist disease. If you have inherited a tendency to weak lungs, shake it off.
SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.
Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.
JUST AS GOOD IS NOT SCOTT'S EMULSION.

SHIPS FOR TURKISH WATERS.

Report from England That They Will Try To Force the Bosphorus Denied.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Officials of the state and navy departments decline to assume from the reports published in England that there can be any idea seriously entertained there that American warships are to force the Bosphorus in conjunction with the British squadron. While the Bancroft is to become eventually, it is hoped, the American guardship at Constantinople, the size and armament of the American cruisers in the Mediterranean is declared to be unsuited for any hostile participation in operations against such famous fortifications as command the Dardanelles. In order to correct the impression that our fleet in Turkish waters is to be materially augmented by the cruiser Cincinnati, which is to sail from Tomkinsville to-morrow, the navy department has made public the following orders issued from the navy department to the commanding officer of the Cincinnati: "Sir—The vessel under your command is hereby detached from the north Atlantic station, and you will proceed with her, not later than the 19th inst., at the most economical rate of speed, to Gibraltar. Upon your arrival there report to the commander-in-chief of the European station, for duty in the squadron under his command."

LI HUNG'S CREDENTIALS.

The Document Presented to President Cleveland Placed on Exhibition.

Washington, Sept. 18.—The magnificent credentials from the Chinese emperor, which Earl Li Hung Chang delivered to President Cleveland, have been placed on exhibition in the state department library. The wrapper is a six foot square of yellow satin, elaborately embroidered in gold, silver and colors of exquisite workmanship with five large five-clawed double dragons conventionally arranged. The letter is written on a scroll of lemon-colored parchment five feet long by two feet wide. One-half is covered by the message in Chinese block characters; the other half being a translation in Manchu script. The great red seal of the emperor is in the center.

KILLED BY A LIVE WIRE.

Instant Death of an Electric Light Employe at Rome, N. Y.

Rome, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Albert William Kingsley, aged 40, a trimmer and lineman in the employ of the Electric Light company of this city, was instantly killed last evening while handling a live wire. He had been engaged in connecting a residence with the circuit, there being no current on. A little after 3 o'clock a terrific storm came up and he sought shelter. After the storm had passed he went at his work again. In the meantime the current had been turned on at the power house and when Kingsley undertook to cut the wire to make the connection over 1,000 volts of electricity shot through his body and he dropped dead in his tracks. His was the first death by electricity in this city.

Ministers' Institute at Concord.

Concord, Mass., Sept. 18.—The Ministers' institute will hold its tenth regular session here on September 29 and 30 and October 1 and 2, in the First Parish church, the Rev. John W. Chadwick of Brooklyn, president pro tem., presiding. Wednesday, September 30, will be "Philosophical Day," Thursday, "Biblical Day," and Friday, "Sociological Day," and prominent ministers will read essays or deliver addresses on these subjects.

Iron and Steel Trade Improved.

Pittsburg, Sept. 18.—The Manufacturer in its edition to-day will say concerning the iron and steel trade: There is still the better feeling in the iron and steel trade, but it has not yet developed much in the way of higher prices or increased business. Still, it cannot be denied that the situation is considerably improved, and that there is much more business in sight than there was a few weeks ago.

International Chess Contest Postponed.

Budapest, Sept. 18.—The international chess tournament, which was scheduled to begin October 1, has now been postponed to October 5. Steinitz and Pillsbury, the former at present in Woerishofen, Bavaria, the latter at Nuremberg, will be among the competitors.

WILL GIVE UP TYNAN

A Report That France Will Surrender Him to England.

EXECUTIVE AT DUBLIN TAKES ACTION

The Alleged Antwerp Bomb Factory Said To Have Contained Half a Ton of Explosives—Bell, the New Yorker, Remanded.

London, Sept. 18.—The executive at Dublin has instituted proceedings for the extradition of P. J. Tynan, in custody at Boulogne-sur-Mer, France, on the charge of having been connected with the Phoenix park murders. A Brussels dispatch says that enough material has been seized at the resort of the suspects arrested at Antwerp to manufacture a ton of dynamite. The Times, in the course of its discussion on the extradition of Tynan, says that there is no doubt that the extradition treaty with France would be retroactive and could be be made to cover the Phoenix park murders, for which there is a fair chance that extradition would be granted. But the Times expresses doubt whether the treaty would cover the case of a culprit in a fresh dynamite conspiracy. The Chronicle quotes "a well-informed Irish correspondent," who declares that Tynan is not the genuine "Number 1," but only a braggart was posed as such. "He has been in London," declares the Chronicle, "within a year. Why was he not arrested then? It is quite unlikely that the foreign office will press very hard for his extradition as the prosecution he would have might lead to very embarrassing disclosures." The Chronicle's Paris correspondent says: "The fact that Tynan fought against Germany in 1870 is likely to weigh in his favor with the French authorities." Edward Bell, the alleged Irish dynamiter, recently arrested at Glasgow, was arraigned at Bow street police court yesterday. He is described as Edward Bell, alias Edward J. Ivory, an American and a hotel keeper of 211 Lexington avenue, New York. Bell is accused of conspiring with others to cause an explosion in the United Kingdom. After formal evidence of his arrest had been given by the police he was remanded for a week and was removed to Holloway jail late last evening.

Aided by a New York Detective.

London, Sept. 18.—It having become known here through cable dispatches that the New York police disavowed any knowledge of the dynamite conspiracy having been started in New York, and denied that they had given any information to the British police that would have led to the arrest of Tynan and his fellow plotters, a representative of the United Associated Presses sought to learn from where, outside of their regular agents, the police here kept so well informed of the movements of the conspirators in New York. Last night he was informed by a gentleman who knows the inside facts of the case that the doings in New York of the alleged dynamiters were watched by Charles Heidelberg, an ex-member of the staff of former Superintendent of Police Byrnes. He was in Antwerp last week, presumably in connection with the conspiracy, but came to England at the end of the week, and on Saturday sailed for New York. He is a passenger on the American line steamer St. Louis.

Tynan Relies on France for His Safety.

Paris, Sept. 18.—A dispatch from Boulogne-sur-Mer states that Tynan has refused legal assistance, saying that he relies upon the French government for his safety. It has been learned that the vessel on which Tynan sailed from New York was bound for Mediterranean ports. She touched at Gibraltar, where Tynan obtained special leave to visit part of the fortress.

Closely Guarding the Czar.

Copenhagen, Sept. 18.—The police of this city have arrested a man named Machner, a native of Leipzig, who is suspected of being an anarchist. The czar and czarina are now visiting the king of Denmark and, in view of the discovery of the Tynan conspiracy, the Danish police are keeping an extraordinarily close watch upon all suspicious characters. The imperial couple will sail for Great Britain on Sunday next.

Capt. Treadway Is All Right.

Flemington, N. J., Sept. 18.—Capt. Ralph Treadway of the Yale crew, who has been reported missing, and for whom anxiety was felt, arrived here from Bridgeport Thursday evening of last week and became the guest of Hon. William A. Cotter and his wife. After a pleasant visit he left last Monday for Whitestone, N. Y., where, after making a brief stay, he expected to leave in time to reach his home in Sioux city, Ia., by to-morrow evening.

Death of Enoch Pratt.

Baltimore, Sept. 18.—Enoch Pratt, multi-millionaire, banker and merchant, died at his country residence, "Tivoli," Baltimore county, at 9 o'clock last night. He was one of the notables of Baltimore and widely known as one of the most successful men in business life. He had also had the distinction of being, with perhaps one exception, the oldest active bank president in the United States.

Armenian Refugees Enroute to America.

Marseilles, Sept. 18.—Fifty Armenian refugees, most of whom have money, have arrived here from Constantinople. Their intention is to proceed to the United States.

Treasury Gold Reserve.

Washington, Sept. 18.—The treasury gold reserve at the opening of business this morning amounted to $114,490,176. Withdrawals at New York were $62,100 yesterday

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Generally Fair Tonight and Saturday; Stationary Temperature.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 71 Degrees.

Allan McDermott has been nominated for Congress in the Hudson county district.

The Press is in receipt of a communication stating that ex-Judge Freeman O. Willey, of Orange, is prominently mentioned in connection with the nomination for Congress on the Democratic ticket in the Eighth Congressional district.

There is nothing that adds zest to local life, or gives the gossips a chance to talk about something besides than weather, more than a romantic wedding, and with Plainfield the scene of such a one as was enacted at the Sanitarium last Wednesday, it provided a sweet morsel that made the tongues wag.

The Democratic Congressional convention for the Eighth district will be held in Elizabeth, Thursday, October 1st. The basis of representation is one delegate to every 100 votes cast at the last Gubernatorial election. This entitles the First ward to two, the Second to two, the Third to one, and the Fourth to three.

REAL ESTATE LOOMING UP.

Many Out-of-Town People Coming Here for the Winter.

Business in the real estate world is looming up here, and there is a prospect of a good fall and winter trade. Through Mulford's agency the following rentals have been made within the past day or two:

Alfred Hearson, of Long Beach, has leased a house on Leland avenue and will reside there with his family on and after October 1st.

William T. Gough, of Sandford avenue, has rented George Thatcher's house, at Central avenue and Seventh street, and will occupy it October 1st.

M. B. Mellor, of New York, has rented A. L. C. Marsh's new house, on Hillside avenue, and takes possession at once.

Henry D. Hibbard has rented Harvey Bird's place, on Norwood avenue, and takes possession immediately.

Mrs. C. G. Anderson, of New York, has rented the premises at 445 West Sixth street.

J. J. Clowry, of New York, will hereafter occupy the house at 441 West Sixth street.

The other rentals have been: R. W. Dryden, the house at 929 Watchung avenue; E. Clark, of New York, W. J. Roome's new house on Myrtle avenue, Washington Park; and Dr. J. D. Wood, of Phillipsburg, who has leased the house on Crescent avenue, next to the Crescent Avenue church, and with his family takes possession today.

Baked Clams at Lower Plainfield.

About thirty young people from this city and adjacent places enjoyed a clam bake, in true Rhode Island style at the Fairview House, South Plainfield, last evening. The clams were cooked in a vacant lot nearby, and they were appetizing to say the least. Prof. Eugene O'Reilly furnished the music for dancing which continued until 2 a. m., this morning.

—A union prayer service will be held at the Congregational church this evening. All are invited.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

how low the price, baking powders that vary in strength are expensive.

They raise pretty well once or twice, and then, losing their strength, fail, and so waste good butter, flour, eggs, sugar, time and temper.

Cleveland's baking powder never varies. It does the work just right every time, and that is why housekeepers prefer it.

THEATRICAL.

Music Hall, Saturday evening, Sept 19th, Gus Hill's "Vanity Fair." All of the promises of the management of "Vanity Fair" have been fulfilled, and the play has turned out to be a most delightful entertainment. The opening burletta, with its magnificent scenery and accompanying olio, was charmingly rendered, and every act introduced was most finished. But the artistic success of the evening was "Jay New York, or Fun at Coney Island," the spectacular comedy, which is a complete performance in itself, in which is introduced a most interesting and correct production of high life at that famous seaside resort, Coney Island.—Exchange.

At Music Hall, Monday evening Sept. 21st. Messrs DeKoven & Smith have shown high ambition in their Scotch plaid opera "Rob Roy." Reginald DeKoven never wrote such exquisite music, and the librettist, Harry B. Smith, has not introduced a single word that would jar upon the most delicate ear. The commendable cast, costumes and scenic effects, plainly demonstrates Fred C. Whitney to be an indispensable manager. Secure your seats at once, as they are selling rapidly.

Herrmann, the Great, who since his last appearance in this part of the world has astonished and delighted the people of many lands, will appear in Plainfield at Music Hall, Tuesday evening, Sept. 22d, with a brilliant programme of new marvels. His original oriental production, the Asiatic trunk mystery, is not only the most profound and unexplainable problem, but it is the most pleasing and picturesque spectacle. The new hypnotic wonder, "Trilby," is one of the greatest of stage triumphs. The Artist's Dream, aptly termed a magic comedy, is presented with the most elaborate and expensive stage settings. It is a creation of the most poetical and fantastic fancy. It is a great programme. One of the most brilliant parts is furnished by Adelaide Herrmann, who has given to the world a new art. Her marvelous spectacular dances, L'Etoile de Nuit, La Dance de Vesuvius, Le Raynon du Soleil, and the Lily of the Orient, have presented new and startling possibilities in the combination of color and motion. Seats on sale at box office on and after today at 10 o'clock a. m.

OUR NEW FALL GOODS!

Are coming in now every day, and very soon our store will be attired in full Fall and Winter dress. Several invoices of goods of "Our Own" importation are now on exhibition in our big Basement consisting of fine French China in Plates, Cups and Saucers, Chocolate Sets, Chocolate Pitchers, Fern Bowls, Game and Fish Sets, Soup Sets and hundreds of other small French China pieces too numerous to mention. Another very handsome line of goods we imported direct is a large and complete assortment of real fine Bisque Figures and Bric-a-brac.

These goods are marked much below the usual price as we save the importers profits and allow it to our patrons. Many of our customers who have seen these goods say they are surprised to see such a large line of fine elegant goods in Plainfield. Come in and see them. During the present week a good many cases of new fall goods have been received and placed on sale on our main floor, and others are on the way and will be in next week. A look into our show windows and a walk around the store will give you some idea of what they are. We are now in the midst of a big Special Sale, affording the people of Plainfield a splendid opportunity to buy fine new fresh seasonable goods CHEAP.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Miss Maggie Fitzgerald returned home to Paterson today, after a very pleasant visit with friends here.

Mrs. Thomas A. Hafield, of Hoosac Falls, N. Y., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Emery at the Plains.

The noise of the trolley is now heard with the wind. What the people want is the trolley in reality and not so much wind.

Thomas Paff, Sr., is becoming quite an expert at portrait and landscape sketching. He uses water colors all together. His latest production is a dairy maid, in the familiar scene of milking a cow, and the scene is very pretty and lifelike.

Mrs. Alex Messler, who died on Monday, was buried from the house, on Wednesday, Rev. Mr. Angleman officiating. Interment was made in the Westfield cemetery beside her mother and father who had already crossed the Great Divide before her.

DUNELLEN.

Bernard Sarisky has gone to Somerville to spend a few days with relatives and friends.

George Washington is anticipating a trip to Elizabeth, via Metuchen, on his wheel tomorrow.

Brakeman Richard Harding has purchased a new bicycle and rides about town in great shape.

Firman Gise lost a valuable horse from colic on Tuesday night. The animal was valued at $100.

William Jackson, formerly of this place, and now of Jersey City, is in town on a visit with friends.

Mrs. Smith W. Laing removed her household good to Brooklyn yesterday, where she will permanently reside.

Ex Station Agent Chas. Carpenter, now of the Central's main office in New York, is confined to the house by illness.

The Central Railroad pay car reached here yesterday and the employes and the merchants were all made happy.

John Fisher is the latest rider of a wheel. He has purchased a Liberty wheel and rides with the alertness and dexterity of an expert.

A regular meeting of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association will be held on Monday evening next for the payment of dues and such other business as may come up for consideration.

Chris Hoff, an inoffensive citizen, was bitten by a mongrel dog about two weeks ago. The dog has bitten many other dogs within the past few weeks. The animal was shot yesterday, there being symptoms of hydrophobia noticeable.

W. H. Cole's coal office, which has been the scene of many a hotly contested checker and domino game, is still open for engagements. Playing for fun only is allowed and when the cold weather sets in the "open dates" will have probably all been closed.

Mrs. Charles Adams, of this place, died yesterday morning from heart trouble and dropsy. She was taken with a chill on Wednesday a week ago and was immediately taken down to her bed. At times she rallied, but was soon lost to consciousness and died as above stated. A son of the decedent is head clerk for Adam Dealaman. There are two other children living by a second husband. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Sent it to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

Poison Ivy, insect bites, bruises, scalds, burns, are quickly cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the great pile cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

BOROUGH REPUBLICANS PLAN.

Conference of the Leaders Who Decide the Banner Raising Date.

In accordance with a call issued by Mayor B. A. Hegeman and Tax Collector H. N. Spencer, of the Somerset County Republican Executive Committee, the leaders of the party met last evening in Warren Engine Company's house and discussed plans, informally, for carrying on the campaign in the borough.

In regard to the flag-raising on Somerset street, it was decided to place the flag in position next Thursdas evening. Plans were also under consideration to hold several mass-meetings. The first one will probably be held in Saengerbund Hall at an early date. The matter, however, was placed in the hands of Messrs. Hegeman and Spencer.

Those present manifested considerable enthusiasm, and now that the matter has been started the Republicans of the borough are likely to take an active part in the campaign.

Think They Have the Horse.

It will be remembered that some time ago Uncle Dan Roberts had a valuable horse stolen by a man who is now serving time for the theft in Sing Sing. The horse was never found, though at different times word was received from various parts of the country regarding the animal. Yesterday afternoon the police officials of Yonkers sent word to Mr. Roberts that they thought they had the horse, and this morning Chas. Roberts and Chief Grant went to Yonkers to see if they could identify the animal.

Dropped Dead While at Work.

Michael Kenny, aged sixty years, and a highly respected resident of Somerville, dropped dead while at work spreading crused stone about the Central Railroad station at 10.45 o'clock today. He was standing beside his wheelbarrow when he fell to the ground and expired almost immediately. Deceased had been in the employ of the railroad company for over thirty years and leaves a widow and a large family.

Died in the West.

The remains of John Schomp, a well-known Somerset county lawyer, passed through Plainfield this morning on the 9:54 train on its way to Readington, for burial. Mr. Schomp died suddenly of paralysis, at Omaha, Neb., where he was practicing law. Several years ago he had an office in the Daily Press building, this city.

Blazed Away at the Dog.

About midnight last evening a pistol shot rang out on the still air in the vicinity of the First Presbyterian church. A worthless dog had attacked a pedestrian, and the latter, evidently with visions of hydrophobia, blazed away at the dog. This morning a few spots of blood on the sidewalk showed that the dog had been wounded.

Capitalists Prospecting.

A party of ten capitalists from Trenton started from Bound Brook this morning and rode over the proposed trolley route from Raritan to Bound Brook, thence to New Brunswick, thence to Plainfield. They will, in all probability, decide to build the line, as nearly all the right of way has been secured.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Henrietta M. Blish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Blish, of West Seventh street, to George O. Stevens, of Clinton avenue, the well-known coal merchant. The wedding, which is to be a very quiet family affair, will take place early in October.

Title Passed.

Title has been passed by Assemblyman W. B. Coddington on the property purchased by City Judge George W. DeMeza from Mrs. Emma B. Thorn on East Front street, opposite Sandford avenue.

—Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will meet tonight and work the third rank on one candidate.

Better Than $100 Reward.

On receipt of ten cents, cash or stamps, a generous sample will be mailed of the most popular Catarrh and Hay Fever Cure (Ely's Cream Balm) sufficient to demonstrate its great merit. Full size 50c.

ELY BROTHERS,
56 Warren St. New York City.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind, ever since a boy, and I never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Edward Brown, of Clinton avenue, is quite ill at his home.

James Field, of Somerville, was a welcome visitor in town yesterday.

Mrs. John H. Tier, Jr., of Bank place, is visiting friends at Somerville.

Miss Emile Schipper, of West Seventh street, has returned from a European trip.

Albert Simmonds, of Watchung avenue, is stopping at Atlantic City for a few days.

F. C. Jennings and family, of Rockview avenue, returned yesterday from their trip abroad.

Morris Pollin, firemen at the electric light station, has gone to Detroit, Mich., for a week.

Mrs. Alpaugh, of Lebanon, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Brooks, of Watchung avenue.

Miss Ethel Holmes, of East Fifth street, returned home yesterday after a visit out of town.

Miss Catherine Webster, of East Second street, is expected home from California this week.

Miss L. Davis, of West Fifth street, left town this morning for Philadelphia, where she will visit.

Harry Bush, of the fire deparment, will return Sunday from his ten days' vacation spent in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Uhler, of East Front street, are thinking seriously of taking up their residence in New York.

Mrs. D. Van Zandt, of Sandford avenue, left town today for Oviedo, Fla., where she will remain indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsey's daughter, who has been visiting her parents in this city, returned home yesterday.

Mr. Bowers, of East Front street, has left the employ of the street railway company to accept a more lucrative position.

S. H. Whitney has returned to Yorktown Heights, Westchester county, N. Y., where he is spending a few days with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Myers returned to their East Seventh street home yesterday, after an absence of several weeks from the city.

Mrs. G. Slephold, of New York, who has been visiting the family of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Blatz, of Somerset street, have returned home.

William E. Thornton, formerly of the C. H. Stetson Music Company, of New York, is a guest at the City Hotel. He will probably locate here permanently.

Mrs. B. D. Newell has been elected secretary of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, in place of Mrs. C. Frank French, who has resigned.

Thomas D. Blair, of East Second street, has returned to Plainfield after spending the summer at Ocean Grove. He rode home on his wheel. He leaves on Wednesday for Princeton College.

T. A. Runyon, of East Front street, left for Nazareth Hall Military Academy, Nazareth, Pa., yesterday, after a ten weeks vacation at home. He is drum-major for the military cadets there.

Miss Maude VanDyke, of East Front street, who is visiting relatives at Liberty Corner, is expected home in a few days. She has about recovered from a sprained ankle, the result of a fall from her wheel.

J. Lance Mundy, of East Ninth street, is able to go out after a fifteen-days confinement to the house from bronchial troubles. "Lance," as he is familiarly called, is a member of the 30th New Jersey Volunteers, but he was unable to go to go to Somerville and attend the reunion.

Alexander Sargeant, the only member of the Ninth New Jersey Volunteers from this city, went to Jersey City yesterday to attend the annual reunion of his regiment. Alex. says the regiment was known as the New Jersey Muskrats when they charged at Roanoke during the late rebellion.

The new five and ten cent store, 224 West Front street, near post office will close Friday evening and open again Saturday evening. Will open Sundays for sale of confectioneries. 9 18 2

A SONG OF LABOR.

The daylight fades, the shadows fall,
The hour to quit our toil has come,
The welcome whistle tells us all
'Tis time to start for home.
Hang up the tools upon the wall,
Come forth from shop and factory gloom,
Oh, joyful is the workman's call
To take the train for home.

To take the train for home, my boys,
To take the train for home,
Oh, best of all the toiler's joys,
To take the train for home.

Oh, long the hours to bend the back
And ply the tools with sinewy grip;
Oh, lone the hours when toilers lack
The touch and cheer of comradeship.
Oh, weary many a toiler's task,
In solitary place of gloom,
But now he sheds toil's grimy mask
And takes the train for home.

Roll down the sleeves and don the coat,
The happy hour has come,
The best of all the worker's joys,
To take the train for home.

And while from crowded street he flies
The evening breezes seem to bless,
And nature spreads her sunset skies
To cheer and heal his weariness;
And as he nears his cottage door,
With cries of joy his children come;
His foot is on his cottage floor—
Oh, blessed train for home.

Roll down the sleeves and don the coat,
The happy hour has come,
The best of all the worker's joys,
To take the train for home.

And all the weary day's repaid,
When seated round the cheerful board
Whereon the frugal meal is laid,
With many a fond and loving word
And cheery stories of the day
The good wife and the children come,
And hearts are true and glad and gay
Within the workman's home.

Roll down the sleeves and don the coat,
The happy hour has come,
The best of all the worker's joys,
To take the train for home.
—Helen E. Starrett, in Chicago Record.

THE REDEEMING ACT.

Dave was a coward and he always bore the reputation of arrant cowardice ever since he had crawled over the side of the dugout cradle to wallow along with the underfoot world of the white sand before his parents' cabin door. Though country born and bred, a passing thunderstorm struck him with terror, and the sight of the black waters of the "crick" caused a remarkable agitation of the knees. He was a coward, pure and simple. The bristling of a coon routed him unconditionally and a determined 'possum could rob the hen roost before his very face. Indeed, Dave was a coward, and his cousin, Sue Spivey, laughed uproariously when the poor fellow perpetrated his initial and only act of boasting. He had said to her one day very solemnly and no doubt sincerely:

Toe purtec yo' honah an' happiness I'd th'ow away my wuthless life."

Ordinarily Dave's speech was unpolished and provincial, but on this occasion it rose to the dignity of what he felt the occasion demanded.

She knew full well his timorous disposition, and would have thought it safe to count on his poltroonery in any event. But a day was sadly near which proved to her the full worth of the poor fellow's grandiloquent assertion.

Long before the late unpleasantness, and until this day, Honeypath was only a siding where occasional trains took water and passed each other. Two or three log shanties, without special pretensions to any architectual dissimilarity, marked the site of the town, distinguishing it from the vast area of impenetrable swamp that backed it and the arid waste of sandy bottom through which the glistening, polished rails of the grand trunk line writhed and sinuated.

Dave was a native of Honeypath and lived with an aged father in one of the shanties. Sue dwelt with her father in another near by. Dave's father was a hot-blooded southerner, whose patriotism answered to the first call to arms, but Dave was timid, fearful of the smell of powder and refrained from action, preferring to suffer the opprobrious epithets which were liberally bestowed upon him and the contempt of the country generally to facing he knew not what horror upon the battlefield. He was not a philosopher and could not plead in extenuation of his neutrality that the martial slaughter of his brother man was a crime and that the wholesale sacrifice of human life was immoral.

Dave was simply a coward and accepted meekly the obloquy which the condition imposed, not even the taunts and cutting sarcasm of the pretty Sue Spivey being able to rouse the instincts of battle in his craven soul.

Before the strife was ended Sue's mother was gathered to her final rest, being put out of sight in the little sand graveyard, with only the comment of the two remaining neighbors. And then Dave and Sue toiled early and late in order to wring from the starving acres an unvaried livelihood of yams, cornbread and bacon, more often the cornbread without the embellishment of potatoes and bacon, particularly during the weeks after a hungry foraging party had passed that way.

One day Dave was working among the young potato vines in an open arid field behind the cabin, when Sue ran out to him in troubled haste.

"Oh, Dave, I'm pow'ful skeered!" she panted.

"Skeered o' what?" he asked, without intermission of the bent labor.

"Some—some soldiers just went down the road, an' they spoke to me—sassy like." She hesitated, and Dave looked up to see her pretty face scarlet and her brows bent together in angry lines.

"Well, what did they all say?" he demanded, in his accustomed slow drawl, after waiting in vain for her to proceed.

"They 'lowed they all was a-comin' back."

"Who was they, anyhow?" he asked, uneasily, his face blanching in anticipation of the martial visit.

"They was Mosby's men, I 'lowed, an' they was five of 'em."

"Our fellers?" a little surprised and straightening his back. "Come on back to the house, Sue," and shouldering his hoe, he tugged stolidly on before.

"Don't you be askeered," he continued, as they reached the yard. "I reckon they won't do nothin'."

Of the two it would have been manifest to the most casual observer that he was the worst "skeered," but he walked on till they reached the house and Sue cried out:

"Yonder they come now—all five."

Dave's face blanched to a sallow whiteness, but he pulled her quickly inside the door.

"What you gwine to do?" Sue asked nervously, keeping near her cousin, but he apparently did not hear. He had taken down a rifle that had belonged to Sue's brother, who had also offered up his life on the altar of the cause, leaving his weapon to his sister as a means of defense in just such emergencies as this.

"What you gwine to do Dave?" the girl persisted, coming closer and laying her hand on his arm. Dave put a cartridge into the barrel of the rifle, and, waiting in silence, apparently not aware that Sue had touched him. Only a few more moments to wait, and then the last act in the commonplace little tragedy. A long pounding at the rickety cabin door, and a derisive imperative voice, demanded:

"Hi, in there, open up, or we'll make splinters of yer ol' door!" The threat was garnished by several strong expletives, and accompanied with more vicious pounding.

Then for answer went the spiteful snap of the rifle, followed by a surprised howl of pain, more voluble profanity and footsteps in rapid retreat.

Dave went to the window and through a knothole in the shutter reviewed the situation of the enemy. Then through the aperture the rifle again spoke with decisive, leaden emphasis, and when the smoke cleared away the man inside behind one of the besiegers lying prone across the freshly-hoed potato rows, while another limped painfully in the rear of the retreating trio.

They had disappeared into the swamp, and Dave calmly refilled his rifle, waiting as though lost in thought. Presently from the rear of the cabin came the harsh command:

"You cowardly bushwhacker in there, come out an' fight like a man! If ye don't, we'll burn ye an' yer shanty an' the gal with ye."

There was no opening in the rear of the cabin; the logs were thick and the chinks were well stopped with clay, so that Dave could not return a leaden answer to this brutal challenge. He fingered the rifle nervously and looked at Sue.

"Oh, Dave, don't open the door!" she pleaded, meeting the earnest look bent on her face from beneath the brim of Dave's frowzy slouch hat. "I ain't afeered toe burn."

His lips blanched, his knees were wobbly with fear, but he had not forgotten the one boast of his poor, pinched life, uttered so long ago. "Toe purtec' yo' honoh an' happiness I 'ud throw away my wuthless life." He uttered the words again monotonously, fingering the rifle that was held limply in his shaking hands.

Poor Sue! There was no answering laughter in her soul now for those grotesquely sententious words, which broke in husky monotone on her hearing like a last prayer.

In that moment Dave, who had always been a coward, who had all his life long borne meekly the scorn and opprobrium attached to the character, to whom heretofore nothing could arouse to a sense of his degradation, calmly arose to the very pinnacle of heroism.

"I'm comin' out," he called, and, shooting back the bolt, he stood on the cabin step before them.

"Fall back and give him a show; he's coming out boys!" Sue clung to him, pleading. "Dave, don't; there's four to one. Don't go!" but he pushed her gently backward into the room.

"Bolt the door behind me," he said, and passed out.

Sue stood motionless in the center of the room waiting for it to begin. Dave pulled the trigger of his gun and turned the corner, and instantly four weapons barked with one voice.

Sue heard something heavy fall against the side of the cabin; then instantly the sharp, clear utterance of a rifle answered the carbines again and still again. One carbine only answered; then all was still; only the fretful warbling of a wren in the near-by Cherokee rose hedge breaking the intense silence of the drowsy afternoon hush.

Anxiety conquering terror, Sue drew back the bolt, throwing the door wide open. A broad stream of yellow light and a rush of heat met her. Dave was gasping his last breath; bleeding and shattered, he crept to her feete, after the manner of a faithful dog, to die. In the grave gray eyes that were raised to hers there was the light of a passing spirit, triumphant over the shadow of death, which already darkened them. His lips moved in the contortion of a smile, that broke into an articulate murmur.

"I dun said that toe purtec' yo honah and happiness I would th'ow away my wurthless life—an' I done hit."

And Dave, with the crimson glory of his "wurthless life's" blood streaming from many wounds, passed to the judgment reserved for him from the beginning of all things.

The wren shivered out her fragmentary song to heaven, the perfume of the Cherokee rose filled the air of the fading day, and the setting sun, streaming through the cabin door, touched the still figure of Dave, wrapping him in molten splendor as though with the face of a dying god.

Poor Dave, though a coward all his life long, he had earned the reward of heroism at the very end. "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friend."—Detroit Journal.

SHAKERS AND DOCTORS TALK TOGETHER.

In his able work entitled "Longevity," published a few years ago, Dr. John Gardiner, of England, predicts that a vegetable agent will yet be found that shall so retard those changes that bring about old age as to prolong human life much beyond its present limit.

Acting, perhaps, upon the impulse produced by this thought, many eminent physicians have called from time to time upon the Shakers of Mt. Lebanon to inquire of them concerning the secrets of medicinal plants, in which these sincere, simple minded and God-fearing people are known to be wise and skillful beyond all other men.

The Shakers willingly told what they had learned, and in return received from their visi ors much valuable information about disease which they at once made practical use of. The most important point was that if a genuine and certain remedy could be found for indigestion and dyspepsia, and the ailments growing out of it, a long step would be taken in the right direction. Old age, said these physicians, begins in a failure of the digestion, and so do most diseases at any and all periods of life. The result of these consultations was the discovery by the Shakers of the desired specific, made wholly from herbs, and now known as the Shaker Digestive Cordial. Its action is magical and worthy of its origin.

Where there is distriss after eating, heartburn, sick headache, bad taste in the mouth, billiousness, weakness and weariness, cold hands and feet, aversion to food, nervousness, or any other symptom of dyspepsia, the Cordial will prove its curative virtues. Behind it is the reputation of a people who have never defrauded or deceived their fellow men.

In order to test whether this remedy is adapted to your case, at practically no cost, you may procure a trial bottle for ten cents of almost any druggist.

PROGRAMME OF ECONOMY.

How She Proposed to Save Orlando's Pocketbook from Damage.

"Orlando," she said, "I am afraid you are getting tired of having me ask you for money."

"Well, you see," he answered, "I have a good deal of expense to meet just at this time of year, and it does seem once in awhile that women don't make enough allowances for that sort of thing."

"Well," she answered, "I've thought of a way that will fix it all very nicely."

"What is it?"

"Whenever you go to the barber shop and the boy brushes you off you give him a dime, don't you?"

"Yes."

"And when you are away from home at a hotel and a boy brings you ice water you give him a dime?"

"Yes."

"And a mixed drink costs 15 cents?"

"Of course."

"Well, you've often said that women have no head for arithmetic, but I am going to convince you to the contrary. I am going to learn to make your favorite mixed drinks. That'll be 15 cents a day. Then I'll bring you ice water in the morning, that'll be 10 cents more. And then I'll brush your clothes off with a whisk broom, and that'll be 10 cents more. There's 35 cents a day. I've figured it all out on a little piece of paper. Three hundred and sixty-five days in a year—that's 365 times 35, which makes $127.75. If you will give me that without my asking for it, just as you do the bell boys and the bartender, I can put it with my regular housekeeping allowance and manage to get along much better."—Detroit Free Press.

DISPOSED TO CRITICISE.

The Old Man Was Not Pleased with the Circus.

"I attended Barnum's circus at New London, Conn., a few days ago," remarked a traveling man at the Palace the other day, "and had the pleasure of sitting beside one of those shrewd practical old Yankees that we read about and seldom see. I expected to see him enthusiastic over the performance, but he wasn't. After a woman had given a beautiful exhibition of bareback riding I asked him what he thought of it.

"'She could ride aheap more comfortable an' run a durn sight less risk o' breakin' her neck on a side saddle,' said he.

"Then a man gave a bareback exhibition on a trained steer. The animal cavorted around the ring with the man for several minutes, and then he threw the brute and stood with one foot on its head and the other on its side.

"'Mighty good way to spile a good beef critter,' commented the old man.

"Next they showed horses in a thunderstorm. The stage thunder commenced to roll and the affrighted horses huddled together in the center of the ring. Then came flashes of lightning and they scattered as if terror-stricken. It was a very pretty exhibition of well-trained animals, but the old Yankee was disappointed.

"'It's all wrong,' he declared. 'No one ever see thunder come afore lightnin'. The lightnin' allus comes first.'"—San Francisco Post.

Reasonable Theory.

"I have come to the conclusion," said the young man who had been reading up on the customs of the ancients, "that the marriage ceremony, funeral rites and all that sort of thing had no religious origin at all."

"Indeed," said the professor. "And how did they originate, please?"

"They were all gotten up as excuses for continuous jags."—Indianapolis Journal.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? A Question of Importance—the question of prices.
We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00.

TEXAS NOT INJURED

The Big Battleship Grounded Only on a Sand Bar.

MAY BE NO COURT MARTIAL

The Machinist in Charge at the Time Admits That He Is Responsible Having Misunderstood the Signals.

Washington, Sept. 18.—The navy department has received a detailed statement from Captain Glass regarding the grounding and floating of the battleship Texas at the mouth of the harbor at Newport, R. I. According to the official report the Texas did not strike a rock, but went ashore on a sandy bottom and is apparently not injured in the least. It took four tugs to pull her off, but this work was accomplished after half an hour's steady strain. The battleship was hard and fast aground for about eight hours. It was at first supposed that she had struck upon a ledge and was fast amidships, but this was found to be a mistake by a diver who went down to inspect her hull soon after she struck. The point at which she struck was a sandy ridge between the ledges which abound in the vicinity, hence she was not punctured, nor was she badly bruised, but there was great danger that she would be strained as the tide receded, it having been about half ebb when she struck. According to the official statement the battleship settled easily into the bar as the water receded, and it is thought she suffered comparatively no damage. A thorough inspection of the hull will, however, be made and the exact condition of the vessel reported to the navy department.

Cause of the Accident.

Aside from the statement given out by the press concerning a mistake in orders in the engineer's room, Capt. Glass has nothing to say about the accident. It appears, however, that his orders were prompt and effective. When it became apparent that the Texas was fast, an attempt to use the port anchor as a lever having been found useless, tugs were at once ordered to the assistance of the helpless vessel. The Aquidneck, one of the liveliest tugboats, was alonside in thirty minutes. A few pulls at the towline proved that one small craft could do nothing towards moving the tons of steel which were imbedded in the sand. Meanwhile the tide had fallen so rapidly that the bow of the battleship was well out of the water. The only thing to be done was to wait for the next tide.

Machinist Accepts the Blame.

An examination made soon after the warship was floated and the divers reported her intact. No water had found its way into the interior and the outer hull was pronounced uninjured. The work of shipping her torpedo outfit, for which purpose she came to this port, was then begun. It is stated that there will be no need of a court martial to determine the responsibility. The machinist in charge of the reversing gear admits that the blame is his, as he misunderstood the signals.

SEIZURE OF THE THREE FRIENDS

Still Detained as a Filibuster by Orders from Washington.

Fernandina, Fla., Sept. 18.—The steamer Three Friends is still lying at quarantine station at the entrance of Cumberland sound under seizure orders from Washington. The Three Friends returned a few days ago from a successful expedition to Cuba, and since then has been at the quarantine station. Before the seizure the United States authorities learned that the vessel was preparing to slip away from the quarantine station and take another trip to Cuba before returning to Jacksonville, her home port. The Washington authorities were informed and the seizure of the steamer was ordered.

Gold Fever in Newfoundland.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 18.—Prospectors here struck several beds of gold-bearing quartz at Cape Broyle, thirty miles from St. Johns. An analysis made in England shows a yield of three ounces of gold and one ounce of silver per ton of rock. The discovery is creating great excitement. Licenses to search forty square miles of adjacent country have been obtained.

Connecticut Universalists.

Norwich, Conn., Sept. 18.—The two days' session of the sixty-fourth state convention of Universalists closed here last evening. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, W. S. Perkins, D. D., of Meriden; vice-president, Charles G. Lincoln of Hartford; secretary, Rev. E. M. Grant of Stamford; treasurer, M. M. Whittemort of Norwich.

National Silver Clubs.

Washington, Sept. 18.—A circular has been issued from headquarters changing the date and time of the national gathering of silver clubs from Chicago, September 23, to St. Louis, October 3, on which date the national association of democratic clubs will meet in the same city.

A SEA TRAGEDY.

The Startling Story of the American Barkentine Herbert Fuller.

The sea has ever been a favorable scene with romancers for desperate conspiracies and tragic crimes. This has been due to the seclusion which it offers and also, perhaps, to the traditions of piracy which hang about it. There was a time when the line of demarcation between the pirate and the peaceful mariner was not very sharply drawn, and the late Prentice Mulford, who grew up in a seafaring town and had even served on shipboard before the mast, once wrote an article maintaining that the relations which still prevail between the master and the crew of a ship are a relic of the days when all seafaring men were practically pirates. Possibly a juster explanation of the harsh treatment to which sailors are subjected would be found in the arbitrary authority which law and custom necessarily bestow upon a shipmaster, for it is almost an axiom that unrestricted power always leads to tyranny—that nothing but lack of authority prevents every man from misusing it. At all events, the reader of a sea novel expects to meet with various sorts of mysteriously dark deeds, while the reader of the marine columns of a newspaper is regaled with plenty of actual crime, albeit of a generally commonplace and uninteresting character.

The story of the American barkentine Herbert Fuller, which the newspapers have been recently telling, however, is as tragically startling as any ever related by Stevenson or Russell. The officers of a vessel have often enough been murdered by the crew, who then seized the vessel, and it has sometimes happened that some officer has joined the crew in mutinying against the captain, as in the case of the Bounty. What adds especially to the sensational features of the crime on board the Herbert Fuller is that it does not seem to be known positively who killed the captain, his wife and the second mate. The evidence against the first mate appears to rest on his supposed unwillingness to make port after the discovery of the murders. He is even suspected of having intended to turn the vessel over to the Cuban insurgents. What must have been the astonishment of the pilot on going on board to find the vessel in charge of the colored steward and a Harvard sophomore passenger, the mate in irons, and the bodies of the three murdered persons towing astern in the small boat! That last touch is characteristic. The survivors did not dare throw the bodies overboard because they were needed as evidence to protect themselves as well as to convict the guilty; their superstitious notions were appalled at the notion of keeping the bodies on board the vessel; so they compromised by towing them astern.

Undoubtedly the Herbert Fuller tragedy will form the plot of many a future sea novel. But no romancer could have afforded to invent so extraordinary a tale. He would have been laughed at on account of the inherent improbability of his incidents. The murders might have passed muster, but the Harvard student and the colored steward in their extraordinary role would have been pronounced simply impossible.—Buffalo Courier.

A MOSQUITO INVADES ENGLAND.

New Jersey's Insect's Revenge for Violation of Monroe Doctrine.

The harrowing news comes from London that a mosquito has been taken alive in Hertfordshire. A gentleman living at Barley, Royston, writes to a London paper that on a recent evening he encountered the ferocious beast in his bedchamber.

An Englishman is always brave, and it seems almost superfluous to add that the man of Barley grappled with the creature single-handed, nor stayed his hand until it was under subjection. We sometimes read of such feats of derring doe even in these degenerated days.

Next to vindicating his personal bravery, an Englishman's first duty is to write to his newspaper and tell about it. To this admirable national trait the readers of the Sunday Herald are indebted for the particulars herein set forth. The man of Barley had traveled in far countries. Among other places he had visited the famous city of New Jersey, and in the transmississippian capital had met and coped with the mosquito in its lair.

Thus he is able to identify his quarry and lay before the British public a harrowing picture of the animal's distinguishing traits.

"The specimen caught," he writes, "has every characteristic of the foreign mosquito, especially the New Jersey variety. I believe they have been brought to England with timber, for in New Jersey the logs of timber, which are usually carried down the rivers, have on them mosquito eggs gathered from the surface of the water, where they breed, and so in this manner are transported to Europe, where the sunshine hatches them, and they fly away."

It now remains only to unite the English people as one man against the invader. Hence this suggestion:

"Let every person carefully examine his bedroom window in the morning and kill them, as by so doing they would be prevented laying their eggs and breeding. Now is the time to act to prevent them spreading. They may easily be known by their resemblance to gnats, but having a long trunk or proboscis, and by making a humming noise when approaching the face or hands of a person."

Accompanying this slogan is a diagram of what has been called the business end of the mosquito, which may be used for further identification of the dreaded foe, should he be encountered unawares.—N. Y. Herald.

—One of the most remarkable things about language is the rapidity with which, under certain circumstances, it changes and under others remains almost fixed.

CLOSE CALL AT SEA

British Brig Nearly Run Down by a Big Ocean Liner.

AN EXCITING EXPERIENCE IN A FOG

The Big Monster Headed Directly for the Frail Craft—Passed Close Enough for the Frightened Sailors To Touch Her Sides.

Boston, Sept. 18.—The British brig Doris, Capt. E. G. Gerhardt, came into port last evening from Ponce, Porto Rico, after one of the most narrow escapes from being sunk by an ocean liner ever recorded. The captain says last Monday evening when eight miles to the westward of Nantucket Shoal lighthouse, during a light fog, we were suddenly apprised of the approach of a large steamer by hearing the swish of her propeller. Hardly had the sound come to us when, through the mist, we saw the big steamer approaching, headed directly for us, and apparently going to strike us amidships. I made hasty preparations for the safety of my crew, as I feared the steamer would sink us. We were standing directly in to the north-northwest with the wind so light that it could scarcely move us. On came the steamer, which we momentarily expected would doom our little craft, but as she drew near us she swerved just a little and passed by our stern so close that she carried away our patent log and left some of the paint from her bow on the log line. The steamer was the Westernland (Belg.), Capt. Mills, bound from Antwerp for New York, and as she passed close enough to touch her side we could see the excited faces of her passengers and crew peering over the side at us.

POPULISTS AND FUSION.

The People's Party Willing To Make Any Reasonable Concessions.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Senator Butler, chairman of the populist national committee, talked last evening on the general subject of fusion, during which he said that the committee was willing to make any reasonable concession in order to solidify the silver vote for Bryan. There was nothing new, he said, so far as the situation in Kansas was concerned. The terms of the fusion so far as agreed upon in Indiana, contemplated three populist electors and the committee is still in session. Mr. Butler believed this programme would be carried out. In Kentucky this was provided for two populist electors; in West Virginia, two; in Alabama, one. Nothing had been done in New York, but Mr. Butler said he would be satisfied with two electors from that state.

MR. BRYAN'S PLANS.

His Itinerary After Leaving New York on the 29th Inst.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Chairman McConville of the Bryan democratic speakers' bureau has given out the following itinerary of Mr. Byran: Leaves New York midnight of September 29; Washington, D. C., early morning of September 30; Martinsburg at 11 a. m.; Keyser at 3 p. m. October 1—Clarksburg at 10 a. m.; Parkersburg at 2 p. m.; Wheeling at midnight. October 2—Charleston at 10:30 a. m.; Huntington at 1 p. m.; to Cincinnati, taking Ohio & Mississippi train to St. Louis, where he addresses silver Democratic clubs, October 3. October 5—Memphis morning, Nashville evening.

Gold Democrats for Congress.

Philadelphia, Sept. 18.—The state committee of the new Jeffersonian (gold democratic party) held its first meeting yesterday afternoon at the hotel Walton. The committee nominated Benjamin C. Potts of Delaware county and Hay Walker, jr., of Allegheny, as the party's candidates for congressmen-at-large. Mr. Potts and John M. Braden of Washington county were nominated by the democratic state convention at Allentown as the candidates for this office, and both withdrew from the ticket when the Chicago platform was adopted.

Silver Debate at the Orange County Fair.

Newburgh, N. Y., Sept. 18.—At the Orange county fair here yesterday the silver question was discussed. Several thousand persons were present. Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. William K. Hall. Henry Austin Adams argued against free silver and William P. St. John, treasurer of the democratic national committee, advocated unlimited coinage. Each spoke one hour. Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn pronounced the benediction.

The Revolt at Manila.

Madrid, Sept. 18.—A dispatch from Manila says that a number of insurgents, who were attempting to capture a ship in the harbor of Cavite were fired upon by artillery and repelled. Several of the attacking party were killed. The artillerymen unintentionally sank several small craft that were within range of their fire.

Polish Catholics in Session.

Philadelphia, Sept. 18.—The twenty-third annual conference of the Polish-Roman Catholic union of the United States is in session here in Germania hall and will continue for three days. The organization has a membership of 9,000.

The President Finds a New Place to Fish.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., Sept. 18.—President Cleveland spent a few hours fishing in a new locality yesterday afternoon. The waters in the vicinity abound in bass, and the president enjoyed his usual good luck.

Low Renominated for Congress.

New York, Sept. 18.—The republicans of the Fifteenth district at an adjourned meeting last night renominated Philip Burrill Low for congress.

SPORTS

FRIDAY, Sept. 18. Sun rises 5:41 a. m., sets 6:08 p. m. Lanterns must be lighted between 7:08 p. m. and 4:41 a. m.

Cyclists desiring to join the League of American Wheelmen will be furnished with application blanks and necessary information by addressing the Cycling Department of the Daily Press.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Ray Dawson, one of New Jersey's speediest youngsters, expects to ride here at the Crescent Wheelmen's National circuit meet, on September 26th.

W. A. Barbeau, the crack amateur of the Riverside Wheelmen, will appear on the Crescent Oval on September 26th, when the Crescent Wheelmen will hold their National circuit meet.

William M. McCutchen, Plainfield's crack rider, will not ride in this city again this season. He is now staying at Belmar and goes to Yale the first of next week. He will probably do some riding there and is almost certain of a position on the Yale track team, as there are few riders that can hold him when he is in condition.

Tom Cooper will ride for the first time in New York at the meet of the Quill Club Wheelmen, Friday and Saturday. He has always shown most brilliantly in the West, but never before has he shown a metropolitan set of spectators what he could do. He will please them without a doubt by his clever riding.

Eddie Bald will retire for the season after the Quill Club Wheelmen's race meet Friday and Saturday. His firm called him in after the Philadelphia races Saturday, but he determined to make his last appearance for 1896 in his own State at the brilliant finale of the season's races, so he will arrive in the city today and commence active training for the big invitation event.

GOLF.

A team of eight players will represent the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Saturday in a match with the New Brunswick Golf Club on the latter's links.

Members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club spent yesterday afternoon on the golf links practicing for the game they will play on Saturday at New Brunswick.

The tournament of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, on September 26th, will be mixed foursomes. It will be held the afternoon of the formal opening of the new clubhouse at the golf links.

LAWN TENNIS.

Mulford and Miller, the two Roselle tennis cracks that won the Labor Day tournament there, have learned that they are not "in it" when the Plainfield boys are around. Thomas U. Smith and Albert P. Simmonds, of this city, went down to Roselle Wednesday afternoon and met the Roselle players on their battle ground, the Roselle Casino courts and defeated them by the following scores: 6-2, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3. Quite a crowd came to see the Plainfield boys defeated, but they were disappointed.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

The Y. M. C. A. football team turned out very well last night for practice, nearly twenty candidates being present. Among the new candidates to appear were Alex Milne, formerly guard on the Pratt's Institute eleven, Mr. Knott, Louis Darling, N. R. Titsworth and Ernest Swaze. The team will meet again for practice Saturday afternoon on the Y. M. C. A. field in football suits. A practice game will be played.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

The members of the Dunellen Gun Club are anxiously awaiting for the Independent Gun Club, of Plainfield, to respond to their challenge and decide upon a day for the return match which is to be shot in this city.

AROUND THE BASES.

One of the best ball games of the season will prabably be played tomorrow afternoon, when the P. A. C. and Y. M. C. A. teams meet. The former team beat the latter team 9 to 7 last week.

WHIST.

The "Big Four" of the Park Club will go to Orange on September 25th, and meet the team from the Orange Whist Club in a contest for the state whist trophy now held by the Orange team.

—A dance and reception will be given at "The Homestead," Fanwood, tomorrow evening. This will be the last one of the season.

—Cool weather approaching, the thought strikes you that your clothes are getting too thin for winter blasts. Well, drop into Weinberger's and he will fit you out. Look for his new ad tomorrow.

HER LOVE IS REPULSED

AND SO DORA PARSONS SUES JOHN SPRINGS FOR BREACH OF PROMISE.

The Defendant Swears He Never Promised to Marry, Because He Never Saw Anything to Admire in Dora.

The colored population of this city will turn out en masse tomorrow to hear a breach of promise case in the city court in which two well-known colored people are involved. A preliminary hearing was held this morning and the defendant, John W. Springs, was held in $200 bail to appear for trial tomorrow morning.

His accuser is Miss Dora Parsons, and she is very emphatic in her demands that Springs shall marry her at once, while he just as emphatically states that marriage is entirely out of the question. Both are employed by well known families residing on West Seventh street.

She says that he has been keeping company with her for sometime, and promised to marry her until recently, when he dropped her. Springs declares that she is in love with him and it is a deep laid plot to gain him as a husband. He claims that he has had nothing to do with her and doesn't want to, as she keeps company with Italians.

She made the complaint and he was arrested last night by Chief Grant and then locked up for the hearing this morning. Each side is very certain of proving the truth of their claim and the trial promises to be a lively one.

THEY WANT THE TROLLEY.

Scotch Plains Anxious for the Electric Road to Be Extended.

A canvass of some of the leading residents and property owners of Scotch Plains was made yesterday, and the result was that nine-tenths of them favor the extension of the trolley road through there. But one merchant was decidedly against it, and he openly admitted that in the end it might be a good thing for the town. Nearly all of those interviewed admitted that the introduction of the trolley through the town would advance the valuation of property and help build up the isolated place. One prominent merchant said the place has remained in its present lethargic state for a half century or more, and that the people were now on the eve of resurrection. Said he, "By all means let the trolley and the people come."

The Band Concert and Ball.

Prof Guttman's cornet band concert and ball in the Jersey Cycle Academy last evening was a pronounced success, both from a financial and social point of view. Upwards of 300 people were on the floor during the evening, and when the twenty-five members of Franklin Hose Company, of Rahway, marched into the spacious hall and around the dancing surface, they and their attaactive uniforms were much admired. Leader Guttman in a few well-selected words welcomed the the guests from the band stand, after which the visitors circulated among the crowd and made themselves at home. Dancing was continued until an early hour this morning, when the Rahway boys departed for home.

Fined on One Charge.

Samuel Conway and John Taylor, both colored, were arraigned for trial this morning before Justice Newcorn and Justice Clark of Scotch Plains. The complainant was Joseph Carbone, the fruit dealer, and the charge was stealing fruit. Conway was found guilty and was fined $7.50, while Taylor was found not guilty and was discharged.

Later, Samuel Conway appeared before Justice Newcorn, charged by Maria Staten, with grand larceny. She claimed he stole from her two gold watches, a silver watch and a revolver, but as the evidence was not sufficient the defendant was discharged. Lawyer Murphy represented the defendants in each case.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Randolph, of Elmwood place, entertained a few relatives at their home last evening.

Mrs. John Manley soprano soloist, who is to sing at the Y. M. C. meeting Sunday afternoon, was formally soprano at the First Reformed church in New Brunswick.

should favor it. When disorder prevails, business languishes. If there is one thing in the life of Grover Cleveland that deserves a debt of gratitude, it is when he reached out and grasped Debs and his followers who were trying to overthrow society, and said 'you cannot do this thing'."

Loud applause followed the close of Mr. Gilbert's remarks. Mr. Fisk then stated that Mr. Gilbert was prepared to answer any questions, politically, which those present desired to ask. There were only two or three questions asked regarding the Bland dollar, as to the number coined, and its relation with the present silver dollar, and these questions were given satisfactory answers. Stephen A. Krom was then introduced and for a short time gave a clear and concise talk regarding the tariff. At times he was exceedingly witty and this, together with the pointed truths presented, won for him shouts of laughter and hearty applause. After Mr. Fisk announced that John Moody would make an address in the rooms Saturday evening on the subject "Why a Democrat should oppose Bryan," the crowd, at Mr Fisk's suggestion, gave three cheers for McKinley and Hobart, after which the meeting adjourned.

WAR REGIMENT REUNIONS.

The Ninth in Jersey City and the Thirteenth in Somerville.

The eleventh annual reunion of the Ninth Regiment of New Jersey Volunteers was held yesterday in the rooms of Zabriskie Grand Army Post in the Avenue House, West Newark avenue, Jersey City. About one hundred veterans were present. They were met at the Pennsylvania station at 11 a. m. by Zabriskie Post, Mayor Wanser, Sheriff Toffey and a band. The veterans marched to the Avenue House, escorted by Zabriskie Post and the Mayor and Sheriff and other guests in carriages.

John A. Blair presided at the banquet. Toasts were responded to by General James Stewart jr. of Newark; Mayor Wanser, Senator W. D. Daly, G. F. Sutherland, Flavel McGee, Alderman William H. Vermilye, Congressman Thomas McEwan, jr., Counsellor William M. Dougherty, Major Thomas B. Applegate. Gen. James Stewart was elected President.

The survivors of the Thirtieth New Jersey Regiment Veterans held a reunion in Somerville yesterday. The town was liberally decorated with flags and the soldiers were given a cordial greeting. In Germania Hall a luncheon was served. The address was delivered by Gen. James F. Rusling, of Trenton. James J. Beyers made the address of welcome. Members of the regiment responded.

Eighth District Democratic Convention

Under and by virtue of the power and authority vested in the undersigned by a resolution adopted at the last Congressional Convention, we have fixed upon Thursday, October 1, 1896, at 2:30 o'clock p. m. as the time, and Zouave Armory Building, Elizabeth, Union County, New Jersey, as the place for the holding of the Democratic Convention of the Eighth Congressional District of the State of New Jersey, for the selection of a candidate to represent the said District in Congress.

The basis of representation fixed by the committee under said resolution is one (1) delegate for over one hundred (100) votes cast at the last Gubernatorial election and one delegate for every fraction over fifty. Townships and boroughs in the District that have been formed since that election shall be entitled to at least one delegate each.

The number of delegates to be selected from the various wards of Plainfield is as follows:

First Ward	2
Second "	2
Fourth "	3

The appropriate committees in each county will fix the time and place for holding the primaries for the selection of the above number of delegates.

A HEARTY WELCOME.

REV. AND MRS. H. J. JOHNSON RECEIVED BY THE CHURCH MEMBERS.

With Pleasant Greetings and Congratulations the Event Was Made a Happy End of the Honeymoon.—Church Decorated.

A newly-wedded couple could not wish for a more delightful reception than the one given to the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Johnston, by the members of Grace M. E. church, last evening. The cozy church was made beautiful by the arrangement of choice flowers, and when Mr. and Mrs. Johnston arrived at the church direct from their honeymoon, a large assemblage of people were present to greet them and give them a right royal reception. Dr. H. K. Carroll and Mrs. Valiant were delegated to receive them and they performed their part with dignity and grace. As they entered the church from the study-room door, hearty applause greeted them, and they acknowledged the same gracefully. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston were assisted in receiving by Dr. Carroll and Mrs. Valiant, and as each one met the pastor and his bride there was clear evidence of unity on the part of all. The pastor is a favorite and the manner in which his better-half was received, showed the sociability of the congregation.

After all had met the bride and groom, Superintendent John Valiant, of the Sunday-school, took charge of a short programme and announced as the first number a piano solo by Miss Conroy. A vocal solo by Miss Grace Carroll followed. The music was interspersed with a reading by Mrs. A. A. Taft. Miss Alice Carroll sang a solo, and another reading by Mrs. Taft and a piano solo by Miss Conroy brought the programme to a close. The rest of the evening was given up to sociability, and refreshments, served by the Ladies' Aid Society, was an additional pleasure.

The reception throughout was complete and there can be no doubt in the minds of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston but that the members of the church and congregation were a unit in welcoming them home. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will reside at 19 Craig place.

HORSE TOOK TO THE SIDEWALK.

Wagons Collide on Park Avenue and a Runaway Results.

Thomas Quinn, the young law student in Judge DeMeza's office, had a thrilling runaway accident about 7 o'clock last evening, but very fortunately he escaped with only some cuts on one hand and bruises about the legs and body.

Tom had started to drive to his home on Park avenue, near the race track, in a cart, and when he was nearing Seventh street three wagons almost blocked the roadway in front of him. He attempted to pass between them when a fast driver coming unnoticed from the opposite direction came in collision with the cart. The result was that the cart was upset and Tom thrown out. The horse then took to the sidewalk and ran past the Revere House at breakneck speed to a vacant lot near Cedar brook, where he came to a stand. The harness was but slightly injured and the only damage to the cart, outside of defacing the paint, was a broken crossbar.

It seems almost miraculous that a runaway could take place on the usually much-used sidewalk without serious or perhaps fatal injury to pedestrians.

Breach of Promise Case Postponed.

The city court room was crowded this morning with those who expected to hear something sensational in the breach of promise case against John W. Springs. The defendant was in court, and a good looking young man he is, too, but all the witnesses were not present and Miss Parson's lawyer, Assemblyman Charles A. Reed, asked for an adjournment. The crowd murmured a protest but nevertheless Judge DeMeza adjourned the case until next Friday and the crowd was disappointed. Ex-Councilman W. L. Hetfield represented Srings. Springs was held in $200 bail for trial.

Fell Sixteen Feet.

William H. Addis, of the plumbing firm of Addis and Son of this city, met with a painful accident while at work putting in ventilator pipes, in the house at No. 61 West Third street, yesterday afternoon. He was working on the top rung of a sixteen foot ladder, when the ladder collapsed, throwing him to the ground. He came within an ace of being implaed on a picket fence, but he escaped with severe bruises about the body and a deep cut over the right eye.

Theories of cure may be discussed at length by physicians, but the sufferers want quick relief; and One Minute Cough Cure will give it to them. A safe cure for children. It is "the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results." For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

TROLLEY KINGS HERE.

THE TRUNK LINE BETWEEN NEW YORK & PHILADELPHIA ASSURED.

Some Opposition Found at Bound Brook Where It Was Intended to Use a Bridge—Against Using the County Road.

The Philadelphia capitalists who are at the head of the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, and propose to build and control a system of electric railways between Jersey City and Philadelphia, were in this section, yesterday, looking over the route which it is proposed to utilize in maturing their plant. The following were the Philadelphians in the party: George S. Canby, J. H. W. Chestink, S. B. Vrooman, A. H. Hulshizer, N. B. Cox, E. B. Ives, A. H. Egsgoen, L. E. Miller, J. B. McAfee and Morris Rando. They were accompanied by J. Darrah, of Trenton, who is acting as their counsel, and who was originally associated with ex-Mayor Frank McGowan, of Trenton, in the Jersey Traction Company.

They came to Somerville in the morning where they investigated the partially completed road between that place and Raritan. Then they journeyed along the proposed route between Somerville and Bound Brook. At the latter place they encountered a feeling of considerable opposition. Here it was proposed to utilize the bridge over Bound brook for the branch road to New Brunswick, but as the structure was built by the property owners and Somerset county jointly, there is opposition that will probably prevent the consummation of such a plan. Silas D. Drake, who controls considerable real estate in that section, promised the capitalists that he would get the right of way for them if they needed to build a bridge of their own in that vicinity.

Another drawback was found in the sentiment against their using the county road between Bound Brook and Somerville, which the Board of Freeholders have recently ordered to be macadamized. But the railway people claim that they secured sufficient permits for the use of the road before the order of the Freeholders was issued, and they will undoubtedly make a fight to build over the road.

Their principal mission to that vicinity, however, was to select the location for a power house. Two or three sites were proposed and they were taken under consideration, with the probality that the power house will be built between Dunellen and Bound Brook.

Returning to Bound Brook they rode over the route to New Brunswick. It is calculated to build a branch road from Bound Brook to the Middlesex county seat. In the afternoon they came to this city and made an inspection of the street railway system, which is to form a part of the through line between Jersey City and Philadelphia. They were greatly pleased with the condition and management of the local road.

Later in the afternoon they were driven over the route proposed for a road between this city and Elizabeth. They stated that contractors were under $50,000 bonds to start work on the road before the first of October.

SOME TOPICS TO BE TALKED ABOUT.

Dr. Moody Will Tell How to Reach Those Who Do Not Go to Church.

The Christian Endeavor convention is almost here. The programme committee are still perfecting arrangements for the carrying out in full of the official programme. The subject of Mr. Moody's address to the Endeavorers Thursday morning will be "How Endeavorers Can Reach Those Who Do Not Go To Church." At the afternoon session, they will have the pleasure of listening to Rev. Cortlandt Myers, D. D., of Brooklyn, upon the subject, "The King's Business." Rev. A. C. Dixon, D. D., of Brooklyn, will speak at the evening session. The United Society of Christian Endeavor will be represented by Amos R. Wells, otherwise known as "Caleb Cobweb," who will deliver an address Friday morning upon "Throughout my Whole Life." The Presbyterian rally to be held in the afternoon in the Crescent Avenue church will be led by Rev. A. W. Studdiford, a former pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of this city. On Friday evening, the last session or consecration service will be duplicated in one of the churches. At this service, Dr. Jones, of Bergen Point, will preside, the sermon will be preached by Dr. Riggs, of New Brunswick, and Rev. Ford C. Ottman, will conduct the final consecration service.

There will be sunrise prayer meetings on Thusday and Friday mornings, the first to be held in Trinity Reformed church, the second in the Seventh Day Baptist church.

THE HOSPITAL SAYS NO.

THEY WILL NOT SHARE THE PROFITS OF THE POULTRY SHOW.

Board of Directors Do Not Want to Bring the Institution Before the Public Too Often as Appealing for Charity.

In a few days the committee from the Garden State Pigeon and Poultry Association, who are arranging for the annual exhibition to be held in the Cycle Academy, December 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th, will meet in this city and consider several important matters in relation to the exhibition.

Early in the summer, when Plainfield was chosen as the place for holding the affair, a proposition was made by the association that they would give unreservedly one-half of the net proceeds to the local hospital. The proposition was left in the hands of J. L. Wiseman, and he presented the same to the Board of Governors of the Hospital. Last Monday evening the decision of the board was received and they declined the offer with thanks. The reason given for this action is that they do not care to bring the hospital too often before the public for assistance. For this reason the committee will meet in Plainfield soon. There seems to be no doubt but that the exhibition will be held here, and it gives promise of being one of the largest and best ever held. So far the entries have exceeded those of any previous year. The affair is not a money-making scheme, and in view of this fact they desired to give the hospital one-half of the proceeds. The object of the association is to provide a plan whereby the raisers of pigeons and fowls may exhibit them to good advantage.

AN EXCELLENT SHOWING.

Building and Loan Association in a Flourishing Condition.

The Plainfield Building and Loan Association, by its semi-annual statement, made on the fifteenth instant, is shown to be in a flourishing condition. The first series matured last March, and the stockholders received their money.

The second series makes a splendid showing. It has been running 109 months, and shows each share upon which $109 has been paid is worth on the books of the association $171 94 at this rate the shares will mature in less than ten and one-half years. Very few, if any, building and loan associations in this State can equal this.

The third series shows that each $72 full-paid share is worth on the books $104 58. The fourth and fifth series also make a good showing.

Careful and conservative action on the part of this association has largely contributed to its success. All the loans are made on property in Plainfield and vicinity.

The officers of the association are President, L. E. Barkalew; vice-president, H. Liefke; secretary, B. F. Coriell; treasurer, W. R. Codington.

The directors are: A. L. Force, John Hickey, E. W. Titsworth, W. A. Woodruff, L. E. Barkalew, B. F. Coriell, Louis Kline, J. Flannery, H. Liefke, J. P. Homan, Jacob Voehl and W. R. Codington.

Columbia Lodge Officers.

Columbia Lodge, 58, A. O. U. W. held a regular meeting last evening in Exempt Firemen's hall, where the usual routine of business was conducted. After the meeting was adjourned twenty-five members united to form a conclave of Magulians, and the following officers were elected Past Magul, Wm. J. Ford; Worthy Magul, G.T. Dunham; Senior Magul, C. H. Randolph; Junior Magul, Robt Meeker; Quill Driver, Peter A. Van Fleet; Cash Grabber, Henry Liefke, Worthy Soup, William A. Woodruff; Inside Snoozer, J. W. A. Bauersachs; Outside Snoozer, William Demarest.

Fractured His Arm.

Malcolm Barnes, a young lad living on Norwood avenue, the son of B. T. Barnes, met with a serious accident while exercising at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium this morning. In company with a number of others he was exercising on the German horse when he slipped and fell on his arm, fracturing the radius. He was taken to Dr. D. C. Adams, of Grove street, who set the broken limb.

A Successful Start.

A quarteet composed of W. E. MacClymont, Robert Clark, Jr., B. T. Barnes and Herbert Schutt, recently organized for the purpose of giving concerts frequently, appeared for the first last evening at one of the principal towns on Long Island.

The concert was a great success and the members of the quartette feel much encouraged in their new undertaking.

Ex-Chief Grenwald, of the New Brunswick fire department, was the guest yesterday of Acting Chief James Martin, of this city.

NEW MUSIC HALL LESSEE

GEORGE E. ROGERS SUCCEEDS THE FIRM OF RICH & MAEDER.

Wm. M. Stillman, Owner of the House, Says That the Latter Violated Their Contract—Dispossessed Them Yesterday.

William M. Stillman, owner of Music Hall, yesterday dispossessed Messrs. Rich & Maeder as lessees of the building, and immediately thereafter leased the hall to George E. Rogers, the well-known musician who conducted the orchestra in the house during the last season.

Mr. Stillman says that Rich & Maeder have violated their contract with him in two ways—one being in the payment of the rent due for the house and the other in the presentation of the "White Crook" at the theatre last week, which was a performance that is explicitly forbid in the contract under which they rented the house. Mr. Stillman is opposed to the production of burlesque shows in the house.

Accompanied by his lawyer, Craig A. Marsh, Mr. Stillman yesterday made a demand on Ball & Willey, the local managers for Rich & Maeder, for the keys of the house and they secured possession after some formalities were gone through with.

Mr. Rogers, the new lessee, will continue Ball & Willey as the local managers and it is probable that there will be no change in the bookings already made, as the contracts will be renewed by Mr. Rogers.

MYERS WAS ROUGHLY TREATED.

And Now His Alleged Assailants Will Have to Explain.

Louis Wilson, Daniel Kiely, William Barry and William Sheridan were arraigned before Judge DeMeza, this morning on the charge of being disorderly on Liberty street.

The complainant, Isaac Meyers, said that he was coming out of a little shoemaker's shop on that street when they stopped him, threw him down and beat him. They took away the pair of shoes that he was carrying, so he says, and also carried away his hat. He has not recovered the articles yet.

He also said that they told him it would be the worse for him if he made any complaint to the police.

The defendants appeared in court and they did not look the most tempting.

As Meyers' witnesses were not present, the trial was set down for next Saturday morning.

The police are of the opinion that the prisoners are members of an organized gang of toughs. They were all young men, apparently about eighteen or twenty years old.

Something to Think Of.

According to statistics there are more than two million glass eyes made annually in Germany and Switzerland. An artificial eye seldom lasts more than five years, but the natural eye will last a lifetime if properly cared for. Remember this, and submit your eyes to an expert examination at once and ascertain their true condition. All examinations free at Collier's, 103 Park avenue.

Suddenly Became Speechless.

Mrs M Schoettlin, wife of Assistant Superintendent Schoettlin of the Prudential Insurance Company, of Linden avenue, became suddenly speechless on Wednesday evening last. She went to her room at the usual hour of retiring, and a few moments after felt faint. She turned pale and fell to the floor speechless. She has been in this state ever since. Dr. Carman is in attendance.

Wonderful Catches of Fish.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. McClure and Miss McClure, of Crescent avenue, returned last night from Montreal. Mr. McClure has been staying at the preserves of the Megantic Fish and Game Corporation, of which he is vice-president. The preserves are located on the border line of Canada and Maine. He has made some wonderful catches of fish.

Cider Wagon Breaks Down.

Snyder's cider wagon came to grief on West Front street near the terminus of the street railway last night. In avoiding a car the wagon was driven into the ditch and the wheel gave way upsetting the kegs of cider. The wagon was finally jacked up and a new wheel put on,

An Incipient Blaze.

A small hole was burned in the Park avenue awning at Armstrong's pharmacy this morning. The fire was caused by a lighted cigarette being thrown out of a window above. Chas. Hall, of the drug store, quickly extinguished the fire with a moist sponge.

HOUSES SOLD FOR A SONG

BUILDING ON THE LINE OF WATCHUNG AVENUE SOLD AT AUCTION.

The Sale Largely Attended and Some Spirited Bidding for the Condemned Property Resulted—One Sold For $1,040.

An additional evidence that Watchung avenue is soon to be opened, is the fact that the borough disposed of their property along the proposed avenue yesterday and the same must be taken off of the line by October 15th, or else the purchasers will lose all rights and privileges. The conditions of the sale were that twenty-five per cent of the cost had to be paid yesterday, September 26th, and each purchaser signed a contract to that effect. There was a large crowd present who manifested considerable interest. The auctioneer was Wm. N. Pangborn and Borough Clerk J. K. Arnold served as clerk.

The first house sold was the one owned by Thomas McDonald on Pearl street. It was purchased by Messrs, Derlach for $80. N. B. Smalley secured Charles Taynor's house on Chatham street, for $11, and sold it at once to Harriet Richardson.

Harriet Richardson's home on Race street was purchased by Messrs. Derlach for $70. The Mason house, corner of Warren and Race streets, was sold for $285 and was bought by Richard Boyce. The place at the corner of Warren street and Manning avenue, known as the Clare house, brought $210, and was secured by Lewis Bird. The next place sold was the Messerschmidt house. On this property there was lively bidding, but Mr. Messerschmidt finally purchased it for $1,040. Samuel Titus purchased Lewis Bird's barn for $19. Several outhouses, fences, etc., were sold for a mere song. In all the sale will realize about $1,800. Some of the property purchased will be torn down and used for firewood, while the other houses will be moved on land owned by the purchasers. The work on the avenue will now be started very soon by Contractor Bowden, and before real cold weather arrives it is probable that the avenue will be opened.

VALUABLE HORSE KILLED.

Run Into on the Road and Later Dropped Dead in His Tracks.

A serious accident occurred last evening near Scotch Plains, when Edward Vail, of Elmwood place, lost a valuable horse. The animal was being driven by "Ten" Overbaugh, who was on his way to the Plains.

A man named Frazee, living at Scotch Plains, was driving in the opposite direction. He was on the wrong side of the road and through careless driving, ran into Mr. Vail's rig. One shaft penetrated the breast of the latter's horse several inches. The accident caused considerable excitement and it was a miracle that the result was not more serious. Mr. Overbaugh did not continue his trip, but returned home. He drove the injured horse, and when he reached Second and Liberty streets, the animal dropped dead in the road.

This morning Mr. Vail brought action against Mr. Frazee fo for $200 damages, and secured the services of Judge DeMeza to fight the case.

TO PAINT A LIFE SIZE PORTRAIT.

Col. Julian Scott Highly Honored by the Bar of Vermont.

The members of Chittenden county bar of Vermont have taken action with regard to procuring a life size portrait in oil of Judge Russel F. Taft, of the Supreme Court of that state, and Colonel Julian Scott of this city yesterday received an order to do the work. The Colonel, who originally came from Vermont, has been a life long and personal friend of Judge Taft, and the Colonel feels hightly honored because he has been selected to execute the difficult workmanship. A recent issue of a Vermont paper devotes considerable space in alluding to the matter, and ends by saying that "the legal profession is united in the respect and esteem of which the portrait will be an expression." Judge Taft will arrive in town in a day or two to take the first sitting.

Didn't Want to Go to Jail.

Joseph Miller, an employe in the North Plainfield brick yard, was arrested by Marshal Hansen on Greenbrook road late last night. Miller was very much under the weather and his language was anything but nice. He resisted the officer ahd objected seriously to being arrested. Chief Wilson happened along and the two officers succeeded in taking him to the lockup. A lively time followed, for Miller again objected to being searched and he made a desperate fight. This morning he was arraigned before Justice Crosley and was fined $7. He paid the fine and was released.

—A thunder storm passed over this section early this morning.

THE VISITING KNIGHTS.

COMMANDERIES THAT WILL BE HERE ON THE FIELD DAY.

The Parade Will Be Reviewed From a Stand at the Corner of Madison avenue and Front St.—Arch to be Built.

The magnitude of the Knight Templar's state field day which is to be held in this city on Thursday, October 1, is not appreciated by many of the citizens. There are now almost two thousand Sir Knights in this State and almost all will turn out to take part in the parade, the line of march for which has already been published in the Daily Press. Then these Sir Knights will, most of them, bring their families and then all the neighboring towns will send a crowd to witness the parade and drill.

At present there are sixteen commanderies in the State, distributed as follows: Hugh de Payens Commandery, No. 1, at Jersey City; Helena Commandery, No. 3, at Burlington; Palestine Commandery, No. 4; at Trenton; Damascus Commandery No. 5, at Newark; De Molery Commandery No. 6, at Washington; Cycrene Commandery, No. 7, at Camden; St. Johns Commandery, No. 9, at Elizabeth; Olivet Commandery, No. 10, at Millville; Ivanhoe Commandery, No. 11, at Bordentown; Odo de St. Amard Commandery, No. 12, at Morristown; Melita Commandery, No. 13, at Patterson; St. Elmo Commandory, No. 14, at Lambertville; Corson Commandery, No. 15, at Asbury Park; Pilgrim Commandery, No. 16, at Hoboken; Trinity Commandery, No. 17, at Plainfield; Temple Commandery, No. 18, at Metuchen.

The parade is to be reviewed by the grand officers from a reviewing stand which is to be erected in the vacant lot at the corner of West Front street and Madison avenue. A large banner will be stretched across West Front street, opposite the Babcock building, stating that the headquarters of the Trinity Commandery are located in that building and welcoming the visitors. As has already been told, there will be an arch across Park avenue, near Front street.

MAN OF THE SOUTH BY ADOPTION.

A Former Plainfielder's Property in the Cracker State.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Murphy, of Waycross, Ga., arrived in town last evening, and remained over night with Mr. Murphy's sister, Mrs. Geo. Whitlock, of West Second street. This morning they went to Peapack where they will remain for a few weeks with relatives there. Mr. Murphy was formally associated with Mr. Brewster here in the building and real estate business, under the firm name of Murphy and Brewster. Some 17 years ago he located at Waycrosse, and never but once since then has he seen snow, and that was two years ago. He is president of the Waycross National Bank and holds several other important offices there.

Last year Mr. Murphy purchased 1,700 acres of land, most of which is timber and this he is cutting off and converting into building material. While he has become acclimated and has become accustomed to the ways of the southern people, he says the average Yankee would starve to death there. The winters, he declares, are delightfully pleasant and before leaving he conferred with several real estate agents with reference to establishing a winter colony there.

ALMOST DRAGGED TO DEATH.

Fred. J. Pope Tries to Board a Moving Train With Dangerous Results.

Fred J. Pope, of North avenue, narrowly escaped being crushed to death by a Jersey Central train yesterday afternoon. He was coming from Newark and was standing in the Elizabeth station when the express which leaves New York at 4:30 o'clock went through at a comparatively slow rate of speed. Pope ran along side and tried to jump aboard. He grasped the hand rail but the train was going too fast and he was dragged. His body swung around and struck the side. He clung fast to the rail and finally managed to pull himself aboard. Everybody at the station expected to see him crushed under the wheels. His powerful grip was all that saved him.

Somewhat Changed Now.

Ex-Chief Marshal Wm. N. Pangborn was just twenty years old when he came out of the army after serving his time. Previous to the time he enlisted he had his picture taken and while in the service he had another taken. A few days ago he was looking for some valuables and he happened to run across the above photographs. Considering the circumstances under which they were taken he prizes them highly, though to look at Mr. Pangborn now one would not believe that the photos were meant to represent him.

TURKISH SITUATION

An Italian Squadron To Hasten to the Levant.

GRAND VIZIER WANTS TO RESIGN

Demands the Dismissal of the Minister of Police, Whose Butcheries the Sultan Sanctions---Alleged Armenian Plot Discovered.

London, Sept. 19.—A dispatch received here from Rome says that Vice-Admiral Canevaro, with the flying squadron, will leave for the Levant at the earliest possible moment. A Constantinople dispatch to the Morning Post says: "The grand vizier, Halil Rifat Pasha, threatens to resign unless the minister of police is dismissed, on account of the recent massacres. The sultan upholds the minister of police and refuses to accept the resignation of the grand vizier." An editorial in the Daily News (Liberal), commenting upon the semi-official statement issued by the government with regard to its policy in Turkey, saying that it cannot act alone in defense of the Armenians, says: "It will be a bitter disappointment for everybody, but the country must persevere. The true business of the government is, not to force the Dardanelles, but to force a concert of the powers to its own righteous and honorable end."

Excuse for England's Nonaction.

An editoral in the Times, after remarking that "for the present the indignation against the Turk is confined to England and the United States, which abstains from all intervention in European questions," calls attention to a remarkable letter of Lord Hugh Cecil, the Marquis of Salisbury's son, as an indication of the views of Lord Salisbury and the cabinet. Lord Hugh said in this letter that it would be dangerously misleading the Armenians for England to make them believe that she alone could save them. The Times also calls attention to "the notorious fact that Russia will not tolerate any coercion of Turkey," and appeals to the country to consider well the risks it will run in an agitation for action on the part of England. The Times continues, saying: "The government may be relied upon to do all that prudence and the means at her command will allow. But it is useless to spur a willing horse, and it may be fatal to both horse and rider to spur him at an impossible fence."

Too Many European Interests at Stake.

A dispatch from Constantinople to the Times emphasizes the fact of the paralysis of the trade there and the jeopardy of £400,000,000 of European capital engaged in enterprises in Turkey. Dispatches from Berlin, Vienna and St. Petersburg to the Times reproduce semi-official articles given out at those capitals showing that the powers are not disposed to assist in any coercion of Turkey.

Alleged Discovery of an Armenian Plot.

Constantinople, Sept. 19.—The police announce that they have made an important discovery of bombs and other explosives and incriminating documents in an Armenian house in Scutari. Two of the leaders and many of the members of the Armenian committee have been arrested in connection with the discovery, and have confessed their guilt. They have also denounced many of their accomplices to the police. The police have a hope of being soon able to unearth the whole plot. The British Mediterranean squadron is expected to arrive at the island of Lemnos to-day. Active preparations for sea duty are proceeding among the vessels composing the Russian Black Sea squadron. An official communication prohibits meetings of foreigners, and says that all foreigners who do not enjoy the confidence of the government will be expelled.

Under Russia's Wing.

Vienna, Sept. 19.—The Neue Freie Presse says that the inspection of the forts of the Dardanelles by a Russian general is the sultan's reply to England's effort to force him to abdicate, and that it is also the response of Russia, which has taken the sultan under its protection, to England's menace.

Desperate Fight with Students.

Athens, Sept. 19.—A dispatch from Constantinople states that a number of softas (theological students) and members of the young Turkey party had a desperate fight in Galata on Wednesday. Fifteen of the combatants were killed. The dispatch adds that many of the archives of the British embassy have been placed for safety on the British guardship in the Bosphorus.

Rosebery's Alarming Views.

London, Sept. 19.—Ex-Prime Minister Rosebery, writing to one of his supporters in Yorkshire, says: "We are face to face with Russia's declaration of August, 1895, that she would oppose separate action on the Turkish question by any power. Russia's attitude has not been modified. Going forward alone would therefore involve a European war." The Russian ambassador paid a long visit to the foreign office last evening.

Mr. Gladstone's Hope of the Czar.

London, Sept. 19.—A letter from Mr. Gladstone with reference to the proposed memorial to the czar has been published. In it he expresses the hope that the heart and mind of the czar may be awakened to the "fearful mischiefs" which the policy of the late Russian minister for foreign affairs, Prince Lobanoff-Rostovsky, "has done so much to promote."

New Pacing Record.

Boston, Sept. 19.—In the free-for-all race at Mystic park yesterday Star Pointer won the first heat, making a world's record for half mile and breaking the New England record for a mile. The half mile was done in 0:59¾, and the mile in 2:02¼.

DEPOSITORS NOT EXCITED.

A Belief That the Failed Hollidaysburg Bank Will Eventually Settle in Full.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Sept. 19.—The failure yesterday of the private bank owned by Gardiner, Morrow & Co., one of the oldest institutions of the kind in central Pennsylvania, has not caused the excitement that was expected after the news of the failure became generally circulated. It is the belief that depositors will eventually be paid in full. The bank was established in Hollidaysburg in 1850. The senior member of the firm, ex-judge James Gardiner, died a few years ago. The deed of assignment was executed by Col. William Jack and Anthony S. Morrow, who are surviving partners. The bank was rated at $300,000. Ex-judge A. S. Landis, attorney for the bank, claims that the depositors will be paid dollar for dollar. Thomas H. Suckling, clothier; Henry L. Bunker, meat market; Charles E. Reed, grocer, three prominent merchants here who are debtors to the Gardiner, Morrow & Co. bank, have failed. These stores were closed on executions for $25,000. The following notice, posted on the door of the bank, is the only direct information the depositors have so far received concerning the failure: "Owing to the general depression in business, the manifest impossibility of making collections, and with a view to affording the most ample protection to all of our creditors, we have deemed it proper to close our doors and to suspend business. We have made an assignment to John Cree for the benefit of our creditors, and with the time and opportunity thus afforded to convert our assets we hope and expect to pay our creditors every dollar of indebtedness. We ask the patience and indulgence of all depositors and the work of liquidation will be commenced at once."

BROOKLYN'S SILVER SERVICE.

A Magnificent Present for the Cruiser Just Completed.

Sag Harbor, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The magnificent silver service for the cruiser Brooklyn, which the Alvin Manufacturing company of this place has been making for several months past, has just been completed and placed on exhibition at Masonic hall. The following delegation from Brooklyn came down by special car yesterday afternoon to view the work: Mayor Wurster, Mrs. and Miss Wurster, Col. C. A. Price, congressman Charles J. Bennett, Messrs. William Berri and wife, Henry W. Maxwell and others. The service consists of over 300 pieces. The larger pieces bearing engravings of the old frigate Brooklyn as well as the new cruiser. The Brooklyn people were enthusiastic in their admiration. The designer of the service is Daniel Loeser; the chief moulder, Ernest Vatie, and the chief modeller, P. C. De La Hersche. The set will be on exhibition in Maiden lane, New York, next week.

Non-Partisan Welcome to W. F. Porter.

Watertown, N. Y., Sept. 19.—A non-partisan welcome and serenade was given to Hon. Wilbur F. Porter last evening by a large crowd of citizens of Watertown. Speeches were made by Watson M. Rogers, one of the leading republican lawyers of this section, and ex-county judge Henry Purcell, one of the leading sound money democrats. Judge Porter also spoke in appreciation of the compliment.

Washed Overboard and Drowned.

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—Capt. Brun of the Norwegian steamer Leon was washed overboard and drowned on September 6 while the steamer was in the midst of a terrible hurricane near the Bahama Islands. Capt. Brun attempted to reach the bridge when a huge wave struck the steamer and he was thrown into the sea. Chief Officer Inaldson brought the Leon to this port.

Miss Hobart's Debut on the Stage.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Miss Margot Hobart, a niece of the Hon. Garret A. Hobart, the republican candidate for vice-president, made her debut in the theatrical profession with Charles E. Blaney's "A Boy Wanted" company playing at the Grand Opera house here last night. Miss Hobart made a pronounced hit in the small part assigned her.

Imitating the Workingman.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 19.—Justice Sir James Winter of the Newfoundland supreme court, who is now on his way to London on leave of absence, intends resigning his seat on the bench when he returns, owing to a reduction in his salary under last year's retrenchment bill. The announcement excites much interest in the colony.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

—Within the limits of the United States, in 1801, there were 5,250,000 English-speaking people. Now there are 70,000,000.

—The Aztec language, in use in Mexico at the discovery of America, lacked the sounds indicated by our letters b, d, f, g, r, i, j and v.

—After January 1, 1897, the city of Glasgow, Scotland, will levy no taxes of any kind, but will obtain from city street railways, water and lighting systems more than enough revenue to pay the expenses of the city government.

—In 1801 there were only 280,000 persons in the limits of the United States who spoke German as a mother tongue; now there are 7,000,000 of our people, Germans or descendants of Germans, read and speak that language.

—The feature of the forthcoming annual report of the Pennsylvania fish commissioners for 1896 will be a lengthy article on the mountain lakes of the state, with nearly 100 illustrations in half tone and green and sixteen colored engravings of food fishes.

"Marmaduke," in London Truth, asks if it is not time that the custom of burying murderers in unconsecrated ground should cease? "When the criminal has paid the extreme penalty of the law, it is ludicrous for the state to pretend that it can in any way affect him in the next world; whilst, even if it were in its power, it would be abominable to do so."

—On a proposition that he could walk a hundred yards faster than any bicycle could make the distance, a swindler, who said he was walking from New to San Francisco, induced a crowd to go to a race track, paying an admission fee, at Jackson, Miss., and when a boy on a wheel easily beat him he grabbed the gate receipts, jumped into a hack in which were three women, and got away before the people could get hands on him.

Diminutive Augurs.

Lieut. Derby, who wrote the "Squibob Papers," at one time had his headquarters next to Gen. Augur's. Augur had a number of children, and sometimes they made a good deal of noise. One night the children were making considerable noise, when there came a tremendous pounding on the partition, and Derby called out: "Augur! Augur! I wish you'd make those gimlets of yours keep quiet!"

Women

Who are nervous, weak, worn out with local troubles find pure blood, nerve strength, and perfect health in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

force—those special physical trials we delicately indicate by merely using the words—Maid, Mother, Matron.

Like a confidential friend we suggest the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, a reliable blood purifier and tonic; it has helped many others and will help you.

"I was in poor health five years, broken down in strength, and appetite all gone. Local troubles and other weaknesses intensified my misery. Nervous sick

Out in the rain

A good drenching in a cold rain is often the beginning of consumption. Yet no one claims that the germs of this disease exist in the rainwater. Then how was this brought about? The exposure was followed by a cold; the vitality was lowered; the cough continued for some weeks; the throat and lungs became congested; and thus all the conditions were favorable for the consumption germs.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, does not directly attack these germs and kill them. But it does tone up the whole system and restores the body to health before serious harm is done. The germs of consumption thrive best when the system is weakened and the throat and lungs congested. Do not delay until it is too late, but treat your cough early. Cod-liver oil and the hypophosphites, in the form of Scott's Emulsion, are the very best remedies.

"JUST AS GOOD" IS NOT SCOTT'S EMULSION.

Every One
Does It

—you do—we do. When we enter a room we immediately glance at the wall paper. We do it instinctively, for while the wall decoration is seemingly insignificant and unobtrusive, it lays the foundation for the beauty of the room. With inartistic paper you may work forever, and there will be something wrong about the rooms. While the right paper, well, it will almost furnish an empty room. No where else will you find so much beauty for so little money as here. Painter's supplies. Discount to the trade.

UNRIVALED IN ALL THE WORLD.

Lieut.-Governor of Vermont Made Well by the Great Conqueror of Disease, Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Known and Honored All Over the United States, Famous Brigadier General Thomas, Lieut.-Governor of Vermont, Tells Those Who Desire to Get Well that Dr. Greene's Nervura is the Medicine Which Will Surely Cure Them.

The honored Lieut.-Governor of a great state has been cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

Dr. Greene's Nervura is the medicine which always cures.

Who can doubt this after reading of its wonderful cure of Gen. Thomas, Lieut.-Governor of Vermont, given in the illustrious soldier-statesman's own words. General Thomas, who resides in Montpelier, Vt., is one of the foremost figures in America to-day. From state Representative he became Senator, was afterwards Judge of Probate, and then made Brigadier-General. He was commissioned by President Grant Pension Agent for Vermont, and elected by the people Lieutenant-Governor of the state.

Here is what this man of eminence says of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and of his cure by the use of this wonderful medicine:

"I am pleased at this opportunity to add my testimonial to the worth of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. The eighty-six years of life's journey left its touch upon me in the form of rheumatic pains. I have found benefit and relief from the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura and give my permission to publish this letter for others' good."

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will cure you just so surely as you take it.

It will certainly make you well and strong.

It is by far the greatest and best medicine in the world to-day and has a record of cures unparalleled in the history of medical science.

The ablest physicians everywhere recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura as the one remedy sure to cure, the one restorative absolutely certain to replace weakness and disease by health and strength.

And now the Lieut.-Governor of Vermont speaks to the people from his high official position, and for the good of all who are sick, suffering or out of health, tells what this most marvellous medicine of the age, Dr. Greene's Nervura, has done for him and advises all to use it and be restored to health.

Now is your golden opportunity to get well. Now it is for you to decide whether you will remain in your condition of weakness and ill-health, or be cured as you surely can be, by this grand restorer of strength and vigor, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

You cannot afford to be sick; you owe it to your friends, to your family, to yourself, to get well, and here, right at your hand, is the means to once more make you strong, energetic and robust, to give you again the sturdy power of sound vigor and perfect health. Try Dr. Greene's Nervura. You will never regret it.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is not a so-called patent medicine, but the discovery of the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th St., New York City, who can be consulted, free of charge, personally or by letter.

MUSIC PLAYED AT A CIRCUS.

Different Animals Require Airs Suitable to Their Motions.

Consumptive musicians have no place in a circus brass band. The player of an instrument who would travel around the country in the uniform of the greatest show on earth must have leather lungs and a good constitution, as well as musical ability, for it is music that makes the circus go, and, as the circus is going pretty much all the time, so must it be with the music.

There is all the difference in the world between circuis music and a symphony concert, but the leader of a cicrus band has to be just as much of an artist in his way as the leader of a symphony orchestra. Carl Clair, a composer of many songs that have met with popular favor, has for a long time had charge of the military band that travels with the Barnum & Bailey show.

"The music has to be arranged with special care to each act," said Mr. Clair speaking of his work. "All the trained animals are particularly sensitive to music, and so accustomed have they become to the correct pauses and drum signals that if there should be any delay in giving them the animals would simply wait for them. Take, for instance, the entrance of the great herd of elephants. It is preceded by a blare of music from the band. If the music was omitted the keepers would have to drive the beasts in with their prods.

"We have to change the musical programme in the main several times a season, for the reason that performers become tired of the same old tunes and get listless. I make it my business to pick up all the popular airs of the season and arrange them for the band before they start out. Lively dance music, particularly polkas, are needed all through the show.

"We have to do more than double the work of an ordinary band. We have when on the road, to play for the parade in the morning; then we play continuously during both afternoon and evening performances. I select young men for the band, as they do not feel the strain so much as old men, and are quicker in making the many changes in uniform required of them.

"Aerial performers are very captious about the music we furnish them. They nearly all want a slow, dreamy waltz while flying through the air. They want the pauses made clear and distinct as it is largely from them that they take their cues while making their midair leaps. I know many of them who will stop in the middle of their act if there is any hitch in the music.

"Heavy grand marches, played as slow as dirges, are what the elephants want while they are performing, as such music suits their slow movements. There are no animals so susceptible to music, however, as horses. Marches and dance music, played slowly and with an exaggerated staccato, are essential to their acts, particularly in that thrilling act when 51 horses perform in concentric circles. In this act the animals seem to know just the precise moment when to move, start or stop by the strains from the band. So it is with the ringg horses which the equestrians ride. When the music stops they instantly come to a halt."—Boston Journal

RALLY AT CANTON

Opening of the Campaign at Major McKinley's Home.

THE TOWN CROWDED WITH VISITORS

Two Parades Reviewed by the Republican Nominee---Speech-Making in a Big Tent---Delegations from Three States.

Canton, O., Sept. 19.—Probably the largest political gathering ever seen in Ohio and surely the largest ever witnessed in Canton assembled here yesterday. Conservative estimates place the number of people on the streets of Canton during the afternoon and evening at more than 80,000. Pretty much the whole of eastern Ohio, eastern West Virginia and western Pennsylvania sent delegations to Canton. The railways ran excursion trains and every vehicle in the county seemed to have been brought into service. Notwithstanding the other attractions in the city the home of Major McKinley was the centre of interest and people clung about it untill 11 o'clock at night. They filled the yard, took possession of the porches and peered in at the windows. The streets and houses of the city were handsomely and very generally decorated. No party lines were drawn and democrats were as active as the republicans in their efforts to dispense hospitality and give cordial greetings to the host of strangers. Major McKinley began shaking hands directly after breakfast and he kept it up till late in the evening and also made half a dozen speeches. There was a big parade in the afternoon. Among the marchers were a number of political clubs. The post of honor was held by the Americus club of Pittsburg. Then came the McKinley club of Akron, O., 3,000 strong. The Elkins cadets of Wheeling attracted much attention by reason of their fine appearance. There were also in the parade a large number of young men who will cast their first votes this year.

Major McKinley Heads the Parade.

Major McKinley rode at the head of the parade. In the carriage with him were Gov. Bushnell of Ohio and Senator Thurston of Nebraska. When the head of the parade reached the McKinley house the major left his carriage and reviewed the procession. On the stand with him were Mrs. McKinley, Mrs. H. B. Heistand, Hon. C. L. Kurtz, chairman of the Ohio state republican committee; Gov. Hastings of Pennsylvania and Sylvester Everett of Cleveland. There was another big parade in the evening and in addition to the organizations which marched in the afternoon was the Tippecanoe club of Cleveland. Major McKinley also reviewed the evening parade.

Speechmaking in a Big Tent.

At 3:30 o'clock the speaking began in the big tent. There were probably 15,000 people packed into the tent. Gov. Bushnell of Ohio presided. He was introduced by Chairman Thomas of the Stark county committee. The governor's speech was heartily applauded and when he introduced Senator Cullom of Illinois there was more applause. Senator Cullom was followed by Senator Thurston of Nebraska whose remarks were listened to with interest and applauded. There was another meeting at night in the tent. The speakers were Gov. Hastings of Pennsylvania and Representative McCleary of Minnesota.

An Important Pension Swindling Case.

Buffalo, Sept. 19.—The most important case yet brought before the present session of the United States district court is that of John W. Eigny of Amsterdam, a former pension agent and justice of the peace at that place. Eigny is charged with making and presenting false affidavits in a pension case. He enticed a woman by the name of McCullough from Amsterdam to swear that her husband had been a soldier and was killed in the civil war. To this false statement he attached a fictitious notary public's name and seal. He succeeded in obtaining a pension and divided the money between himself and the McCullough woman. Eigny has already served two terms in prison for perjury in a like offense. His trial will be a long one and will occupy one or two days.

Ghastly Sight in Court.

Leominster, Mass., Sept. 19.—Geo. H. George, who has made frequent visits to this town and practiced the calling of fortune-telling, reappeared about ten days ago. He took a room at the Leominster house. Yesterday afternoon a clerk saw him jump from a window with his throat cut. He went to the house of a neighbor and sat on the doorstep. The police were called and took him to the station, and later he was committed to the Worcester Insane asylum. His father is a retired Methodist minister in Oakdale. George presented a ghastly appearance in court, with his clothes saturated with blood.

To Stump for McKinley in the West.

New York, Sept. 19.—Col. L. Edwin Dudley, the secretary of the Union Veterans' Protective league, called at republican headquarters last night and reported that Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, president of the league, and Gen. Cyrus Bussey are just starting west to join Gen. Alger in Michigan and Corporal Tanner in Chicago for an extended speaking tour. They will travel in a special car.

A Washington Celebration.

New York, Sept. 19.—The centenary of Washington's farewell address upon retiring from public life will be observed this evening at Chickering hall. The commemoration is under the auspices of the American Institute of Civics. Addresses will be made by Gen. Horace Porter, Wheeler H. Peckham and others.

Senator Smith has jumped off the fence and landed on the gold standard side. In a letter he says that he finds his mind still adhering to the views he held in the Senate, and those were against the silver policy. He has therefore decided to resign the chairmanship of the Democratic State committee.

Among the names mentioned as possible successors to the late Elias R. Pope as President of the First National Bank, we are glad to note that of J. W. Johnson. Mr. Johnson is the present Vice President of the Bank, and a man whose selection as its chief executive officer would doubtless satisfy the best interests of the institution.

We are in the habit of viewing the cruelty of the Siberian mines in Russia, the atrociousness of the Spanish in Cuba and the murderous Turkish raids in Armenia with mingled compassion and wrath, but these things are passed over with much more of a shudder of horror and regret than indignation and resentment, because we realize that these Nations have for centuries been cursed with institutions and instincts that are cruel and unnatural in practice. We view the conditions as something needing the reformatory influence of advanced civilization. But when we see the results of the practices imposed on men just released from English prisons—physical and mental wrecks as they are—it is not in a spirit of awe and pity that we look upon it, but with a feeling that to rise up and wipe the fosterers off the face of the globe would be giving just retribution. In a Nation noted as being almost at the pinnacle of sociological problems—the point from which reforms travel westward—the treatment meted out to the Irish-Nationalist prisoners in the English prison pens is a subject that deserves the severest condemnation. In the last two weeks two such prisoners have arrived in this country stark mad from the inhuman treatment given them while serving sentences as punishment for the alleged charge of conspiring against the government of England—a charge based on their endeavorers to free Ireland from her bondage.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Bert Rockwell, of East Front street, leaves next week for boarding school at Sing Sing.

Mrs. T. Titus and son, of Glen Cove, L. I., who have been spending a few days with Mrs. H. T. Smith, of Westervelt avenue, have returned to their home.

Abram Cornish, who lives near Union Village, is suffering from injuries caused by a fall from his hayloft. He was working there and made a mis-step.

Mrs. Walter Irving Clarke and son Bruce, of Hartford, Conn., who have been visiting relatives on West Front street, left for Somerville, yesterday, where they will be the guests for a few weeks of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Field.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

—Grand Master Lewis Williams, of Jersey City, will visit Union Lodge, No. 4,026, G. U. O. of O. F., at their meeting Tuesday night.

—Rev. John Savage will preach his farewell sermon at Bethel chapel tomorrow night. A choir of seven pieces will furnish special music.

—You can't pick up quicksilver with your fingers, but you can pick up some nice linen handkerchiefs at a very small price at Peck's.

—A preparatory service was held at the First Presbyterian church last evening. Rev. C. E. Herring was in charge and the service was a helpful one.

—Daniel Schenck, of the borough, is excavating for a cellar on Chatham street, upon which he will move one of his houses, which is located close to the place.

—The driveway leading to the rear of the Jackson building at the corner of Front street and Madison avenue is being macadamized and put in thorough repair.

—The subject of Mr. Murray's address at the Rally Day service in the Congregational church tomorrow afternoon will be, "The worst boy in the Bible and the best."

—The Republicans are making a strong bid for the Italian vote in this city. See the banner in front of The Press office which reads "Garretta" Hobart. Garretta must be Italian.

—It would be well for Borough Street Commissioner Emmons to visit Somerset street, between Chatham street and the city line. The mud is certainly too deep to make traveling comfortable.

—The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club house on Plainfield avenue was completed yesterday by the contractor, Bateman Thatcher. Nothing remains now but to paint the handsome new building, which is complete in every detail.

—The contract cases of Lawler against Stiglitz, and Pratt-Whitney Company against Vetterlein, et ux, were tried in Justice Newcorn's court yesterday and judgment was given the plaintiff in each case. The case of Baut against Kelly was settled out of court.

—One of the Boston bicyclists, who was at the Revere House Thursday, while taking in the sights stepped into P. Marron's shoe reparing shop in the Elkwood building, West Second street, and was so favorably impressed with the intelligence of Mr. Marron's pet parrot, that he proffered a fifty dollar bill in exchange for the bird, which amount was refused by the owner.

—The subject of organizing a cadet corps among the scholars of the North Plainfield Public School, is being advocated by the faculty and the pupils. Captain George F. Edwards has signified his readiness and willingness to train the corps, provided one is organized. There is thought to be plenty of good material in the school, and the corps once established, would doubtless make a good showing.

—Miss Clarib[illegible] Jeffery, who for several years [illegible] been giving instruction on the banjo, mandolin and guitar, has resumed her work at 322 West Front street, and she can be seen every Friday at the above address. Miss Jeffery has met with remarkably success in her teaching, and the present season will no doubt surpass all former ones. Her methods are thoroughly up-to-date, and efficient. Miss Jeffery's advertisement appears in another column.

If you have ever seen a little child in the agony of summer complaint, you can realize the danger of the trouble and appreciate the value of instantaneous relief always afforded by DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. For dysentery and diarrœa it is a reliable remedy. We could not afford to recommend this as a cure unless it were a cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

From all accounts Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a Godsend to the afflicted. There is no advertisement about this; we feel just like saying it. The DEMOCRAT, Carrollton, Ky. For sale by T. S Armstrong, Druggist.

THEATRICAL.

It is interesting to learn that the finest scenery which has been produced this season was for "Vanity Fair, which has been justly called the three shows in one. No such mass of scenic and electrical effects was ever taken on the road, but it has paid to give the people the best of everything Nothing could be more interesting than the scene which discloses the interior of the swell New York Yacht Club, and to conclude, after the olio, which is a show in itself, there is a most magnificent spectacular-comedy entitled, "Jay New York, or Fun at Coney Island," which introduces life at Coney Island true to nature. Go and see for yourselves, at Music Hall this evening.

Monday evening, September 21st, at Music Hall, don't fail to see DeKoven & Smith's very breezy spectacular comic opera, "Rob Roy," in three acts, which will be presented by the Whitney Opera Company. Both score and book have made an indisputably favorable impression. No expense has been spared by Manager Whitney in giving the opera an elaborate and picturesque setting. The costumes are a novelty in themselves and said to be absolutely correct. Outside of New York and its floating population few have had an opportunity to see this opera, owing to the fact of its extraordinary run at the Herald Square Theatre. It is said by the many musical authorities to have excelled anything that DeKoven & Smith have yet done. The company includes a large number of well-known vocal artists. Secure your seats at once as they are going rapidly.

The entertaining and ever-welcome Herrmann, the Great, aided by Adelaide Herrmann, will be the attraction at Music Hall, Tuesday evening, September 22d. What constitutes the charm and insures the success of Herrmann's work is his admirable faculty of entertaining his audiences while performing his difficult feats of legerdemain with little comedy interlopations and bits of by-play that serves the double purpose of amusing his audience and distracting their attention from his nimble and expert slight of-hand work. It is a creation of the most poetical and fantastic fancy. One of the most brilliant parts is furnished by Adelaide Herrmann, who has given to the world a new art. Her marvelous spectaular dances, L'Etoile de Nuit, La Dance de Vesuvius, Le Rayon de Soleil and the Lilly of the Orient, have presented new and startling possibilities in the combination of color and motion.

Since the initial performance of "The Geisha" at Daly's Theatre, New York, much improvement has been made in the play. While the English production has been closely copied in all essential details, it has been found that a performance more to the taste of an American audience has been secured by shortening the piece and eliminating a lot of superfluous verbiage. This has been accomplished without sacrifice of any of the dainty comedy's charm, and current audiences are more enthusiastic over its beauties than those who attended the opening performances. The piece has already become one of the topics of the town, and everybody who has a taste for the stage and its amusements feels that he or she must see "The Geisha" or be counted behind the times.

Will Reopen Sept. 17.
Miss Hellwig, who teaches the modern languages in the school, will give one hour daily to instruction in French in the Kindergarten. For particulars address the Principals

Mr. Leal's School for Boys
Will re-open for its fifteenth year on
Monday, Sept. 14th, '96.
The Junior Department will have its own building, and will receive boys from eight years old and upwards. The work will be conducted in accordance with most modern ideas and approved methods.
To enter the main school, boys must be at least thirteen years of age.
Improvements during vacation make it possible now for pupils in Physics and Chemistry to do laboratory work, for which there has been no room heretofore.
Boys are thoroughly prepared for college or business.
During fourteen years, fourteen classes have been sent to college.
For information apply to JOHN LEAL, PRINCIPAL.

OUR NEW FALL GOODS!

Are coming in now every day, and very soon our store will be attired in full Fall and Winter dress. Several invoices of goods of "Our Own" importation are now on exhibition in our big Basement consisting of fine French China in Plates, Cups and Saucers, Chocolate Sets, Chocolate Pitchers, Fern Bowls, Game and Fish Sets, Soup Sets and hundreds of other small French China pieces too numerous to mention. Another very handsome line of goods we imported direct is a large and complete assortment of real fine Bisque Figures and Bric-a-brac.

These goods are marked much below the usual price as we save the importers profits and allow it to our patrons. Many of our customers who have seen these goods say they are surprised to see such a large line of fine elegant goods in Plainfield. Come in and see them. During the present week a good many cases of new fall goods have been received and placed on sale on our main floor, and others are on the way and will be in next week. A look into our show windows and a walk around the store will give you some idea of what they are. We are now in the midst of a big Special Sale, affording the people of Plainfield a splendid opportunity to buy fine new fresh seasonable goods CHEAP.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Fred Clark has disposed of his team of gray horses to a Plainfield undertaker.

George Clark, a driver for hachman Baldwin is confined to the house by illness.

James A. Baker has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to attend to business again.

The Scotch Plains baseball team are still waiting to hear from either the Westfield or Cranford teams, for games on any open dates.

There are already several aspirants or the postmastership here, and among those most prominently mentioned in connection with the office is ex-Postmaster Norman C. Dunn and James Curtain.

A hundred or more hills of potatoes were dug up and robbed from the Tice homestead on Terrill road Thursday night, and only the night before over two hundred hills were dug up from a patch a quarter of a mile from town on the Westfield road. Potatoes are plentiful and cheap hereabouts, but certain persons are taking time by the forelock and laying in their winter supply by moonlight. The thieves only sort out the largest potatoes, and leave the little ones behind for the rightful owner.

"This town is going to the dogs," said an old resident at the Plains yesterday, and what is needed now is either the trolley or an earthquake to resurrect the people. The trolley however, is more preferable of the two, and it's bound to come. Up to last night seventy per cent of the property owners along the proposed route have signed their consent. John Marsh, whose property will be cut directly in two by the extension of the line as now laid out, has generously offered to the company the right of way, land and all, provided they will fence in his property on each side of the tracks.

DUNELLEN.

Miss Clara Twiname, of Carmel, N. Y., is spending a few days with Mrs. Charles Dickinson.

The Borough Council will meet for the transaction of regular business on the first Monday night in October.

Miss Florence Harding, of Brooklyn, is visiting the family of her uncle. Chief of Police Warden, for a few days.

Chief of Police Warden went to New Brunswick yesterday on important business. The nature of the business, it is understood, was in connection with some petty thieving.

P. Reusch's house on Front street is being improved. A. S. Giles, the contractor, is making the exterior improvements, and a new heater is also being put in the basement.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. C. H. Adams, who died on Thursday, will take place from the M. E. church tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. W. C. Kinsey, of Newark, will assist at the service.

"Dore" Vroom, the sign-writer of Plainfield, is filling up the Republican banner, which is to be flung to the breeze as soon as it's ready. The committee in charge have not yet decided upon the speaker, but it will probably be a Jersey City man.

Edward Apgar, of Easton, is the guest of Peter F. Staats for a day or two.

Mrs. Henry Lyons spent yesterday with aunt, Katharina Myers, at the Park Hotel.

The Misses Anna and Lena Myers have been visiting the Misses Mary and Annie Beck, of Greenbrook.

Miss Mary Laing, widow of the late Joseph Laing, has removed to Millstone, where she will hereafter reside.

Rev. W. C. Kinsey, formerly pastor of the M. E. church here, and now of Newark, is expected to preach for his old congregation tomorrow evening.

Rev. Father Theodocius Goth, who had charge of St. Benedict's church in Newark for several years, but who has of late been in charge of a church in the far west, has been visiting his father here for a few days past.

NEW MARKET.

The fishing in the lake has been fair since the late rain. Yesterday one party of local fishermen gathered in twenty four catfish, sunnies and one snapping turtle.

Two South Plainfieldites drove over here last evening and painted the town red. They shot off the Kickapoo Indians and came near being scalped for their trouble.

Abner Coriell, of this place, has been confined to the home for a few weeks pass by illness. He was, however, able to go to Plainfield yesterday on business. He has been attended by Dr. Nelson and was the first time in twenty years that he was obliged to call in a physician.

There is some talk of putting up a McKinley and Hobart flag in this town, and a purse for the project has been started. Up to last night about four dollars had been collected for the purpose, and about $24 more will be required for expenses of hoisting the flag with band accompaniment and a little clam chowder.

New B. and O. Station in Baltimore.

The new passenger station of the B. and O. Railroad, at the intersection of of Mt. Royal avenue and Cathedral street, Baltimore, Md., was opened for business September 1st. The new station, which will be known as Mt. Royal station, is one of the finest buildings of its kind in America. It is located in the residential section of the city and is easily accessible by the street railway service from all parts of the town. Camden station will remain in use as heretofore, and all trains running over the Philadelphia division will stop at both stations. All tickets to or from either station, and baggage will be checked to either station at the option of the passenger.

Impressive Endeavor Meeting.

A very impressive meeting was the union Christian Endeavor prayer meeting, held at the Congregational ceurch last evening in preparation of the coming State convention. The church was well filled with enthusiastic Christian Endeavorers who made the meeting a very lively one. Herbert Bonnell acted as leader while the accompanist was Miss Carrie Dewey. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich led in opening prayer and then followed testimonies and prayers by most of those present. The meeting closed with an impressive service of praper.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Ernest Mallard, of North avenue, will spend Sunday in Newark with former acquaintances.

Miss Adelaide R. Storm, of Rockview avenue, has returned from a visit at Poughkeepsie.

Miss J. Louise Jankins, of West Second street, left yesterday for Brooklyn, where she will remain for a few days.

George Wiseman, of this city, has returned home from Asbury Park, after spending a pleasant vacation at that place.

Mrs. Sarah Coon and Miss Mary Conkling, of West Front street, went to Buzzard's Bay, Mass., yesterday to spend a few weeks.

Miss C. Florence Barnes, of Grove street, left yesterday afternoon for Baltimore, to attend boarding school. Her. father, Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes, accompanied her to Baltimore.

Better Than $100 Reward.

On receipt of ten cents, cash or stamps, a generous sample will be mailed of the most popular Catarrh and Hay Fever Cure (Ely's Cream Balm) sufficient to demonstrate its great merit. Full size 50c.

ELY BROTHERS,
56 Warren St. New York City.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind, ever since a boy, and I never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Sent it to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

Poison Ivy, insect bites, bruises, scalds, burns, are quickly cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the great pile cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

Movements of William J. Bryar in the South.

WARM GREETING AT RICHMONI

He Addressed a Large Audience in the Auditorium and Another from a Hotel Balcony---Remained at the Capital All Night.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 19.—William J. Bryan's greeting here last night was very enthusiastic. The receptions at Columbus and Toledo, although they were greater in the attendance, could not compare in enthusiasm to last night's meeting. Mr. Bryan's greeting at the railroad station when he reached Richmond at 7 o'clock from Goldsboro, N. C., was also very flattering. The great auditorium of the state exposition building was the scene of the meeting addressed by Mr. Bryan. It was said that there were fully 18,000 people present. Women in cool, summery dresses, crowded the boxes, and the scene was a pleasant one. It was late when Mr. Bryan arrived. He blinked his eyes as he entered the hall from the rear of the stage, for all but four jets of the electric light globes had gone out and the first impression of one on entering was that of semi-darkness. The reporters had to write their copy by means of coal oil lamps. And so it happened that William J. Bryan received his most demostrative greeting since his visit to the south from an audience of whom only half could hardly see his face and figure. Senator John W. Daniel rose to introduce Mr. Bryan amidst much cheering. Soon it became quiet enough for the presidential nominee to be heard, but all through his address there were shouts, partly suppressed cheering, and some disorder, that made it hard for his words to reach all in the hall. After his speech Mr. Bryan hurried out of a private door to his carriage. He was taken to the Jefferson hotel, and made an address from the hotel balcony to about 10,000 people gathered in the street below. Mr. Bryan spent the night at the Jefferson.

SPAIN'S MANY TROUBLES.

The Philippine Islands Revolt Serious and More Troops Are Asked For.

London, Sept. 19.—The Standard today publishes a dispatch from Madrid stating that Gen. Blanco, captain-general of the Philippine islands, has telegraphed to the government asking for further reinforcements of troops and warships to quell the insurrection there. Gen. Blanco declares that the rebels are numerous in several provinces and that they have eight active coasting vessels.

Derelict Passed in Mid-Ocean.

London, Sept. 19.—The Chronicle will to-morrow publish a dispatch from Brussels saying that the British steamship Storm King, from Baltimore, Aug. 26, which arrived at Antwerp Sept. 10, reported that on Aug. 31, in mid-ocean, she sighted the hull of a steamer, apparently of about 4,000 tons, keel upwards. There were evidences that she had been drifting in this position for some time.

Orders for Three More Battleships.

Washington, Sept, 19.—Secretary Herbert cabled Acting Secretary McAdoo to go ahead and award the contracts for the three battleships. Formal contracts will therefore be entered into to-day with the successful competitors for one ship each—the Newport News company for $2,595,000, the Cramps for $2,650,000 and the Union works for $2,674,000.

Laurada Again Libeled.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 19.—United States Marshal Lannan has served an attachment on the alleged filibustering steamer Laurada for a claim for supplies filed S. P. Blackburn & Co., of New York, amounting to $381. Security will be entered by the owners of the boat. No additional application for clearance papers for the Laurada has been made.

Altgeld for United States Senator.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Chairman Hiarichson, of the democratic state committee and one of Gov. Altgeld's closest political friends, said this morning: "If the democrats carry the legislature, Gov. Altgeld will no doubt be the choice of the party for the United States senate."

Internal Revenue Receipts.

Washington, Sept. 19.—The collections of internal revenue for the first two months of the fiscal year aggregate $25,785,756, an increase over the corresponding period last year of $43,234. Spirits show an increase of $666,356; tobacco, a decrease of $562,478.

Sentenced to Life Imprisonment.

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 19.—Antony Grasso was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Wheeler in the superior court yesterday afternoon. Grasso pleaded guilty to killing Bartholdi Tivolda at Danbury, July 27.

Prohibition Nominations.

Kingston, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The prohibitionists of Ulster county have nominated William G. Birdsall for member of assembly for the First district, and Robert McGuill for member in the second district.

SEARCHING INDIAN RUINS.

Explorers Return from the Moqui and Zuni Reservations.

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 19.—Dr and Mrs. J. Walter Fawkes and Dr Walter Hough have returned from a tour through the Moqui and Zuni Indian reservations, where they have been engaged in important archaeological exploration for the Smithsonian institute, Washington. The results of the expedition are of great scientific value. The explorers have forwarded to the Smithsonian institute a collection of 3,500 specimens excavated from the mines near Winslow, Chavez pass and the Moqui reservation. Dr Fawkes regards the ruins near Winslow as older than the middle of the sixteenth century, no evidence of Spanish or American influence having been found in the excavations.

MRS. HICKS SEEKS DIVORCE.

Wife of a Rich Connecticut Politician Tires of Her Alliance.

Meriden, Conn., Sept. 19.—High Sheriff Spiegel has placed an attachment on all the real estate of Ratcliffe Hicks to the value of $300,000. The attachment is to secure alimony in the suit for divorce now pending in the superior court of New Haven, brought by Isabella Hicks through her counsel, ex-Judge Lynde Harrison of New Haven. Mr. Hicks married the plaintiff in the suit a year ago. The grounds for instituting the divorce suit are not known. Before her marriage Mrs. Hick's name was Isabella Wormer. Her home was in Chicago. Hicks owns a great deal of real estate in Bridgeport and New York city. He was a member of the last legislature and was for a while talked of as a candidate for governor.

THACHER IS RETICENT.

Will Not Declare Himself Until His Letter of Acceptance Is Issued.

Albany, Sept. 19.—Hon. John Boyd Thacher, the democratic nominee for governor, is at his summer residence on the Helderbergs, about eighteen miles from Albany. It was learned by telephone this morning that he would say nothing at present regarding his nomination, the platform or his position on the financial question. It is expected that he will write a letter of acceptance and that he will not declare himself in any way before this letter is made public. Senator Hill when seen last night would say nothing regarding the work of the Buffalo democratic state convention. He did, however, laughingly remark: "The long-distance telephone is a great invention."

THE POPE'S PRONOUNCEMENT.

He Holds That All Ordinations Under the Anglican Rite Are Invalid.

London, Sept. 19.—A dispatch from Rome to a news agency her says that the pope has issued a pronouncement in which he says: "After long study, I must confirm the decrees of my predecessors that all ordinations made under the Anglican rite are absolutely invalid." His holiness also entreats the Anglican clergy to return to the church of Rome.

Cooper Was Not Killed by Savages.

Washington, Sept. 19.—About a month ago the American consul at Callao, Peru, reported a rumor to the state department that an American explorer, named Cooper, had been killed by savages in the interior of Peru. A supplementary report declares that the man was drowned while swimming the Inambara river, and the earlier false report was spread by miners to deter Americans from taking charge of paying mines they had bought.

Murdered by Indians.

Calais, Me., Sept. 19.—It is reported here that Michael MacMonagle, proprietor of an iron foundry, was drowned in St. Andrews bay, Wednesday. MacMonagle was crossing the bay in a boat accompanied by two Indians, who, it is claimed, hit him on the head and knocked him overboard. They deny this story, and say that MacMonagle's death was due to the upsetting of the boat.

Beached To Prevent Sinking.

Northport, L. I., Sept. 19.—The steamship Catharine Whiting, 1,500 tons burden, sprung a leak last evening in Huntington bay and it was found necessary to beach her.

confronts some one in every home each year. Whoever the work devolves upon should know about

NONE SUCH MINCE MEAT

It's a labor-saver—a woman-saver. Without the long and wearying peeling, chopping, boiling, seeding and mixing, a woman can quickly make mince pie, fruit pudding, or fruit cake that will be the delight of her household. Since None Such is sold everywhere there is no more need of making your own mince meat than of making your own yeast. Try one package—10 cents. Take no substitutes.

ITALIAN TELLS A STORY.

Signor Liberati Relates a Joke on an American Naval Officer.

A great joke on the American navy and on Rear Admiral Luce leaked out the other day, after 24 years. The story was told by Signor Liberati, the famous cornet soloist and conductor of various well known Liberati bands, and who is now playing in Kansas City. Signor Liberati remarked that the navy has been a factor in the musical culture of America, and then explained that American men-o'-war had enlisted young Italian musicians in their bands when touching at Italian ports. These youngsters were carried to America and became bandmasters and conductors.

"I ar-rife in America on a man-o'-war my own self," continued the famous musician, "and I hed ver' large con-sid-er-able experience in company of de American navy. I enlisted in Venice in 1872 on de ver' large, con-sid-er-able frigate Juniato. At Madeira I broke my own mout' with de cornet. I entairs de small boat to must follow out de wafes of de sea. I miss de righ time and a ver' large, con-sid-er-able wafe of de sea heet me. I hold up my instrumaint to keep it dry—so—and when I fell I struck the instru-maint with my mout'.

"When I tink of my own times on de frigate Juniato, I feel de salt meat ver' bad—rise in my own troat and shoke me. Br-r-r-r-r!

"De frigate was about sail for dis country and de of-fi-cairs fill de frigate Juniato with a ver' large, con-sid-er-able cargo of brandy and wines. Yes to smug-gail!—those of-fi-cairs were great to smug-gail! We had a hail-ish treep—de of-fi-cairs dr-u-n-k all de time—all-de-time! De sailors dr-u-n-k, too, de band dr-u-n-k, ver' large, con-sid-er-able jag!

"De frigate Juniato carry four or fife hundraid men; she carry eighteen ver' large, con-sid-er-able guns. We sail for Bostone.

"De nearer de frig-ate comes to dis country, de more dr-u-n-k de captain, de of-fi-cairs, de sailors, de band, get. You know him—it was de Capt. Luce. Ven de pilote come on board de frig-ate Juniato in de fog, he say: 'It ees not Bostone; it ees New York! So we start for Bostone and de fog get thicker and thicker, and de captain, de of-fi-cairs, de sailors and de band not know where they was at. We fire de guns and ring de bell and blow de whistle. De frigate Junato lay there and we fired and ringed and blowed for seex days and seex nights. De provis-ione went low and we had natting to eat—only drink.

"De captain sent out de boats and sound de water, so we not heet de rocks. De sailors in de boats work hard sounding de waters for seex days and seex nights. De frig-ate Juniato crash against de rocks, but not ver' bad. Then de fog rose up and de captain of the frig-ate, de of-fi-cairs, de sailors and de band all said: 'O hail!' for de frig-ate Juniato was one hundraid feet from de shore!

"Dere was Bostone, and we had been dere seex days and seex nights and we might have gone to market and bought fresh aigs every morning."—Kansas City Star.

CAUSES OF HEADACHE.

Most Often Produced by a Disarranged Liver.

The common headache of everyday life is the one we desire to call attention to. We think we are safe in saying that all simple acute headaches are caused by indigestion, which is produced by the use of inferior food or an inability to use good food. Also almost all chronic headaches are caused by dyspepsia, constipation and disorders of the liver, and these troubles are very closely related. Constipation is always associated with dyspepsia. The liver, the greatest depurating organ of the body, is obstructed and diseased in cases of dyspepsia. So it ought to be understood by all who wish to be informed on the subject that the stomach, bowels and liver belong to the digestive system, and that one cannot be diseased without more or less involving the others. These are the blood-making organs. About one-sixth of the blood of the body circulates in the head, and when this blood is loaded with impurities and improperly elaborated, then the brain and its structures are irritated and painful. This is called headache. The depurating organs—the bowels, liver, skin, kidneys and lungs—have failed to carry out the waste of the system from some cause. There has been too little exercise, sitting or working in ill-ventilated rooms, too little or poor quality of food, or partaking of too much wholesome food—overeating. Over-excitement in business or sad and depressing news are among the common causes of disturbances in the system that result in headache.—N. Y. Ledger.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

Our Coal Is as Clean
as though it were washed and brushed. Each lump stands by itself, good solid coal—So much said fire. After the coal reaches the surface of the earth from the mines, impurities are picked out by hand. Thereafter it is screened several times before it reaches you, and dirt, slate, etc., really have no chance—if the dealers are careful.
We are very careful.
Just now we are quite busy filling bins for winter. The prices are lower than in cold weather, and dealers are able to give better service. When may we have your order?

A Question of Importance—the question of prices.
We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

Alleged Dynamite Disclosures Stir the Police To Action.

EXTRA GUARDS AT PUBLIC BUILDINGS

War Office Also Takes Action---The Force of Police and Sentinels at the Woolwich Powder Magazines Doubled.

London, Sept. 19.—As a result of the alleged disclosures said to have been made by the finding of documents upon the person of Edward J. Ivory, alias Edward Bell, of New York, who has been brought to this city from Glasgow on the charge of being concerned in the dynamite conspiracy, the number of policemen on duty in plain clothes at the houses of parliament, the Mansion house, the Royal exchange, the National gallery, the British museum, St. Paul's cathedral, Westminster abbey and other public buildings has been doubled. The war office has also taken additional precautions here, besides doubling the force of police and sentinels who are guarding the powder magazines at Woolwich.

The Dynamite Threat.

Boulogne-sur-Mer, France, Sept. 19.—The violent letter received by the deputy public prosecutor threatening him with death by dynamite within twenty-four hours if Tynan was not released from prison, while causing the police officials to be a little more on their guard, is not given much serious concern. The letter was dated Thursday, September 17, and was posted at Laon, capital of the department of Aisne, about eighty-six miles from Paris.

WHITEHEAD IN NEW YORK.

The Released Irish Prisoner Now Declared To Be Sane.

New York, Sept. 19.—Albert George Whitehead, recently released from Portland prison, arrived in this city last night on the Cunard line steamship Lucania. After the gang plank had been lowered Gen. James R. O'Beirne, chairman of the conference committee, was the first person to go on board. He was conducted to Mr. Whitehead, who was in the cabin with his brother, John Murphy, who went to Europe to bring him back. He was followed by Whitehead's two sisters, Mrs. Egan and Miss Ella Murphy. When Whitehead learned that friends were coming on board to greet him he said that the only person he wanted to see outside of his immediate family was Gen. O'Beirne and expressed satisfaction at having arrived safely in America. Reporters were not permitted to speak to Whitehead on board the ship. After nearly all the passengers had landed Whitehead walked down the gang plank leaning on the arms of Gen. O'Beirne and his brother. His sisters followed and they, with O'Beirne, Murphy and Whitehead, got into a carriage and were hastily driven away. Gen. O'Beirne, Whitehead's brother and others who were permitted to converse with Whitehead, said that he was sane. John Murphy said that Whitehead had never been insane. Others said that he was exceedingly childish. The officers of the ship said that Whitehead was very well behaved on the passage and had caused no trouble.

Denial by Heidelberg.

New York, Sept. 19.—Detective Charles Heidelberg, when interviewed at Quarantine last evening, on his arrival per steamer St. Louis, from Southampton, denied absolutely that he had in any way been concerned in the arrest of the alleged dynamiters.

Sensational Suit for Damages.

Lynn, Mass., Sept. 19.—A sensational suit for slander has been begun in this city by Enoch J. Redmond, a clerk in the postoffice, against Dr. Wm. A. McDonald, a prominent physician here. Redmond sues for $10,000, claiming that Dr. McDonald lodged charges with the postoffice department at Washington to the effect that Redmond had been guilty of immorality and was a man who did not pay his bills. Redmond denied the charges which, he says, have nearly destroyed his efficiency as a government officer.

Harrison Will Make a Few Speeches.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Benjamin Harrison will make some campaign speeches in October, and the disappointment of the republican national executive committeemen at Chicago headquarters has been dispelled. The intelligence came in the form of a personal letter from the ex-president in the Adirondacks to Committeeman Durbin of Indiana last night. Mr. Durbin would only say that the letter contained a promise to make some speeches.

Yacht Races off Larchmont.

Larchmont, N. Y., Sept. 19.—A series of races has been arranged between the yachts America and Quissetta, to be sailed off Larchmont, September 21, 22 and 23, the winner of two of the three races to take the cup, a valuable trophy presented by the Larchmont Yacht club.

Killed by His False Teeth.

Ottumwa, Ia., Sept. 19.—The Rev. Thomas William Russell, a prominent clergyman, while eating yesterday, swallowed his false teeth. The pain threw him into convulsions, and the bursting of a blood vessel caused death.

Deputy Factory Inspectors.

Albany, Sept. 19.—Ambrose S. Harvey of Yonkers and Mrs. Rebecca Gourley of New York city have been appointed deputy factory inspectors, at a salary of $1200 per year each.

More Troops for Cuba.

Barcelona, Sept. 19.—Additional reinforcements of 2,600 troops have embarked for the island of Cuba.

Mrs. Senator Warren.

Why Paine's Celery Compound is Famed in Washington Families.

Many persons out of health have found an excuse in hot weather for doing nothing toward getting well.

"I will wait until fall," they have promised themselves.

It is now time, if ever, in thousands of cases, to keep that promise.

Nothing shou d now interfere with building up the weakened nerves.

Now is the time of year when rheumatism and neuralgia must be cured, when debility and nervousness must be checked, when bad health must be mended—if one hopes to get well.

The natural, unchecked course of disease is from bad to worse as the fall and winter wear on.

It is not that rheumatism, neuralgia insomnia, and kidney troubles are hard to cure—Paine's celery compound has made a host of sufferers well—but people make themselves chronic invalids by neglecting the first symptoms of disease.

Thousands of lives that are now fast wearing out, would be prolonged if Paine's celery compound were in each instance used to stop those ominous pains over the kidneys, to build up the rundown nervous strength, and cure permanently those more and more frequently recurring attacks of headache and indigestion.

There is absolute relief from nervous prostration, sleeplessness, poor appetite, growing thinness and loss of vigor and strength, in Paine's celery compound.

This most remarkable of all known remedies has won the sincere approval of the most progressive part of the community. Here is a testimonial recently received from the wife of U. S. Senator E. F. Warren of Wyoming, whose distinguished services for the country's best farming interests are so well known:

"I was persuaded to try your Paine's celery compound in the early spring when in a very run down condition. The duties devolving upon the wife of an official in public life are naturally very exhausting and I was tired out and nervous when I commenced using the remedy. I take pleasure in testifying to the great benefit I received from its use, and can truthfully say that I am in almost perfect health again. If I ever find myself running down again I shall certainly give it another trial and will in the meantime recommend it to every one needing it."

It is a fact verified by the practice of the best physicians, and by thousands of personal testimonials that Paine's celery compound makes new, pure blood, builds up the nervous system, and cures disease where all other remedies have failed.

Its absolute reliability is shown by its steady employment by trained physicians and in homes made happy by its unquestioned power of making people well.

HUMOROUS.

—"You say he's a nobleman of high rank?" "Yes." "Very high?" "Very." "What's the number of his scandals?"—Chicago Evening Post.

—He started from his sleep shrieking affrightedly. "Nightwheel?" they asked, solicitously. "Yes," he answered. "One of those old-fashioned high ones."—Detroit Tribune.

—Flower-Mission Drawbacks.—"Julia, what did that poor man say when you gave him that lovely bunch of daisies?" "He said he would much rather have a good boiled cabbage."—Chicago Record.

—Lady—"Is it true that you have fallen in love with the princess?" Lieutenant—"Quite right. I just wanted to see for once how hopeless love feels."—Fliegende Blaetter.

—Deceived.—"Why did Constance refuse young De Riche?" "He deceived her. He told her he was worth a million, when in reality he is worth two millions."—Detroit Free Press.

—"What's this I hear you're going to do, Jennie?" said an Aberdeen lass to another young woman. "Well, Maggie, lass, I'm just going to marry that farm over there, and live with the little chap on it."—Tit-Bits.

—A Blessing.—Watts—"It seems rather sad that the old prophets had to die before their prophecies were fulfilled." Potts—"I think it was a good thing. Just think what nuisances they would have made of themselves going about saying: 'I told you so.'"—Indianapolis Journal.

—"Now that I have your consent, my charming Bessie, allow me to ask one question: Are you superstitious?" "Superstitious? Why do you want to know, Frank?" "I cannot tell you before you have answered my question." "Well, then, I am not superstitious in the least." He (overjoyed)—"Then I may tell you with an easy conscience that you are my 13th sweetheart."—Neue Fliegende Blaetter.

BURNS WAS A PEN NAME.

The Habit Among Authors of Disguising One's Real Cognomen.

Almost every writer at the beginning of his career knows a trepidation and timidity that makes him glad to hide behind a "sobriquet," or, as the French usually call them, "noms de guerre." It might be thought that these are chosen haphazard. Though this may be so in some cases, it is usually otherwise. As much thought is often expended in their construction as was ever devoted to the title of a book. Some adopt a "nom de plume" because of innate modesty; others through moral fear of the public and critics; yet a larger class find a satisfaction in writing over a name more suggestive, it may be, or romantic than the original family name. Sometimes the style and kind of work done by an author suggests or decides the pseudonym, while, in the great majority of cases, simply that of a euphonious or fanciful name is desired.

The simplest forms—and these constitute a goodly number—consist of the initials of the author's real name, such as "L. E. L." (Letitia Elizabeth Landon); "G. A. S." (George Augustus Sala); and "B." (the late Lord Bramwell), or some transposition of the real name, such as "Dalmocand" (used by George Macdonald), and "Draw," which is simply Ward written backward. As another example might be mentioned, the famous prima donna, Mme. Trebelli, whose real name was "Gillebert," her nom de theatre being her surname spelled backward, with the initial "G" omitted.

It has been a favorite fancy with authors to assume fictitious names upon the initials of their own. Thus, Annie Bronte wrote as "Acton Bell," Charlotte Bronte as "Currer Bell," and Emily Bronte as "Ellis Bell." In all the wide field of literature can three other such illustrious names be found belonging to one family? It is a scarcely known fact that Robert Burns was a nom de plume, that Scotch poet's name being Robert Burness, but it has by right of usage become the family name, as in the case of Sir Henry Irving and Henry M. Stanley.

It is not unusual for lady writers, who desire to cultivate a masculine style of writing and who feel that a good masculine name would carry conviction, to adopt names of the opposite sex. Mrs. Henry Wood used to write as "Johnny Ludlow." Mrs. Cross immortalized herself as "George Eliot," Mme. Dudevant, who was no mean factor in the literary and social circles of the last century, as "George Sand," and Mrs. Stannard, who delights the reading world with the bright military tales of "John Strange Winter."—Philadelphia Times.

No Real Danger.

"Doctor, what do you make out of his case? It seems strange that he should have a cold on his lungs in such weather as this."

"Does your son work in an icehouse or drive an icewagon, madame?"

"Why, of course not."

"Then give yourself no uneasiness, my good woman. He has been courting a Boston girl, and I have the necessary prescription right with me.—Detroit Free Press.

He Was Crazy.

Attorney—What was there about the deceased that led you to believe he was of unsound mind?

Witness—Well, for one thing, he abhorred bicycles.—Philadelphia North American.

SPORTS

SATURDAY, Sept. 19. Sun rises 5:44 a. m., sets 6:03 p. m. Lanterns must be lighted between 7:03 p. m. and 4:44 a. m.

Cyclists desiring to join the League o American Wheelmen will be furnished with application blanks and necessary information by addressing the Cycling Department of the Daily Press.

CYCLING COMMENT.

About ten members of the Victor wheelmen will ride to Philadelphia and back on Sunday.

Roselle holds her coasting match this afternoon, and a number of Plainfielders are in attendance.

J. L. Wiseman, of Richmond street, will ride his wheel to Asbury Park tomorrow and spend the day with his family, who are stopping there.

John P. Mosher, of The Sabbath Recorder, and Charles Dunham, of the Potter Press Works, are piloting a tandem Boston way. They will return on Monday.

The genial face of "Manager" Wm. Sweeney is again seen around the salesrooms of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company after a several days absence on account of illness.

The Vim Bicycle club of Newark, is nothing if not original and has added a novel event to the list of races for their race meet on October 3d, at Waverly Park. It is a one-mile triplet race and is likely to be a lively one.

One week from today the Crescent Wheelmen hold their National Circuit meet. Charles C. Lister, chairman of the race committee, is deluged every day with letters bearing the entries of many of the leading riders, both amateur and professional, of the country.

Strange as it may seem, John S. Johnson, as long as he has been on the racing circuit, has never appeared before a metropolitan crowd as a competitor. He will make his initial appearance at the Quill Club Wheelmen's meet today and tomorrow.

H F. Haxton, of Fort Edward, N.Y., who left there on his wheel over a week ago, arrived in town this morning and will remain over Sunday with the Rev. Mr. Barnes, of Grove street. Mr. Haxton says the New York State roads can't begin to compare with Jersey's highways for evenness and durability.

Chairman Gideon, of the L. A W. Racing Board, announces that he will not be a candidate for reappointment. He says his business interests will not permit him to hold the office after his present term expires. He believes that the office should be a large salaried one, so as to make it an inducement for a competent man to devote all his time to it.

Wheelmen in and around New York and Philadelphia are already forming parties to take in the Great Inter-State Fair at Trenton, Monday, September 28th, this day having been set apart as a special Wheelmen's Day by the management. Over $1,000 in prizes have been offered to the circuit chasers, and all the racing stars of the path are expected to compete. The regular fair vaudeville show takes place in front of the grand stand from 12 until 6 o'clock p. m., which, with the bicycle races, affords a greater amount of entertainment for an afternoon than any show held this season.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Dunellen Athletic Association was formed several nights ago by a number of the young men of that borough. One of its main objects will be to give dances and sociables this winter to raise sufficient funds to support a first-class baseball team next summer. George Richardson, who has been prominently identified with the movements in Dunellen for the furtherance of athletic sports, was elected president. The club will secure rooms in the new town hall, soon to be erected.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

The small boys of Dunellen seem to be the only ones there who are taking any interest in football this season. There was some talk among the older set of forming an eleven, but the local talent is hard to secure and the project seems to have dropped. The youngsters are getting up a team, however, with which they hope to defeat their old friends, the Alis Football Club.

GOLF.

A team composed of Fred W. Walz, Laurens H. VanBuren, Howard W. Beebe, J. H. P. Wharton, Harry D. West, Evarts Tracy, Reeve Stockton, and August D. Shepard, Jr., will represent the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club this afternoon in a match with the New Brunswick Golf Club on the latter's links.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Jerry Dunn, the sporting man, of Elizabeth, was in town last night. He has a horse, "Sunny Slope," that runs today at Gravesend.

NO MONEY FOR STREETS.

DEPLORABLE CONDITION FOR THE CITY FINANCES TO BE IN.

The Councilmanic Committee Helpless to Do Anything—West Front Street Left in Horrible Shape to Travel Over at Present

A few days ago The Press made mention of the fact that the street committee of the City Council had expended their appropriation for streets, and were now at a standstill. Since then the condition of this department has developed a more serious aspect. The committee is not only out of funds, which has caused all street work to be stopped, but there is no money to meet emergencies that may arise this winter. The committee is helpless to do a thing. At present there are a number of matters about the city that need attention and should be looked after at once, but nothing can be done.

Front street has been left in a wretched condition and there are no prospects that anything will be done to complete the work of fixing that street at present. The committee no doubt will be obliged to present their cause to the city fathers in the hope that they may be able to provide for the necessary street work. The amount appropriated for the year was $15,000, but the horrible condition in which the streets were left by the sewer contractors, has increased the cost of repair considerable, and Plainfield cannot now boast that their streets are what they should be.

Suspended Sentence With a Warning.

Sentence was pronounced in the case of John Kelly and his wife for being disorderly and using profane language, which was tried last week. They were both found guilty, but Judge De Meza suspended sentence, with a warning.

Blooms Three Times a Year.

There is a night-blooming cereus at the Scott Machine Works on South avenue which blooms three times each year. It is now carrying its third series, consisting of fifty-two buds which will all open in about three weeks.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

Randolph M. Stelle, of Central avenue, has returned from the preserves of the Megantic Fish and Game Corporation in Canada and Maine.

L. DeWitt MacIntosh with George VanNess finished against time and tide in the Passaic, near New Providence yesterday, and brought home a few bass. A very few, mind.

Sportsmen who go afield with the gun should be posted on the game laws. We have had numerous enquiries and many sportsmen seem somewhat mixed as to the open seasons. We give herewith the laws in brief—the same having gone into effect April 14th: Rabbits and Quail, November 10 to January 1; Woodcock, month of July, and October 1 to December 10; Snipe, months of March, April and September; Ruffed Grouse, and all Partridges, October 1 to December 10; Reed and Rail birds, month of September; Squirrels, month of September and November 10 to December 10; Plover and Doves, August 1 to September 30 inclusive.

MacIntyre-Burke Case Put Off.

The trial of William Burke, for using profane language and being disorderly on North avenue, at the time of his alleged assault on John F. MacIntyre, was set down for today. A counter complaint was made against MacIntyre on the same charge. MacIntyre wished to consult a lawyer so both cases were adjourned for one week.

Many a day's work is lost by sick headache, caused by indigestion and stomach troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most effectual pill for overcoming such difficulties. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

It doesn't matter much whether sick headache, billiousness, indigestion and constipation are caused by neglect or by unavoidable circumstances; DeWitt's Little Early Risers will speedily cure them all. For sale by L. W. Randolph. 143 West Front street.

Embroidery Design.

Young women who embroider their own handkerchiefs use for the material a linen cambric, heavy or very sheer according to the use of the handkerchief. A pretty design seen upon one of these dainty kerchiefs is a lovers' knot in each corner. In one of them the initials are worked in the loops of the bow. Another design was an outline of a butterfly with the initials inside the wings. A quickly worked design that is effective shows an embroidered spiders' web, with letters in old English in the center. Often a tiny wreath of one's favorite flowers is done in solid embroidery or a combination of outline stitch and solid embroidery. The entire first name is worked in the center.—N. Y. Post.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Alice O. Smith, of Jersey City, formerly of Plainfield, is visiting with friends in this city.

Miss Valentine L. Chandor, of East Fifth street, has returned from an outing at Lake Mohunk, N. Y.

Mrs. A. D. Holmes and family, of East Fifth street, have returned from an outing in the mountains.

Raymond A. McGee, of Orchard place, Washington Park, leaves on Monday for New Haven, where he will enter Yale College.

John V. Beekman, Jr., of West Eighth street, leaves today for the Boston School of Technology, which he enters this year.

In a short time Rev. C. E. Herring, who has just returned from Europe, intends giving a talk on his trip. He says that he has some valuable information for those who desire to take a similar trip at a moderate cost.

Health Inspector P. V. Weaver and John Bolsterli go to New York tomorrow as the guests of Wm. Frazee, a brother of ex-Councilman V. L Frazee. While there they are promised a drive to Riverside Park, to view the great Gen. Grant tomb.

Rev. James Groves, pastor of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, left for Long Branch this morning. Tomorrow at both the morning and afternoon services he will preach in the A. M. E. church at Long Branch, and will return to Plainfield in time to conduct the usual Sunday evening service in his own church.

Family Troubles in Court.

The family troubles of the Burns' were settled by City Judge DeMeza this morning. Mrs. Burns had charged her husband, John Burns, with non-support. Judge De MeMeza held him in a $100 bond to pay his wife $3 a week

—The general committee from the Exempt Firemen's Association, who are arranging for the celebration to be held Saturday October 3d, will hold a meeting the first of next week to complete arrangements. The line of march will be given out a few days before the event so that everybody will have time to decorate.

—At the meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps held last evening the members received an invitation to attend a lunch box sociable to be held on Thursday evening, October 1st, by the Sons of Veterans. It was unanimously accepted by the corps. Excellent remarks were made by the members in the good of the order.

MOODY TALKS FOR GOLD.

A YOUNG CRANFORD MAN ADDRESSES THE REPUBLICAN ASSOCIATION.

Claims to be a Democrat, but Says He Will Support McKinley and Hobart as the Only Salvation of the Country.

The address on the issues of the campaign by John Moody, of Cranford. before the Republicans of the city in the Republican Association rooms on East Front street, Saturday evening, was most attentively listened to, but the applause that greeted the speaker was slow and infrequent. About one hundred persons were present, when ex-City Judge William E. Codington called the meeting to order. Informally opened, the chairman introduced the speaker for the evening, John Moody, and in part he said:

I am a Jeffersonian Democrat. For the first time in the history of the party the Democracy is changing its policy, and will recompense for the moral, intellectual, commercial and other ills. The true Jeffersonian principles were never before disproven, but the millennium comes post haste. If Jefferson, Monroe, Calhoun, Dix and others were radically wrong, then it was fortunate to shake off the shackles and congratulate.

"Money," continued the speaker, "is a commodity—a piece of property—a medium of exchange and it simply barters, facilitating an exchange for commodities. Real money must have a guarantee for its intrinsic value. Gold and silver have become the mediums of exchange between the great nations of the earth; silver predominates as the money standard in China, Japan and Mexico. In other countries gold is the standard by which all National and provincial debts are cancelled."

Here the speaker went on to compare the relative value of gold and silver as a purchasing medium. "The 16 to 1 proposition," he declared, "was a dodge to coin all silver for the silver kings. and make it on a parity with gold. The market value of a silver dollar is 53 cents, and Bryan says there will be no repudiation of the public debt, and wages will be the same or even lower. Whether silver goes up or not, no one will be benefited except the owners of bullion; farmers will not be benefited in the least, in fact their business interests will be jeopardized.

"No graver charge," said the speaker, "could be brought to a civilized Nation than a depression in wages. Eighty per cent. of the men of this country are styled wage-earners, and cut their purchasing power in twain and the workingman is crippled and factories would be obliged to run on half time. Poverty and despair would eventually come to the wage-earners

The average American workman on account of higher wages has reached a high plane of civilization and it would be a sin and a shame to lower his conditions by cutting down wages. Coining silver dollars is not adding to the wealth of the country. What the farmer wants is capital; Farmer Martine doesn't want his hay wagon filled with 50,000 silver dollars; what he wants is a good, fat, political job. More silver dollars will never create more American industries. If Mr. Bryan understands his A B C's he must be densely ignorant. The annual production of silver during the last twenty years has been four times greater than ever before in the history of the country. Since 1873 430,000,000 silver dollars have been coined. If we open our mills to a free coinage of silver there will be an unlimited demand. Whether you call Mr. Bryan's theory the result of a well educated school boy or a western cow-boy, it all goes up like so much smoke. A silver basis would be the means of flooding the country from over-stocked markets such as China and Japan, and in case Bryan is elected we'll all be on our knees to Lombard street in less than a year to get back a gold standard. Democrats should congratulate themselves because the Jeffersonian principles are being extended to the Republican party.

Every man who refuses to use his ballot for that which is just and right, is not entitled to a vote. If a Democrat is justified in opposing Bryan, then he is equally justified in voting for McKinley. The third party ticket he contended had not a ghost of a show, and should be spirited away to the realms above. Said he, "I propose to stand out alone and fight for and vote for the only advocates of sound money, William McKinley and Garret A. Hobart.

WATSON SENT TO JAIL

JUDGE DEMEZA METES OUT A HEAVY SENTENCE.

Refuses to Permit a Change of Plea From Guilty to Not Guilty—Fine and Imprisonment—Another One Arrested.

Illegal liquor selling in Plainfield has received something of a damper. "Hughey" O'Donnell was caught in the act yesterday, and Michael Watson, an old offender, received a sentence that must have brought tears to the poor man's eyes.

O'Donnell keeps a grocery store on South Second street, just west of Plainfield avenue, and has had the reputation of selling beer on the sly. Yesterday Chief Grant and Sergeant Kiely were informed that his place was running full blast, so they planned a little visit. They walked in unannounced in time, the state, to see the beer and money change hands. There was consternation among the crowd, but "Hughey" was equal to the occasion and promptly invited the officers to take a drink. They refused with thanks and arrested him on the spot. He was brought before City Judge DeMeza this morning and held in $200 to appear for trial on Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Michael Watson keeps a hotel and store on Plainfield avenue, near South Second street, and has made himself famous by his bitter fight against the city authorities when he was charged with illegal liquor selling. About two months ago another charge was made against him for selling beer on Sunday and without a license. He pleaded not guilty. After some consideration he changed his plea to guilty. When he considered the case more fully, he realized what he had done and hurried to the Judge's office, wishing to change the plea back to not guilty. The Judge said he would think it over, and today he gave his decision. He declared that Watson's plea of guilty would have to stand. There were two charges against him and the Judge sentenced him to pay a fine of $100 and go to jail for sixty days on each charge.

When Watson heard the sentence, he trembled like a leaf, every bit of color left his face and his head dropped on his brest. He never said a word, however, but was led quietly away. He has no appeal from the sentence except through a writ of habeas corpus.

RUN INTO BY A BREWERY SHARK.

James Hunter and Wife Thrown From Their Carriage and Injured.

James Hunter, of Scotch Plains, harnessed his horse on Saturday evening, ostensibly to take his wife on a shopping tour to Plainfield. They were driving along Mountain avenue, in North Plainfield, when a heavy brewery wagon was noticed coming in the opposite direction. Mr. Hunter, fearing a collision, drew his horse to a stand in the ditch on the right side of the road. Just then there was a crash and Mr. Hunter and his wife were thrown from their carriage and both considerably injured. The front wheel on the carriage was completely wrecked.

The driver of the brewery wagon was either drunk or asleep, for he paid no attention to the mishap and the team sped away. The rig came from Garwood, and Justice Clark has been instructed to bring an action against the owners.

MRS. JAMES STILL MISSING.

Milburn Authorities Released Her Before the Son Arrived to Take Charge of Her.

Mrs. Harriett James, of Warren township, who wandered away from home last week, and who was found and held by the authorities at Milburn, was released for some reason on Friday last, and when her son arrived at the latter place to take charge of her he was informed that she had departed. Mr. James continued the search but as yet has been unable to find the missing woman. Yesterday he sent word to the police at Newark, Orange and Morristown, to be on the look out for her, and today he will visit the latter places.

Sustained a Scalp Wound.

Samuel Terry, of East Front street, received a very deep and severe scalp wound Saturday afternoon which places him in an exceedingly critical condition. The accident occurred during the heavy storm, while Mr. Terry was attempting to place a painter's wagon in the cellar. While doing so he slipped and fell backward down the steps, striking his head on a sharp instrument. The cut extends four or five inches across the top of the skull, and at the time the loss of blood was very great. Drs. Carman and Davis were called and they found it necessary to tie several arteries which had been cut. Proper treatment was given and Mr. Terry is now doing as well as can be expected.

BLUE COATS TUSSLE WITH FEROCIOUS PRISONERS.

PATROLMAN VANDERWEG ASSAULTED WITH A BRICK—PATROLMAN COONEY LOCKED IN A ROOM WITH A DRUNKEN MAN.

Jim O'Neil Makes a Disturbance and When Arrested by Officer Vanderweg, Broke Away and Threw a Brick at Him.

Charles Frey Gets on a Tear and the Policeman Called by his Frightened Wife—Disturber Clubbed into Submission

For the first time since City Judge DeMeza has been in office, an offender was given the full penalty of the law this morning. The prisoner was a colored man by the name of James H. O'Neil.

Saturday evening, nearly at midnight, he was arguing a question with a friend. Both were intoxicated and O'Neil in a quarrelsome mood. O'Neil began to yell and curse in so loud a tone that Patrolman Vanderweg, who was nearly a block away, heard the racket.

He came to the scene of trouble at once, and placed O'Neil under arrest. The colored man seriously objected to such treatment and tried to down the officer. They struggled all over the sidewalk, and it was with great difficulty that Vanderweg could control his prisoner, for O'Neil is a tall powerfully built man and seemed a perfect giant when crazed with drink.

At last the officer started up the street with his prisoner an he had just got under the Park avenue railroad bridge when O'Neil broke away. Now Patrolman Vanderweg can cover the ground quite rapidly when he tries and O'Neil soon found it out. The colored man turned at bay by a pile of bricks and, using one of those as a weapon, he again met the officer. Vanderweg's club took a hand in the game and O'Neil was finally dragged to the lockup by the nearly exhausted officer.

Once inside, O'Neil dared Patrolman Vanderweg and Sergeant Kiely to lock him in a cell, and it took their united efforts to put the wild negro behind the bars. This morning, when arraigned before Judge DeMeza, O'Neil was very quiet. He pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly and resisting an officer. Then the Judge pronounced sentence.

"Sixty days in jail and a $100 fine" said the Judge. The tears came to the eyes of the tall negro and he looked at the Judge with pleading eyes.

"I am satisfied" he said with a sigh and then he was led away.

Fell in a Faint at the Depot.

A young woman named Rogers of Westfield, who had been in this city on a visit, was at the depot, late on Saturday afternoon waiting for a train to convey her home. She stepped from the ladies waiting room to a point in front of the weighing scales, when she was suddenly taken with a fainting spell, and fell face downward to the stone pavement, cutting her face and head quite badly, besides bruising her lower limbs. Ever ready Edward Martin rushed forward, and carried the prostrate form into the waiting room and assisted in dressing the wounds. He also accompanied the unfortunate woman on the train to Westfield.

Y. M. C. A. Reception.

This evening at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms a reception will be given to the members. All members are urged to be present that they may have the opportunity of meeting the new Physical Director, Mr. Haywood, af the Sprinfield Training School, and also the new Assistant Secretary, Mr. Bristol, of D.L.Moody's school. The features of the evening will be a gymnastic exhibition by men from New York. Musical selections by an instrumental quartette, and refreshments.

Seemed Respectable, But Got Drunk.

A good-looking young fellow of scarcely twenty years was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. He had been arrested Saturday evening by Patrolman Vanderweg who found him at the North avenue station talking in a very profane manner. He gave his name as Patrick Burke from New York and pleaded guilty to the charge. The Judge gave him his choice between a fine of $3 or ten days in jail.

Disturbed Netherwood's Quietude.

Patrolman Myers found an inebriated individual at Netherwood station Saturday night who was generally disturbing the neighborhood. Myers arrested him and the stranger was brought before City Judge DeMeza this morning. He gave his name as Kowolka and admitted being drunk. As he could not pay a fine of $8, he was sent to Elizabeth for twenty days.

Theories of cure may be discussed at length by physicians, but the sufferers want quick relief; and One Minute Cough Cure will give it to them. A safe cure for children. It is "the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results." For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

Charles Frey Gets on a Tear and the Policeman Called by his Frightened Wife—Disturber Clubbed into Submission

Locked in a room with a man crazed with drink was the very unenviable position of Patrolman Joseph Cooney last Saturday night. To make the situation still more exciting, Cooney's drunken companion declared his intention of wiping up the floor with the officer.

Patrolman Cooney was on duty in the West End, Saturday night, patrolling Liberty street, when Mrs. Chas. Frey came rushing out of her house in the rear of Endress' butcher shop and begged the officer to come in and arrest her husband who, she declared, had been beating her. Her clothing was torn and she was badly bruised.

Cooney went back to investigate, but found the door locked. He started to enter by the window but Frey was ahead of him and slammed the window in his face. The officer then pounded on the door, and they at last admitted him.

Cooney had no sooner entered than the door was closed and the bolt turned. Then they came forth and started to thrash the representative of the law. There was no use of trying to deal gently with Frey, it was a case of "do me or I'll do you," and Cooney had his hands full to protect himself. The formidable night stick came in good use, and after a long and dire conflict, the man of the house surrendered to the policeman and was led away to the lockup.

Frey was in other trouble. He had been ordered to appear before City Judge DeMeza last Saturday on the charge of non-support of his wife but he had failed to appear.

He was arranged before Judge DeMeza this morning and remanded for trial. Meanwhile it was decided to make it a state charge and two warrants were sworn out against him, one for assault and battery by his wife and the other for assaulting an officer by Patrolman Cooney. Frey was brought before Justice Newcorn and his hearing set down for the evening of Tuesday, September 29, at eight o'clock.

BROKE HIS HIP.

Young Osman Noel Fell From a Swing and Seriously Injured.

Osman Noel, young son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Noel, of Netherwood, sustained a fracture of the thigh yesterday while attempting to jump from a swing, at the home of relatives, in Bound Brook. Medical assistance was at once procured, and the lad was made as comfortable as possible. Chas. S. Cook, of The Daily Press office, was visiting at Bound Brook at the time and learning of the accident sent word to the injured boys parents. Mr. Noel was informed that the doctor would not allow his son to be brought to this city on the cars and he obtained permission to have the ambulance go to Bound Brook after him. It was nearly 12 o'clock last night when the ambulance returned to this city. The boy was taken to the hospital where he is doing nicely under the care of Dr. Endicott and the nurses.

Opposition to a License.

Considerable opposition is being shown by the residents of North Plainfield to the granting of a license for another saloon in the borough. A man named Sisser will tomorrow make application to the Somerset county court at Somerville for a license to open a saloon in the Bock building on Somerset street, close to the county line. As the borough saloons keep open until 12 o'clock at night such a place would be sure to make trouble for the Plainfield police on account of its proximity to this city.

Suffering from Appendicitis.

The many friends of ex-Councilman E. N. Erickson, of West Eighth street, will be pleased to learn that he is slowly recovering from an operation for appendicitis, which was performed last evening by Dr. Hartley, of New York, assisted by Drs. Endicott and Probasco, of this city. Mr. Erickson has been stopping at Avon Springs, N. Y., and was taken with appendicitis on Thursday. He was brought home on Saturday and prepared for the operation.

Praise for the Rev. H. M. Lowry.

Todays New York Tribune has a picture of the Rahway Baptist church and its present pastor, the Rev. H. M. Lowry, son of the Rev. Dr. Robert Lowry of Madison avenue. The comment of the Tribune that Mr. Lowry is a young man of ability and has already taken a high rank in the denomination, is followed by his sermon preached yesterday morning on the subject: "A Living Hope."

MADE GREAT HULLABOO

A FAMILY ROW BRINGS OUT POLICE AND FIREMEN IN THE BOROUGH.

Colored Woman Runs Into the Streets Crying Out all Sorts of Exciting Appeals—Failed to Appear in Court Friday.

The usual quietude of North Plainfield was disturbed Saturday evening between 10 and 11 o'clock, when the cries of murder! police! fire! were heard coming from Race street. Julius Stahl was one of the first to hear the cries and he ran at once to the fire alarm box at the corner of Manning avenue and sent in an alarm. In short order the department was ready to go out. Just then a boy ran to the engine house and told Chief Marshal that there was trouble on Race street and that he was wanted. The officer hastaned to the street and found Mrs. Wallace, colored, in an excited condition, so much so that for a few minutes she was unable to talk. Her clothes were torn and she was the picture of trouble. Inquiry on the part of the officer revealed the fact that her husband, Matthew Wallace, who is employed by various plumbers to excavate sewer trenches, had failed to supply food for the house and on Saturday evening he came home with a piece of meat. Instead of giving it to his wife, she says, he gave it to a woman living in the other of the house. This aroused Mrs. Wallace's anger and she had an interview with her husband. He, not desiring to be interviewed, resented her words, and Mrs. Wallace says he attempted to choke her. It was then that she ran into the street and aroused the neighborhood.

The officer told her that she had better go home, but she refused, saying that she was afraid of her husband Presently, Wallace appeared and Chief Wilson took charge of him. His wife asked to have him arrested and said she would appear against him this morning. Wallace objected to being arrested and stated that his wife's mind was temporarily unbalanced and that he had done nothing. He was arrested, however, and the hearing was set down for this morning.

In the meantime the firemen were notified and the apparatus was not taken out.

This morning Chief Marshal Wilson learned that Mrs. Wallace had left town and Justice Crosley released her husband as no one appeared against him.

PUT ON BOLD FACES.

But When Accused They Begged to Change Their Plea.

With bold faces, Wm. Hazelton and James Morgan declared themselves not guilty in the city court this morning when charged with being drunk and disorderly on West Fourth street. There were no witnesses against them at that time, but when two residents of that thoroughfare were brought up as witnesses, the prisoners begged that they be allowed to change their plea. The Judge granted the request and Hazelton and Morgan pleaded guilty. They were careful to explain that the witnesses could prove nothing against them, but they forgot to say this when they changed their plea. Dollar bills were as scarce as clean collars with them, so they went to Elizabeth for 30 days instead of paying a $10 fine.

Colored Republicans Active.

The members of the Union Colored Republican club of this city will hold a mass and ratification meeting on Wednesday evening of this week. The affair is to be held in the Republican Association rooms, and the announced speakers are Prof. A. B. Cozey, of Jersey City, who is secretary of the Colored National Committee, and Judge P. J. Colding of Camden. There will also be several local speakers present, and Prof. Hankinson and his orchestra will furnish the music. Edward Maynard is President of the Colored Republican Club.

Still Speaking.

J. E. Martine, of this city, will speak at two meetings in New Brunswick tomorrow evening. A Bryand an Sewall banner will be raised at each meeting. Mr. Martine will address the "Farmers Alliance," of Somerset county, at Basking Ridge on Thursday evening of this week.

Afro-American Baptist Convention.

The Afro American Baptist Association of New Jersey, of which Rev. P. S. Gibson, of this city, is the president, will hold their annaul convention in Montelair commencing on Thursday and continuing through Sunday. Several delegates from this city will attend.

It doesn't matter much whether sick headache, billiousness, indigestion and constipation are caused by neglect or by unavoidable circumstances; DeWitt's Little Early Risers will speedily cure them all. For sale by L. W. Randolph. 143 West Front street.

SEVEN INNINGS AND TIE.

THE P. A. C.'S ASTONISH THE Y. M. C. A. BOYS AGAIN SATURDAY.

The Young Fellows Put up a Rattling Good Game Against the Strengthened Y. M. C. A. Team and Play a Tie Score With Them.

Those who witnessed last Saturday's ball game between the Y. M. C. A. and P. A. C., teams will never regret it, for one of the best, if not the best, games of the season was played. A week ago the Y. M. C. A. team was defeated by the P. A. C.'s 9 to 7, and the former team was somewhat surprised. On Saturday they were determined to win if possible and to that end they recalled Dennis and Major who had been released. The P. A. C.'s, feeling that there team was good, did not make a change, but presented the same players, and with the exception of a few additional errors they played a game equal to the first one. Burt started to pitch the game but was replaced by W. McLoughlin in the third inning. The Y. M.C. A.'s secured one run in the first inning and one in the third, while the P. A. C.s scored one in the third and one in the sixth. Each side made four hits, while there was not an earned run made. During the first heavy downfall of rain the game was continued with the exception of about ten minutes when it became so wet that time had to be called. Only seven innings were played on account of the weather, but each inning was one of excitement. For the P. A. C.s, Winn pitched a remarkable game, and held his opponents down in an astonishing manner. W. McLoughlin also pitched a great game, but some considered it not fair to change pitchers and catchers, as was the case.

The youngsters have demonstrated beyond a doubt that they are worthy competitors for the Y. M. C. A. team and the latter have thus far failed to prove that they are better than their opponents who battled with them, and, in fact, the defeat of a week ago showed that they were not as good. The writer does not wish to have any one think that he speaks disparagingly of the Y. M. C. A. team, for they have given good exhibitions throughout the season, but when they are beaten fairly and are outplayed as they certainly have been, the credit belongs to the P. A.C.s. We hope that another game will be arranged soon between these two teams and that the Plainfield public may have another chance to witness a continuation of such good ball playing. Both sides had their supporters present on Saturday and plenty of excitement was furnished. No doubt it was expected that the Y. M. C. A's would win but those who thought so, miscalculated. The P.A.C.s have shown that they are as strong as any team that has met the Y.M. C. A.s and they do not intend to lose their laurels if they can possibly help it. Below is the score in full:

RAIN PREVENTED THE OUTING.

But the Y. M. C. A. Workers Enjoyed Isaac W. Rushmore's Hospitality.

Just as the committee men of the Y. M. C. A. were preparing to exhibit their skill as ball players and quoit tossers on Saturday afternoon at their outing held on the lawn of Isaac W. Rushmore, of West Seventh street, the rain sent them scrabbling into the house and they spent the rest of the afternoon in playing checkers and other kindred games and wishing the rain would stop.

The shower kept many away and only about twenty-five gathered for the outing. The rain did not spoil the supper, however, and Mr. Rushmore's hospitality was greatly appreciated.

In the evening, there was an informal chat on the different plans for the future and numerous helpful suggestions were made for the work of the different committees.

—Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., will initiate several candidates at their regular meeting this evening.

ELECTION FORECAST

Grosvenor's Estimates of the Probable Result in November.

STATES HE CLAIMS FOR M'KINLEY

Counts 278 Electoral Votes as Certain for the Republican Nominee, with 64 Doubtful—Concedes Eleven States with 70 Votes to Bryan.

Athens, O., Sept. 21.—Gen. Grosvenor this morning gave out a table of estimates of the probable result of the presidential election. He said: "I have been urged for several weeks to authorize the publication of a table of estimates of the presidential election and I have hesitated to do so, because there was more or less uncertainty in regard to the result; not that there has ever been any uncertainty or doubt as to who would be elected, but, following the St. Louis convention and the nomination of Bryan and Sewall by one section of the democratic party, and the substantial absorption of the populist party which succeeded that event, there was some uncertainty as to how a number of the states would finally go, and this condition of uncertainty has not yet entirely disappeared, but the general drift of political events has reached a point where I think I need not hesitate to point out substantially how the several states will go.

States Claimed Sure for McKinley.

The six New England states, with 39 electoral votes, will go to McKinley, so I head my table as follows: New England, 39; New York, 36; New Jersey, 10; Maryland, 8; Delaware, 3; Pennsylvania, 32; West Virginia, 6; Ohio, 23; Indiana, 15; Illinois, 24; Michigan, 14; Wisconsin, 12; Iowa, 13; Minnesota, 9; South Dakota, 4; Kentucky, 13; Oregon, 4; Washington, 4; California, 9. Here is a total of 278 votes, or 54 more than sufficient to elect, all of which are practically sure for McKinley.

The Doubtful States.

I come to some states which are still in doubt, but which under the high tide of republican success now sweeping over the country will be almost sure to vote for McKinley, if not all of them, at least a very large proportion of them, to wit: Kansas, 10; Nebraska, 8; North Carolina, 11; North Dakota, 3; Wyoming, 3. Here are thirtyfive electoral votes from which McKinley will surely receive enough to make good any acceident that may befall the total of 278. Of the remaining doubtful states, Louisiana, 8; Tennessee, 12; Missouri, 17; Texas, 15; Virginia, 12. Total, 64. There are one or more of them in the line of possibility, I might say almost reasonable probability.

States Conceded to Bryan.

I concede to Bryan and Watson or Bryan and Sewall the following states: Alabama, 11; Arkansas, 8; Colorado, 4; Florida, 4; Georgia. 13; Idaho, 3; Mississippi, 9; Montana, 3; Nevada, 3; South Carolina, 9; Utah, 3. These are practically sure for the opposition, although there may be a possible dispute even along that line. I put my estimate upon the facts within my own personal knowledge of the rapid and mighty change in public sentiment that has been going on ever since the actual campaign of 1896 began. I believe that the vote of Arkansas, to which our opponents are pointing with pride, is more significant of coming results in the middle and western states than is even the victory in Maine. The fact that a state like Arkansas, with the character of whose elections we have become so familiar, exhibited such an increase of republican votes and such a decrease of democratic votes, is in the highest degree important, and a relative increase of republican votes in the other states of the middle and west would give us practically a solid vote.

HOKE SMITH FOR GOLD.

He Urges, However, That Democrats Stand Loyal to the Chicago Ticket.

Dalton, Ga., Sept. 21.—Ex-secretary Hoke Smith spok here Saturday afternoon. He referred to an address which he delivered here two years ago in favor of the gold standard. Then he argued that the democratic national convention should declare against the free coinage of silver. Saturday he said that he had not changed his views on the financial question, and he regretted that he could not endorse the financial plank of the Chicago platform. He urged, however, that those who, like himself, did not approve of this plank should remain loyal to the regular nominees.

Depew To Speak in the West.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Henry C. Payne is in charge of republican headquarters during Mr. Hanna's absence and will devote all his time to the transaction of business here. Richard C. Kerens and his party of Missourians were at the headquarters this morning. Mr. Kerens said he was going to St. Louis to organize business men's committees throughout the state and start a campaign on business lines independent of Mr. Filley and his state committee. Chauncey Depew has accepted an invitation to deliver an address at Galesburg, Ill., October 7. He will make some other speeches in the west.

Rev. Louise S. Baker Dead.

Nantucket, Mass., Sept. 21.—Rev. Louise S. Baker, the poet, lecturer and pastor, for many years the minister of the orthodox Congregational church here, died Saturday in the little fishing hamlet of Siasconset on this island. Miss Baker was an associate of Mrs. Livermore and other members of the W. C. T. U., and for many years she was prominently identified with that movement. She was also a poet of considerable ability, her poems "The Life-boat" and "Golden Rod" being especially famous.

THACHER'S POSITION.

His Money Views Unchanged, Nevertheless He Will Vote for the Chicago Nominees.

Albany, Sept. 21.—Mayor John Boyd Thacher has just given out a statement addressed to Hon. Elliot Danforth, chairman of the democratic state committee, the main points of which follow: "I am informed that the democratic party of the state did me the honor of naming me as its candidate for the high office of governor. I now learn that the state committee is to meet on Tuesday for the purpose of appointing a committee to officially notify me of that fact. It has seemed to me due to your committee that, befree it takes that step, I should make a statement. I cannot ask for the confidence and support of the people of the state without frankly declaring my position upon the financial issue now agitating the public. I stand to-day where I stood in the month of June in the presence of a convention of the state democracy. I have not changed an iota in my belief, nor deviated a step in my course. The commercial honor of this nation is pledged to the world, and the whole world knows that the nation will maintain its honor. I took part in the state convention which sent delegates to represent the party in national convention in Chicago. These delegates by participation acquiesced in the action of the national convention in presenting candidates for the offices of president and vice-president of the United States. The state convention of the democratic party has ratified the nomination of these candidates. I have learned from the fathers, and in turn have endeavored to teach that the democratic party is the vehicle to carry the will of the people into effect. Such a vehicle is constructed with difficulty, but is easily destroyed. Such failure now and then to perform absolutely satisfactory service will not justify the utter destruction of the vehicle. It was not constructed to bear one burden, but many and various burdens. When the financial burden is finally disposed of the people will still employ the democratic party to support their purposes and to carry them into effect. When they do thus employ that party I, for one, do not want it to be shattered and dismembered, but to be strong, united and efficient. Therefore I shall cast my vote for William Jennings Bryan and Arthur Sewall, the candidates in due and regular form chosen by a majority of that convention. I regret that I cannot be in full accord on the question of finance with the sentiment of the late convention, but if my position seems inharmonious with the usual attitude of a candidate towards his party it should be remembered that the conditions are also unusual.

EQUITABLE UNION IN TROUBLE.

Receiver Appointed for Class A—Class B, However, Solvent.

Erie, Pa., Sept. 21.—The Equitable Aid union, a widely known beneficiary organization, operating throughout the United States, was brought into court Saturday evening on a bill in equity, which asked for the appointment of a receiver for class "A" in the order. The petitioner for the receiver was Albert A. Bowell of Corry, Pa., who is a beneficiary under his mother's certificate in Phelps' union, New York state, for $350. The petition sets forth that class A, which, under the original plan of the institution, provided for the payment of endowment and disability claims at the life expectancy, is insolvent. That the excess of liability in New York is $161,000; in Pennsylvania, $97,000; in Michigan, $2,200; in Ohio, $2,800. The total liabilities are $395,000, with a set-off in cash of $34,000 and assessments of $70,000. The court appointed Chauncey P. Rogers of Corry receiver and required a bond of $75,000. The Supreme Union in 1895 devised another class, B, and gave its members a chance to be transferred by paying their share of the liabilities of class A and the surrender of their old policies. This scheme brought in $100,000. The order now has 25,000 members, half of whom are in the new class, with $25,000 of a surplus above all liabilities. The decree of the court does not affect class B. The supreme president is A. Morgan of Corry; secretary, J. W. Merratt of Columbus, Pa.; treasurer, Elijah Cook of Buffalo.

Big Blaze at Oswego.

Oswego, N. Y., Sept. 21.—At an early hour yesterday morning fire destroyed the entire plants of the Silver Metal company and the Seliger Toothill Novelty company, together with the three-story block of Timoth Donovan and the houses of Patrick Murray and William Grant. The loss will probably aggregate $100,000. Two hundred and fifty hands are thrown out of employment.

THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

Reason Why It Is Becoming the Universal Tongue.

"Everywhere in the United States," Father Chiniquy says, "the children of French Canadians, as soon as they acquire the English language at school, give up the use of French, except to speak to their mothers. By this process the French must rapidly disappear. It is the same here. A little girl came to me this morning"—he was staying in Montreal—"sent by a parent who had heard me preach and had promised to come and see me. She spoke to me in English for some time, and when I said to her: 'Mais ne pouvez-vous parler Francais?' she replied: 'O mon Dieu, est-ce que je parle Anglais!' There is a reason for this," the old Frenchman continued.

"I recently read an article in a magazine about 'English the Universal Language,' but the writer did not know the true reason. I am in the midst of it, and I know. It is because they can express themselves with greater ease in English than in French."

And M. Chiniquy went on to make the startling avowal, says the Contemporary Review: "When I write a book, and I have written many, I write it in English and then translate it into French. I find it more easy to do it in that way. Your expressions are more direct, your syntax more simple and the sounds of your language are more forcible. Listen." And springing to his feet the old man shouted: "Fire!" "There is some sound," he added. "What can we say in French? 'Feu.' It is lost. You can say 'Ready!'"—again in a sonorous shout. "With us it is 'pret;' there is no sound. 'All aboard!'—with us it is 'embarquex,' but you cannot hear it at ten feet. Yes, sir, the English is bound to become the universal language."

COURTSHIP AND MARRIAGE.

Curious Customs Practiced in Other Parts of the World.

Some of the customs peculiar to courtship and marriage among the race of dwarfs who inhabit the Andaman island are, according to M. de Quatrefages, who recently published a book called "The Pygmies," about these people, very peculiar. Not the least remarkable of them is the procedure of courtship. The young man who has made his choice addresses himself to the parents, who never refuse, but send the girl into the forest, where, before day, she conceals herself. The young man must find her.

If he does not succeed he must renounce all claim to her. The wedding ceremony of these people is equally curious. M. Quatrefages thus describes it: "The two parties climb two flexible trees growing near each other, which an old man then makes to bend toward each other. When the head of the man touches that of the girl they are legally married." Turning from Asia to Europe, we find a very curious custom prevailing in Roumania. Among the peasantry of this country, when a girl attains a marriageable age her trousseau, which has in the meanwhile been carefully woven, spun and embroidered by her mother and herself, is placed in a painted wooden box.

When a young man thinks of asking to be allowed to pay his attentions to the girl he is at liberty to open the box, which is always placed in a convenient position, and examine the trousseau. If he is satisfied with the quantity and quality of the dowry he makes formal application for the girl's hand, but, if not, he is quite at liberty to retire.

The Explanation.

She—Why do you think Hawthorne called his story "The Scarlet Letter?"

He (absent-mindedly)—He probably wanted it read.—Washington Times.

Minced Veal.

Take small pieces of cold roast veal and cut about the size of dice. Make a gravy of a teaspoonful of flour, butter the size of an egg; mix together with a little salt and pepper until it is smooth, then pour over it a cupful of boiling water. Lay in the meat just before it is ready to send to the table. Much cooking makes it tough. It is nice with chopped parsley or onions.—St. Louis Republic.

PHILIPPINE REVOLT

Insurgents Capture a Monastery and Massacre the Monks.

REBELS SMOTHERED IN A DUNGEON

Prisoners Executed in Public—Unsuccessful Effort To Bombard an Insurgent Camp—The Insurrection Spreading in the Interior.

Madrid, Sept. 21.—A dispatch to the Imparcial from Hong Kong says that the rebels at Cavite, Philippine islands, captured the monastery there and massacred the monks, putting them to death with knives. Spanish warships afterwards started a bombardment of the rebel position, but the shots fell short and no harm was done to the insurgents. The dispatch adds that over a hundred rebels who had been captured by Spaniards were flung into a small dungeon at Manila. The next morning fifty-four of the prisoners were found dead, they having been suffocated during the night. The Spaniards, with the object of striking terror among the sympathizers of the rebels, make it a practice to execute their prisoners publicly. The men are taken out in batches and shot before the eyes of any one who desires to witness their death. The dispatch further adds that the rebels are making headway in the interior.

Weyler Orders Huguet's Release.

Havana, Sept. 21.—Captain-General Weyler has ordered the release of Alfredo Hernandez Huguet, an American citizen, who was arrested two weeks ago. His release is conditional upon his leaving Cuba. Brenvido Sanchez, a rebel leader, has been captured in Matanzas. He is wounded.

RECORD OF BRIGANDAGE.

Fouth Assistant Postmaster-General's Report Replete with Dime Novel Stories.

Washington, Sept. 21.—The annual report of fourth assistant postmaster-general R. A. Maxwell, made public today, is chiefly remarkable for its record of brigandage in connection with the mail service of the country. The cases cited, some of them date back a year or more, are replete with dime novel incidents. The operations of road agents in the west are given at length and other notable cases are referred to; among them the arrest of one of the most prominent of New England's clergymen for sending to members of his church defamatory postal cards through the mails; the arrest of E. M. Blore, formerly express messenger on the line of the Lincoln & Deadwood railway; the important arrest of green goods swindlers in Chicago and other places; the breaking up of numerous schemes to defraud, and finally, the apprehension of the notorious murderer, H. H. Holmes, which was effected through the postoffice inspectors. Two thousand and forty-six postoffices have been established the past fiscal year and 1,750 discontinued, a net gain of 296, the largest gain in the number of offices having been in Mississippi, 83; Georgia following with 54. The greatest loss has occurred in West Virginia, 23.

RUSSIA'S RULER SAILS.

The Czar and Czarina To Be Queen Victoria's Guests For Two Weeks.

Copenhagen, Sept. 21.—The visit of the czar and czarina to the king and queen of Denmark ended yesterday and their imperial majesties, accompanied by their suites, started for Scotland. The party boarded the new Russian imperial yacht Standard yesterday afternoon and amid the salutes of the warships in the harbor, and the dipping of flags by the merchantmen, started for Leith, where they will proceed by special train to Balmoral. According to the present programme their majesties will be the guests of Queen Victoria for two weeks, after which they will proceed to Paris. The Standard will be escorted to Leith by the yacht Polar Star, on which the czar and czarina traveled to Copenhagen from Kiel.

Conference at Senator Hill's Home.

Albany, Sept. 21.—Hon. Elliot Danforth, the newly elected chairman of the democratic state committee, chosen at Buffalo on Thursday, was with Senator Hill Sunday afternoon for nearly three hours. He arrived here at 1 o'clock from New York and drove immediately to Wolfert's Roost. Former chairman James W. Hinkley of the democratic state committee was with Senator Hill when Mr. Danforth called. The plans for carrying on the campaign in this state were discussed at length. Frank Adams Acer, who was assistant corporation counsel in New York city under Hon. William H. Clark, accompanied Mr. Danforth here on his visit to Senator Hill.

Accepts a Position at Dartmouth College.

Lowell, Mass., Sept. 21.—Dr. Gile, the assistant superintendent of the state almshouse at Tewksbury, severed his connection with that institution Saturday night, to take the position left vacant by the death of Prof. Frost of Dartmouth college. His friends at the institution presented him with a set of surgical instruments.

Indorses the Democratic State Ticket.

Albany, Sept. 21.—The Argus to-day placed the democratic state ticket at the head of its editorial page.

Time to Stop.

"I shall have to give up that case of Dusenbury's, on which I have been engaged so long," said the eminent lawyer to his friend. "I shall feel rather odd with it out of the way, for it has been one of the stand-bys of the office for years."

"You have exhausted all legal expedients, have you?"

"No; but Dusenbury's money is all gone."—Detroit Free Press.

GOSSIP FROM BERLIN

The Agitation Against the Sultan Spreading in Germany.

COUNT GOLUCHOWSKI'S AMBITION

The Alleged English Dynamite Plot Believed To Have Originated with the Police—Interesting Session of the Women's Congress.

Berlin, Sept. 21.—Before starting for his chateau at Alt-Aussee, Styria, Prince Hohenlohe, the imperial chancellor, paid a visit to Count von Munster-Ledenburg, German ambassodor to France, who is spending his holidays at his estate in Hanover. Prince Hohenlohe will remain in Styria for a fortnight. Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, German minister of foreign affairs, is now in Baden, but his leave of absence will end on Oct. 12. In view of the absence of the chief ministers for the next three weeks the foreign office certainly cannot be very greatly concerned over an immediate crisis in the east. What little diplomatic activity exists now centers in Vienna. Hon. Michael Herbert, first secretary of the British embassy a Constantinople, who so efficiently acted as the substitute of Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador to Turkey, during the recent absence of the latter in England, is on his way to England on leave of absence. He remained four days in Vienna, leaving there on Friday. While he was staying in the Austrian capital Mr. Herbert had three interviews with Count Goluchowski, the Austrian minister of foreign affairs, who is very plainly showing his desire to make for himself a historic name as a statesman by taking the initiative in dealing with the sultan.

The Sultan's Strength.

Mr. Herbert, according to reliable advices which have been received here, advised Count Goluchowski to disregard the oft-repeated Turkish menaces of a general massacre of Christians in Turkey. If the powers collectively, or England alone, should send a fleet to Constantinople, Mr. Herbert does not believe that the sultan possesses the power to effect a general slaughter of Europeans in the Turkish capital city, and he so expressed himself to Count Goluchowski. Mr. Herbert has also been permitted to repeat to the Austrian foreign minister his estimate, which he sent to the British foreign office, of the forces on land and sea which would be necessary to keep order in Constantinople in the event that the sultan should be deposed.

Anti-Turkish Meetings.

The anti-Turkish meetings which have been held in the various populous centres throughout Germany show a rapidly increasing concern in the massacres of Christians in the sultan's dominions. The Catholic clergy have not as yet taken so active a part in the agitation as the Protestant clergy have, but the Catholic laity are subscribing liberally to the Armenian relief funds and the centrists newspapers urge the necessity of dealing with the sultan promptly, vigorously and finally. Dr. Lieber, the leader of the centrist party in the reichstag proposes to demand that the government adopt an unequivocal policy in regard to the Turkish massacres of Christians just as soon as the reichstag resumes its sittings. The Reichsboff, a conservative organ, pours out torrents of wrath at the alleged German apathy in the matter of the slaughter of Christians, but the question is whether or not Germany is apathetic. It is true that the government suppresses any tendency on the part of the semi-official press toward public excitement against the porte; yet from every quarter of the empire come signs that the great political parties, the conservatives, centrists, national liberal and Freisinnige are waking up and will make it impossible for the existence of a government having no distinctive German policy in regard to Turkey, merely saying "ditto" to the Russian or Austrian policy.

Dynamite Scare a Trick Upon the Czar.

The English so-called dynamite plot is suspected here, where police dodges are possibly better known than in England, as being a trick upon the czar. The National Zeitung, in an article on the subject, says: "The English newspapers have made a tremendous commotion over the affair, their articles being obviously aimed at operating on the sensibilities of the czar." The Vossische Zeitung, however, expresses the belief that there is, or was, a Fenian-anarchist conspiracy, though the paper is not aware how widely divergent Fenianism and anarchy are. The Vorwaerts, the organ of the socialists, views the matter naturally as a police plot and assails Chief Inspector Melville of the Scotland Yard police as the foster father of the Berlin anarchists.

Women's Congress.

Six hundred delegates are present at the first international Woman's congress now in session in the great hall of the Berlin eitly buildings. Only two men are in attendance, representatives of the women of Budapest. The matters of international importance to be discussed are the Women's right's question, upon which F. G. French of Washington and Mrs. Wright Sewall of Indianapolis will speak, among others. In the discussion on the subject of working women's clubs Mrs. Thomas Kirkbridge of Philadelphia and Mrs. Ormiston Chant of London will speak, and these ladies with others will also address the congress upon the fight of women against alcohol and other themes.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Monday Generally Fair, preceded by Cloudy Weather Tonight; Warmer Tuesday Morning.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 80 Degrees.

It is a sad plight for the city to be left without any money for the continuation of street improvement, especially since the work on the principal business thoroughfare—Front street—is left half finished.

John Boyd Thatcher, Democratic candidate for Governor of New York State, announces his adherence to the views he expressed at the June State convention, when he declared against the free coinage of silver. His position is fully stated in today's telegraphic news in another column.

In simple justice we are called upon to say that the remarks of Mr. Moody at the Republican meeting last Saturday night were most unjust and ungentlemanly when he said that "Jim Martine would sell his soul for a political job." However much people may disagree with Mr. Martine's ideas on political questions, they will all agree that he is honorable and honest in his declarations.

If public discussion of a question helps to mould opinion, the gold standard idea of the currency question should have converts galore. From now until election the Republicans will hold one and two meetings a week, and the gold Democrats announce their intention of holding public meetings every Tuesday and Thursday. The silver people are yet to be heard from on the rostrum.

SMITH'S RESIGNATION NOT ACCEPTED

Democratic State Committee Refuses to Accept the Senator's Withdrawal.

United States Senator James Smith resigned as member of the Democratic State Committee of New Jersey at the committee's meeting in Taylor's Hotel, Jersey City, Saturday afternoon. He was chairman of the committee. After a speech explaining his position Senator Smith withdrew and left the city. The committee unanimously resolved not to accept the resignation, and directed the secretary to notify Senator Smith of the refusal.

Seventeen of the twenty-six members of the committee were present. Senator Smith presided until he resigned, and Mr. Wolfskiel after Senator Smith's departure. Banker E. F. C. Young, of Jersey City, member of the committee from Hudson county, who has declared against free silver, was absent from the meeting.

It was announced that Candidate William J. Bryan will give September 23d to New Jersey. He will leave Philadelphia at 9 a. m. At Trenton he will take a train of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The train will stop at Frenchtown, Lambertville, Phillipsburg, Belvidere and Mauch Chunk, Oxford, and in Washington. He will leave Washington at 1:38 on a Morris and Essex train, which will stop at Hackettstown, Dover, Morristown, and at as many other places as possible. Mr. Bryan will arrive in Brooklyn in the evening. The Jersey City Democrats hope to have Mr. Bryan at a mass-meeting about the 28th.

—A. M. Pierson, manager of the fresh air camp at Westfield, will address the First Baptist church Christian Endeavor Society on Friday evening, and will relate some of his experience. There will be a special programme of music. All are invited to attend.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

A Letter From Mr. Reynolds.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—It way be true that there exists in America a degree of distrust as regards England; or, more accurately, as regards the English government. But it would be, nevertheless, quite foolish to turn a deaf ear to the words of a tried and avowed friend of our nation simply because he is a 'Britisher." "To see ourselves as others see us" is the part of wisdom. And a candid consideration of the following paragraph taken from Mr. Labouchere's Journal, Truth, may be useful to many of your readers:

I am one of the warmest admirers of the United States in Europe. I am a Democrat of the Democrats in the true sense of the word. I believe that one of the greatest dangers to Democracy in America is that huge accumulations of capital are in the hands of the few, and that these few are too apt to combine together against the well-being of the many. Where it can be proved that the many would permanently benefit by a reform in regard to the laws that regulate property, I am an advocate for such reforms. So far as law could do it, I would have all possessed of a good living income, and none possessed of more. But as a Democrat, and one desirous that the cause of Democracy should everywhere prevail, and as an admirer of the sterling common sense of the American people, I sincerely trust that Mr. Bryan will be defeated. When a man talks about a ration being crucified on a cross of gold as a ground for altering the value of the coinage of a country, and when he announces as a great discovery that his country is to be converted into an Elysium by reducing the purchasing power of its coin, he is, to my mind, either a fool, or, not being one himself, he wishes to float into power by fooling others.

Even those who oppose the views of its author cannot fail to recognize its friendly candor. H. P. Reynolds.

If you have ever seen a little child in the agony of summer complaint, you can realize the danger of the trouble and appreciate the value of instantaneons relief always afforded by DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. For dysentery and diarrœa it is a reliable remedy. We could not afford to recommend this as a cure unless it were a cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

From all accounts Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a Godsend to the afflicted. There is no advertisement about this; we feel just like saying it. The DEMOCRAT, Carrollton, Ky. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Druggist.

A SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY

INTERESTING SERVICE HELD AT THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

W. H. Murray Tells of How He Realized the Wonderfulness of the Bible by Degrees.—Drew a Pretty Parable.

More delightful weather than that of yesterday could hardly be wished for and so the attendance at the Rally Day service of the Sunday-school of the Congregational church was very large. The school was quite large while a number of visitors were present.

The service began at 2:05 o'clock with an instrumental trio by Mrs. M. E. Dwight, Miss Nella Whiton and Prof. P. Ludwig Conde. After a hymn, Frank Bristol, assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A. acting as leader, the school recited several scriptural selections. Another hymn, scripture reading by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, and prayer by John M. Whiton followed. Then the school sang "Tell Me The Old, Old Story," and Miss Addie Parker Jackson gave the response, "The Old, Old Story." It was the story of the fall of man and how Jesus came on the earth to save the fallen ones. The selection itself was a beautiful one but Miss Jackson's rendition of it made it particularly impressive, and the silence that followed it told far better than any applause could how great an impression she had made.

The usual notices were given, the offering taken while another instrumental trio was rendered and then William D. Murray, president of the Y. M. C. A. made a short address.

He told, how when he had been a boy, he had often heard men tell what a wonderful book the Bible was. He could not see any thing so wonderful in it then but as he grew older and studied it, he realized that it was, indeed a very wonderful book. During the last few months, he said, he had been studying about the different boys and girls in the Bible. He choose two boys to tell about, the worst and the best. As the worst, he selected Absolum and told in simply words the story of his childhood, his many misdeeds and his terrible death after stealing his father's crown. Absolum had every advantage he could wish. He was beautiful, he had riches, and he was the king's son and favorite.

The best boy in the Bible, or in the world for that matter, was the boy Jesus. Very little is told directly in the Bible of his boyhood but references through out the New Testiment tell of the condition of his early life. Mr. Murray told many interesting facts relating to this and compared the two boys. The distinguishing trait between them was, he said, selfishness and unselfishness.

After Mr. Murray's very interesting talk, Henry Lewis, the baritone of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church choir, sang "The Pharisee and the Publican" with deep feeling. Rev. C. L. Goodrich closed the service with the benediction.

THEATRICAL.

"Rob Roy," the most recent and melodious of the several comic operas composed by Reginald DeKoven, with lyrics by Harry B. Smith, will be heard in this city tonight at Music Hall. The house will doubtless be crowded with the most important personages and leading social lights. The opera ran for many months in New York, and was said by music lovers to be, without any possible exception or doubt, the most meritorious and pleasing comic opera presented in this country for several seasons. It will be produced here with all sumptuous stage settings which made the performance a notable one in the metropolis.

Herrmann, the greatest living magician, will be seen at Stillman Music Hall for one night only, Tuesday, September 22d. He has many illustrations of the black art as it is demonstrated by him. He has been imitated scores of times, but now critics acknowledge but one star and that is Herrmann. His powers of illusion are such that they cannot be detected. Herrmann will be assisted by Adelaide Herrmann, in the spectacular dances which she has created and made famous.

One of the leading and most laughable features of Stowe & Co.'s Uncle Tom's Cabin will be the grand cake walk, in which over twenty of the noted prize winners of the day have already entered, including quite a little of the local talent. It will be one of the events of the season and should not be overlooked by anyone. Come early and pick your favorite. At Music Hall Wednesday afternoon and night.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

"Ted" Flannery, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with his mother here.

Mrs. John Johnson, who has been ill with symptoms bordering on typhoid fever, was much improved yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hand, who was prostrated with nervousness some time since, is recovering and was able to sit on the porch for a short time yesterday.

Miss Maggie Fitzgerald and two gentlemen escorts, Wm. Fitzgerald and Daniel Gibson, of Jersey City, rode over to Springfield on bicycles yesterday, returning in the evening.

Messrs. Wahl & Hetfield, owners of the stone crusher near here, have received a contract to furnish 50,000 tons of crushed stone, early next spring, for macadamizing purposes in South Jersey.

Dennis Crane, a nephew of Dr. Cole, is a victim of potato thieving. He estimates that he has suffered to the extent of thirty bushels from his well-kept patch during the past week. Now Mr. Crane sleeps with one eye open and a hand on his seven-shooter.

A half-dozen drunks got into an altercation on Front street, yesterday afternoon, and for a time a free fight seemed imminent. There is no jail or lockup here, and no one cares to harbor a lot of would be pugilists over night, so they staggered on toward the mountain.

A peculiar case is to come up for trial before Judge Clark on Saturday next. It is an action in tort brought by A. McCauley against A. Berstetter. McCauley claims that the defendant's chickens run into his corn patch and pick off the kernels of corn, and it is on this account that he claims damages.

Dr. Cole's handsome residence, near here, was recently leased to a New York family named Phillips for a term of three years. But the lessee, who is a New York banker, evidently fearing blizzards and snow drifts, which would necessarily keep him away from his place of business, threw up the lease and has rented Bert Strong's cottage at Fanwood instead. Possession will be had next month.

DUNELLEN.

Miss Florence Howard has returned home after spending a week with her sister, at Greenpoint, L. I.

Conductor M. L. Rarick's trotting horse is slowly recovering from rheumatism. The animal has been sent to Chester for treatment.

William Carmon and John Doty drove over to Pluckamin on Thursday and succeeded in bagging nine doves. "Billy" says there is plenty of game in that vicinity and he intends making another trip there before the season closes.

Next Thursday evening the first annual election of officers for the Dunellen fire department will take place, and already there is some contention for the honors. The company was only organized a few months ago, when temporary officers were elected.

Mrs. Charles Carpenter was summoned to Trenton, on Saturday, on account of the sudden and serious illness of her mother.

Mrs. Eliza Duncan, of Perth Amboy, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Howard Giles, here.

A. G. Lewis spent Sunday at High Bridge with his wife, who has been visiting there for a week past.

Some of the Lyons' summer boarders left for New York Saturday, but the house is still open for the reception of guests.

According to Mayor Brakeley's report the health of the borough is in a very good condition. Few cases of sickness have been reported within the past week.

The members of the Dunellen Gun Club held an individual shoot on the club's grounds Saturday afternoon, but the scores recorded were only up to the average.

Charles Coriell is in charge of the arrangement committee for the Republican banner-raising here next Thursday evening. The speaker has not yet been secured, but the pyrotechnics have.

Harry L. Terry has been appointed borough clerk vice H. C. Gaskill, resigned. Mr. Gaskill is a member of the board, and under the new borough law he is disqualified from serving on both at one time.

William Farrier has received two carloads of paving stones, which are to be used to finish the work of paving on Dunellen avenue. He has also entered into an agreement with the Land Improvement Company to lay 160 feet of flagging in front of the various pieces of property owned by the company here.

The boys who infest the Dunellen station these pleasant afternoons and evenings try the patience of Station Agent English. They run in and out of the station and almost bathe near the faucet in the drinking fountain, so that it has become necessary to keep them out of the place. The move is a good one and in the right direction, and Station Agent English is to be congratulated on the action he has taken.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Residents in this town are becoming alarmed through fear of fire. Several incipient blazes have been discovered of late, but in each instance they were extinguished before any serious damage was done. The borough is practically without an adequate water supply, and it is said the Plainfield Water Company asks $1,500 a year to lay its mains into the borough, and besides wants permission to furnish private families with water at the company's own rates.

Saugstad Won the Coasting Contest.

Roselle's coasting contest was held Saturday afternoon and two of the three prizes came to Plainfield. The course was muddy and a uncertain breeze gave some of the contestants an unequal advantage. Olof Saugstad, of this city, won on a Spalding. J. R. Laggren, of Elizabeth, was second on a Tribune wheel. F. Richark Stevens, of this city was third on a Cleveland. There were about thirty other competitors.

High Standard Being Built Up.

Superintendent Warde, of the North Plainfield Public School, is rapidly bringing that institution up to the first rank. Saturday he received notification that the University of New York had decided to accept the diplomas of the school in lieu of preliminary examinations for entrance to the law and medical colleges in New York State.

—Large audiences greeted Rev. H. J. Johnston, at Grace M. E. church yesterday, both afternoon and evening, and two able sermons were delivered.

—Edward Priestly and Lewis Stainats were brought before Judge De Meza Saturday on the charge of trespassing on railroad trains. Sentence was suspened.

—"I was sick for about two years with billiousness and my tongue was covered with pimples so that I could not eat. I was told to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and after taking half a bottle I found it was helping me." Samuel J. Miller, 1061 Magnolia avenue, Elizabeth, N. J. Hood's Pills cure indigestion.

Sent it to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

GOIN' HOME TO MARY.

Birds seem singin' all the way
Goin' home to Mary;
Roses on a winter's day,
Goin' home to Mary.
I can hear my heart keep time
With the bells that sweetly chime;
Happiest man that lives when I'm
Goin' home to Mary!

Far away her smile I see,
Goin' home to Mary;
How it lights the way fer me,
Goin' home to Mary!
There, in groves where nests the dove,
In a cot with blooms above,
Still she lights the lamps o' love—
Goin' home to Mary!

Down the walk come patterin' feet,
Goin' home to Mary:
Children's arms an' kisses sweet,
Goin' home to Mary.
Rob comes climbin' to my knee,
Katie wants a kiss from me;
"Loves me all the world," says she,
Home with love an' Mary!

Shine the lights for evermore,
Goin' home to Mary!
Love still leads me to the door,
Goin' home to Mary.
For her sake my toil is sweet,
For her sake my heart'll beat
Till it's dust beneath her feet—
Goin' home to Mary!

—Frank L. Stanton, in Chicago Times-Herald.

THE TRAIN CANNOT WAIT

She is just 18, with golden hair and gray eyes—large gray eyes that laugh just as well as her red lips; her figure, though a little frail, makes one think what a pretty woman she will be soon. Her hands and arms are those of a child—is she not still a child? Clara left school but a fortnight ago. She is the beloved and only daughter of a rich miller in the neighborhood of Avesnes.

Nothing is more poetical than a mill in the country. It does not disturb the silence of the air with its monotonous tic-tac; on the contrary, its noise, strong and regular, is like an accompaniment to the many other noises of the wind, and of the trees, and of the birds. Clara was charmed with it all.

During a few days after her arrival the whole house was upset, making and receiving calls, dinner parties, dancing parties, lawn tennis; the days were not long enough to hold their pleasures. Then all was quiet at the mill.

In the orchard, which was large, the walks were spread over with sand, and the trees, loaded with fruit, afforded a beautiful shady grove. This was Clara's favorite nook; here she would go and read poetry. She had been given the works of Lamartine, beautifully bound. Now, Lamartine, is a very tender poet, and Clara was still in her teens, and this was summer, and the fragrance of the flowers and the murmur of the breeze acted on her young mind; and through this book she would dream of things she had never dreamed of before.

One day her mother asked her if she remembered her cousin Albert.

"Oh, yes, indeed," said she. This answer came from her heart; she blushed and from her neck to her brow she felt that sort of electricity that is produced by a little shame and a great pleasure.

"Well," said her mother, "you will see him very soon."

Clara was about to say: "Oh, how glad I am!" but she thought it more proper to say nothing.

And why was she silent? I will tell you. It was because she had read Lamartine. Why! does poetry make one false? Well, I don't know, but it speaks of love—and what is love?

"Well," said Clara, "I have not seen him for two years. I suppose he is changed!"

"Not more than you," said her mother, casting a loving glance of admiration to her daughter; "you were a little girl when you went away—you are a young lady now."

Clara ran off to her beloved grove to hide the blushes on her cheeks and the beatings of her heart. She sat down, drew from her pocket her volume of poetry, but read not a line.

Albert arrived a few days before he was expected, but she was thinking of him. She always had roses on her cheeks, but these roses changed into peonies when she saw him, and her hands trembled. He took hold of those hands and kissed her on both cheeks.

He was a medical student who had not yet in his brain the least thought of anything serious; he had suddenly discovered in himself a vocation for the beautiful science of Aesculapius, that he might go to Paris to spend a few years of his life and waste a few thousands of his father's francs.

"Ah! little cousin," said he, "you are pretty now. Why, I am afraid I shall fall in love with you."

She looked at him, not knowing what to say.

"Have you forgotten the good times we had in this garden, and over there in the woods?"

"Oh, no," said she.

"And when we would go rowing and I would scare you by swinging to and fro in the boat to capsize you?"

"Oh, no, I remember it all."

"Then why don't you put your arms around my neck and say pleasant things to me as you did then?"

"I don't know," she faltered.

Then he said to himself: "This cousin of mine must be a little simpleton."

"Well," said he, aloud, "and what is this book?"

"Lamartine. It is beautiful."

"I don't think so. I think it stupid"—then seeing that she was somewhat abashed, he added: "Why does it displease you that I should not care for Lamartine?"

"Because I love his poems."

"Well, if I read poetry I want Alfred de Musset. I shall send you his works when I get to Paris."

At this moment they heard a quick and firm step on the sandy walk, and a young man came upon them.

"Excuse me, mademoiselle," said he, "I have just learned that Albert is here and I have come to shake hands."

An old saying came to Clara's mind: "Two is company; three is a crowd." She was too well behaved to say it, so she left the two young men together. When alone she reflected that Albert was a very nice cousin, and might make a very good husband; as for his friend—well, he was a very good looking man, and might be a very nice fellow—but what a difference between the two.

"Your cousin is a charming girl," said Jack.

"Oh, yes, but she is only a school girl."

"Well, what else can she be? She is just out of school and not a woman yet. Do you know what were my thoughts as I looked at you both?

"How can I know?"

"I was thinking that you would make a pretty couple."

"Now, Jack, what harm have I ever done you that you should want to chain me down?"

"Are you not 25?"

"Is that old age?"

"Would you give an old man to your cousin, who will be only 19 next year?"

"In two years she will be 20—that will be better still. Then I will be a serious man and an M. D. Clara is a good match; our fortunates are about equal. I think I might make a living in this country. Well, who knows what may happen one day? I have plenty of time to think of it!"

"I think your cousin deserves better than that, and you ought to be in love with her."

"What! Love at first sight! I do think Clara is pretty, but—plenty of time—plenty of time!"

Everybody seemed happy at the mill; even Clara, who listened with pleasure to the compliments of her cousin whenever he chanced to be with her, and she thought him so witty that she quite forgot to show her own wit before him.

In the meantime she was hoping that he would propose before going back to Paris, but the last day dawned, and he had not said the least word about marriage. She hoped till the last hour; then, till the last minute.

Albert gave kisses all around and said to her: "I will come back next year. I will write to you, and send Musset's works, as I promised."

She plucked up courage and said to him:

"Is that all you want to promise, Albert?"

He understood what she meant, but would not promise more, and as his eyes rested on the clock he said:

"Good-by, cousin; the train is here—it cannot wait."

The life of a student, especially that of a student who does not study, is just as tiresome as any other.

There comes a time when he gets tired of beer, wine and cigars.

Albert was in one of his dark days: since morning he had felt cross, and would not even smoke; his pipe lay on the table with a pile of books and dusty papers. His tobacco pouch reminded him of Clara—she had embroidered it for him during the week he had spent with her. Then he was also reminded that he had promised to write and send Musset's works; he felt badly at these thoughts, and remorse made him go out to repair his forgetfulness.

There is a knock at the door; the servant brings up a letter to him; it is from his mother.

His drowsiness gives way as he reads the lines; he gets up in a passion, upsetting the table and everything upon it.

Clara is to be married, and in a week, too; and he is expected to attend the wedding.

"And whom does she marry, I wonder?" exclaims he; "some common country lad, I suppose. No, it cannot be! I must go there and stop it; she cannot be sacrificed in this way!"

Two hours later he started with a valise in one hand and a bundle under one arm; it was Musset's works.

Clara met him at the garden gate; she was looking as fresh as the flowers, and he, being conceited, thought that the happiness expressed on her face was due to his presence. She was less timid than last year and a little stouter, one could read her heart through her gray eyes and her smiles.

"Is what I hear true, Clara?"

"Certainly. I was about to write to you. I want you here for the wedding."

"It is impossible!"

"Quite possible and true."

"With whom?"

"With Jack, of course."

"Ah, the scoundrel! There is nothing like a friend to betray one."

"Why, Albert, what a short memory you have. Poor Jack would not speak of love before he was quite sure of your feelings toward me. I am very thankful that you set him at liberty to speak. I am so proud and happy at being loved by such a noble heart."

Albert threw his bundle on the table. "What is that?" asked Clara.

"Musset's works. I had promised them to you."

"You are too late, cousin. Jack gave them to me long ago, as I was complaining of your forgetfulness."

"Tell me, Clara—this is all a dream, is it not? You are not going to marry Jack?"

She laughed. "And why not?" she said.

"Because I love you; because if you mean to marry Jack I start by the first train, and you shall never see me again."

She looked at the clock, as he had done the year before, and said, archly:

"Then hurry up, cousin, for the train is here, and it cannot wait."—N. O. Times-Democrat.

Onions for Children.

TAKING CARE OF THE WIDOW.

She and Her Six Children Get a Husband and Father.

Charles Custer, the popular storekeeper at Renton, came to the Post-Intelligencer office, where I was employed, and related a very sad story. He said that a German woman with six children had arrived in Renton from the old country a few days before on her way to Newcastle to join her husband; that on her arrival in Renton she had learned that her husband had been killed in the mines six weeks before. She could not speak a word of English and was without money or friends. Custer said the people of Renton had supplied her immediate wants, and that he had come to Seattle to arrange for the county to take care of her until she was in a position to care for herself and family. When he had finished his story he turned to me and asked what I would advise.

Jarvis and his ranch, with plenty of room for the children to romp in and plenty of milk for them to drink and the four dining-room chairs popped into my mind like a flash, and I replied: "Custer, do you think your widow would consider matrimony as a way out of troubles?"

"Why, the idea almost staggers me," replied Custer. "Who on earth wants to marry a woman with six children, who has only learned of the death of her husband within the last four days? Besides that, she cannot speak a word of English. She speaks German altogether."

"She has not much the better of my man," I replied. "He is a Frenchman, and can neither speak English nor German; but I guess if they get married they soon will be able to understand each other."

Custer went further into the particulars of my scheme. I told him who the man was and my reasons for thinking that he would be willing to marry the German woman, children and all. That afternoon Custer went on horseback over to Jarvis' ranch, laid the matter before him, and to his surprise and gratification Peter jumped at the chance. "You go back to town and make the arrangements," said Jarvis, "and I'll hitch up and drive over this evening and have the job done at once."

"All right," said Custer, "but don't forget to put a couple of extra seats in the wagon for the young ones."

"How many did you say there were?" asked Jarvis.

"Only six. Now, don't spend too much time sprucing up, because I'll have everything ready before you can reach town if you go for the horses at once."

As Custer left the farm the old man shouted: "Good-by. You will have to ride lively if you beat me to town. My horses are not driven for a bride very often, and they can stand it to get over the ground at a rapid pace for once in their lives."

Sure enough, Custer had hardly time to break the news to the widow, through an interpreter, before the dashing Frenchman came tearing through the streets like mad, and reined his panting horses up in front of Custer's store. Before leaving Seattle that day Custer had taken the precaution to secure the necessary license, with the understanding that it could be returned if not used. A preacher was called in, the bride and groom were introduced, and made man and wife, in almost the same breath, and half an hour later Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis and the six little ones were comfortably seated in the big lumber wagon, bound for the Jarvis homestead on Cedar river, as happy as clams at high tide.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

A Raspberry Ice Cream.

The most delicious ice creams are those flavored with fruit juices or fruit pulps. They do not usually contain eggs; therefore, they are more like a sherbet than a regular ice cream, except that milk or cream, or part of both are substituted for the water used in a sherbet. Raspberry cream is one of the most delightful of these light creams. Boil two quarts of raspberries with a pint of sugar for ten minutes. Strain off the juice and squeeze the pulp out of the raspberry. Add it slowly to a pint of boiling milk. Freeze this mixture. When it is cooled, and just before it is ready to pack away, add a pint of cream beaten to a stiff froth. Pack the cream away for three hours and it will be ready to serve. A delicate white cake, flavored with bitter almonds, is an excellent accompaniment to this cream. A cream made of an equal quantity of chopped pineapple, cooked in a pint of sugar and strained, or of peaches, may be used. Strain the pineapple or the peaches through a puree sieve that will allow all the fruit pulp to pass through.—N. Y. Tribune.

Summer Salads.

Japanese fish salad is inexpensive and particularly good. To make it, mix two cupfuls of cold boiled fish, shredded, with one cupful of cucumber pickles cut into slices. Add well made French dressing and serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Jardiniere Salad.—Take equal quantities of cold cooked potatoes, turnips, string beans, beets, celery and tomatoes. Put in a salad bowl and add chopped pickle, olives, capers, hard-boiled eggs and shredded lettuce leaves and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Salad of Water Cress and Apples.—Use only the tender water cresses. Let them stand half an hour in cold water to become crisp. Then dry them thoroughly. Now mix with thin slices of sour apples and a chopped hard-boiled egg. Add a French dressing and serve.—N. Y. Journal.

A Rare Find.

"I cannot play on a single instrument and don't know one tune from another," said the prettiest girl at the hotel. "Are you open to an engagement?" asked a voice in her ear. "I am an agent for a museum of freaks, and we haven't anything in our show to compare with you."—Detroit Free Press.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

Our Coal Is as Clean

as though it were washed and brushed. Each lump stands by itself, good solid coal—So much solid fire. After the coal reaches the surface of the earth from the mines, impurities are picked out by hand. Thereafter it is screened several times before it reaches you, and dirt, slate, etc., really have no chance—if the dealers are careful.
We are very careful.
Just now we are quite busy filling bins for winter. The prices are lower than in cold weather, and dealers are able to give better service. When may we have your order?

A Question of Importance—the question of prices.
We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

REFINED REVENGE.

Here Is a Girl Who Is Complete Master of the Art.

From one of our fashionable suburbs, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, comes a tale of revenge that would make a Sioux Indian turn green with envy. A young man just home from an eastern college invited a young lady of the village to a Sunday morning ride on his tandem bicycle. She was delighted, and would, of course, go, and she could scarcely wait to carry the news to her particular girl friend, who, it happened, had heretofore occupied the front seat on that same tandem. Then the plot was laid.

"How nice," said her chum. "Have you a bicycle suit? Why not wear mine? Don't you think this will look lovely?"

Now, the garment exhibited happened to be a bathing suit of pronounced colors and unique design, but the first young lady had never been in sight of salt water, and being of a guileless nature, anyhow, the bunko game worked to perfection.

The young man's breath suddenly left him that Sunday morning when his companion came out ready to mount, but that was nothing to the picnic they created along the route. Pious matrons on their way to church threw up both hands and prayed fervently, and the male population on the streets stopped spellbound and watched them out of sight. The young man had little to say, but it is claimed he broke Zimmerman's record getting to the unfrequented streets. Verily, "revenge is sweet."

A SUNSTRUCK TREE.

The Singular Cause of the Death of a Sugar Maple.

In the last number of Meehan's Monthly the editor tells of being summoned to hold an inquest over a dead sugar-maple tree. It was supposed to have been destroyed by a leak in the city gas main near its roots, but an examination convinced Mr. Meehan that the tree had died literally from sunstroke.

This maple had been planted on the street about 25 years, and was some four feet in girth. The trunk, however, instead of being cylindrical, was shaped like a triangular prism—a peculiarity owing to the fact that on three sides of it the inner bark and wood had been killed, while the outer bark continued to cover up the injury so that the only living wood was at the angles of the trunk. Practically no more than one-third of the surface of the trunk was alive, and when the exceedingly warm weather of last month came the limited number of ducts were not sufficient to supply the moisture needed to meet the rapid transpiration from so large a surface of foliage; consequently the leaves wilted and the tree died.

Whenever the trunk of a tree takes on this angular form it should be examined under the bark, and if the flatter portions are found dead the bark and the decaying part of the wood should be wholly cut away and the denuded part painted to check the rotting. In time healthy wood may grow over such a scar, and the life of the tree may thus be eventually saved.

DECISIVE WORLD-WAR TO COME.

One More Great Struggle of Physical Force Before the Era of Peace.

Many have been tempted to say, in view of the vain rumors of wars of the last few months which have affected four continents, that we have seen the last great war. It might be so if all nations were on the same level of civilization, writes George B. Adams in Atlantic Monthly. But with the great races of the world, those which will inevitably be the leading actors in the coming drama, still in such different stages of advancement, who will dare to predict that we have yet entered upon a millennium of perpetual peace? The odds are altogether in favor of one more great struggle of physical force, compared with which, very likely, the greatest struggles of the past will seem but child's play, before we enter upon the era of the peaceful competition of ideas and institutions and radical types which will introduce the real millennium when it comes. If such a conflict of force should come there is only one place for us. We must be on the side of our own ideas and institutions and race, and we cannot afford in the meantime to be training ourselves to consider our natural allies our natural enemies, or to weaken the sum of our resources by any civil strife that can be honorably avoided.

Ward Off Lightning.

Telephone wires seem to have an important influence in preventing lightning from striking, according to the investigations of the German telegraph department. Three hundred and forty towns with telephone saystems and 560 towns without them were under observation. In the former the lightning struck three times for every hour of storm; in the latter five times. Moreover, the violence of the lightning was much less in the former cases.

Racial Lines in Africa.

All the colored people in South Africa are treated alike by the whites as divided from themselves by a wide and impassable gulf. A native, whatever his rank, would seldom be permitted, except as a domestic servant, to enter a private house. When Khama was in England last autumn and was entertained at lunch by the duke of Westminister the news excited general annoyance and disgust among the whites in South Africa.

Jury Development.

A pretty story is told about a little boy whose elder sister is much interested in photography, and gives the family the benefit of many observations about her work. This little boy was taken to the courthouse to see the end of a certain trial. He came home and told his mother about it. "The judge made a speech to the jury," he said, "and then sent them into a little dark room to develop."

OCCUPIED LINCOLN'S PEW.

Mr. Bryan Attends Divine Service at a Presbyterian Church in Washington.

Washington, Sept. 21.—William J. Bryan attended service yesterday at New York Avenue Presbyterian church. The announcement of the fact that he would attend attracted to the church a number of persons not accustomed to worship there. Mr. Bryan is not a stranger to the members of the New York Avenue church. During his congregational career and while Rev. W. A. Bartlett was psstor Mr. Bryan was a frequent attendant upon the services. He usually escorted his father, a tall, striking looking man with heavy gray locks, who was blind or nearly so. Mr. Bryan had a seat in the pew once occupied by President Lincoln, who attended the church under the pastorate of Rev. Dr. Gurley. Rev. Dr. Radcliffe, the pastor, had no knowledge of the intended presence of the presidential candidate until he reached the house. There was only the slightest reference in any part of the service to the pending political struggle. In his prayer the preacher asked that in this time of commotion, the Lord would be with the people, and that the president whom they might select would be of the Lord's own choosing, giving the country "peace and honor." At the close of the service Mr. Bryan went forward to the pulpit, as had been his custom, and spoke a few words to the preacher. Many of the congregation took advantage of the opportunity to press forward and pay their respects. As he left the church there was slight cheering by the crowd that waited for his appearance.

THE BRYAN CAMPAIGN.

Progress of the Work at Headquarters in Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—The democratic committee claim to have received a copy of a circular letter which had been sent by a harvesting machine company of Chicago to its agents throughout the west telling them to supply their travelers with gold literature and instruct them to use it among the farmers the same as advertising matter of the firm. J. A. Wilson, the agent of the company at Carthage, Mo., who received one of the letters, is said to have replied as follows: "You are on a cold trail. Missouri will give Bryan 60,000 majority. If these letters are written by authority of your company any Missouri farmer who uses their harvester deserves to sell his wheat at forty cents a bushell." Senator Blackburn of Kentucky will address meetings in Brooklyn, September 23; Pensacola, Fla., September 25; New York city, September 29. F. S. Fletcher of Jackson, Tenn., was a caller at headquarters. He is a Bryan supporter, but he admitted that the nominee would run 30,000 behind the nominee for governor, ex-Governor Taylor, ascribing the loss to the growth and popularity of the gold sentiment in Tennessee.

SHOT DOWN A BURGLAR.

Another Fleeing Wrongdoer Meets Death at the Hands of a New York Policeman.

New York, Sept. 21.—Early Sunday morning Officers Becker and Carey saw three men, John O'Brien, William Walsh and a third, whose name is unknown, leave the cigar store of Alfred Katz at No. 1335 Broadway. Supposing that a burglary had been committed, the officers called the men to halt, but instead of stopping they broke into a run through West Thirty-fifth street. The policemen gave chase and finally captured Walsh. O'Brien at this time was a considerable distance ahead of the officers, and one of them, Carey, drew his revolver and fired twice. The first shot missed O'Brien, but the second hit him in the back and passed through his heart, killing him instantly. The third burglar escaped. A bundle that O'Brien had thrown away in his flight was found to contain six boxes of cigars, valued at $25. The body of O'Brien was taken to the morgue to await a claimant.

Fate of a Yachting Party.

New York, Sept. 21.—A bottle containing the following note was picked up on the beach in front of the Brighton Beach hotel Saturday night: "Stranded, Sept. 1, sloop yacht Harry C., fifteen miles off Rockaway beach. Raised signals, but never reported. Capt. H. Carpenter." The unfortunate skipper was a well-known hotel keeper in Canarsie and has been missing since the first of the month, when he went yachting with a party of four. It is very probable that the signals were not noticed by passing vessels and, the provisions running out, the party starved to death. The police believe that the stranded persons were accidentally drowned or in despair threw themselves overboard to escape starvation.

Prof. Moissan in New York.

New York, Sept. 22.—Prof. Henry Moissan of the University of Paris, accompanied by his wife and daughter, were passengers on the French liner La Gascogne, which arrived here yesterday from Havre. Prof. Moissan comes as a representative of the University of Paris to the Princeton sesqui centennial, which occurs on Oct. 20, 21 and 22 in Princeton. He is a member of the first institute of the Legion of Honor and is president of the French Chemical society. Prof. Moissan is a noted man in France.

No Pardon for McKane.

New York, Sept. 21.—The Herald contains the following: Notwithstanding the many rumors to the effect that John Y. McKane is to be released from Sing Sing, information has been obtained from a source near to Gov. Morton that such is not the case. The governor has determined that he will not issue a pardon to McKane during his term of office, and that McKane should serve the full term for which he was sentenced.

DEFEAT OF DERVISH

Dongola Taken by the British Without Resistance.

THE NATIVE WARRIORS OUTWITTED

El Hafir Also Captured, But Not Until After a Hot Engagement—Twenty-seven Grain-laden Boats Also Secured by the Expedition.

Cairo, Sept. 21.—A dispatch from the Anglo-Egyptian expedition states that Dongola, the objective point of the expedition, has been taken without meeting with any resistance from the Dervishes, the place being unoccupied. The dispatch adds that the town of El Hafir, north of Dongola, to which place the Dervishes retreated, was captured after a hot engagement. After the place had fallen into the hands of the expedition, the Egyptians captured twenty-seven grain-laden boats, the loss of which will be a severe blow to the Dervishes. The latter made desperate efforts to recapture the boats, but a heavy fire was poured into them by the troops and the gunboats and they were finally compelled to abandon their attempts to regain possession of the boats and their cargoes. After their defeat the entire Dervish force retreated southward upon Dongola. At the same time the expedition's steamers started for the same place, and being the quicker, reached there before the Dervishes. The city was found to be deserted by warriors and the steamers at once landed a force of infantry to hold it until the arrival of the main body of the expedition. At the time the dispatch was sent the Dervishes were approaching Dongola overland, and scouts reported that they were carrying many of their wounded with them. Included among their wounded are some of the most noted chiefs. It is expected that as the Dervishes are without food or other stores that they will make a most desperate attempt to get possession of Dongola. El Hafir was not taken by the troops until after a most stubborn resistance on the part of the Dervishes had been overcome. The riflemen of the latter fought behind well made mud forts and in trenches that were strewn with mats. These defences, however, were soon wrecked by the heavy fire of the Egyptian artillery and the Maxin battery that was manned by the Connaught rangers. The Dervishes stood the fire bravely but were finally compelled to withdraw from the place. Their cavalry took no part in the engagement, remaining some distance off in the desert watching the result of the battle. When the British and Egyptians landed the entire force retreated southward.

Dervishes Were Outwitted.

London, Sept. 21.—The correspondent of the Daily News who is with the Soudan expedition telegraphs that in the attack on El Hafir the Dervishes were outwitted. They all advanced on land to meet the troops, thus permitting the gunboats to slip past the town, sink one of their steamers, and hurry on to Dongola. When the Dervishes saw the move they turned and tried to overtake the gunboats and save Dongola, but the land forces of the expedition headed them off. The Staffordshire regiment will follow the gunboats to Dongola, and thus the Dervishes will be placed between two fires. Wad Bishara, the leader of the Dervishes, was wounded at El Hafir. He was carried outside the range of the guns. A prisoner states that when he saw that he was defeated he exclaimed: "Allah is against me!"

Silver Service for the Indiana.

New York, Sept. 21.—Gov. Claude Matthews and a delegation of prominent citizens from Indiana, who came here to represent that state in the gift to the battleship Indiana of a silver service, were met this morning by Assistant Secretary McAdoo of the United States navy, and at 10 o'clock were conducted to the dispatch boat Dolphin at the Barge office. They will be received by Capt. Robley D. Evans, and after inspecting the ship, the formal presentation of the silver service will occur, followed by a banquet and toasts, and, after the ceremonies, the committee will be taken on a cruise down the bay.

Editor Blot Released from Jail.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Arthur N. Blot, editor of the News of this city, who was arrested Friday night and lodged in the county jail in default of the payment of $500 damages for libelling ex-mayor F. F. Brush of this city, was released late Saturday evening on a stay of proceedings granted by Justice Dickey of the supreme court. The stay was secured by Blots' counsel, who will immediately take the necessary steps to appeal the case.

Murdered Through Jealousy.

Bridgeton, N. J., Sept. 21.—Simon B. Shaw, aged 58 years, a dissolute character at Fries Mill, Cumberland county, Saturday night shot and killed Stultz Carlisle, aged 27, of Leesburg. Williamina Wilson, married, and aged but 26 years, kept house for Shaw. Shaw became jealous because Stultz Carlisle called with his cousin, Walter Carlise, to visit the woman. He met them and shot Stultz dead. The murderer is in the jail here.

British Coal Steamship Wrecked.

Nassau, N. P., Sept. 21.—The British steamer viceroy, Capt. Rollo, from Philadelphia for Havana with coal, was wrecked on the island of Abaco on the 17th inst. She is a total lost. Her crew arrived here safely.

Von Kettler Sails for America.

Berlin, Sept. 21.—Baron von Ketteler, first secretary of the German embassy in Washington, has sailed for New York on board the steamer Normannia.

A DEFAULTER CAUGHT

'COUNT" CAROSELLI ARRESTED AT THE HOME OF HIS SON.

Defrauded the Poor Italians of the East Side of New York Out of Their Savings—Will be Extradited to New York.

Alberico Caroselli, the Italian banker, Roosevelt street, New York, who absconded August 4th with the deposits of his countrymen, was arrested in North Plainfield yesterday afternoon as a fugitive from justice.

Caroselli is known familiarly as the "Count," and he conducted a private banking business. When the depositors found that the doors of his office were closed and that he had defaulted with their savings there was great consternation among the poor Italians of the lower class on the east side of New York with whom he did business.

Caroselli disappeared from view and it was thought that he had left the country. A quiet search was instituted, however, and it was learned that his son lived on Lincoln avenue in the borough and worked in Chapot's glove factory. A watch of the house disclosed the fact that the "Count" was staying with his son.

Yesterday, Raffaello Laguardio, of Oak street, New York, who lost $200 by the defalcation, came to this city and interviewed Lawyer Hetfield. The latter drew up a complaint against the missing banker, charging him with being a fugitive from justice. A warrant was issued by Justice Newcorn and put in the hands of Constable Rockafellow, who, in company with Constable Mattox, went to the house of young Caroselli and found the fugitive there.

He was arrested without trouble and taken before the Justice and was remanded to the lockup. He will be taken to the county jail to await extradition to New York.

AROUND THE BASES.

The Plainfield Juniors defeated the Young Athletic Club by a score of 13 to 12 Saturday morning.

Manager Mumford, of the P. A. C., offered to play another game with the Y. M. C. A. team on Saturday, Oct. 10th, but Manager McLoughlin refused, and said that his team is done for this season. Tee Kay officiated as umpire on Saturday, and as usual gave satisfaction. Only in a few instances were his decisions questioned and they did not affect the result.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Tom Brantingham's "Myrtle Twig" defeated J. W. Johnson's "St. Albans" and W. E. Brock's pacer, "Active," at the Driving Park, Saturday, and made the track record of 2:22¼, beating the old one half a second.

Two well-known horses from this vicinity will trot at the Inter-State Fair at Trenton this week. They are Thos. Brantingham's "Myrtle Twig" and Chas. Brower's "Highland Boy," and they are entered in the 2:25 class, to trot on Tuesday.

Realty Changes.

The following transfers of real estate were recorded in the Union county clerk's office during the seven days ending Sept. 16th:

John D. Runyon et ux., Plainfield, to Chas H. Hand, lots 15 and 16, block E., Astor place, $1,950; Mary E. French to Christopher C. Mahon, lot West Third street; Gamble Kyle et ux., to Mary M. J. McCabe, lot Johnston avenue, $130; Maria Victory and husband, New York, to Patrick Connolly, lot 16 Essex street, $375; James P. Powers, et ux., to Arthur Ingalls, Brooklyn, lot Second street, $750; John H. Quaas, Newark, to Joseph A. and James E. Quaas, lot Plainfield avenue, $700; Luther C. Sutton, et ux., to J. Fred MacDonald and W. E. Taylor, Hackensack, lot 76, Netherwood, $100; Chas. A. Westerfield, et ux., to J. F. MacDonald, Plainfield, and W. E. Taylor, Hackensack, lot 77, Netherwood, $100; Wm. E. Sharp et ux., to J. Fred MacDonald and W. E. Taylor, lot 80, Netherwood, $100; John B. DeHart, et ux., to Harry L. DeHart, lot South avenue, near Lee place, $500

The following contracts were also filed:

Harvey L. DeHart, with Ralph V. Saums carpenter, mason, painters, building South avenue, near Lee place, $1,278; Rachel Liefke with W. H. Brokaw, barn, West Front street, $660

—The regular Sunday afternoon service held yesterday at the W. C. T. U. rooms, was full of interest to those who were present. It was led by Mrs. Martin, whose subject was "Christian Living." There was a full attendance and a number gave in very interesting testimonies. It is a good place to spend an hour on Sunday afternoon, and you will always find it profitable, as well as interesting, and receive a warm welcome.

Miss Emma Gamberton, of the borough, left today for Baltimore, to visit friends.

Miss Crosson, of Park avenue, was the guest yesterday of Miss Florence White, of Flatbush.

Miss Lizzie Thorp, who has been visiting friends on West Third street, returned to her home in Brooklyn on Friday.

GOLD DEMOCRATS READY

THEY WILL HOLD PUBLIC MEETINGS TWICE A WEEK TILL ELECTION.

Meetings to be Held Every Tuesday and Thursday at Their Rooms in the West End—New Members of the Association.

The National Democratic Association is ready for active work. They are distributing hand bills announcing that they have engaged a room at the corner of Muhlenberg place and South Second street and will hold meetings there every Tuesday and Thursday evening until election day. These meetings will commence at eight o'clock and close at nine. They will be devoted to discussing the present financial issues, and anyone desiring to ask questions will have an opportunity to do so. There will not be at these meetings any brass band, or flags or transparencies.

The following persons have enrolled themselves in the association since the original list was published: Samuel Huntington, William A. Lord, George O. Stevens, Charles L. Case, James Merritt, J. Westley Johnson, John Erskine, Charles P. Bull, McCready Sykes, Nevius Apgar, John Doull Miller, C. E. Teel, J. W. VanSickle, Fred K. Sandford, August O. Trust, John M. Dayton, J. E. Mills, Fred M. Names may be sent to Carl Pfeiffer, Secretary, Madison avenue.

A Suit on Contract.

The case on contract of Mrs. M. E. Stevens against Theodore Nankin was tried before Justice Mosher and a twelve men jury this morning. The plaintiff sold some property to the defendant, and she claims he never paid anything but interest on the money. In the meantime he has removed buildings from the property, and the plaintiff now claims $200 damages. Up to the hour of going to press the jury is still out. Lawyer Swackhamer represented the plaintiff and Lawyer W. R. Codington the defendant.

Randolph Property Sold.

The sale of the Randolph property on West Front street, conducted by T. J. Carey, auctioneer, on Saturday last resulted as follows: L. E. Hart bought the house for $6,250, the shed was sold to Mr. McCarty of Central avenue for $1150. The brick barn went to D. N. Force for $15. N. B. Smalley bought the Wilson house and the barn back of the Randolph house for $250. The various sheds were sold to A. Gordon for $.150

To Instruct the Deputies.

Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, I. O. of U. O. L. will meet in Red Men's Hall, in the Stillman building on Monday evening next, at which time Mrs. Emma K. Wilson, Supreme Deputy, of Worcester, Mass., will be present to instruct the senior and junior deputies here. This is the only lodge of the kind in the State.

Assistant postmaster Beekman, of Somerville, was in town this morning.

Raymond H. McGee, of Orchard place, Washington Park, left this morning for New Haven to enter Yale College.

A letter from Dr. O. L. Jenkins and wife received this morning from Victoria Canada, reports both well and enjoying their trip very much.

John C. Whiting, assistant secretary at the Twenty third Street Branch of the New York Y. M. C. A., spent Saturday night and Sunday at the home of his mother, on East Sixth street.

Thomas Carey, of the Trenton House, Cortlandt street, New York, with his friend William Bruce, are spending a few days in Somerset county awheel.

SPEEDY PEDALISTS HERE

CRACK CIRCUIT CHASERS READY FOR THE BIG MEET.

The Wright and Ditson Team Arrive With a Galaxy of Riders, Whose Fame is National—Sketches of Riders

The National Circuit Meet of the Crescent Wheelmen is at hand, and the racing men are beginning to arrive. A score of the speediest professionals on the circuit, and in the country for that matter, have arrived, and their presence assures good racing for Saturday. Quite a number of riders have been training at the Crescent Oval, but they were mostly amateurs. The fast men of the different racing teams have been "chasing" the circuit and rode last Friday and Saturday at the Quill Club Wheelmen's big meet at Manhattan Beach. The next meet on the circuit is the Crescent Wheelmen's meet of Saturday, and the crack riders are now preparing to appear in Plainfield.

On May 30th, 1895, Plainfield saw the opening of the national circuit. There was a galaxy of fast riders here at that time, but many of the fastest men were not in condition and did not join the circuit until later. This year Plainfield will see almost all of the crack riders of the country. Most of the riders are new to Plainfield, but their names are very familiar to all who take any interest in cycle racing.

Last evening, quite a distinguished party arrived at the Hotel Grenada. It was the Morgan & Wright racing team, all the members of which ride that well-known tire. It is the largest team on the circuit, and all its members, with hardly on exception, are record holders, and their arrival greatly pleased the race committee of the Crescent Wheelmen, as they now have some of the best riders of the world for the meet. The racing men of the team are Arthur Gardiner, one of the speediest men in America, who hails from the home of speed merchants, Chicago; Otto Ziegler, Jr., the "Little California Demon," of San Jose; Harry C. Clark, the Denver unpaced king; Owen S. Kimble, of Louisville; Pat O'Connor, of Dublin Ireland J. B Bowler, of Chicago; Charles S. Wells, of SanFrancisco, and Fred Longhead, the Canadian champion. Besides the regular riders of that team, came Tom Cooper, of Detroit, who stands among the foremost of American professionals; A. C. Meatens and F. H. Allen, of St. Paul, and Otto Maya, of Erie, Pa. Will C. Pelot, the hustling manager of thd Morgan & Wright racing team, came to look after the interests of his men, and with him came the trainers R. P. Aylward, of SanFrancisco; W. P. Stanton, of Denver; W. W. Reedy, of St. Louis; "Mother" S. E. Webb, Tom Cooper's special trainer, and William Hyland, who looks after the Canadian crack, Longhead.

PAT O'CONNOR.

The racing men are a nice looking set of fellows, and the blue-clad sprinter have made friends in every town on the national circuit as much on account of their gentlemanly conduct and appearance as of the many races they have won.

For the past two years Arthur Gardiner has been the star of the famous Morgan & Wright team. From the very start of his career Gardiner's showing upon the track has been a sensational one. He started as a road

GEO. B. COBB ARRESTED.

COL. C. K. MOORE CHARGES HIM WITH GRAND LARCENY.

Charge is That He Appropriated Patterns of an Invention for Which $5,000 Has Been Offered—Held for the Grand Jury.

A complaint was made before Justice J. E. Mosher today charging George B. Cobb with grand larceny, Charles K. Moore, of Fanwood, being the complainant. Constable Mattox arrested Mr. Cobb, and after a hearing before Judge Mosher he was held in $500 bail for the October term of the Grand Jury. The constable volunteered to accompany the defendant to procure a surety on his bail bond, and H. E. Rider satisfied the justice of his responsibility and was accepted.

At the examination Col. Moore charged Mr. Cobb with using patterns of his patent sewer trap and converting the metal to his (Cobb's) use.

Mr. Cobb admitted that he had taken charge of the property claimed to have been stolen, but said he did not know where it is now.

The witnesses in the case who will be subpoenaed before the Grand Jury are Henry C. Corsa, of Plainfield; Wm. A. Low, of Bayonne; Wm. D. Holmes, of New York, and Sheriff Kyte, of Fanwood.

Col. Moore stated that the missing property cost him over $125, and a civil suit may follow, as to replace the goods will amount to a much larger sum on account of the patterns having been the only ones in existence, so new drawings must be made, and the delay caused thereby will seriously embarrass him. An offer of $5,000 was recently refused for the patent.

A Talented Musician.

Mrs. May Jeffery, who will open a studio here for voice culture on Wednesday and Saturday at 322 West Front street, is a vocalist and leader of excellent reputation. She was formely soprano of St. Thomas Episcopal church, New York, and other prominent churches She is now leader of a large choir in Somerville where she leads a choral society of fifty voices. She is also leader of the Ladies Rubenstein club of Elizabeth which have been giving successful concerts for three seasons. She is a pupil of Dr. Leopold Damrosch, which is a sufficient guarantee of her ability as a teacher but having been a successful teacher for ten years, she can stand on her own merits. Mrs. Jeffery is also a student of Anatomy having seen the throat in action and written several lectures on the action of the muscles in singing and breathing.

Death of Mrs. Isaac Taynor.

The death of Mrs. Isaac Taynor, daughter of James Ross, of East Third and Washington streets, occured yesterday afternoon at the above residence. About a year ago it will be remembered Mrs. Taynor was stricken with a severe paralytic stroke and a little later she had a second one. At present, however, she was in better health apparently than she has been for sometime past. She was ill only a short time before her death. Mrs Taynor was forty-four years old, and leaves a husband and three children, two boys and a girl, to mourn her loss. The funeral services will be held from her late residence, 302 East Third street, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Costly Flag Returned.

The recently ordered flag for the Independent Scheutzen Corps, which is to adorn the walls of the club's room in Rudolph Speigel's hotel on Somerset street, was today returned to the maker's agent, Mr. Simpson, at Westfield, as unsatisfactory. The flag is hand made, of blue silk, 6x5 feet in dimensions and will cost when accepted $200. It has an eagle in silk, hand stitched, directly in the centre. It is claimed that the flag or banner was considerably spotted when delivered to the club, and it was particulary on this account that it was returned.

Clear Exposition of Scripture.

A large and appreciative audience from all the churches greeted Dr. Stearns, of Philadelphia, in Y. M. C. A. Hall, last evening at 7:30. After a brief service of song, Dr. Stearns began the preliminary lesson, followed by the International Sunday school lesson. Bible students are quick to appreciate the clear, terse and brief exposition of scripture as Dr. Stearns presents his subjects.

FALL Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION

YOUNG MEN MEET AND GREET THE NEW ASSISTANT OFFICERS.

A Gymnastic Exhibition by a Trio From a New York Association—New Contest For Members Announced.

If the coming year at the Y. M. C. A. proves as successful as the opening reception, held last evening, then it will be a banner year, indeed. The members turned out unusually strong and appeared to greatly enjoy the entertainment provided for them.

They were received in the broad reception hall by a committee composed of J. W. Gavett, chairman; A. B. Beers, J. H. Case, J. W. Aughiltree, Charles S. Cook, Thomas A. Cuming, James E. Kimball, W. F. Oliver, Thos. A. Stafford and Robert A. Suffern. Here they waited and chatted until it was announced that the entertainers were in the gymnasium.

There was an immediate exodus to the gymnasium where the Q. C. S. Q., composed of Dr. Berg, Dr. W. F. Gaston, M. F. Korff, G. W. V. Moy and Mr. Audsley, rendered several selections, and then two athletes from the gymnaium of the Twenty-third street branch of the New York Y. M. C. A., gave an exhibition of gymnastic work. First they gave a dumbbell drill and proved themselves very graceful in their movements. Then one executed a number of difficult moves on the horizontal bar, while the other showed his prowess on the German horse.

The audience was then invited to step into the little hall. Some, however, remained to see the football team practice. After all were seated in the hall, President W. D. Murray made a few preliminary remarks and introduced C. E. Haywood, the physical director, and Frank Bristol, the assistant secretary. Well timed remarks were made by both, and then Curtis M. Thorpe, the chairman of the membership committee, told of a new contest that was to be started. H. E. Rider has donated a '97 Richmond wheel to the association, and the member securing the largest number of votes before that time, will receive the wheel. Each member on securing a new member has a vote in this contest, as has also the new member. The contest closes January 1st, and to secure the wheel, the winner must receive not less than twenty votes.

The meeting then closed, after which cake and coffee were passed, and a general social time followed.

CARRIED AN AXE AS EVIDENCE.

A Fanwood Woman Wanted Protection From Her Alleged Irate Husband.

Mary McDermitt, of Fanwood, who seems to have no end of trouble, called at Justice Newcorn's office a day or two ago, she brought with her an axe of large proportion. She looked desperate, and the Judge was preparing to escape through a back window, when she called to him and said that she meant no harm. Her story was that her husband had been breaking up her household goods, and she had brought the axe to show the Judge the method he had adopted in smashing her goods. She wanted the Judge to throw the cloak of protection about her and she earnestly sought his aid, but when all things were considered Justice Newcorn advised her to see Chief Grant, but as the chief did not see her, it is supposed that she adopted some other method to secure protection.

Borough Banner Raising.

On Thursday night the North Plainfield Republicans will formally open the campaign by a flag raising, and a mass meeting will be held immediately afterward in the Gesang and Turn Verein Hall, at which time William Prendergraft, of Brooklyn, will make an address. Mr. Prendergraft is the man that made the remarkable speech at Saratoga when he nominated Tim Woodruff for lieutenant governor of New York State. He was influenced to come to Plainfield by his friend, William Cadmus, formerly a resident of the borough.

Glee Club Officers.

The officers of Plainfield's new musical club, the Midmer Glee Club, are as follows: President, Robert M. Clark; business manager, A. H. Cornish; musical director, William E. MacClymont. The club is composed of the following: First tenors, Robert M. Clark and Herbert Schutt; second tenors; Edward O. Clark and Charles H. Angleman; first bases; A. H. Cornish and William E. MacClymont; secondbasses; B. T. Barnes and Wyatt E. Barnes.

JUST A SLIGHT CHANGE.

CONDEMNED HOUSES NOT BEING MOVED OFF AVENUE EXTENSION.

The New Owners Will Simply Whirl Them Off the Street Line on to Lots Bordering the Avenue—Big Kick Made.

At present there is not a very bright side in connection with the opening of Watchung avenue, for it looks as though there was trouble ahead. When the borough purchased certain properties with the intention of selling again, no proviso was made that the condemned houses should be moved off of the proposed avenue. As a result those who purchased the old houses are changing their location in such a way that they will be on the new avenue. Here is where the objection comes in. The borough assessed property owners benefits and damages, and now they claim that instead of the opening being a benefit it is a detriment to have those old houses adjacent to their valuable property.

There seems to be no remedy for the mistake, though the prospects are that there will be a large kick made. One property owner declared that he would not pay a cent if those old houses were allowed to remain along the avenue. The same man said that the citizens of the borough should hold an indignation meeting and express their sentiments in the matter. The outcome will be watched with considerable interest.

STEALING THE MURPHYS.

Potato Depredations Still Continue in the Vicinity of Fanwood.

Potato thieving still goes on unmolested near Fanwood. Only a few days ago The Press told of the stealing of some twenty-five bushels or more of potatoes from Joseph Tice's patch on Terrill road. Saturday night Mr. Tice had a sort of presentment that another effort was to be made to raid his patch, so he put an extra charge of buck-shot into his army musket and secreting himself under a tree awaited further developments. At midnight the rain drove him into the house and to bed, but yesterday morning he discovered that a dozen or more thirty-foot rows had been dug up and the potatoes carried away. The hills were located some little distance back from the road, and as various-sized foot imprints were noticed in the soft earth, it is conjectured that several persons were implicated in the theft. Fresh wagon tracks were noticed in the roadway just outside the patch. One or two persons are suspected and search warrants will probably be taken out today.

PLACES FOR A THOUSAND.

But Still Quarters Must Be Found for 500 More Endeavorers.

Another meeting of the assignment committee was held last night in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. A large number of representatives from the various churches and societies were present and reported very encouragingly on the work. Homes for 1,000 of the delegates are assured, but it will be necessary to secure places for at least 500 more. The work of the committee has been lessened by the fact that many delegates are coming to visit friends. It will be necessary for those who do so to register at the headquarters, the Y. M. C. A. rooms, and receive their badge, in order to gain admission to the hall.

Building Loan Meeting.

A regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Home Building and Loan Association was held in the Republican headquarters last evening, with President Isaac W. Rushmore in the chair. S. R. Struthers was secretary. Four loans, amounting to $5,700, were taken up. Resolutions were introduced and adopted authorizing the opening up next month of the sixteenth series. It was also reported that 3,300 shares have already been taken up, and about $150,000 has been loaned out on bond and mortgage. The meeting of last evening was the last opportunity the members will have to subscribe under that series, and 123 additional shares were taken up.

Japan to Be Talked About.

The regular monthly missionary meeting of the Crescent Avenue church will be held tomorrow evening in the chapel. The subject will be "Japan." A. C. McClave was for a number of years a teacher in Japan, and whose father is a missionary in Corea, will speak on "The Three Religions of Japan." Ernest R. Ackerman and Wm. D. Murray will also speak. All are invited to be present.

Many a day's work is lost by sick headache, caused by indigestion and stomach troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most effectual pill for overcoming such difficulties. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

AN IMMENSE ICE POND.

FOURTEEN ACRES OF WATER TO BE BACKED UP BY A DAM.

Ground Broken for the Structure This Morning—People in That Vicinity Fear the Horrors of Another Johnstown

Ground was broken at Washingtonville this morning by the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, of this city, preparatory to the erection of a dam and the maintenance of an immense pond at that place, as exclusively told in The Press a week ago. The point selected is a narrow strip of land bounded on one side by the road running from Washingtonville to Warrenville, and the other side by the road which goes to Sterling. It extends from a point near the schoolhouse west nearly an eighth of a mile, including nearly fourteen acres of land. A brook runs through this land and carries off the watershed from both the first and second mountains The company propose to erect a dam at the eastern portion of this tract of land 440 feet in length and 18 feet high, of which 120 feet is stone. The remaining 320 feet is to be a wall of earth. They hope to finish the dam by the first of November in order to flood the tract of land so that ice may be cut therefrom this winter.

There is considerable consternation among the people living in the vicinity of the proposed pond, for they fear that in the event of a heavy spring freshet the dam might give way and they would be deluged with a volume of water that would mean wreck and ruin to their property and the probable loss of life. The depth of the pond, it is said, will average ten to twelve feet, and with fourteen acres of water backed up by a weak dam, the horrors of Johnstown might be repeated in Washington Valley and the Notch. The company, however, intend to build a safe structure.

CAR BUMPER TOURISTS RAID.

Five Tramps Captured by the Police While Many Others Get Away.

Sergeant Kiely and Roundsman Frederickson raided a freight train that stopped in Plainfield last night and captured five train riders, while nearly a score more scampered away into the darkness, unrecognized. The five prisoners were marched over to the lockup and spent the rest of the night there.

This morning the quintette was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza. They were all fairly well-dressed and did not have the appearance of the average "knight of the road."

The story of three of the prisoners, Daniel Smith, Thomas Clark and Lewis Kreurt, was the same. They were all apprentice masons from Philadelphia and bound for New York in search of work. They had started to foot it, so they said, but had seen the train with about fifteen other men on it, so they decided to ride also.

Patrick Jennings was a wandering blacksmith from West Chester, Pa., in search of work. He had seen the crowd on the train and joined them. The last of the prisoners was George Hagner, of Philadelphia, with the same old story. Judge DeMeza suspended sentence on them on condition that they would leave town at once.

Back to the Sunny Clime.

John Yoia, for several years past employed in the coal regions of Pennsylvania, came to North Plainfield about two months ago, and has since been stopping with his brother, Joseph, on Mountain avenue in the borough. John is a victim of consumption and he is rapidly going into decline, so he decided to go back to his native home in Italy. He left for New York yesterday where he will spend a few days among relatives and friends previous to sailing on Saturday for Genoa, Italy.

Another Republican Meeting.

The next large Republican mass meeting to be held in this city will take place Tuesday evening, September 29th, at Music Hall, when Judge Wilbur A. Mott, of Newark and Frank A. Walker, of Trenton, will be the speakers. Mr. Walker is the man who went to Washington sometime ago to represent the pottery interests of the United States. Both men are able speakers.

Aged Woman Drunk in the Gutter.

A grey haired woman from the West End, named Miss Elizabeth Clark, was found lying in the gutter on Front street by Roundsman Frederickson yesterday afternoon. She was so drunk that the officer found it necessary to get a hack to take her to the lock up. Judge DeMeza suspended sentence on her.

—There will be speaking in the Republican Association rooms, on East Front street, every Thursday evening from now until after election.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

WHEELS OF JUSTICE COMMENCE TO REVOLVE IN SOMERSET COUNTY.

Grand Jury Charged With Reference to the Murder of Harry Hodgetts—Two Borough Licenses Meet Oppositions.

[Special to The Daily Press.]

Somerville, September 22—The September term of the Supreme and Circuit courts of Somerset county, convened here this morning with Judges Magie and Bartine presiding.

The following are the North Plainfielders on the grand jury: Albert Runyon, Andrew Lutkins and Andrew Love. Judge Magie charged the grand jury especially with reference to the case of young Elmer Clawson, who murdered Harry Hodgett, the farmer, near Bedminster, last month. He explained the law to them in the case of murder, and ordered that if they found cause for an indictment, to immediately arrive at a decision and notify the court so that the trial could take place this term.

The application of George Sisser, of Yonkers, N. Y., who applied for a liquor license for the Bock building, on Somerset street, North Plainfield, just over the city line, was laid over till Friday, as there is opposition to its being granted. Opportunity will be given for the opposition to be heard. The application of J. H. Gracely, for a license for the Manhattan Hotel, was also laid over till Friday, as there was a remonstrance against its being granted. The application of Zeller & White, for a wholesale license, was granted.

The most important Plainfield case is that of the estate of Isaac W. Pangborn against Oscar Teale, the architect. Craig A. Marsh, is the counselor for the complainant, and Reed & Coddington for the defendant. It is ready for trial and will be called in its course.

Nearly all the legal fraternity of Plainfield is in attendance at court.

NEW SECRET ORDER.

Colored Men Organize Goodwill Lodge, No. 15, K. of P.

Goodwill Lodge, No. 15, K. of P., is the name of a new lodge organized in this city last evening by twenty colored men. Grand Chancellor J. H. Huggs, of Paterson, assisted by Deputies W. H. Jackson and W. H. Williams instituted the lodge. The following officers were elected: Grant Cannon, C. C.; L. L. Croom, P. C.; Joseph Saunders, V. C.; Rev. James Groves, prelate; Louis Peterson, M. E. F.; W. A. Kline, K. R. S.; Theo. Hooper, M. F.; Benj. S. Heyward, M. A.; J. Scott, I. G.; W. Williams, O.G. The lodge will meet on the first and third Wednesdays of each month in Stone Square Lodge rooms on West Front street. After the institution a grand collation was served by the new lodge.

To Replank the Hollingsworth Bridge.

The forty foot line bridge over the creek at Hollingsworth Mills near Scotch Plains has been in a dangerous condition for a long time past, and the Union and Somerset county Boards of Freeholders have been prevailed upon to make the necessary repairs. Yesterday, Freeholders J. Frank Hubbard, John Robinson and John H. Tier of the Union county Board met Andrew Lutkins and L. E. Barkalew of the Somerset county Board and drove to the spot. After a careful inspection it was decided to repair the bridge at once. Contractor J. Higgins was awarded the contract for $114. The bridge is a forty foot span.

Entertained Grand Officers.

Old Glory Council, No 62, Duughters of Liberty, had a good time last evening when they entertained the grand officers of this state, also Lakeside Council, of New Market, Lucetta Council, of this city, and councils from Newark, Bound Brook and Elizabeth. The occasion was an exemplification of the new iniation by the team from Old Glory, and the grand officers complimented the team highly and said it was the finest in the state. Under the good of the order the Inkie White Snow Ball Council from the South gave a vocal selection. Refreshments in abundance was served at the close.

Threatened Arrest.

A lawyer representing Rich & Maeder, the recent lessees of Music Hall, came to Plainfield last night and demanded the keys of the theatre from Ball & Willey and ordered them to vacate the hall. They refused and the lawyer threatened to have them arrested for larceny. He returned to New York without further proceedings.

UNCLE SAM NOT IN IT

No Alliance with England and Italy Regarding the Turkish Situation.

STATEMENT BY STATE DEPARTMENT

Report of Fresh Massacres Confirmed and Some Details Received---A Large Number of Armenians Slain by Kurds at Egin in Karput.

Washington, Sept. 22.—The dispatch from Rome intimating that an alliance had been formed between England, Italy and the United States to deal with the Armenian question is semi-officially denied at the state department. That there has been some correspondence between this country and England on the subject of the butcheries in Turkey, however, is generally understood.

The Story from Rome.

London, Sept. 22.—The St. James' Gazette last evening published a dispatch from Milan, Italy, stating that the Secolo, of that city, says the departure of the Italian flying squadron for the Levant is the initiative step towards forcing Turkey to grant the reforms demanded in Armenia, and that it is taken by Italy supported by the United States and Great Britain. The Secolo adds that in the event of the sultan's refusal to grant the reforms he will be deposed. A dispatch from Rome to the St. James' Gazette says the Roma states that the Italian ships will co-operate with those of Great Britain and the United States.

MASSACRES OF CHRISTIANS.

The Report of Fresh Outrages by the Turks Confirmed---Details Received.

Constantinople, Sept. 22.—The report of fresh massacres at Egin, in the vilayet of Karput, has been confirmed and some of the details received. The butchery took place on the 15th and 16th of the present month. The Kurds attacked the Armenian quarter, killed large numbers of its inhabitants and pillaged and burned their houses. Many Armenians escaped to the mountains. According to the accounts of the Turkish authorities, 600 Armenians were killed at Egin. These official advices state that the outrage was provoked by the Armenians firing into the Turkish quarter. The Armenians of Egin escaped the massacres of 1895 by purchasing their security with money and produce. It is feared here that the massacre at Egin is the beginning of a fresh series of massacres in Armenia, which was anticipated after the massacres which have just been ended here, A special cabinet meeting has been held at the palace in order to consider plans for completing the defenses of the Dardanelles as proposed by the Russian General Tschikatscheff, who inspected these fortifications some time ago. Artim Pasha, the Turkish undersecretary for foreign affairs, has been instructed to accomplish the reconciliation of the government with the Armenians, the means suggested being that the Armenians should send an address to the sultan praying for protection, asserting that the Armenians are always loyal, and condemning the agitators.

ENGLAND'S HANDS TIED.

Her Intervention in Turkey Would Cause a European War.

London, Sept. 22.—At a meeting held last night in Shoreditch to protest against the massacre of Christians by Turks, a most important announcement was made, which, it is believed, puts an end to all conjecture regarding the action that might be taken by the British government in the direction of putting an end to the massacres by force or deposing the sultan. The statement was made by John Lowles, member of the house of commons for the Haggerston division of Shoreditch. He said that if England had a free hand in the matter, very few days would elapse before there would be a change in Turkey. He then added that he was authorized by the foreign office to say that Great Britain was confronted by an agreement between the three powers that if she attacked Turkey on any excuse or pretext she would have to face that combination. If she fired a single shot or took action alone it would mean that at that moment there would be a European war.

New World's Team Record.

Northport, N. Y., Sept. 22.—The bay mare Marietta, 2:09¼, and the brown mare Miss Lida, 2:10¾, owned by Henry O. Havemeyer of New York, were driven yesterday afternoon at Burr's Driving park, Commack, L. I., to beat the world's team record of 2:15¼. The track was heavy, and estimated to be at least four seconds slow. On the second trial the team, without a break, covered the mile in 2:12¼.

Death of a Prominent Binghamton Man.

Binghamton, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Cyrus Strong, one of Binghamton's oldest and best known citizens, died at his home in this city late yesterday afternoon, aged 82 years. He was senior partner of the private banking firm of Strong & Strong, and after it became a state institution was one of its directors. Cyrus Strong, jr., survives him.

SELLERS OF MISFIT SHOES.

New Industry Which Has Lately Sprung Up in Gotham.

Far over on the east side, in the neighborhood of Grand and Norfolk streets are several small stores, which are known to the irreverent youth of that neighborhood as "boot and shoe misfitteries." The stock in trade is announced and is supposed to consist of boots and shoes made to order which have been returned by some customer whom they did not exactly suit.

Of course there probably are articles of this class in these emporiums, but the majority are boots and shoes which have become shopworn in first-class establishments, and have been sold at public auction or private sale, and also the footwear of spoiled daughters of fashion who have tired of a new boot after using it a few days, or who have scratched the finish off an enamel toe or cut a small abrasion upon the side of the instep.

These go to the maids, and thence to the peddlers, and thence to the misfitters. Each one of the latter employs one or more cobblers, whose sole business is the restoration of shoes until they look perfectly new. They are marvelously skillful in their work and will deceive anybody but an expert. A favorite trick is to restore a shoe and then put two or three blots on the lining. The suave dealer shows you the lining and says: "Just as good as new, only some careless clerk dropped the ink on it, and it was ruined for dot virst-class store." The customer's attention is riveted to the ink blots, and she does not notice the indications of restoration and repair.

One of the dealers is a gentleman of a very vivid imagination. His special feature is his possession of shoes and boots that have been worn by people of distinction.

He never prints the fact, or refers to it in his price card, but he invariably confides to you: "This shoe vas made for Patti. This elegant boot vas rejected by Langtry. These slippers were intended for Ada Rehan." When Princess Eulalie was here he must have had 100 pairs of footwear from that distinguished member of royalty.

The customers of these places are of a very good class, and consist usually of young women who desire to get fashionable boots worth ten or fifteen dollars for four or five dollars, and who do not mind the fact that these are shopworn, misfit or somewhat second-hand.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

WONDERFUL SKILL.

Ingenuity of a Mexican in Following a Human Trail.

Every one who has spent much time upon the frontier has heard of the remarkable faculty of Dolores Sanchez, the famous trailer of New Mexico and southern Arizona. So eminent an authority as Gen. Nelson A. Miles, who has had unusual personal knowledge of the work of trailers and scouts, is quoted as saying that some of Sanchez' accomplishments are more than extraordinary, and that his powers border on the mythical. Gen. Ruger, United States army, tells the following story of an experience with this remarkable man, to show the skill of an expert scout: "I was once in pursuit of a lot of Comanches, who had been followed, scattered, and the trail abandoned by a company of so-called Texas rangers. On the eighth day after the scattering Sanchez found the trail from a single shod horse.

"When we were fairly in the rough, rocky Guadaloupe mountains he stopped, dismounted and picked up from the foot of a tree the four shoes of the horse ridden by the Indian. With a grim smile he handed the shoes to me and said that the Indian had tried to hide his trail. For six days we journeyed over the roughest mountains, turning and twisting in apparently the most objectless way, not a man in the whole command being able to discover, sometimes for hours, a single mark by which Sanchez might direct himself. Sometimes I lost patience and demanded that he show me what he was following. 'Poco tiempo' ('Pretty soon'), he would abstractedly answer, and in a longer or shorter time show me the clear-cut footprints of the horse in the soft bank of a mountain stream, or point with his long wiping stick to some other most unmistakable 'sign.' Sanchez led us, following the devious windings of this trail, for over 150 miles, and only three or four times dismounting, so as to more closely to examine the ground, he finally brought me to where the Indians had reunited."—N. CLUBS BEGAN IN ATHENS.

Athenians Had the Same Excuses as Men of To-Day.

The birthplace of the earliest club is a disputed point, but it is well known that Numa Pompilius, the second king of Rome, who died B. C. 673, founded trade guilds in Rome during his reign, similar to the guilds of the craftsmen which play so important a part in the history of the middle ages. At one time there were 80 of these guilds in Rome alone. Later they spread beyond the metropolis, for the boatmen of the Seine at Paris and those of the lower Rhone formed clubs of their own. The guilds of Rome, however, scarcely answer to our idea of a club, says the Cleveland Recorder. We therefore turn with greater confidence to Athens, where such a club seems to have originated. The old Athenian clubs were not in all respects similar to those of modern London and New York, but there was nevertheless between them a strong affinity. Aristotle, who flourished B. C. 384, tells us that men of the same trade and members of a particular tribe were wont to club together for business purposes. He goes on to say that others combined for the sake of social intercourse, and adds that "these meet together for the sake of one another's company, and to offer sacrifices; when they meet they both pay certain honors to the gods, and at the same time take pleasure and relaxation among themselves." This would seem to point to Athens as being the birthplace of the earliest club.

Absent-Minded.

The story is told of a famous mathematician that he was frequently guilty during his courtship of walking the greater part of a mile with the young lady of his choice without speaking. One evening she took advantage of his absent-mindedness to play him a trick. She slipped her hand from his arm and hurried home a nearer way. He continued to hold his arm in the same position, walked up the steps of her father's house and rang the bell, when, to his astonishment, she herself opened the door. He stared in an incredulous manner and exclaimed: "Why, S——, how in the world did you get on that side of the door?"

My Kidneys

Nerves are weak, many people say, and yet they do not seem to know that they are literally starving their nerves. Weak, pale, thin blood cannot give proper sustenance—that is why you are nervous, tired, exhausted. The cure for this condition is to purify, vitalize and enrich your blood. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla fairly and faithfully, and the rich, red blood, which it makes, will soon feed the nerves the elements of true strength they require; they will cease their agitation and will resume their proper place—being under the control instead of controlling the brain and body. Read Miss Bartley's letter:

I did so and in a short time I began to notice a change in my condition. Things began to appear brighter, my eyes improved and do you eat iron

Some persons are always taking iron. If weak and easily exhausted; pale and without appetite; if the nervous system is weak, and sleep difficult, what do you take? Iron? But iron cannot supply food to the tissues; nor does it have any power to change the activity of unhealthy organs and bring them back to health. Cod-liver oil is what you need. The oil feeds the poorly-nourished tissues, and makes rich blood. Iodine, bromine, and other ingredients, which form part of the oil, have special power to alter unhealthy action.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is the most palatable way to take cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites supply healthy nerve action, which controls all the processes of life.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

LI HUNG CHANG.

Liberality of the Views of the Chinese Statesman.

It is claimed that notwithstanding Li Hung Chang has shown some liberality of views toward modern improvements and education, he is at heart a hater of foreigners, and has an abiding faith in Chinese institutions and methods of government. He is, it is true, a great admirer of Confucian philosophy, and remembering the enduring history of his people we can hardly wonder at his devotion to the institutions which have made that history possible. When we call to mind the experience China has had with certain western nations, it might not be considered strange if his attachment to foreigners was not very ardent; but in all his public life, says John W. Foster in Century, his conduct shows that he feels the need of foreign aid, and is disposed to give it proper welcome, and of all Chinese statesmen he is the most liberal-minded and free from prejudice. He is far from claiming that the present system of government is perfect. He has, in fact, urged upon the authorities at Peking two important changes which look to a reform of the most serious defects in the system; to wit, the withdrawal from the viceroys of provinces of powers which should be exercised only by the imperial government, and such a change in the method of admission to the public service as will liberalize the examinations, and make fitness rather than scholarship the test. There are other changes which he would gladly bring about if he had the power; but, as he confessed to Marquis Ito, "China is hampered by antiquated customs which prevent desirable reforms."

DOLLY MADISON'S TACT.

How She Managed to Win Everybody's Heart.

It was the tact and genuine kindliness of Dolly Madison that made her one of the most prominent of American women. Several episodes mentioned in Mrs. Goodwin's "Life of Dolly Madison" are significant of this. At one of her levees, her attention was drawn to a rustic visitor, a youth who was evidently suffering all the torments of embarrassment. He had at last ventured to help himself to a cup of coffee, when Mrs. Madison walked up and addressed him. In the surprise of the moment, the lad dropped the saucer and strove to crowd the cup into his pocket. His tactful hostess took no notice of the accident, except to observe that in such a crowd no one could avoid being jostled, and straightway turned the conversation to the boy's family, and ended by sending her regards to his excellent mother, and bidding the servant bring another cup of coffee. On another occasion two old ladies from the country arrived at the white house while the family were still at breakfast. To the surprise of the rural visitors, the woman they had come to see appeared in a stuff dress of dark gray, protected by a large housewifely white apron, and with a linen kerchief pinned about her neck. Her simplicity of manner and attire completely swept away their awe, and before departing one of them found courage to ask: "Perhaps you wouldn't mind if I kissed you—just to tell the folks about!"

THE CUPEY.

A West Indian Tree That Grows from Tree Tops.

The cupey, or, as it is sarcastically called in the English possessions, "the attorney," is one of the most curious as it is certainly the most picturesque denizen of the virgin forests of the West Indian island, says London Tid-Bits. It belongs to the parasitical family of trees or plants, but, terrible to relate, it invariably with the basest ingratitude destroys all life in the unfortunate tree that cherishes it in its early growth. The seeds are borne on the wings of the wind, and deposited on the branches of other trees, when they burst into roots, which are dropped toward the ground all around the "nurse" tree. In time these roots reach the ground and strike into the soil.

From this moment the roots grow stronger and stronger until they resemble a lot of rope ladders thrown over the tree. Next the parasite sends down a great cord, which twines round the trunk of the supporting tree, at first as though in loving embrace, but it grows tighter and tighter, eventually strangling its benefactor out of existence. The "nurse" tree thus killed rots to decay, and from the immense fibrous roots of the destroyer now springs a great trunk, which rises high into the air. When the cupey is full grown it presents a magnificent spectacle, for the cord-like roots rise often to 50 or 60 feet, and support in midair the vast tree itself.

ARREST OF CURTIS

Only an Awkward Mistake on the Part of Swiss Detectives.

NO OFFICIAL REPORT AT WASHINGTON

At the State Department It Is Believed the Matter Will Be Dropped After Proper Explanation Is Made and Apologies Received.

Washington, Sept. 22.—No detailed official report regarding the arrest in Switzerland of George F. Curtis, assistant librarian of congress, has been received at the state department, but the whole matter is believed to have been nothing more than an awkward mistake on the part of Swiss detectives and that the affair will be allowed to drop after proper apoligies have been made. When Mr. Curtis arrived at Grindelwald he was pounced upon by detectives who mistook him for a criminal from Montevideo, for whom they were searching. Mr. Curtis was locked up despite his energetic protests but later the production of his passport and other documents convinced the police that they had made an error. He was, therefore, released, and profuse apologies were made to him for the unfortunate mistake. Mr. Curtis then proceeded to Geneva, where the police made the same mistake as to his identity, and he was again locked up. It was impossible for him to convince the authorities of Geneva that he was not a criminal, and he was finally compelled to telegraph to Hon. John L. Peak, the American minister at Borne telling him of his predicament. Mr. Peak at once laid the matter before the government, with the result that the release of Mr. Curtis was immediately ordered.

RAINES LAW VIOLATORS.

Work of Inspectors at a County Fair---A New Intoxicating Drink Discovered.

Albany, Sept. 22.—The new liquor tax law prohibits the sale of intoxicants within two hundred feet of fair grounds and two special excise agents who visited the Oswego county fair last week have caused the arrest of several persons who were dispensing "hard" cider, which is considered as an intoxicant under the new law. The trip of these agents to the fair, however, was not only successful in catching Raines law violators, but also in the discovery of an intoxicant drink which is unknown outside of Oswego county. It is known as the "Oswego cocktail," and is composed of alcohol colored with hard cider, and is very intoxicating in its effects. One man was caught selling this mixture and was arrested and held in bond for $500.

As Viewed by the Silver Men.

Washington, Sept, 22.—Vice-Chairman Stevens of the silver committee, who has just returned to headquarters from the west, brings with him a glowing report of the condition of affairs in that part of the country as the silver men view it. He claims every state west of the Mississippi for Bryan except Minnesota. "The great battle-ground in this campaign," said Mr. Stevens, "is Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan. I believe the democrats have a good chance of carrying them and that Mr. Bryan will be elected to the next presidency of the United States."

Thomas R. Gibson Dead.

Washington, Sept. 22.—The state department has been advised by a cablegram from Consul Khouri at Beirut, Syria, that the consul there, Thomas R. Gibson, is dead of smallpox. Mr. Gibson was a native of Augusta, Ga., and was appointed in September, 1893, to his post. He had been editor of the Evening News and was a graduate of the University of Georgia.

Anxious To Come to America.

London, Sept. 22.—The Daily News to-day publishes a letter from Lady Henry Somerset, who, with Miss Frances Willard, went to Marseilles to aid the Armenian refugees in that city. She says that the great desire of the refugees is to go to America, from which country came the educational impulse that opened a larger world to them.

Downfall of Dongola.

London, Sept. 22.—An editorial in the Times with reference to the taking of Dongola says: "We may reasonably hope that the work of liberation will be speedily carried further south." A dispatch from Kerma to the Chronicle says the treasure chest belonging to the Madhist leaders was on board a steamboat which was sunk in the Nile.

A Schooner Long Overdue.

Westerly, R. I., Sept. 22.—The schooner Bertha of Westerly, with a cargo of iron, bound for Peekskill, N. Y., has not been heard from since Sept. 4. Capt. George Howland, wife, and eldest son, and a crew of three are on board. The owners have given the vessel up as lost since she is so long overdue.

Warned by Dynamiters.

London, Sept. 22.—A dispatch from Brussels says that the authorities of Rotterdam have received an anonymous letter threatening to blow up all the public buildings there unless the Irish prisoners, Kearney and Haines, are liberated.

Death of Princess Olga of Montenegro.

Venice, Sept. 22.—Princess Olga of Montenegro, niece of Nicholas the reigning prince of Montenegro, is dead. She was born at Cettigne on March 19, 1859, and was not married.

Steamship Struck by Lightning.

Halifax, Sept. 22.—The steamship Olivette, plying between Boston and this port, was struck by lightning during Saturday night's storm, the bolt entering the foretopmast.

NEW INTERPRETATION OF LAW.

In rendering an opinion to the Excise Commissioners why the license in the case of a Trenton saloon-keeper for selling liquor to a minor, should not be revoked, the City Solicitor stated that the Werts liquor law prohibits the sale of liquor to a minor, but does not say what the age of the minor must be, but leaves the question to be regulated by the act of 1880, which fixes the age at eighteen years, when liquor can be sold to either male or female minors. The fact that all salcon-keepers have always understood the law to fix on twenty-one years as the age of minors, is due to a confusion of law. There is another separate act, which was enacted in 1846, which prohibits the sale of liquor "to minors under the age of twenty, who are scholars or members of any school, college or academy in this State."

BOUND TO HAVE MARTINE.

Great pressure is being brought to prevail on James E. Martine to consent to accept the Democratic Congressional nomination in the Eighth district, though Mr. Martine has expressly authorized The Prees on two occasions to say that he was not a candidate for the honor. A day or two ago a delegation of twenty prominent Democrats from Essex, Hudson and Union counties called on Mr. Martine and insisted that he accept the nomination, which, they assured him, would come almost unanimously He is averse to any such idea, but his friends are just as perverse in their mission to thrust the honor on him. The convention will be held at Elizabeth, October 1st.

BROUGHT TO BAY AT LAST.

Every law-abiding citizen—and all we Plainfielders are much in this class—is glad to see "Mike" Watson, the most flagrant and persistent violator of the excise laws that the city officials have ever had to deal with, finally brought to bay. A sojourn of one hundred and twenty days in the county jail and the payment of $200 in fines, ought to have a salutary effect on this dispenser of intoxicants in breach of law and order. And the sentence should also have a deterring effect on other excise violators—of which common rumor says there are aplenty in the city limits.

A SHORT-SIGHTED POLICY.

While the taxpayers of Dunellen are paying $2,500 for the erection of a town hall, it seems to be a short-sighted policy that does not permit the expenditure of a few dollars more for the land on which the structure is to be built. The whirligig of time rolls fast and the expiration of a five-years lease of land will come quicker than it seems to look ahead If a longer lease cannot then be obtained, the cost of removal or disposition of the building will be greater than what the proper piece of land would be today.

MUST BE LOYAL TO GOLD.

Chairman Henry D. Winton, of the Gold Democratic State Committee, states that the committee has advised the local committees throughout the State to wait a few days longer before starting the sound-money campaign throughout the State. The names of the electors will be ready to announce at latest this week. No one will be named unless he is willing to subscribe to the Indianapolis platform. This has been deemed essential, and has delayed the work of securing the ten electors.

A FRIEND OF GHARLIE'S.

The Real Estate News, Silas Drake's paper, promises its support to Charles A. Reed in the event of his nomination for Senator from Somerset county.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

GET APPETITE.

IF YOU DONT, YOU WILL NEVER BE STRONG OR HEALTHY.

Appetite is one thing that you can't afford to be without, for without it your health, strength and comeliness flies out of the window.

Poor appetite means weak stomach, starved body, sick individual. Good appetite the opposite.

Poor appetite is a sign that your stomach is too weak for digestion. You can aid it with the Shaker Digestive Cordial.

When your stomach is able to digest all the food that your body needs, you will have a good appetite. Not before.

Good food, well digested, means strength and a long, healthy life. Undigested food creates poison which affects the whole body, and may give you headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, flatulence, languor, weakness, mental depression, stomachache, fever, nervousness, offensive breath, anaemia, rheumatism, etc.

All these disorders will be relieved if you will take Shaker Digestive Cordial.

It is a pure vegetable digestive and natural invigorator, which aids the stomach, purifies the system of the poisons of indigestion and makes you strong, fat and healthy.

Shaker Digestive Cordial does not act on the liver, but on the undigested food in the stomach. It cures indigestion or biliousness without irritating the liver or any of the internal organs.

At druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle.

A Deception Easily Practised.

is the offer of a reward for "any case of catarrh not cured" by certain "cures." Nothing is said regarding the number of bottles required, and therein lies the deception. Ely's Cream Balm is an elegant preparation, agreeable to use, and immediate in its beneficial results. It cures catarrh. You can rely upon the fact that it contains no mercury or other injurious drug. 50 cents.

CHASED BY A CONSTABLE

DUNELLEN YOUNG MAN TRIES TO ESCAPE A GRAND JURY SUBPOENA.

Legged it Over Streets and Fields, But Was Finally Cornered in a Central Railroad Smoking Car by the Officer.

Fully equipped with the necessary legal documents, Constable Warden of Dunellen sallied forth yesterday morning, fully determined to do his duty or die in the attempt. He had a subpoena for a well known young man in the town to appear before the Middlesex county grand jury at New Brunswick and give testimony in a case now pending in the courts. The Constable noticed the young man going towards the 7:26 a. m. train as was his usual custom, on his way to business in New York, and he presented and read a subpoena to him. But before the Constable could serve it, the young man took to his heels and ran off like a deer with the officer hotly pursuing him. Down the main street the two sped and the young man was soon lost sight of in the neighborhood of the round-house. But as the story runs "the villian still persued him," and the ever watchful eyes of Constable Warden detected an image crossing a vacant lot and boarding the train just as it drew up at the depot. The officer quickly retraced his steps and jumped on the smoking car, where he found the young man huddled up in one corner of the toilet room and there the paper was formally served.

The young man begged most pitifully to be released, claiming that he had already been twice before summoned before the grand jury on the same case, and he was afraid if the matter got to the ears of his employers it might result in the loss of his position. But the officer was simply performing his sworn duty, and could in no way be blamed for it. It is quite likely that the young man will be excused from appearing before the grand jury when the facts in the case are made known, and besides he claims to be a disinterested party in the suit.

—The Junior Christian Endeavor Society will hold their regular meeting Thursday afternoon, and a full attendance is desired.

—Some of the greatest of Plainfield's improvements are now being made on Park avenue, below the Baptist church. The sidewalks are being paved and the gutters are also being curbed. The change will be a lasting benefit to the community.

—The regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital will be held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church on Friday, September 25th, at 10:30 a. m., instead of at the Public Library, as heretofore.

—One of the electric light linemen came very near falling from a forty-foot pole at the corner of Third street and Plainfield avenue on Saturday. He was making some repairs to the wires, when one of the crossbars fell and for a time he was suspended in midair, his only means of support being by holding fast to the insulated wires.

—The Wilson and Smalley stone quarries on the mountain near here, it is understood, have about completed their contract for furnishing crushed stone for the Stelton-New Market road, and the present week, it is thought, will complete the job. Of course there will be some more work necessary along the line, but the main roadbed will be complete within a few days.

Sent it to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

A three-year-old poorly clad Italian child wandered away from its home in "Little Italy," near the Plains, on Saturday afternoon, and kind-hearted Mrs. Wm. Lee sheltered the little one for an hour or more, while she sent her hostler about town in search of the child's mother. All the little one could intelligently say was "Mamma." Mrs. Lee acted the part of the good Samaritan, for she provided the little one with both shelter, food and clothing, until the mother put in an appearance and claimed her offspring.

DUNELLEN.

Dr. and Mrs. P. W. Brakely, spent yesterday in New York City.

An infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Mahan died Sunday from convulsions.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kensch, of Cranford, visited Dunellen relatives over Sunday.

Miss Georgiana Kensch, of Cranford, is visiting her uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. P. Kensch, of Front street.

Several of F. R. Merscrole's summer boarders returned to the city yesterday, but the house is yet well filled.

Charles B. Mattis who has been home from New York state on a visit for a few days past, returned to his business yesterday.

The Board of Registry will organize this evening. Charles H. French and Edward Emery are the Democratic members and W. R. Buckley and and James E. Goodwin the Republican members.

John J. Sirisky will today and hereafter assume control of the Union News Company's stand at the Dunellen depot. He will tend the stand in the day time and follow his vocation as a barber at night.

Contractor Firman H. Gise, Freeholder Adam Dealaman, Arthur Giles, D. Gulick and Sandford Staples, were among the more prominent residents who assisted in staking out the proposed new town hall, yesterday.

Some time early yesterday morning some miscreant stole an old no-top business wagon and hauled it to the rear of "Emeryside Station" at the terminus of the street car line on West Front street, deliberalety upset an out house and left the wagon and outhouse in a conglomerated heap on the ground. This is cussedness, pure and simple, and the perpetrators, if apprehended, should be severely dealt with.

Extensive preparations are making for the Republican banner raising on Thursday evening, provided, of course it don't rain. Lawyer Pope, of Somerville, has been engaged to advocate the McKinley and Hobart principles, and there will be red, yellow and blue fires. One aged republican says he will resurrect his army musket and fire a volley of shots in honor of the event, and a quartette choir will render campaign music.

NEW MARKET.

The regular weekly teachers meeting, to study the Sunday-school lessons for the ensuing week, was held at the home of C. T. Rogers on Sunday night. L. T. Titsworth, as president, presided, and much interest was manifested in the study.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church had made extensive preparations for an entertainment and sociable at the home of J. G. Benedict, Saturday evening, but the rain storm caused a postponement until Saturday evening of this week.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great, worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

"Boys will be boys," but you can't afford to lose any of them. Be ready for the green apple season by having DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure in the house. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

DUNELLEN'S TOWN HALL

THE WORK STARTED YESTERDAY ON LEASED GROUND.

To Contain Offices for All the Officials of the Borough—Plainfield Man Has the Contract—Total Cost $2,500.

The Board of Borough Commissioners and the people in general at Dunellen have for a long time been clamoring for a town hall, and at last the need has become an actual necessity and a reality. Heretofore the borough has had no lockup, no fire department headquarters, no place where the valuable borough documents could be kept in safety, and no place to shelter the weary and and wandering "Willies" in cold weather. All these difficulties are now to be obviated by the erection of a neat and substantial two-story frame building, at a cost of something like $2,500, and the work is to be completed by November 15th, under the existing contract. It will, however, require more time to place the new building in thorough order and get it ready for occupancy.

The building will be 28x70 feet in dimensions, with a frontage on North avenue, and two stories in height. The ground floor will be fitted up and used exclusively for a lockup and fire department headquarters, and the upper story will be made into a hall or general assembly room, with necessary closets and ante-rooms. From an exterior point of view the building is to be made attractive and will serve as a lasting memento to the projectors of the scheme.

The land, upon which the building is to be erected, is a plot somewhat triangular in appearance, and is directly opposite the Park Hotel. It is owned by the New Jersey Central Railroad Company, and has been leased for a period of five years, with the privilage of an extension of time, or until the company shall require it for its own use. In the event of the company needing the land at the expiration of the five years lease, then it will become necessary for the borough to either dispose of its interest or else remove the building. Many of the citizens are inclined to believe that it would be far better for the borough to own land, buildings and all, but this plan is not considered feasable at the present time, and this could scarcely be done without bonding the borough.

The building is to stand on an eighteen inch wall, but there will be no cellar or basement owing to the fact that the land is porous and water is readily obtained two feet below the surface. John H. Kitchen, of North Plainfield, is the contractor, and fifteen minutes before the work of staking out begun, Firman Gise, of Dunellen, was awarded the contract for the mason work. H. C. Giles is the architect.

Thus it will be seen that Dunellen is recovering from its lethargical state, and will soon be ahead of Plainfield in at least one respect, namely that of owning its own Town Hall, even if it is on leased ground.

John Bowman, of East Sixth street, returned to Harvard College yesterday.

Miss Lulu Bryan, of East Orange, is the guest of Miss Bertha Jenkins, of East Front street.

GREAT PIPE COMBINE

Wrought Iron and Steel Manufacturers To Organize.

THE CAPITAL INVOLVED, $50,000,000

A Meeting To Be Held in New York This Afternoon at Which the Preliminary Arrangements Will Be Discussed.

New York, Sept. 22.—It was reported this morning that another combination is about to be formed, and that it is to consist of the wrought iron and steel pipe manufacturers of Pennsylvania. Representatives of the concerns interested will meet this afternoon at the Hotel Waldorf for that purpose, and if the preliminary arrangements are carried through the combination will be on the same lines as the Bessemer Steel Producers' association, which was formed in this city last spring. At the present time there are thirty-nine plants in America manufacturing wrought iron and steel pipe, cold drawn seamless tubing and steel riveted pipe. It is understood that the proposed combination will include all the wrought iron and steel pipe plants in the country, to the number of twenty-seven. About twenty-one mills are in working condition and have a capacity of about 1,000,000 tons annually. The capital invested is very large, aggregating very nearly $50,000,000. The corporations find that it is necessary for a binding organization similar to the steel billet combination, and it is thought that one of this kind would inspire better returns for the capital invested. Time and again agreements have been made, only to demonstrate that in business practice there is no dependence to be placed on the men making them. The new scheme which will be offered to-day is said to differ from all others and is guaranteed to hold the most refractory in line.

BARDSLEY PARDONED.

Philadelphia's ex-City Treasurer Released from the Penitentiary.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 22.—The governor has pardoned John Bardsley, ex-city treasurer of Philadelphia, serving a term in the penitentiary for embezzlement. The governor's action was based on Bardsley's ill health and the fact that last week he sustained a stroke of paralysis.

For a One-Hour Bicycle Race.

New York, Sept. 22.—Frank T. Fowler of Chicago has placed in the hands of the editor of a wheelmen's journal in this city a deposit of $500 to bind a match race between James Michael and Frank Starbuck for one hour. Michael broke the American record Friday at the meet of the Quill Club wheelmen and Starbuck was defeated by only eight yards in the hour. Starbuck's manager wants the race to take place at once, but Micheal is anxious to have the matter hang over for a while until he is in better condition.

Death of Capt. Thomas Britton.

Washington, Sept. 22.—A telegram has been received at the war department announcing the death at San Diego, Cal., of Capt. Thomas Britton, retired. He was born in England and was appointed to the army from the volunteer service in 1848. In 1865 he was brevetted to captain for gallant services at the battle of Gettysburg, Pa. His military career began as private in the Kentucky volunteer service.

Troy Bank Failure Excitement Over.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Examiner Graham telegraphs from Troy that the situation in that city has not been affected to any extent by the bank failure on Saturday, which resulted from a panic occasioned by a man dropping dead in front of the bank building, and that no further trouble need be expected.

Will Withdraw Cut Rates.

Washington, Sept. 22.—The interstate commerce commission has received notice from the Seaboard Air line that it intended to withdraw its cut rates for passenger travel between Boston, Providence, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk and Portsmouth and southern points to take effect Oct. 1.

Mrs. Cleveland Visits at Marion.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., Sept. 22.—Mrs. Cleveland called on friends at Marion yesterday afternoon, which will probably be her last call before returning to Washington. She went on the lighthouse tender Rodgers. The president and Secretary Carlisle remained at Gray Gables about all day.

Treasury Gold Reserve.

Washington, Sept. 22.—The treasury gold reserve at the opening of business to-day stood at $116,177,388. The gold withdrawals yesterday at New York were $66,600. There was exchanged at New York $1,692,000 in gold for currency.

Reading Will Be Sold.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—Judge Acheson, in the circuit court, has denied the motion asked for by W. W. Kurtz to prevent the foreclosure sale of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad and the sail will take place to-morrow.

Will Employ 4,000 Hands.

Braddock, Pa., Sept. 22.—The Edgar Thomson Steel works, which resumed operations in all departments yesterday with 3,000 men, will within the next two weeks increase its force to about 4,000 hands.

Happy Toilers at Yonkers.

Yonkers, N. Y., Sept. 22.—There is much rejoicing among workmen and tradesmen over the resumption of the Smith & Sons carpet mills, as work is thus provided for about 700 employes.

SLAVIN BADLY DEFEATED

Fought To a Standstill in the Fifth Round by O'Donnell.

Maspeth, L. I., Sept. 22.—Steve O'Donnell fought Frank Slavin to a standstill in the fifth round at the Empire Athletic club last night, and the latter's seconds, seeing their man was all but out, threw up the sponge after the round had gone one minute and thirty-five seconds. Slavin fought wildly all through, and the bell only saved him in the fourth round. After the fight Slavin addressed the crowd as they were filing out. He said: "I'm licked to-night, gentlemen, but I think the man that is behind O'Donnell will give me another chance when I am in better condition. I have been hurt ever since Thursday and only came here so as not to disappoint the public and my backer." As long as O'Donnell mixed it up Slavin was the stronger at the short range, but when Steve stood off it was all up with Slavin.

Corbett Not Anxious To Be Arrested.

Asbury Park, N. J., Sept. 22.—When James J. Corbett was seen regarding Fitzsimmons' arrest he was very much surprised and declared that the whole business was a shame from beginning to end. He said that he did not want to be arrested, but that fear of such a contingency would not prevent him from going to New York if he had urgent business there. He thought that Fitzsimmons' arrest was caused by spite. Corbett is keeping up his training for his fight with Sharkey.

Fitzsimmons' Arrest.

New York, Sept. 22.—The arrest of Fitzsimmons yesterday on an indictment charging him with arranging a prize fight in this state is the first made since the law was enacted. There is a warrant out for Corbett also. Fitzsimmons, after his release on bail, said that he and Corbett met recently at a hotel in this city and agreed to meet in a boxing contest for the largest purse offered. He said that they did not sign articles, so as to avoid the possibility of lawbreaking.

AFFAIRS IN CUBA.

An American Expelled and Another Deported—Disastrous Battle for Rebels.

Havana, Sept. 22.—The director of the Conservatory of Music, Hubert Blanck, and an American planter, Alfredo Hernandez, have been expelled from Cuba, and will soon leave this city for Key West. Further particulars regarding the attack upon Moyeri, Santiago de Cuba, on September 5, show that the insurgents numbered 2,000 men, under Ferrer, Vega, Stort and Nieves. The fighting lasted three hours and the insurgents lost over sixty men. A dispatch from Cardenas, Matanzas, says that Francisco Tolon, brother of Samuel T. Tolon, the American citizen who was arrested recently on board the Ward line steamship Seneca at this port, and a man named Jose Lago Leal were sent yesterday to the Zaffarin islands penal settlement off the coast of Morocco, with Gonzalez Sansusa, Alfredo Zayas, Adolpho Diaz, Ignacio Lamas, Miguel Gonzalez, Pedro Becura and Francisco Alday. The steamer Satrustegui has arrived here from Spain with reinforcements of 74 officers and 2,100 men, and the steamship Puerto Rico, also from Spain, has reached this port with reinforcements, consisting of 7 officers and 800 soldiers. Francisco Barrosi Curiel spent last night in the chapel in the Cabanas fortress. He will be shot today for the crime of rebellion. Three kidnappers will be garroted to-morrow at the Cabana.

THE PHILIPPINE REVOLT.

All Property of Residents Who Have Aided the Rebels To Be Confiscated.

Manila, Sept. 22.—A decree issued by Capt.-Gen. Blanco orders that all property belonging to residents of the Philippine islands who have been implicated in the rebellion against the sovereignty of Spain shall be forfeited for the benefit of the government. A week's grace is offered to all the insurgents who are willing to surrender.

German Catholic Convention.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—At the German Catholic Central association convention last evening, it was decided to give $250,000 to the Peter's Pence fund. The treasurer's report showed 550 local organizations, with 47,458 members, of whom Illinois had 4,367; Indiana, 2,862; Iowa, 1,694; Kentucky, 2,887; Michigan, 1,376; Minnesota, 4,395; Missouri, 4,854; New York, 5,029; Ohio, 5,127; Pennsylvania, 3,047; Wisconsin, 7,278. The association paid $295,355.36 in sick and death benefits during the year.

Export of Gold from England.

London, Sept. 22.—The Bank of England has sold since Saturday £203,000 American eagles. It is probable that there will be a regular export movement for the next three weeks. The Bank of England charges seventy-eight shillings for gold bullion, but the open market price is one-eighth penny less. Silver is weak on American sales.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

The Treaty of Peace Negotiated at Shimonoseki.

Ex-Secretary Foster, Who Was the Confidential Adviser of the Emperor of China, Tells of the Work Done by Li Hung Chang.

Gen. Foster, who accompanied Li Hung Chang on his mission to negotiate peace with Japan, in the capacity of confidential adviser to the emperor of China, contributes a characteristic sketch of the Chinese viceroy. Concerning the treaty of Shimonoseki, Mr. Foster says:

"While he thus bore the most important trust ever committed to him by the emperor, it was by no means a task to his liking. He was by nature high-spirited, and his military and political success had made him haughty and imperious. He was proud of his country, of its past history and of its institutions. He partook of the national feeling of contempt for the Japanese, and he felt keenly the humiliation which the war had inflicted upon his people. He knew the mission to which he had been assigned would make him unpopular and expose him to fresh indignities from his partisan enemies. He felt that he was taking his life in his hand when he should place himself on Japanese soil, and he so expressed himself to the incredulous foreign diplomats at Peking; but he dared not shrink from the duty which his sovereign had imposed upon him.

"Seldom has a public man, under such trying circumstances, borne himself with such true heroism and patriotic devotion. A high-spirited and proud man, he went to the land of the despised but triumphant enemy to sue for peace; and yet he never failed to maintain his accustomed demeanor or his country's dignity. And it is due to the Japanese plenipotentiaries who were designated to receive and treat with him at Shimonoseki to state that they exhibited toward him the highest marks of respect, and during the entire negotiations allowed no word to escape from their lips, and nothing to occur, which might be considered personally offensive to their distinguished guest. He had the good fortune to conduct negotiations with two compeers, men of marked ability, and worthy representatives of their government and race. Marquis Ito, the prime minister, is a typical member of the progressive party, educated in Europe, and trained in modern political science and methods of government, but an ardent and patriotic Japanese. He had a valuable colleague in Count Mutsu, minister of foreign affairs, who had been long in his country's service at home and abroad. Marquis Ito, ten years before, had been sent by his government to Tientsin to arrange with the Viceroy Li a settlement of Corean affairs; and the same subject brought the viceroy to Japan, but under changed conditions for the negotiators.

"The defeated party always negotiates at a disadvantage, and the viceroy did not fail to appreciate the situation; but the judgment of the impartial observer is that he came out of it with as much credit as was possible, and it is quite certain that he obtained better terms for his country than any other Chinese official could have secured. This was due in part to the personal consideration shown him by the Japanese negotiators, but mainly to his own diplomatic experience and his thorough knowledge of his own government.

"Japan was robbed of a large measure of her triumph by the interposition of the European powers, and it has been stated that the viceroy consented in the treaty to the cession of the Liaotung peninsula only because of his knowledge that these powers would compel its return to China. But this is not a fair statement of the facts. Neither the viceroy nor his government had received any information from Russia or any other power, before the treaty was signed, as to its action on the subject; but he had been a close student of European politics for many years, and his action was based upon convictions born of that study. He neither reads nor speaks any foreign language, but he has secretaries charged with the duty of keeping him informed of current events, and has had much intercourse with diplomats and other intelligent foreigners; and he well knew that Russia, if no other nation, would not allow the domination of Corea by Japan, or its permanent lodgment on the continent so near to Peking and Russia's own possessions, and he was willing to make the Lioatung cession in order to escape other harsh terms.

"But the viceroy's statesmanship and strength of character were most conspicuous in his conduct after the treaty was signed and he had returned to China. He sent urgent telegraphic representations to the emperor and to the foreign office, calling for prompt ratification and exchange of the treaty in spite of the foreign influence and national clamor. His personal enemies were actively exerting themselves against the treaty, led by Viceroy Chang Chi-tung, who had written the highly laudatory address on the occasion of his birthday celebration, and who to that end was fomenting the rebellion in Formosa, and supplying the rebels with arms from the imperial arsenal at Shanghai. It greatly redounds to the credit of the young emperor that in such a grave crisis he followed the advise of his venerable counselor, and ratified the treaty."—Century.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result. It's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

Trouble of an American Railroad Enterprise in Columbia.

Colon, Columbia, Sept. 22.—The trouble between the national government and Manager Ford of the Carthagena & Magdalena River Railroad company, which is an American enterprise, gives promise of being amicably adjusted. The governor of the province of Magdalena ordered Mr. Ford to receive and transport all freight by weight, under threat of fine and imprisonment. Mr. Ford refused to obey the order, maintaining that the company had the right to conduct its business as best suited itself, and denying the right of the government to interfere with the road in any way. It does not appear that the threat of the governor was put into effect. The national government will seek to have the quarrel adjusted by arbitration. Mr. Ford protests against the arbitrators being selected from among the residents of Carthagena, holding that they are biased in favor of the governor. His protest, it is thought, will be heeded, and the arbitrators will be selected from men whose decision will be impartial. The company is a Boston organization which has put over $5,000,000 in the road.

STARVATION THREATENED.

Deplorable Outlook for Labrador Fishermen if Relief Does Not Come.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 22.—Clergymen, school teachers and other residents of Labrador and northern Newfoundland are writing to the newspapers and the government respecting the destitution prevailing on those coasts, owing to the failure of the fisheries. The writers unite in declaring that hundreds of persons must perish from starvation unless extensive relief measures are inaugurated soon. They urge the government to grapple with the situation promptly and they also solicit the assistance of the British cabinet, through whose restrictive laws in favor of French fishermen and against the residents most of the destitution is due.

INTERNATIONAL CRICKET.

The Australians Defeat the Philadelphians in the First Match of the Series.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—The first of the series of the three cricket matches arranged between the Australian team and picked teams of Philadelphia gentlemen cricketers was concluded yesterday afternoon, after three days' play, and resulted in a victory for the Australians by 123 runs, each side having its full two innings. This match was played on the grounds of the Germantown Cricket club at Manheim. The match on Sept. 25, 26 and 28 will be played on the Belmont club grounds at Elmwood, and the match booked for Oct. 2, 3 and 5, will be at Haverford, on the grounds of the Marion club.

Waived Extradition Papers.

Calais, Me., Sept. 22.—M. N. McCusick, special counselor for the state, and Deputy Sheriff Foster of West St. Andrews yesterday succeeded in getting the consent of Lola T. Lola, John Stevens and Wallace Nicholas, the three Indians suspected of murdering Michael Macmonagle on Wednesday last, to return to Maine without extradition papers, and a hearing will be had before the municipal judge here this afternoon. All efforts to recover Macmonagle's body have been unsuccessful.

Von Kotze's Downfall.

Berlin, Sept. 22.—Lieberecht von Kotze, the court chamberlain and master of ceremonies, who is still a prisoner in the fortress at Glatz, where he is confined for participating in the duel which resulted in the death of Baron von Schrader, has resigned his office of master of ceremonies, but the emperor has permitted him to retain the office of court chamberlain and also to hold his military office of captain in the reserve cavalry.

Mr. Bryan's Movements.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 22.—The day of campaigning which William J. Bryan began at 5 o'clock yesterday morning when he arose from his bed in Baltimore to catch an early train for Dover, ended last night with two speeches in Wilmington to large audiences, and it was after midnight before he was driven to the hotel at which he spent the night.

NEEDLESS SUFFERING.

Homes Everywhere Filled With the Weak and Nervous.

No Need to Feel Tired and Irritable—Knowledge That You May Never Have Possessed.

People often have pale and sallow complexions, the muscles are weak and flabby; there is a weak, nervous feeling and a general tired and exhausted condition; the appetite is gone. The spirits are depressed; strength, energy and ambition are lacking; the sleep may be disturbed, there may be neuralgia and rheumatic pains. In fact the entire system lacks vigor of nerves and power of the body. These conditions arise from a disordered state of the nerves and blood. What is needed is Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy to build up the wasted, weakened, diseased nerves, and to give a supply of purer, richer blood.

MISS E. BURKE.

Miss E. Burke, of Amoskeag, N. H. writes: "I was stricken-down with nervous prostration, and no one but God knows what I suffered.

"I was so nervous that the least little thing would cause my heart to flutter and palpitate. I was also troubled with severe headache and dizziness, which unfitted me for any mental work.

"I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. What a blessing it has proved to me! I can truthfully say that I owe my present health to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. This wonderful medicine has done me so much good, that I urge others to use it and get well."

This grand medicine transforms the body from a weak, ailing, disordered condition into a strong and vigorous one. It is the prescription of the great specialist in nervous diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th Street, New York City, who can be consulted free personally or by letter.

ANECDOTE OF THOMAS COUTTS.

The Guinea That Was Worn on a Duchess' Bracelet.

A long time ago, when Bristol was growing rich with the profits of the West India trade, of which it had almost a monopoly, a stranger took lodging there, toward the close of the year, and used to visit the coffee-room of that famous old inn, "The Bush." He would arrive about noon every day and calling for a six-penny glass of brandy-and-water, sit over it until he had carefully gone through the London paper of the preceding evening.

The landlord of "The Bush," seeing how anxious he was to read the London paper, made it understood that while he had it "in hand" no one else was to expect it. Rather "seedy" garments, a lean body, a confirmed stoop and a limited expenditure of a daily six-pence with nothing for the waiter, clearly showed the newspaper reader to be a "poor gentleman" and by that title he was soon distinguished. On Christmas eve honest John Weeks, the landlord, anxious that the decayed gentleman should have one good meal at least in "The Bush," delicately intimated to him that on the following day he kept open table, to which he would be welcome, free of cost.

Punctually at one o'clock the next day the stranger appeared at "The Bush" in his usual seedy attire. He partook of the good dinner with the apparent relish of a man to whom such a feast is a novelty and did due justice to the "stunning ale" for which, far and near, "The Bush" was famous. The dinner was concluded. The decayed gentleman remained the last and read the London paper in the kitchen. When he prepared to leave, the landlord respectfully helped him to put on his overcoat and at the same time slipped a guinea into his hand. The poor gentleman pocketed the coin with a smile and a sigh.

He came no more to "The Bush." But shortly after "The Bush" itself was advertised for sale, with all its valuable good will and appurtenances, and poor Weeks was trembling at the thought of being turned out by a new owner, when he received a missive from Coutts & Co., the London bankers, to the effect that if he wished to acquire the house he occupied he might draw upon them for the purchase money. Hastening to London to thank his benefactors and convince himself of the genuineness of the offer, he was introduced to Mr. Thomas Coutts, the head of the great banking firm, who proved to be no other than the "poor gentleman." "The Bush guinea," it is said, was afterward worn, mounted in a bracelet, by the duchess of St. Albans, the widow of Mr. Coutts.—House hold Words.

WOULD MEAN DEATH

Tynan Prays To Be Saved from Surrender to British Authorities.

APPEALS TO AMBASSADOR EUSTIS

Pledges His Honor That He Has Taken No Part in Any Political Affair Abroad—Was Only Traveling as an Ordinary Tourist.

Paris, Sept. 22.—The fact that Patrick J. Tynan, the alleged dynamite conspirator, who was arrested at Bologne-sur-Mer, had appealed to Mr. Eustis, the American ambassador to France, and to President Cleveland, demanding protection as an American citizen, was announced in these dispatches last week, but at that time the contents of his letter were not known. It is now learned that in his letter to Mr. Eustis Tynan informs him of the fact of his arrival in the United States in March, 1883, and his naturalization in 1888. He gives his place of residence in New York, enumerates the members of his family, and refers to Judge Fitzgerald, Recorder Goff and Judge Roger A. Prior as his friends. He adds that he left New York with the object of making a European tour, but learning that he was being shadowed by English detectives he traveled under an assumed name. In the course of his travels he went to Italy, Belgium and France. It was his intention to return to New York on September 20. Tynan pledges his honor that he has not taken part in any political affair in France, and that he has done nothing beyond the ordinary sightseeing of a tourist. He appeals to Mr. Eustis to use his influence to prevent his surrender to the British authorities, for, he says, to hand him over to the British government would certainly mean death for him. He recalls the help given by Irishmen to France at Fontenoy. In conclusion, he states that if Ambassador Eustis will graciously urge his request for release upon the French government, and if France will kindly permit him to depart for his home both will receive the thanks of millions of Irish throughout the globe. The letter is dated Sept. 15, but Mr. Eustis did not receive it until yesterday. He immediately informed the French government of its receipt, and informed it that Tynan was a citizen of the United States.

Permission To Sue Bank Receivers.

New York, Sept. 22.—Justice McLean in special term, part 2, of the supreme court has granted Peter Herter permission to bring a suit against the receivers of the Murray Hill bank. Herter says that he is a creditor of the bank for $4,795 deposited, and as assignee of Maria Ann Herter for $5,196. The bank holds Herter's notes for some $11,000, one of which is due today. Herter wishes to pay the notes and release the collateral, in the shape of mortgages held by the bank, but does not know which set of receivers is in charge of the bank.

Chairman Green's Views.

Washington, Sept. 22.—State chairman of the Texas republican party, E. H. R. Green, was at republican headquarters this morning. He says that a committee consisting of three members each from the populists, sound money democrats and republicans have been appointed with plenary power to fuse or make arrangements as will best result in casting the vote of that state against the Chicago nominees. He says he believes the chances for McKinley carrying the state are good. The combined opposition has gone so far, he says, as to put in the field a ticket pledged to McKinley and Watson.

Knocked from Her Bicycle and Injured.

New York, Sept. 22.—As the Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Reynolds of Chester, Pa., were riding their bicycles along West street, near Dey, yesterday, a section of a Starin line dock building fell on them. The building is being torn down, and the riders were close to it when the timbers dropped. Mrs. Reynolds was knocked from her wheel and picked up unconscious. At the Hudson Street hospital it was found that three of her ribs were fractured, and that she had possibly internal injuries. The man was not injured.

Youth Killed by a Live Wire.

Canajoharie, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Truman Knapp, aged 16, was killed last night by an electric shock while playing with several companions on the River bridge. Knapp, in climbing through the framework of the bridge, grasped two iron rods which were in contact above with the electric light wires and received through his body the full alternating current of 1,000 to 1,200 volts. He gasped and fell lifeless to the floor.

In the Hands of a Receiver.

New York, Sept. 22.—The Hodgman Rubber company, with two stores in this city and branches at Boston and Chicago, and factories at Mount Vernon and Tuckahoe, have suspended on account of the financial stringency. Judge Dyckman at White Plains yesterday appointed Robert W. Todd of that city receiver of the company.

Nominated for Congress.

New York, Sept. 22.—The republican convention of the Ninth congressional district last evening unanimously nominated Timothy J. Campbell for congress.

Boston, Sept. 22.—The republicans of the Tenth congressional district (Atwood's) last night nominated Samuel J. Barrows for congress.

British Steamer Aground.

London, Sept. 22.—The British steamer Topaze, Capt. Gray, from Philadelphia, Aug. 29, is aground at Gloucester.

SPORTS

TUESDAY, Sept. 22. Sun rises 5:44 a. m., sets 6:03 p. m. Lanterns must be lighted between 7:03 p. m. and 4:44 a. m.

Cyclists desiring to join the League of American Wheelmen will be furnished with application blanks and necessary information by addressing the Cycling Department of the Daily Press.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Miss Thorn, of East Second street, has purchased a handsome new wheel.

Robert Jackson has left the employ of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

James E. Murray, of West Eighth street, started yesterday afternoon on his wheel, bound for Boston.

Miss Elizabeth Hull, of Grove street, has just purchased a ladies Cleveland Swell Special from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

H. B. Crane, of East second street, and W. E. Probasco, of East Front street, are spending a week at Shiloh, N. J., where they rode on their wheels. They will ride home.

Edgar Shepard, of Central avenue, started on his vacation yesterday, which he will spend in Hunterdon county, accompanied by his wheel and camera. He will be absent a week.

The prizes for the amateur events at the Crescent Wheelmen's National circuit meet, which is to be held on Saturday, are now on exhibition in the window of J. Hervey Doane's jewelry store on Park avenue.

Welles Taylor, of Park avenue, still feels the effects of a collision last Friday night. He was riding near Roselle, when another bicyclist came along on the wrong side of the road They met and the stranger's wheel, which was the heaviest, played hovoc with Taylor's frail wheel. Taylor himself sailed over the handlebars. As a result, his face and hands were cut and he was badly bruised.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

Ernest Rapalye, formerly of the Plainfield High School, is one of the candidates for the position of fullback on the Rutgers 'varsity football eleven.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Misses Glenn, of Craig place, are entertaining a friend from out of town.

Miss Ella Hedden, of West Fourth street, is visiting relatives at Sparta, Morris county.

Mrs. Isaac Smalley, of East Front street, has returned from Asbury Park much improved in health

Mrs. J. Clark, of Philadelphia, has been spending a week with Mrs. Eugene V. Lorton, of West Fifth street.

Miss Codington, of Mt. Horeb, who has been visiting her cousin, Assemblyman W. R. Codington, of this city, returned home today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. VanDyke, of East Front street, were the guests Sunday of Mr. VanDyke's aunt, Mrs. McBride, at Bound Brook.

Jacob Abrams, for some time past employed as a barber by Fred Hui, of Park avenue, has gone to his home at Northport, L. I., to remain there.

Mrs. Edward Lorton, of Philadelphia, returned home Sunday after a week's visit with the family of Mrs. E. V. Lorton, of West Fifth street.

After a pleasant ten-days vacation, spent at Easton, Pa., and Flemington, Hunterdon county, Harry Bush, of the fire department, has returned to duty.

Charles F. Hackett, editor of the New Era, of Parker, S. Dak., who was a visitor at the home of T. S. Armstrong in this city during the summer, wrote an interesting letter to his paper concerning the beauties of Plainfield and vicinity.

Templars of Liberty to Be Organized.

On Thursday evening, in Red Men's hall, a branch of the society named the Templars of Liberty of America will be organized. The membership is already quite large and a successful institution of the lodge is predicted.

—It is expected that the new Vanderbilt church, at Asheville, N. C., will be dedicated next Sunday. Miss Fanny Mattison, it will be remembered, has been engaged as soloist at the above church.

rider, winning everything in sight in 1894, but throughout the past two years he has confined his riding to the track. He helped wipe the Class B record slate clean last fall, and this season has broken the professional mile record in competition, single paced, three times. He now holds this record at 2:01, having won the mile open at the national meet at Louisville in this phenomenal time against such a field as Sanger, Bald, Cooper and the Butlers movements on the bars. They completed their exhibition with the high jump, clearing the bar at five feet.

In the fall of 1894 a little cherry-faced Californian went to the national meet at Denver, competed against Johnson, Sanger and Bald, and went away with three firsts, a second and a third out of the five national championships up his sleeve. This was Otto Ziegler, the "Little Demon," of San Jose, and his sensational victories over the fastest men of Amercia won for him a lasting renown. During the season of 1895 he came east and joined the Morgan & Wright team. At Louisville he secured a number of world's records, the most prominent of which was his competition mark of 1:52 3-5. Ziegler has improved under training this season, and is looked upon as well-nigh invincible in short distance work.

Every follower of the racing game knows Pat O'Connor, the big, jolly Irishman of the circuit. For three years O'Connor was the right hand man of Johnnie Johnson, and it was he who assisted the little champion of the track. As captain of the quad pacing machine he has helped to break more records than any man in the world. His connection with the "Good Tire" team dates from last fall, when he joined their camp at Louisville. He is the largest man of the team, a strong unpaced rider, and may be expected to show up well in handicaps and at long distance work.

One of the best handicap riders in America is Harry C. Clark, of Denver, who first came into prominence by breaking the unpaced mile record and capturing the big Morgan and Wright gold brick, upon which every bicycle rider in the country had set longing eyes. Clark is a modest, quiet youngster, a general favorite with all the circuit crowd, and as consistant a performer as any member of the party. He has been riding as a professional since the opening of the national circuit in Texas, with credit and success.

Caleb Cobweb Not Coming.

Amos R. Wells, better known as "Caleb Cobweb," who was to be present at the coming State Christian Endeavor convention as the representative of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, is very ill and has been forced to cancel all his engagements. Treasurer Shaw, of the United Society, will be present instead.

Theories of cure may be discussed at length by physicians, but the sufferers want quick relief; and One Minute Cough Cure will give it to them. A safe cure for children. It is "the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results." For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

A NEW BANK PRESIDENT

J. W. JOHNSON CHOSEN TO SUCCEED THE LATE ELIAS R. POPE.

H. Mulford Estil Elected to Fill Mr. Johnson's Place as Vice-President—Both Men Favorably Known in Business.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank, held in their rooms in the bank building this morning, J. W. Johnson, vice president, was elected president of the institution to succeed the late Elias R. Pope. H. Mulford Estil, of the Board of Directors, was elected vice president. Both selections are eminently satisfactorily to the patrons of the bank. Mr. Johnson has been a member of the Board of Directors for about five years. He is a man of great executive ability and financial knowledge, and his selection will continue the bank on its substantial and enviable reputation. Mr. Johnson is engaged in the wholesale silverware business on John street in New York.

Mr. Estil has been a member of the Board of Directors for six years and and has a reputation of being one of the most prosperous business men in Plainfield.

One of the brilliant features of Stowe and Co. grand double Uncle Tom's Cabin will be the grand noonday parade, in which two grand brass bands will take part. The attraction comes to the Music Hall for a matinee and evening performance on Wednesday, September 23, and numbers over fifty people; many novel features are introduced and the scenic portion of the production is simply grand. One of the features, is a genuine cotton press in operation, also a grand cake walk participated in by over twenty of the noted prize winners of the world. Prices at matinee 15 and 25 cents; evening 25-35 50 cents.

An Elopemedt.

A timid young lady and a gallant young man—both love-lorn—came to city last Saturday on a matrimonial mission. They came from Fishkill-on-the-Hudson, she a Catholic and he a Protestant. The parents of the bride were not aware of the approaching marriage and so it was an elopement. They were married by Rev. T. Logan Murphy, but he refuses to divulge the names of the couple. They took dinner at Rogers' restaurant on East Front street and then went to New York.

Couldn't Survive the Shock.

After a short illness, the result of a paralytic stroke, Mrs. Mark Schoettlin, aged twenty-eight years, of 16 Linden avenue, died this morning about 1 o'clock. It will be remembered that Mrs. Schoettlin was taken suddenly with paralysis while enjoying good health. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of a host of friends in their great loss. Funeral services will be held from her late home on Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

Race Prejudice in New Orleans.

The negroes of New Orleans, who number 75,000, or about one-fourth of the whole population, have filed petitions with several railroads to provide them with some park or picnic grounds where they can go of an evening. The public parks are legally open to them, but the race prejudice is so strong that very few venture to go there. For the past few years Spanish Fort, where Gen. Jackson entered New Orleans, has been their chief resort; but this summer it was thrown open to the whites, and consequently closed to colored people. "Little Woods" has followed suit, and the negroes have now here to go. They recollect that even in slavery days they had one special park set aside for them by the whites, and which still bears the name of "Congo square." It has been rechristened Place d'Armes and Beauregard place, but all in vain. It is still "Congo square" in spite of the city ordinances, and the fact that the Congo negroes were crowded out a half century ago. One of the railroads and some leading negroes are now looking for a quiet, secluded spot that can be used as a colored Coney Island.—Harper's Weekly.

TALKED AGAINST SILVER

A. H. ATTERBURY ADDRESSES THE DEMOCRATIC ORGANIZATION.

Says That the Circulation of More Silver Dollars Will Not Act as a Panacea For the Big Depression Now in Existence.

The National Democrats of Plainfield, representing the gold standard and not Bryan and Sewall, met last evening in the rooms at the corner of Muhlenberg place and South Second street, and held their first meeting. A. H. Atterbury, a leader in the new party, presided, and addressed those present. The attendance was excellent, and much interest was shown. A part of Mr. Atterbury's remarks follows:

"Gentlemen, I extend a welcome to you in the name of the National Democratic party. The issues involved in the present campaign are the greatest since the war, notably, the proposed changing of our money standard. These issues ought not to be decided hastily, for there is much to learn and ther eare so many who are ignorant regarding these great issues. Bryan tells you that cheap money will bring prosperity. We Democrats tell you that cheap money has been tried many times, and it has brought misery and loss to all people. These meetings are held to teach sound ideas on this subject. We have no great orators to offer, but those who do speak here will tell you the truth.

The discussion at present is all about money, that which you receive as wages at the end of each week. Nine persons out of every ten strive solely for money. Money had a beginning like everything else, and there was a time when people exchanged corn and sheep. Salt and tobacco were used for money, until the country adopted silver and gold. A change in the two is now being considered. When the silver dollar was first made, it was an honest dollar. At present there is a considerable amount of sentiment expressed over the silver dollar. In 80 years, counting from 1793, there was coined less than $8,000,000 silver dollars.

"During the past fifteen, $450,000,000 have been coined and I think the silver dollar has received enough attention in this line. A man named Bland claimed at one time that he had discovered the great panacea for hard times, and there was coined three times the number of silver dollars, but this did not improve matters Bryan's ideas may be politics but they are not honest. Wages depend on the amount of general business transacted. In 1855 we experienced a real panic and wages fell to a low point and remained so for many years. All business men oppose Bryan and his free coinage system, and as a rule men don't like to leave their party unless they have good reasons for it. There is only about 5 per cent of this country's business carried on in cash. The balance is conducted on a credit system. Bryan's scheme is not a new one, and it has resulted disastrously. It affects the workingmen. What I tell you is no fairy story, but facts. Honesty is the best every time. Ex-President Harrison recently said that the worst sufferers from the cheap dollar are the workingmen, for it cheats them."

Following Mr. Atterbury's remarks an informal discussion of various phraes of the political question was indulged in by several of those present. The speaker announced that every Tuesday and Thursday evenings meetings would be held at the same place and he urged those present to spread the news. He announced that on Thursday evening, Macready Sykes would speak. The following persons have recently joined the new party: H. F. Doball, Chas. Burnett, Howard Fluning, Col. J. F. Wilson, Andrew Selvin, E. C. Pearson, Elias Hatch, F. Linbe, and Mahlon Vail.

THE "COUNT" GOES TO JAIL.

Italian Bank Defaulter Committed to Await Extradition to New York.

"Count" Alberico Caroselli, the Italian banker, formerly of New York, who was arrested Sunday afternoon at the home of his brother, Carlo Caroselli, on Lincoln place, charged with being a fugitive from justice, also an absconder, was taken to Elizabeth yesterday by Chief Grant to await the requisition papers which will be brought from New York. Justice Newcorn committed the "Count" until Thursday. Chief Grant telephoned to the Police Headquarters New York yesterday and they informed the Chief that requisition papers would be issued at once. It now looks as though the "Count" will be obliged to meet the depositors whom it is alleged he defrauded.

From all accounts Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a Godsend to the afflicted. There is no advertisement about this, we feel just like saying it. The DEMOCRAT, Carrollton, Ky. For sale by T. F. Armstrong, Druggist.

NOT AS THE BIBLE SAYS

UNCHRISTIANLIKE ATTITUDE OF VOLUNTEERS TOWARD SALVATIONISTS.

The Volunteers Encroach on a Heretofore Conceded Right of the Salvationists, and Latter Retire From a Point of Vantage.

For the first time since there has been an American Volunteer post in this city, the Salvation Army and the former organization have come in dire conflict, and the attitude reached last night seemed unchristainlike.

Two years ago the Salvation Army secured permission from the city officials to hold open air meetings on the vacant lot near the Babcock building on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The army always took advantage of the privilege whenever the weather was favorable for outdoor meetings, but when the contention between the Booths and the subsequent organization of the Volunteers occurred, the Salvationists agreed to retire from this point of vantage every other Saturday night and permit their rivals to reach the crowds from that location, retaining the right, however, to meet there Tuesday and Thursday without interruption from the Volunteers.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and every other Saturday, the Volunteers met there and held their service. There was no conflict between the two until last night.

Captain Brewer and four faithful Salvationists, with drums and tambodrens, and many interspersed hallejuahs, marched to this spot last night shortly after 7 o'clock and started their simple service of prayer and testimony. As they formed a circle, the Volunteers were seen coming up Front street from the direction of their headquarters with unfurled flags, beating drums and a line of recruits that exceeded the Salvationists several to one The Captain of the Salvationists was about to announce a hymn for his soldiers to sing. when the Volunteers whirled from their position in the street and marched directly up along side of their erstwhile co-laborers. Their was no cessation of noise or surprised look on the part of the newcomers, and they settled down to holding a meeting just as though the Salvationists were out of sight and out of hearing.

This action was such a surprise to Captain Brewer that it almost took his breath away and he commanded his few soldiers to be quiet for a moment. He awaited developments and the Volunteers continued the services unconcerned as to the position of the Salvationists Kneeling on the ground they uplifted their voices in prayer, sang a hymn with accompanient of drum and tambourens and followed up with their accustomed testimonies.

Meanwhile the Salvationists stood awed by the actions of the Volunteers in encroaching on what had been conceded their right that night and disturbing the service which they had already started. Captain Brewer seemed to realize that the Volunteers were resolute in their determination to hold a meeting there, and accompanied by his little band of followers he quietly marched off to the barracks. The Volunteers remained there for some time and continued their meeting and then went back to their own rooms in Reform Hall.

When seen by a Press reporter this morning Captain Brewer said that he was at loss to account for the strange and unchristianlike actions of the Volunteers. He was not severe in criticism of them, but spoke more in a tone of regret and sorrow that there should be such an unfriendly demonstration by an organization engaged in the work of christianity and along the same line of methods as his own.

Captain Bisbane was in charge of the Volunteers.

A Foolish Hawk.

A chicken hawk visited Plainfield yesterday afternoon and here met his Waterloo. He went to the chicken yard of George N. Cortwright, of East Sixth street, and proceeded to devour a fowl. Edward Marcellus was going by. He picked up several stones and began to throw them at the hawk. The bird merely winked his eye and paid no attention until the fifth stone caught him in the neck, when he laid down and gave up the ghost.

Appealed the Case.

S. S. Swackhamer has appealed the case of Musgrave against Manning, on contract, for his client, the plaintiff. The case was recently tried before Justice Newcorn and a verdict was given of no cause for action. Ex-Judge W. A. Coddington represented Manning.

—The Christian Endeavor Local Union have given Crane & Clark, the hatters, the order for their new caps.

A FAST RUN ON RECORD.

A CENTRAL PASSENGER TRAIN ALMOST FLIES THROUGH SPACE.

With Engineer Mike Moynahan at the Trottle a Speed of 75 Miles an Hour is Maintained for Seven Miles.

Train No. 504 pulled in at Bound Brook yesterday a little behind time, being due to leave there at 11:56 a. m. A bevy of legal luminaries of this city headed by Craig A. Marsh, were on the train scheduled to leave Bound Brook at the same time as No. 504. Engine 174 replaced the one which had brought the train that far on its way from Philadelphia and Mike Moynahan, upon mounting "old reliable," at the signal from Conductor Brokaw, pulled out. "Get out of our way," cried John Chandler who was on the local. "Dont delay us by taking water at Green Brook," yelled another man anxious to be at his Plainfield home in time for lunch. Gentle Mike looked calmly at his repeater but said never a word. Twelve o'clock that repeater registerred and Mike was due at Jersey City at 12:39. A smoother riding train never a man rode on. Watches were held from Plainfield station mile post to the one at Rahway river, east of Cranford, and the seven miles were made in the remarkable time of 5 minutes and thirty-six seconds or at the rate of 48 seconds to the mile, being a speed of 75 miles per hour. A stop was made at Elizabeth, but despite that the train came to a standstill at Jersey City one minute and ten seconds ahead of time.

Jealously, of course, exists and when the run was mentioned to another trainman, he asked "how many cars?" "Five," was the reply, "one Pullman sleeper, one express car, one U. S. mail car and two B. and O. coaches heavier than lead and all loaded down"

On being congratulated on the result of his run, modest Mike gave all the credit to the machine. "Good engine," said he, "and she made the time; I wonder if Ike Munn can beat it, and I did'nt have her wide open either. Heavy train though." And cool as a cucumber he strolled around to test the boxes.

THE AWNING ABLAZE.

The Fire Department Called Out for an Incipient Fire.

There is one thing that will effectually rouse Plainfield and that is the fire-alarm whistle. It was really wonderful how rapidly the crowd gathered yesterday afternoon when an alarm came in from box 42, at the corner of Grove and West Front streets, and the word was passed around that the Babcock building was on fire.

Rumor was correct, but the blaze was so slight that it was almost out before the department arrived, and that was in short order. An awning over one of the Madison avenue side windows of Reed & Coddington's law offices, on the second floor, caught fire and ignited the shade inside. The window was closed, the shade extinguished, and the awning was about consumed, and only needed a little water to put out the last sparks. It is supposed to have caught from a cigarette butt or lighted match dropped from one of the upper windows.

Lively Express Package.

The United States Express Company had a rather strange package to handle this morning. It was a live bull calf, all crated, with a bed of hay of which he occasionally took a mouthful. This rather lively passenger is going to Mount St. Vincent, on the Hudson, and is leaving his birth place, the Holly Farm. He is being sent by John I. Holly to Edward D. Randolph.

Goes to the County Court.

The case of Stevens against Nankin, in tort, which was tried before Justice Mosher and a twelve-men jury Monday, and a verdict of $50 given to the plaintiff, has been appealed by the defendant through his lawyer, Assemblyman W. R. Codington. S. S. Swackhamer was the counsel for the plaintiff.

A Harvest Supper.

A Harvest Supper will be held at Monroe Avenue chapel tomorrow evening. It is given by the Ladies Aid Society of the chapel. The Schubert Ladies Orchestra will be present and render a number of selections.

"Life in London."

In the Y. M. C. A. hall, on Thursday evening, Rev. Dr. S. P. Cadman, of New York city, will lecture. His subject will be "Life in London." Dr. C. R. Barnes will preside.

Many a day's work is lost by sick headache, caused by indigestion and stomach troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most effectual pill for overcoming such difficulties. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

HOPE FOR MIKE WATSON

AN ATTEMPT WILL BE MADE TO RELEASE HIM TODAY.

Lawyer Swackhamer Has Gone to Trenton to Secure a Writ of Habeas Corpus—Proceedings Said to Be Illegal.

There was a faint expression of joy in the face of "Mike" Watson as he looked through the bars of the county jail this morning and shivered at Elizabeth's chilly reception. He knew that efforts were being made today to get him out of jail and the unpleasant company of Union county's choicest rogues.

This morning S. S. Swackhamer, who now represents Watson, went to Trenton to get a writ of habeus corpus from the Court of Chancery. Now the object of such a writ is to release men who have been detained illegally. At first sight it would appear that Watson's sentence was perfectly legal, but Watson's friends claim that it was not. Whether their claim is correct remains to be seen.

As was told in The Press at the time of Watson's arrest, he promptly pleaded not guilty. Then he reconsidered the matter and changed his plea to guilty. His friends state that he did that without the advice of counsel, and after he was told by the authorities that he would save himself lots of expense and trouble by pleading guilty as the proof was undeniable. Watson was thus beguiled, they claim, into throwing away his liberty.

After this, he consulted Mr. Swackhamer, who advised him to plead not guilty. With great anxiety and trepidation he again hurried to Judge DeMeza's office to change his plea again.

The Judge said he would consider the request, and last Monday he informed "Mike" that he couldn't change his plea again and then sentenced him.

Watson's friends claim that he had a right to change his plea on the advice of counsel, and that therefore he was detained without trial and illegally.

Then their plan is to get a writ of certiorari and have the proceedings reviewed by a higher tribunal. Meanwhile Mike remains behind the bars and hopes for better days.

ANOTHER VIOLATOR GOES TO JAIL.

Judge DeMeza Imposes a Heavy Sentence on Hugh O'Donnell.

Verily, this seems to be a hard year for the illegal liquor dealers. Michael Watson is languishing in jail, and "Hughie" O'Donnell has just gone down to join him.

"Hughie" was to have been tried on Friday, but this morning he appeared before the Judge and remarked that he thought he would change his plea. He pleaded guilty and the judge pronounced sentence at once without giving him a chance to change it again. The sentence was a fine of $100 or 60 days in jail. As "Hughie" is not flush he went down to join Watson.

Bicycling on the Way.

J. E. Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray, of Central avenue and Eighth street, left New York on his bicycle, yesterday, for Boston, where he will remain for an indefinite period with his sister, Mrs. A. A. Tilney. John W. Murray, Jr., received a telegram from him last evening stating that he had arrived in New Haven safe and sound and had covered the mountainous district of seventy-two miles without accident or mishap. In New Haven he was to spend the night, and proceed on his journey today.

Slept in the New Bank Vault.

Two ordinary intoxicated men went to roost in the vault of the City National Bank, at Front street and Park avenue, night before last, and about midnight their loud snoring aroused some of the chowder eaters at Delmonico's, across the way. Patrons, hired help and all went over and found the two men snugly tucked under some lime sacks and reposing peacefully on the floor of the vault. No complaint was made.

Wandering Equines.

Marshal Lines found one of P. M. French's horses wandering about the streets of the borough yesterday morning. He returned the animal to the owner. Early this morning Marshal Hansen captured a stray horse belonging to Chris Lubach, of Grove street. This horse was also returned.

—Heat your chilly room with one of Gavett's Miller oil heater.

It doesn't matter much whether sick headache, billiousness, indigestion and constipation are caused by neglect or by unavoidable circumstances; DeWitt's Little Early Risers will speedily cure them all. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

THE CRACKAJACKS HERE

FAMOUS RECORD BREAKERS NOW TRAINING AT THE OVAL.

The Track is in Good Condition, But the Big Guns Say That the Sharp Turn Will Preclude Any Record Breaking.

In Cooper, Ziegler, Gardiner and Bald, the Crescent Wheelmen will have a speedy quartette for their National Circuit meet Saturday afternoon. Not but what there will be other fast riders, but those four men are among the few professional riders in this country who have some claim to the title of champion. Eddie Bald han decided to ride here and has telegraphed his intention of doing so.

Altogether the prospects for Saturday's race meet are most promising. The fastest of the professionals and the amateurs are coming, and a host of wheelmen are coming to see the n ride.

The members of the Morgan & Wright racing team made their first appearance on the track yesterday afternoon. They found it a trifle muddy, but were greatly pleased with its condition, for the track is now as smooth as could be wished and the ruts, that heretofore impeded fast riding, have been done away with. The crack-a-jacks have only one fault to find with the Oval and that is the short turn, The sharp curve there causes the riders to slip quite a little and that will prevent any phenomenal time being made. The track record is likely to go, however, even if none of the world's records are lowered.

There will be some familiar faces in the professional ranks. A. H. Barnett, once of the Crescent Wheelmen, is entered as a member of the Orient team. Howard B. Mosher, of Storm King, N. Y., is all ready in town and expects to ride on Saturday when he may be heard from, especially in the two mile handicap. Our old friend, Jay Eaton, will not be here. He is now at Chigago training for a match race.

And by the way, you all remember Joe Donoghue, who made his debut in the amateur ranks at the Crescent Oval on Decoration Day. He appeared at his home in Newburgh last Labor Day and rode a mile in 2:17 and won several races. A temporary grand stand had been erected to take care of the big crowd, and the people became so excited over their favorite's performances that they wrecked part of the grand stand.

Plainfielders are too staid for anything like that but they will probably see some very fast time made, especially in the mile open for the "profs." Here the kings of the track will meet on an equal footing and the man that wins has got to show some tremendous pedaling powers. A few words in regard to some of the cracks would not come amiss.

One of the kings of the track this year is Tommie Cooper, the Detroit wonder, who sprang from obscurity early last season, and who made things very interesting the balance of the season for Eddie Bald, then the biggest man in the game. Cooper joined the circuit last year about the latter part of July, but so well did he employ his time that by the close of the season he stood second in point of winnings and of meritorious work. This season his work was of such a high order that it was not until the season was half gone that he knew what defeat meant. At Louisville, during the recent national

BRYAN AT BROOKLYN

To Address a Meeting in the City of Churches To-night.

SENATOR BLACKBURN ALSO TO SPEAK

Plans for the Reception of the Democratic Nominee Carried Out on a Large Scale---His West Virginia Itinerary.

New York, Sept. 23.—William J. Bryan will speak at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn to-night, and preparations for his reception in the City of Churches have been carried out on a large scale. Several prominent democrats are down for speeches at the meeting, including Senator Blackburn of Kentucky. At the close of the meeting workmen will at once take charge of the building and begin to prepare for the convention of the national democratic party, which will be held to-morrow evening, when a third state ticket will be put in the field. Mr. Bryan will also speak at the Clermont avenue rink.

MR. BRYAN'S ITINERARY.

A Three Days' Tour Through West Virginia Now Arranged.

Washington, Sept. 23.—John T. McGraw of West Virginia, a member of the national committee, has arranged the itinerary for Mr. Bryan during the the days that the candidate will be at the disposal of the West Virginia state committee. Mr. Bryan, according to this arrangement will leave New York on the night of September 29, and reach Washington at 7 o'clock on the morning of the 30th over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. He will leave Washington at 8 a. m., September 30, reaching Harpers Ferry at 9:40, where he will speak for twenty minutes. Arriving at Martinsburg at 10:30 he will have one hour and fifteen minutes and Cumberland where he is due at 2:15 p. m., he will be given thirty-five minutes. By special train over the West Virginia Central, the party will be taken to Keyser, arriving at 3:40, where a stay of one and a half hours will be made. The run will then be made from Keyser to Grafton for a night meeting which will be held at 8 o'clock. October 1—Leave Grafton at 6 a. m. for Clarksburg where he will arrive at 10 o'clock and remain for one and a half hours. Arriving at Parkersburg at 2:30, the party will remain one hour. The trip from Parkersburg to Wheeling will be made by special train, reaching Wheeling at 7:30 for a night meeting. After this meeting Mr. Bryan will leave for Charleston, arriving there early on the morning of the 3d of October. He will speak at 10 o'clock, remaining for one and a half hours. The party will then take a special train to Huntington, arriving there at 1 o'clock, giving an hour and a half to the people at that point. At Huntington Mr. Bryan will bid farewell to West Virginia and take the regular Chesapeake & Ohio train, the fast-flying Virginian, for St. Louis to attend the meeting of the national democratic clubs. He will be accompanied through West Virginia by a special escort committee.

VICTORIA'S REIGN.

To-day It Becomes the Longest of Any British Sovereign.

London, Sept. 23.—Queen Victoria's reign becoming to-day the longest of any British sovereign, all the morning paper published historic reviews of the events of the Victorian era, and editorials congratulating her majesty. The papers will dilate upon the progress that has been made in political enconomy and in all the arts, sciences and industries since the queen ascended the throne on June 20, 1837.

"Cymbeline" Below the Standard.

London, Sept. 23.—"Cymbeline" was produced at the Lyceum theatre last night by Sir Henry Irving. The play was magnificently staged, and the dresses were superb. In the early parts there was some dragging and here modification is needed. The critics in the foyer were of the opinion that the whole play was somewhat below the Lyceum standard. Sir Henry Irving played the part of Iachimo, and Miss Ellen Terry that of Imogen. They were repeatedly called before the curtain.

Big Wager on Bryan.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Col. Ayres, the well known lobbyist, yesterday bet $500 even with Tom Bivens, private secretary to the commissioner of internal revenue, that Bryan will be elected. This is the first wager of any considerable amounltthat has been made in this city without odds.

English Bank Rates.

London, Sept. 23.—There is increasing probability of an early advance of bank rate (which was 2½ last Thursday) to 3 per cent. Apart from the gold withdrawn from the bank Monday £100,000 ($500,000) was bought in the open market for the continent and a slight further decline of French checks will bring within sight the probability of gold exports to Paris.

Lord and Lady Russell at Newport.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 23.—Last evening Lord and Lady Russell of England attended a dinner given by Hon. Perry Belmont in honor of the return of his brother, August Belmont and his wife, from a summer spent abroad. Sir Frank and Lady Lockwood and Hon. and Mrs. Henry White were the other guests.

Treasury Gold Reserve.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The treasury gold reserve at the opening of business to-day stood at $116,963,409. The day's withdrawals at New York yesterday were $62,100. There were exchanged at New York $1,000,000 in gold for currency.

DEATH OF CALLIAS BEY.

His Widow Will Receive the News on Her Arrival at Southampton.

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 23.—A cablegram has been sent to Southampton for Mrs. Callais, formerly Mrs. P. T. Barnum, who is now on the steamship Paris, notifying her of the death of her husband, which occurred at the hotel Bristol, in Constantinople, Monday night. The message received in this city from the Turkish capital said that death was due to congestion of the liver. The body was embalmed and the funeral will not occur until the arrival of Mrs. Callias. The body will be buried on the island of Melata, off Smyrna, where he owned extensive olive groves. It is hardly a year since the widow of the late P. T. Barnum married Demetrius Callais Bey. She closed her house "Marina" here, left to her by the old showman, and has lived abroad with her second husband. Immediately after the burial of Demetrius Callais the widow is to return to this city and again take up her residence in "Marina."

SPLIT IN IRISH RANKS.

Political Prisoners' Fund Severs Connection with the Amnesty Association.

New York, Sept. 23.—It is learned that at a recent meeting of the Irish Political Prisoners' Fund association it resolved to sever its connection with the organization known as the Amnesty association, and had given notice that it will not participate in the public demonstrations which were being arranged by the Amnesty committee to raise funds for Gallagher and Whitehead, the alleged dynamiters recently released from Portland prison, England. The Political Prisoners' Fund association will go ahead on its own account with preparations for a demonstration on November 22 next. The Amnesty association met last night and mapped out a course of action. It is said the members of the fund association were incensed because the report of the experts who examined Dr. Gallagher was given to the press.

MYERS VOTING MACHINE.

It Does Not Provide for Split Ballots and Is Therefore Illegal.

Albany, Sept. 23.—Attorney-General Hancock has rendered an opinion in which he holds that any voting machine which compels voters to cast their ballot for an entire set of electors and does not give them free discrimination and power to vote for as many of one set of electors as they desire, and for whomsoever they please, whether he be a nominee of a party convention or not, is an unconstitutional form of casting a ballot. The opinion was written in response to a letter from the city of Yonkers, where the Myers balloting machine is in use. The machine, as it stands, has no device whereby split ballots can be voted for electors, and the opinion will necessitate the changing of hundreds of these voting machines in use throughout the state of New York.

WILL NOT SHIELD TYNAN.

This Government Will Only See That He Has Treaty Rights.

Washington, Sept. 23.—So far as Tynan is concerned the extent of the intervention of the United States government in this case will be to see to it that he has an opportunity to exercise all of the rights conferred by treaty. His counsel is expected to make sure that the formalities are observed in the extradition proceedings, but there is no warrant for the intervention of our government to shield him from extradition on the ground that he is an American citizen.

Emancipation Day Celebration.

Washington, Sept. 2..—Emancipation Day was celebrated by the colored population of Alexandria, Va., by a parade of military organizations from Washington and elsewhere. A letter from Garret A. Hobart of New Jersey, republican nominee for the vice-presidency, was read, regretting his inability to be present.

Order Regarding Postal Cards.

Washington, Sept. 32.—The postoffice department has issued an order to postmasters directing them to see that none of the double or reply postal cards are allowed to be dispatched if deposited in the postoffices in an unfolded condition.

THE "WAGO OWANHAN."

A Mysterious Light That Hangs in a West Virginia Canyon.

An old-time West Virginia wonder is again causing quite a discussion among the reading and thinking people of Wyoming and adjoining counties. The "wonder" referred to is the mysterious light which has been known since times almost prehistoric as the "Wago Owanhan."

This phenomenal light, says the St. Louis Republic, appears to emanate from a certain spot on the precipitous sides of the great Pat Wess canyon. It casts its ghostly sheen across the waters of the river, lighting the surroundings not with a "sickly, pale, white light," but with a phosphorescent glow of sufficient brightness to make the reading of a newspaper or a book possible on the darkest night. According to some investigators of the "Wago Owanhan" the light does not emanate from any spot on the canyon's side, but hangs out over the river, like a luminous cloud or fog. This appears to have been the case at the time when Prof. Tohlur and Mr. I. E. Christian—the latter of Oceana, W. Va.—visited the spot. On the 15th and 16th of last February an expedition, headed by Mr. Christian, again visited the "Wago Owanhan." Snow was falling rapidly at the time, and Mr. Christian says that every flake, when it reached a height of about 200 feet above the water, "would blaze out with dazzling brightness" and remain luminous until it reached the surface. A scientific investigation of the phenomenon will be made.

SETTLED IN NOVA SCOTIA.

Colonial Americans Who Early Made Their Homes in Canada.

Many loyalists, particularly from New England, had fled to Nova Scotia before the close of the war, and settled on the spot where the city of St. John now stands. This gave one objective point, at any rate, says Macmillan's Magazine, to the much larger band of exiles who at the peace were forced to seek new homes at short notice; and in a single year the new settlements grew to some 13,000 souls. Men of all classes flocked there, officers and soldiers, clergymen and lawyers, farmers, mechanics and merchants. They were naturally much above the average of ordinary emigrants, both in character, education and intelligence; but all, or nearly all, were equally destitute and forced to begin the battle of life afresh. A year later New Brunswick was separated from Nova Scotia, endowed with a council and home assembly, and the capitol moved to the present site at Fredericton.

The first council included many well-known New England names, such as Putnam, Winslow, Allen and Willard. It included, also, a late judge of the supreme court of New York, another distinguished lawyer of that colony, and several officers of the loyal regiments. Both the New York and the Virginia branch of the Robinsons, one of the wealthiest and most influential families in colonial America, were here represented, and to this day are conspicuous in upper Canada.

Eliot's Indian Bible.

Miss Frances H. Tribou, daughter of Chaplain Tribou, takes exception to the oft-repeated statement that no man now living can read Eliot's Indian Bible. She writes Zion's Herald that at the Mohonk Indian conference of 1894 she heard Bishop Whipple say that it is a mistake to say it cannot be read, because the Ojibways of Minnesota can read it. As the bishop's remarks are published in the proceedings of the conference, and as he is an authority on such matters, Miss Tribou's exception seems to be well taken.

Americanisms.

Phrases like "I don't want to," with the infinitive elided after the to, having been declared to be Americanisms, Rev. J. Erle writes to the academy that he had always used and heard the form, being a native of South Devon, and also quotes Dr. Watts' "Let bears and lions growl and fight, for 'tis their nature to." Dr. Fitz Edward Hall gives a long list of English examples for the phrase, beginning with the year 1636 and including Jeremy Collier, Defoe, Southey, Dickens, Charles Reade, Ruskin and George Eliot.

Shall we whip a poorly nourished horse when he is thoroughly tired? He may go faster for a few rods, but his condition is soon the worse for it. Better stop and feed him. Food gives force. If you are thin, without appetite; pale, because of thin blood; easily exhausted; why further weaken the body by using tonics? Begin on a more permanent basis. Take something which will build up the tissues and supply force to the muscular, digestive and nervous systems of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, meets every demand. The cod-liver oil is a food. It produces force without the whip. Every gain is a substantial one. The hypophosphites give strength to the nervous system. An improved appetite, richer blood and better flesh come to stay.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

CROP BULLETIN.

Weekly Report Issued by the Weather Bureau for Eastern States.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The weather bureau's crop bulletin for eastern states just issued is as follows: New England—Rains, and much corn cut and curing well; late potatoes rotting; pastures good and fine grass bottom for next year's hay crop. New York—Buckwheat harvest about finished; crops, excepting grapes, generally beyond danger. New Jersey—Copious rain have been beneficial to lately sown grain, grass and all late maturing crops; fall seeding nearly finished. Pennsylvania—Good crop of corn, mostly in shock; fair yield of buckwheat nearly harvested; pasturage improved. Maryland—Corn cutting and fodder saving nearly completed; pastures greatly improved. James R. Cook, acting chief of the weather bureau has issued a notice that as all the important crops, with the exception of cotton, have now been practically secured, the national climate and crop bulletin will be discontinued. Until the next crop season, monthly bulletins will be issued only.

MARINE TRADES UNIONS.

Efforts To Organize All the Orders in England and the United States.

New York, Sept. 23.—James H. Williams, agent of the Atlantic Coast Seamans union in this city, has received from Tom Mann, general secretary of the Water Side Laborers union of Great Britain, a cable informing him that Delegate McHugh was on his way to this country on the Etruria. The cable requested that a meeting of longshoremen and sailors be arranged for Sunday. The message has been referred to the union's headquarters in Boston for action. McHugh comes here as a delegate from the International Federation of Marine Trades of Great Britain, and it is thought his object is to put on foot a scheme to organize all the marine trades unions in Great Britain and the United States under one head. The sailors and dock laborers on the other side are organized more thoroughly than they are in America.

WANT ANNEXATION ONLY.

Hawaiian Government Not in Favor of an American Protectorate as Alleged.

San Francisco, Sept. 23.—The steamer Doric in port here called at Honolulu and brought correspondence for the United Associated Presses under date of September 15 which says: Efforts have been made during the past fortnight to generate dissatisfaction among government supporters by circulating reports that President Dole and his cabinet are not honestly in favor of annexation, but are in accord with the British section of sugar planters in their desire for an American protectorate which would permit the continued importation of Asiatic contract labor, which the whites so strongly oppose. In interviews, the cabinet members state that a protectorate would be very unsatisfactory and that they want no form of political union with the United States less than full and complete admission of Hawaii as a state or territory.

25 YEARS FOR FAXEN.

The Wounded Burglar Carried into Court on a Stretcher To Receive Sentence.

Flemington, N. J., Sept. 23.—John Faxen, the Pattenburg burglar, who was shot by postmaster George G. Barker, was carried into court yesterday and pleaded guilty to the indictments of carrying burglar tools and entering. Upon the former charge he was sentenced to fifteen years and upon the latter charge to ten years' hard labor in state prison. Barker shot Faxen twice, buckshot entering his arm and leg. He was brought here on a stretcher. He tried to rob Barker's store and set off the burglar alarm. The terms of imprisonment run concurrently.

Big Fire in a Haytien Port.

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 23.—Advices from Jacmel, one of the principal ports of Hayti, which does an extensive trade with the United States, are to the effect that a conflagration that occurred there destroyed three-quarters of the town. The fire appliances in the place were primitive and little could be done to check the progress of the fire. Many persons have lost everything they possessed, and the suffering among them is very great.

Kentucky Senatorship.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 23.—Lieut.-Gov. Worthington, presiding officer of the joint general assembly, who is acting governor, said that he was not only positive that the election of a United States senator at the expected extra session of the assembly would be legal, but a successor to Senator Blackburn would surely be chosen if the extra session is called, which seems a certainty.

Hodgmen Rubber Company Failure.

New York, Sept. 22.—The stores of the Hodgmen Rubber company in this city are still closed. It is understood that the liabilities are about $404,000, of which $350,000 are direct and $34,000 contingent. The nominal assets are placed at $315,000, consisting of merchandise, materials, accounts, factory plants and real estate.

Fusion in North Carolina.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 23.—The republican state committee have withdrawn Patrick T. Eassey as congressional nominee in this district. This is in accord with the republican arrangement with the populists to give the latter five congressmen and assure their election.

New York Women Appointed.

Albany, Sept. 22.—Miss Marie Onuf of New York city has been appointed archivist at the State Pathological institute in New York city. Miss Amelie Busck, also of the metropolis, has been appointed librarian to that institution.

...e Filibustering Steamer Three Friends Again Seized.

CASE TO BE PUSHED THIS TIME

Understood That the Officials Are Acting Under Orders from the President, Who Wants To Make an Example of Her and Stop Filibustering.

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 23.—The alleged filibustering steamer the Three Friends has been libelled by the United States government for violating the navigation laws by going into foreign waters without surrendering to the collector of the port her coastwise license and taking out papers that would permit her to enter a foreign port. The libel has been filed in the office of the clerk of the United States court and Marshal McKay left for Fernandina to serve the same and bring the vessel to this port. The Three Friends in charge of Marshal McKay left Fernandina for Jacksonville last evening. The penalty is forfeiture of the vessel, and it is understood that President Cleveland has ordered the case pushed, as he wants to make an example of the Three Friends and thus deter filibustering expeditions.

MUZZLING THE PRESS.

Weyler Issues an Order Regulating the Publication of News in Havana Papers.

Havana, Sept. 23.—Capt.-Gen. Weyler has issued a circular regulating the publication of news by the local press and the transmission of dispatches by the correspondents of foreign journals. Further details of the fight at Calabazar show that the captain of volunteers who was in command of the Spanish forces and a lieutenant were among the killed. Col. Feijoo reports having had a fight which lasted two hours with six hundred men under Aguirre near Jaguiabo, province of Havana. The troops dislodged the rebels from their positions and dispersed them. The insurgent loss was twenty-three killed, while the Spanish had only eight men wounded.

FOUL PLAY FEARED.

A Cuban Relief Manager Disappears After Receiving a Threatening Letter.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—A. D. Powers, director and manager of the Cuban Relief corps, which only last week opened offices on Wabash avenue, is missing and fears are entertained that he has been made away with by emissaries of the Spanish government. Last Wednesday Powers received a letter full of threats against his life and stating that there was a secret society in Chicago, the members of which were Spaniards, which had sworn revenge upon all Americans who would lend a hand to help the Cuban revolutionists. Monday evening Powers went to his office as usual. At 11 o'clock the watchman found both front and rear doors open. Yesterday the door which had been secured by the watchman was forced open. Powers' coat and hat were found in their accustomed place, but there was no trace of the missing man.

Worcester's Annual Musical Festival.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 23.—The first concert of the thirty-ninth annual festival of the Worcester County Musical association was given last night in Mechanic's hall. "The Messiah" was presented with a chorus of 500 voices, the festival orchestra of 60 instruments and the soloists. There was a large audience. Carl Zerrahan directed. The soloists were Mrs. Eleanore Meredith, soprano; Mrs. Carl Alves, contralto; William H. Rieger, tenor, and Carl F. Dufft, basso. The plan of giving an oratorio on opening night has become very popular and this production of "The Messiah" is probably the best ever given Handel's masterpiece in Worcester.

Death of Horatio N. Beach.

Brockport, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Horatio N. Beach, one of the oldest and most prominent residents of the village, is dead. He was editor and proprietor of the Brockport Republic for many years. He was a prominent republican and during President Arthur's administration was United States consul to Venezuela and later in the term was appointed consul-general to Ecuador. He was 70 years of age.

The Free Employment Bureau.

Albany, Sept. 23.—Commissioner of Labor Statistics McDonough, speaking of the free labor employment bureau established in New York city, said: "Its condition is far more flourishing than was expected. The bureau receives between 800 and 900 applications a week. Of this number employment is found for sixty or seventy applicants every week, the majority being women."

Death of Wm. Lucas Bostwick.

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Wm. Lucas Bostwick died at his home in this city last night from paralpsis, after nearly two years of suffering. Born at Enfield, Tompkins county, March 13, 1837, he had always lived in the county and was interested in its politics and those of the state for many years.

Maber Knocked Out in Earnest.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 23.—"Shadow" Maber, the well known prize fighter, and Joe Dunfee of this city, engaged in a fistic encounter in front of the Vanderbilt house last evening. Maber was knocked down several times and obliged to relinquish the fight.

Discovered a New Comet.

Boston, Sept. 23.—Dr. Lewis Swift of Echo Mountain, Cal., announces through Harvard College observatory that on Sunday night he saw a small bright comet near the sun, one degree east of it. On Monday night the object was north of the sun and fainter.

NOT AS BAD AS PICTURED.

We have been taught in the lore of latter day journalism and funny writers to regard the racing bicyclist as sort of a wild-eyed, distorted-faced and spherical-backed individual—distinct from any other tribe of human beings—who scorches along without regard to time, man or beast, and bent only on making a show of himself and a fool of everybody with whom he comes in contact. But what a difference when we observe the real article as it is in life. Just now Plainfield is the mecca to which all famous bicycle racers are wending their way, and we who study human nature find that the crackajack circuit chasers are a real nice lot of fellows—young, bright, modest, affable—the real personification of gentlemen. As a representative of the people, we welcome the bicyclists to enjoy all our multifarous attractions—good roads, picturesque residential sections, enterprising business men, pretty girls, and the Oval, and withal we trust you may capture some diamonds or the like on Saturday.

GETTING POLITICAL WISDOM.

New Yorkers may have been chagrined that they permitted Chicago and St. Louis to monopolize all the big political conventions this year, but with the aftermath of monster political mass meetings they are faring quite well. Last night Madison Square Garden was filled to the doors with people anxious to hear Palmer and Buckner, the candidates nominated at the National Democratic Convention. Their addresses were able expositions of the gold side of the currency problem.

FOUND NO FENCES TO MEND.

Robert Houston, the Elizabeth Republican who is out for the nomination of Sheriff, was in town last night seeking to patch up political fences, but unfortunately the Elizabethian found that Plainfield Republicanism had been cyclone swept of all vestage of friendlessness towards the politicians of the county seat, and that he had no fences to patch up. He went home convinced that Billy Kirk has the call for the delegates from the Colorado of the East.

CHANGE OF BASE.

The Democratic State Committee will meet in Trenton tomorrow. The headquarters of the committtee will be in Trenton this campaign. The capital is not as convenient as Jersey City is for the leaders of this section to congregate at.

SEEKING LEGAL INJUNCTION.

Board of Freeholders Will be Asked to Prevent the Building of the Dam.

The opposition of the residents of Washington Valley and the upper part of North Plainfield against the erection of a dam by the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, for the purpose of making an artifical pond, will take form in the shape of a petition to the Somerset county Board of Freeholders, the North Plainfield Township Committee and North Plainfield Borough Council protesting that the structure will be a menace to life and property. It is said that under a law passed after the Johnston flood, the Ice Company are compelled to submit plans and specifications of the dam to the Board of Freeholders who refer them to the County Engineer for approval. If they are not approved the work cannot be started. It is said that Ice Company have failed to do this, and the opposition will endeavor to prove to the Freeholders that the erection of the dam will be a menace to property and life.

Officials of the Ice Company called at the Press office this morning and stated that the fears of the people in that vicinity were totally uncalled for, as they intend to erect a dam that will be perfectly safe against all spring freshets.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

—The Jersey Central is doing most admirable work by flagging the property on West Front street near Grant avenue. This has served as an impetus for property owners adjacent to and others on both sides of the street beyond to grade up to the level and lay flagging. Contracts have been given out for fully fifteen hundred feet of flagging between Grant and Clinton avenues.

—The Cranford sewage system, which has been eighteen months in building and has cost more than $125,000, has been accepted in its entirety by the Township Committee. The Board of Health has directed that every drain now discharging in the Rahway river be connected with the sewers. This will bring great relief to the city of Rahway, whose water supply is derived from the stream at a point two miles below Cranford.

A Deception Easily Practised.

is the offer of a reward for "any case of catarrh not cured" by certain "cures." Nothing is said regarding the number of bottles required, and therein lies the deception. Ely's Cream Balm is an elegant preparation, agreeable to use, and immediate in its beneficial results. It cures catarrh. You can rely upon the fact that it contains no mercury nor other injurious drug. 50 cents.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Miss Maggie Fitzgerald has gone to Raritan with Miss Sadie Lee for a few days' visit with relatives.

Fred Clark is a trader in horse flesh. On Monday he traded horses four times in less than eight hours.

Edward Miller is getting a collection of campaign buttons. Thus far he has forty-eight different kinds and some of them are very unique.

Evidently acting under The Daily Press' suggestion, the township committee have filled up the dangerous mudholes in the roadbed on East Front street with crushed stone. A coating of gravel would now put the driveway in its former excellent condition.

Edward Varity claims that he worked as a mason in the construction of the First Baptist church, in Plainfield, many years ago, and that he mortised in the brickwork a bunch of keys and a silver quarter, together with his name, just as a memento, as it were. Now "Ed" says he don't care so much for the keys, but he would like to have the quarter.

DUNELLEN.

The evergreen hedges in the station park were yesterday trimmed, adding greatly to the attractiveness of the same.

William Craig, of this place, has gone for a two-weeks wheeling trip through Pennsylvania. He started on Monday.

M. Agany yesterday put up his self-feeding stove in his store on North avenue. "Mat" says he does not intend to freeze to death even if he starves.

George Schenck, head clerk for Adam Dealaman, will return to his duties today after an absence of ten days on account of the illness and death of his mother.

Walter Brokaw's tame grey squirrel, which has been in captivity since last spring, and which was allowed to roam about the butcher shop during the daytime at will, died a natural death yesterday.

Most of the Dunellen people who have been out of town during the heated term are home again, and a series of winter cotilions and dramatic entertainments are already well under way for the winter season.

William H. Carman and his faithful hunting dog went to the mountains yesterday afternoon in search of squirrels. Mr. Carman knows a good thing when he sees it, so he knew the four squirrels when he got them.

John McFadden is said to be in possession of the names of three young men who stole his no-top business wagon early Sunday morning and hauled it to the Emeryside terminus of the street railway. Mr. McFadden is only looking for a little more direct evidence before he begins legal proceedings against them.

The work of excavating for Dunellen's new municipal building was begun with a vigor yesterday and, weather permitting, the contractors promise to complete their work within the specified time. As a matter of record it may be stated that Contractor Firman H. Gise turned the first spadeful of dirt and Adam Dealaman drove the first stake toward the construction of the new building.

It has been been suggested, and perhaps rightly, too, that a cornerstone be placed in the new town hall, at Dunellen, with a tin box containing borough documents, Dunellen and Plainfield papers, and a small quantity of coin, the same as is usually placed in cornerstones on all public buildings. The matter was broached to a borough commissioner yesterday and he immediately sanctioned the project, although it had never been considered before.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

Francis Higgins, of New York, was the guest of Henry Rogers, of Washingtonville, yesterday.

Last Sunday morning, while Miss Nettie Wyckoff and George Mobus, of Washingtonville, were driving from Plainfield to their homes, the kingbolt to the buggy in which they were riding broke just as they passed the Brookside Retreat. Both were thrown out, and Mobus, who hung to the reins, was dragged through the mud for nearly fifty yards before he stopped the horse. The young lady was quite severely bruised and her clothing was torn and covered with mud. Mr. Mobus procured another vehicle and they reached Washingtonville in safety.

AVON PARK.

William Gratton has resigned his position in the stables of Ellis Campbell.

S. P. T. Wilbur and family, of Plainfield, spent Sunday at the home of Ellis Campbell.

Mr. Shaw and family have returned to their home in New York, after spending the summer here.

Mr. Baunman, of Washington Heights, has been spending a few days here looking after his property.

FANWOOD.

The third annual ball of the Cabinet Social Club will be given at the Fanwood Clubhouse, Wednesday evening, September 30th.

EARLY INTELIGENCE.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps met for practice last night.

—A. B. Thorn, of Craig place, is removing the front fence to his property.

—The new winter cars for the street railway are expected to arrive in this city this week.

—Dr. J. H. Cooley, of North Plainfield, has purchased the last of Thos. Martin's St. Bernard puppy dogs, for $25.

—All-day missionary services will be held in All Saints P. E. church, Fanwood, next Tuesday. Several addresses will be made.

—"Atlas," the Central Railroad Company's private car, passed through Plainfield yesterday afternoon with a party bound westward.

—Under the direction of Borough Street Commissioner Emmons, Somerset street was relieved of a quantity of surplus mud yesterday.

—The Republicans of Rahway have asked Judge Newcorn, of this city, to address them at a mass meeting to be held in their city tomorrow evening.

—J. E. Townsend, of Coddington avenue, lost a valuable cow yesterday. The cow strayed away and no trace of her whereabouts can be ascertained.

—The attention of our readers is called to the admirably arranged series of entertainments under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., as announced elsewhere.

—Summons have been issued by Justice Newcorn in the contract cases of Kyte against Reutsch and Roberts against Mortimer. Both are returnable Sept. 29th.

—A new supply of Huyler's favorite candies was received by Leggett, the druggist, yesterday. These goods are in great demand, and you should call early to secure them.

—Miss M. V. Stickles has returned from New York city and opened an office at her residence, 149 East Fifth street, where she is prepared to give massage and electrical treatment with better results than ever before.

—The machinery at the Wilson stone crusher on the mountain was considerably crippled by the breaking of some of the shafting, yesterday morning; but it is thought that everything will be in readiness for work today.

—The semi-monthly meeting of Carpenters and Joiners, No. 155, was held in the Coward building, on Park avenue, last evening, with President Henry Force in the chair. Only routine business, including the payment of dues, was transacted.

—The safe deposit vaults of the First National Bank are just what is needed here in this city. The boxes rent for $5 and upwards. The system is one of the finest in the country, and many are taking advantage of the vaults to store their valuables in.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

"Boys will be boys," but you can't afford to lose any of them. Be ready for the green apple season by having DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure in the house. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

CZAR AT BALMORAL

The Russian Ruler and the Czarina Guests of Queen Victoria.

AFFECTIONATE GREETING ON ARRIVAL

Extraordinary Arrangements for the Safety of the Imperial Couple While in England---Guarded by Secret Police and Detectives.

Ballater, Sept. 23.—The special train which conveyed the czar and czarina from Leith arrived here at 7 o'clock last evening. The railway station was brilliantly illuminated by means of electric lights and the scene presented was a handsome one. A large crowd gathered, people from all the surrounding country having come to the town in order to get a view of their Russian majesties, the Princess of Wales and the other members of the imperial party. The Duke and Duchess of York and the Duke of Cambridge were at the station to welcome the czar and czarina. The latter affectionately kissed the duchess, and the salutation was heartily returned. The famous Black Watch regiment was present as a guard of honor, and the regimental band played the Russian and British anthems while the party were at the station. After greetings had been exchanged the entire party entered the royal carriages each of which was drawn by four houses and escorted by a detachment of dragoons, started for Balmoral. The crowd cheered lustily as the paaty drove away. When their majesties entered the royal demesne they were met by the queen's servants, wearing kilts and bearing lochaber axes and torches. The scene was most striking and picturesque as the party were conducted along the heavily wooded avenue leading to the main entrance of the queen's highland residence. Here her majesty, surrounded by a group of royalties, received her guests. Affectionate greetings were exchanged and short conversations were indulged in, after which the imperial guests were escorted to the apartments set aside for their use. At 9 o'clock there was a grand family dinner given at the castle.

To Prevent Assassination.

The extraordinary arrangements made to assure safety for the czar on his arrival caused much comment. As the imperial yachts entered the Firth of Forth the harbor was full of merchant vessels from all parts of the world. The precautions taken afloat for the protection of their majesties were unprecedented in naval annals. Picketboats, steam launches and torpedo boats of the smaller class, from the warships Majestic, Magnificent and Resolution, each commanded by a lieutenant, formed a complete net around the Russian imperial yachts in order, ostensibly, to prevent the shore boats from crowding about the Standard, but, in reality, to prevent any possibility of an attempt to commit a dynamite or other outrage. The precautions ashore were equally thorough, although few people give more than a passing thought now to the alleged dynamite conspiracy supposed to have been discovered by Scotland Yard. On the Tantallon Castle, ashore, on the train which was to take their majesties to Balmoral, at different places along the route, at Bellater, and about Balmoral itself, were members of the Russian secret police. Other Russian detectives were on board the Standard, and they were reinforced on landing by a picked squad of the very best Scotland Yard detectives, who will remain attached to the czar and czarina's party until they leave Great Britain.

More Gold Coming In.

The steamship St. Louis, sailing for Europe to-day, will take out 582,000 ounces of silver.

To Inspect War Material.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Capt. D. A. Lyle, ordnance department, has been ordered from Philadelphia to the works of the Pennsylvania Iron company, Lancaster, Pa., to inspect material for 10-inch disappearing gun carriages, and Capt. C. S. Smith has been ordered from Washington to the works of the Bethlehem Iron company on business pertaining to the construction of cannon.

Arrested After a Year and a Half.

Baltimore, Sept. 23.—Thomas B. Kenley of Indianapolis is under arrest here charged with defrauding well-known residents of Indiana out of several thousands of dollars. Kenley was in the real estate business and induced his friends to invest in worthless gold mines. Detectives have been after him for a year and a half.

Shipwrecked Crew Reaches Port.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 23.—The schooner Mayo, from the banks, has landed eight men here, composing the crew of the French vessel G. C. 12 which foundered on the Grand banks Saturday. The crew had a narrow escape. The Mayo had to abandon all her fishing gear to proceed to their rescue.

To Start Up on Full Time.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE COAL DEMON

has an unsatiable thirst for money, hasn't he? Eats it up faster than anything else, doesn't he? The only way to save money on coal is to get the most for your money—to get clean, solid coal that will burn down to fine ashes without stopping half way between coal and ashes. We know we can give you perfect satisfaction, but don't want you to buy here until you know it.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—Rev. Dr. Henry Gallagher has resigned the pastorate of the Trinity Baptist church, Brooklyn.

—The High Street Congregational church, Portland, Me., celebrated the 30th anniversary of Rev. Dr. William H. Fenn's pastorate on July 5 with elaborate services.

—Rev. Dr. George L. Robinson, pastor of the Roxbury (Mass.) Presbyterian church, has resigned in order to accept the professorship of Old Testament literature and exegesis in Knox college, Toronto, Canada.

—Archbishop O'Reilly, of Adelaide, can set type like a professional compositor. When he established the Catholic Record in West Australia he was obliged to set his own type, and to teach the art to other priests, besides editing the paper.

—Jules Simon was converted to Catholicism, according to the Paris Le Verite, shortly before his death by his little granddaughter, who had been attending the catechism class at the Madeleine. She brought him a confessor and he received the sacraments while in full possession of all his faculties.

—Mr. Rowlands, Q. C., recorder of Swansea, who has just embraced Catholicism, on graduating from Oxford became a clergyman of the Church of England, then head master of a grammar school, and in 1871 turned lawyer, was made a queen's counsel, entered parliament, and later was appointed to the bench.

—How great the growth of ritualistic practices has been in the Church of England during the last 14 years is shown by some figures compiled by the Tourists' Church Guide. In 1882 daily communion was administered in 123 churches in Great Britain, in 1896 in 474 churches. Incense, used in nine churches 14 years ago, is now used in 507. The figures for churches using lights on the altar are 581 and 3,598; for those where vestments are employed, 336 and 1,632, and for those where the worshipers face the east, 1,662 and 5,964. The change indicates in many cases some change in doctrine.

TO GET INTO THE NAVY.

How a Boy May Become a United States Bluejacket.

When a boy wishes to become a sailor in the navy he applies to one of the three "receiving" ships. They are the Vermont at the New York navy yard, the Wabash at the Boston navy yard and the Richmond at the League Island navy yard in Philadelphia. The boys must be between 14 and 16 years of age, sound in health and be able to read and write to some extent. No distinction is made in race, and it is a singular fact that the colored boys who apply are almost invariably able to read and write better than the white boys. On board the Vermont the only reading test applied is contained on a card, which is as follows:

"Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States, in congress assembled, that fraudulent enlistment and the receipt of any pay or allowance thereunder is hereby declared an offense against naval discipline, and made punishable by general court-martial."

"What I have just read to you is a law of the United States, and it means that if you do not tell the truth about your age, parents or guardians, or if you are a deserter from the naval or military service, you may be tried by court-martial, put in prison, or punished in some way."

The last paragraph of this is what boys are usually required to read. The officers are not very strict about the hard words, and so almost any boy can pass the test. After being admitted Uncle Sam gives each boy an outfit. His parents or guardian must sign a paper giving him to the government until he is 21 years of age. He becomes known at once as a third-rate apprentice, and in a few days he is sent to a training school at Newport, where he is taught rudimentary things about a sailor's life and work. After remaining at Newport for six months he is transferred to one of two training ships. These are the Essex and the Alliance. He remains on one of these for six months and takes a cruise.

On the voyage he learns how to handle the sails, how to sew and splice and how to handle guns. Innumerable other things about a sailor's life he also picks up, and when he returns he is transferred to a modern man-of-war, where he becomes an apprentice of the second-class. Here he takes his place with the regular crew, and has his allotted share of the daily routine to perform. He is examined every three months, and usually he becomes an apprentice of the first-class in six months, when he has the rank that corresponds to the rank of seaman with sailors.—Harper's Round Table.

Japanese Coal in California.

Japanese coal is to be placed upon the California market in competition with the standard grades that have been used there for years. Three large steamers are loading coal at Kobe for San Francisco, and two more steamers are under charter to carry similar cargoes for the same destination within the next 30 days. The bulk of the coal now consumed in California now comes from Puget Sound and British Columbia mines, while a big share is supplied by Australia.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Breathes Through Its Tail.

The periopthalmus, a species of fish which is found on the coasts of the Indian ocean and Western Africa, breathes through its tail, and it is the only fish known to possess that power. The fish may often be seen clinging by their fins to the rocks and mangrove roots, while keeping their tails immersed in the water, and their respiration is affected through the skin of the tail. It has been proved that when the tail is coated with oil or varnish the fish dies of suffocation.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

HIGH KITE FLYING IN BOSTON.

Success of Experiments on Blue Hill—Features of the Sport.

The details of the high flight of kites at Blue Hill observatory show the experiment to have been a success in other respects than the altitude to which it was possible to send the kites. This, it has been stated, was upwards of a mile and a quarter, the instrument reaching a height of 7,200 feet above the level of the country surrounding the hill. As the meteorograph is suspended quite a distance below the upper kites, they, of course, reached an altitude 200 or 300 feet greater. The kites were three in number, all of them on this occasion of the Eddy pattern, two of them being at the end of the line and the third some hundreds of feet below. The kites were of large size, two of them being six feet in their largest dimension, and the third one a monster of nine feet, presenting some 65 square feet of surface to the wind. This varied from 18 to 31 miles per hour at the surface, and the pull of the wire which held the kites mounted at times to upwards of 125 pounds, quite as much as Mr. Clayton and his assistants, Fergusson and Sweetland, care to handle.

The instrument which was sent up was a meteorograph of three elements, giving continuous readings of air pressure, temperature and humidity, and it was maintained at its greatest height for upwards of a half hour. The readings of the thermometer show a fall in temperature of about 18 degrees between the surface and the upper air. A short distance above the earth a cloud was encountered, through which the kites rose, coming out into clear weather above. In the midst of the cloud, as might be expected, the humidity rose to 100 per cent., this being the reading of the hygrometer, and above the cloud the air was quite dry, more so than at the surface. The record of the instrument, in its variations of humidity, affords a tolerably accurate measure of the thickness of the cloud, which from the estimate made seems to have been about 2,300 feet. The flight fairly taxed again the resources of the observatory, for to secure this great height it was necessary to put out 2½ miles of wire. Moderate kite-flying is a portion of the regular duties of the men at Blue Hill, for Mr. Rotch has recognized the value of this means of securing information about the weather conditions of the upper air, but these very high flights are a little out of the regular order. An attempt to eclipse the record will, however, be made later in the week, when Prof. Harrington and Mr. Archibald can be present, and again later in the season, when it is probable that Mr. Eddy will be once more with the kite-flyers on Blue Hill.—Boston Transcript.

NO POLES FOR TROLLEYS.

Chemnitz Houses Sustain the Guy Wires of the Lines.

Chemnitz, Saxony, two years ago banished horses from her street cars and substituted the trolley. In a report to the state department Consul J. C. Monaghan says one of the principal novelties of the adopted system is that no poles are used. The method of swinging wires is by means of ornamental rosettes fastened into the woodwork or walls of houses, having projecting hooks to which the wires are attached. These hooks are firmly fastened and are tested with seven times the weight they will be called upon to bear. Owners of houses, without exception, preferred to allow the use of their houses free rather than have poles on the sidewalk. The streets through which the cars wind their way are wider than Washington street, Boston, or Westminster street, Providence. The railway tracks, in conformity to the law, are level with the pavement, and accidents to vehicles of any kind are rare. The gauge is narrower than in America, but the cars keep the track and run as rapidly and as smoothly as in the United States. In the heart of the city they run 220 yards per minute, and in the suburbs 330 yards per minute.

The increase of traffic since the introduction of electricity in Chemnitz has been 60 per cent. The cars have no conductors. The motorman is the only person on board who represents the company. By doing away with conductors the company saves 44,000 marks annually. The fare is only 10 pfennigs, or a trifle less than 2½ cents, on all routes, including transfers. Should 150,000 persons evade payment in 12 months the loss would be only 15,000 marks. It would take 450,000 evasions in fare to offset the company's savings by dispensing with conductors' salaries. Among a people who pay for food and drink in restaurants, saloons and gardens on their honor alone it is unlikely the company loses much. Culprits in this respect, when detected, are punished by having their names advertised in the newspapers as a warning to others. Fare boxes are attached to both ends of the car, so there is no such excuse as "difficulty in getting forward."—Scientific American.

Flower Girls in London.

So seriously has the city of London taken the custom of the buttonhole boquets worn by stockbrokers that it has actually given the women who sell flowers recognition. The flower girls, as they are all gallantly called, are permitted by the regulations to set down their baskets and sell the flowers around the iron railings opposite the Royal exchange. They are among the most respected stall holders in the city. They are uniformly polite, as they may well be, since they may be said to be on speaking terms with all the youth and gallantry of Threadneedle street and Throgmorton avenue, and they are very skilled in the making of boutonnieres.—Chicago Chronicle.

Preferable.

"Go to," said the city man to the hard-fisted agriculturist, "you have hayseed in your hair!"

"I think that hayseed in my hair is preferable to wheels in my head, such as I perceive you harbor," was the ruralite's reply.—Vogue.

Major McKinley's Time Occupied in Receiving Visitors.

BEHIND IN HIS CORRESPONDENCE

Delegations and Excursions Continue To Arrive at Canton To Pay Their Respects to the Republican Presidential Nominee.

Canton, O., Sept. 23.—Major McKinley is puting in all his spare time in an endeavor to catch up with his correspondence, which has greatly accumulated during the past few days on account of the numerous delegations and visitors which have called upon him. half a dozen delegations have notified Major McKinley of their intention to visit Canton, and every day for the balance of the week he will devote to their reception. Three delegations called on Mr. McKinley yesterday and he addressed them all. Despite a drizzling rain that continued for some time and a strong northwest wind that blew cold later the enthusiasm of the pilgrimages was unabated. The Holmes county farmers were the first to arrive. Later a delegation numbering 1,000 from Cattaraugus and Chautauqua counties, New York, arrived by a special train of fifteen coaches. They were met by the Canton mounted troop and a reception committee of citizens and escorted to the McKinley residence. Among the towns represented were Jamestown, Carroll, Randolph, Frewsburg, Lakewood, Watts Falls and Panama. Although the members of the delegation had a long ride, many leaving their homes as early as sunrise, they were enthusiastic and showed but little signs of fatigue. L. F. Fancher, president of the Young Men's Republican club of Jamestown, was in charge of the delegation. He introduced Arthur C. Wade, a lawyer of Jamestown, as spokesman. Mr. Wade's remarks were brief and flattering, and as Major McKinley stepped forward to respond he was greeted with the Chautauqua salute. The candidate, bowing his acknowledgements, began his speech, which was often interrupted by applause. At 4 o'clock the last delegation of the day arrived. It filled ten coaches and was composed of 600 members of the McKinley club of Elkhart county, Ind. South Bend, La Porte, Elkhart and Goshen were about equally represented. After their arrival at the McKinley house the Goshen Glee club rendered a campaign song entitled: "Do We Want Him; Well I Should Say So." This was the signal for an outburst of cheering. James Dodge of Elkhart, an attorney, made a brief address to Major McKinley, in which he pledged a majority of 50,000 for the republican ticket in Indiana in November next. Mr. Dodge then presented Major McKinley with a bust statue of the candidate, the gift of a Goshen statuary company. There was renewed cheering when Major McKinley came to the front of the porch to deliver his address.

OFFERED OPTIONS ON SILVER.

An Alleged New York Bullion Broker Denied Use of the Mails.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The postoffice department has issued a fraud order against "F. D. Morgan, banker and bullion broker," 64 Wall street, New York. His scheme has been declared fraudulent and all mail addressed to him is ordered to be marked fraudulent and returned to the senders where possible, and where the senders cannot be found they will be sent to the dead letter office. Morgan advertised a sale of options on silver and gold, contingent upon the election of Bryan. He offered options at $10 on $1,000 at 5 per cent. advance, the sales to be closed to any time within six months after election. In his circulars Morgan predicted Bryan's election, and asserted that it would mean a great rise in the price of silver, and said everybody who held options on silver would make plenty of money. The postoffice authorities could not find Morgan and only a female typewriter occupied his office. Nothing could be learned of Morgan's standing, nor was he known to other bankers.

Nominated for Assembly.

Kingston, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The republicans of the Second assembly district of Ulster county have nominated Harcourt J. Pratt of Lloyds for member of assembly.

Owego, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The democratic county convention was held here yesterday afternoon and Hon. Epenetus Howe of Candor was nominated for member of assembly. He ran for governor on the greenback ticket in the eighties and was elected to the assembly on the republican ticket two years ago.

A Greenfield Shoe Company Assigns.

Greenfield, Mass., Sept. 23.—The Franklin Shoe company of this place has made a voluntary assignment and will settle insolvency. The liabilities are in the vicinity of $23,000. Of this amount $9,111 is due J. D. Huggins of New York for borrowed money, and $9,298 is due the firm of James Huggins & Bro., of New York. J. D. Huggins has been financial backer and manager of the concern.

To Visit Lincoln's Tomb.

St. Louis, Sept. 23.—At the invitation of F. W. Tracy of Springfield, Ill., a delegate to the American Bankers' association here, the delegates accompanied by their wives will leave Friday to visit Lincoln's tomb at Springfield.

Diamond Match Shares at Auction.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—The local stock exchange is still closed. Seven hundred shares of Diamond Match were sold at auction yesterday afternoon at $130 per share.

SPORTS

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 23. Sun rises 5:44 a. m., sets 6:03 p. m. Lanterns must be lighted between 7:03 p. m. and 4:44 a. m.

Cyclists desiring to join the League o merican Wheelmen will be furnished w ith application blanks and necessary information by addressing the Cycling Department of the Daily Press.

CYCLING COMMENT.

A man from Westfield backed his wagon into a bicycle which stood on West Front street yesterday afternoon throwing the front wheel out of gear. The owner of the wheel could not be found and the man with the horse and wagon was not inclined to wait until he could be found.

A pleasant bicycle run arranged by the cycling members of Grace M. E. church was given Monday evening in honor of Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Johnston. The run was over some of the borough's fine roads, and those who participated in the run were the Misses Alice and Grace Carroll, Margaret Schuck, Bessie Valiant, Mr. and Mrs. John Valiant, Mrs. Allen Winckler, Mr. and Mrs. Winckler, Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Johnston, Dr. H. K. Carroll, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, John Steiner, L. A. Hummer, Raymond Carroll and Dyckman Winckler.

AROUND THE BASES.

Eddie Daly's injuries are not as serious as first reported, and he will be with the Newark club next season.

Saturday's game was highly interesting, and it is unfortunate that a series of games was not started early in the season.

Frank Bonner, who was loaned to Wilkesbarre by the Brooklyn club has been recalled, and will finish the season with them.

George Leidy, who was one of the most earnest of the old Plainfield players, is on the reserved list of the Lancaster club of the Atlantic league for next season.

The "up-to-date" baseball reporter of The News should witness a few of the big league games and then he would be better qualified to criticise both umpire and players.

The wet balls used in Saturday's game were a great hindrance to the pitchers and particularly to McLaughlin, who has the most deceptive curves of any pitcher that has been on the grounds this season.

The game for blood between the Bound Brooks and Somersets on Saturday resulted in a victory for the Bound Brooks, the score being 9 to 0 at the end of the sixth inning, at which time the game was stopped by rain. Brampton and Newhouse were the battery for the winners and Work and Shaw for the Somersets. The unequal score was owing to Brampton's splendid pitching the visitors being unable to hit him.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Two carrier pigeons from Cyrus P. Wilcox's loft at Westfield were released at Baltimore, Md., yesterday morning at 10:29. One was back in the loft at 2:20 and the other at 2:30 in the afternoon.

The match race of 100 yards between Albert P. Simmonds and Henry Brown for the amateur championship of Plainfield, will be run at the field games of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association on Oct. 10th.

Professional Wheelmen Here.

The following professional wheelmen are stopping at the Revere House: Tom Cooper, A. E. Webb, F. E. Schefski, W. C. Pelot, Arthur Gardner, W. B. Young, Otto Ziegler, R. P. Aylward, Harry C. Clark, W. P. Stanton, A. S. Kimble, W. W. Reedy, Chas. A. Wells, J. B. Bowler, Pat O'Connor, F. H. Allen, Fred Longhead, Wm. Hyland, A. J. Stackpole, E. K. Kiser.

—Charles Dickenson, the renowned colored orator, will address the colored Republican voters at their headquarters on East Front street this evening.

—The carnival committee will meet tomorrow evening at eight o'clock at the Board of Trade rooms to settle up accounts and decide on a time when the prizes shall be awarded.

—Chas. Woolston, of Fairview avenue, collided with an out-of town cyclist Monday afternoon, while returning from practice with the Alis football team. His wheel was wrecked and his hand was badly cut.

NEW BUILDING AND LOAN

ASSURED STOCK A FEATURE OF THE NEW ORGANIZATION.

John M. Hetfield President of the Plainfield Branch—Loss of Stock by Death is Said to be Almost Impossible

The members of the local board of the new Home Building Loan and Savings Association of New Jersey, which perfected an organization in this city on Thursday evening last, met in the office of S. S. Swackhamer, in the Babcock building last evening, with President John M. Hetfield in the chair. The meeting was informal in its nature, and only a few shares were disposed of.

Messrs. Flynn and Senger, direct from the home office in Newark, explained at length the plans and scope of the organization. It was decided that the regular meetings of the association should be held on the third Tuesday evening in each month, and until further notice in Lawyer Swackhamer's office.

One of the special advantages offered by the New Home Building, Loan and Savings Association, is the provision which is made to the holders of its "assured stock," by guaranteeing the immediate maturity of the shares, in the event of death before the expiration of the time necessary to maturity.

Under the "local" system, if a borrower should secure from the association, say $2,000, and should have paid several years on his loan and should then die, the burden of paying off the balance would naturally fall upon his wife or children, who might not be in a position to discharge the obligation thus imposed upon them and would of necessity be compelled to seek a settlement of their difficulty through the Association, at a possible forfeiture of their interests.

Under the plan of the New Home Building, Loan and Savings Association such a loss would be utterly impossible, as the holder of an assured stock certificate would be protected by insurance to the full extent of the maturity value of the shares, from the very minute he receives his certificate or pays his first dollar

By this system the most perfect and satisfactory results can be realized, and at the same time it is possible to offer to the investing public the advantages of a system which embraces all the merits of a life insurance policy, without sacrificing any of the elements of a high-class investment. An example of the cost is this:

Cost of stock	50 cts. per share per month
Total number of payments	120 months
Maturity value	$100
Total cost	60
Profit on investment	$ 40

The new officers are: President, J. M. Hetfield; Secretary, Nelson Runyon; Treasurer, S. S. Swackhamer; Directors, J. P. Homan, L. L. Manning, N. Runyon, T. J. Carey, J. M. Hetfield, S. S. Swackhamer and Dr. Andrew Manning.

Borough High School Reception.

A reception will be given at the North Plainfield High School, Saturday afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock. Only the parents of the High School scholars will be invited. Prof. Maxwell Bingham, of Boston, will give readings and there will be instrumental music by Mrs. Bennett.

Rode Without a Light.

John Bodenswick, of the borough, was fined $3 yesterday by Justice Crosley for riding his wheel without a light. Russell Johnson also of the borough was fined $2 for riding on the sidewalk.

The first meeting of the men's gymnasium class of the Y. M. C. A., will be held tomorrow evening at 8:15.

Miss Blanche Burke left here today for her home after spending some time in Plainfield as the guest of Mrs. L. E. Lindman, of East Second street.

—The directors of the City National Bank met this morning and signed the contracts for the interior work on the new bank building.

—Wm. Kenny was badly injured by assisting in releasing one of Mrs. S. A. Cruikshank's horses, which began kicking on Somerset street at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon. The result of his injuries are not known.

—Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Beeching of Grandview avenue, North Plainfield, have the sympathy of their friends and nieghbors in the loss of their little babe, Ray, who died suddenly yesterday, of cholera infantum.

—The first entertainment of the Y. M. C. A. Star Course will be a lecture on "How to Get Strong," by William Blaikie, on Tuesday, September 29th. The Seneca Falls, (N. Y.) Reveille says in regard to this lecture: "Undoubtedly, with his well-chosen subject, he if one of the most useful, as well as one of the most popular lecturers on the American platform."

If you have ever seen a little child in the agony of summer complaint, you can realize the danger of the trouble and appreciate the value of instantaneous relief always afforded by DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. For dysentery and diarrœa it is a reliable remedy. We could not afford to recommend this as a cure unless it were a cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

meets. Cooper won four out of the six national championships.

Fred Longhead is acknowledged to be the champion of Canada, holding the same honors as a professional this year as he did as an amateur last season. Then he made the most remarkable record that has been made since the days of Zimmermnn, winning no less than seventy-three first prizes in the amateur ranks, and incidentally several world's records and all of the Canadian championships. Loughead has been on the national circuit about two months and has acquitted himself so well that his admirers look upon him as one of the possible champions of the coming season.

One of the toughest road riders in the United States is A. C. Mertens, of Minneapolis, who has it to his credit that he has lost but one road race in his life, in that taking second time and place to Birnie Bird, the king of the Northwest. Mertens began track work at the Illinois state meet, in June, and has ridden with success throughout the national circuit. He is a strong unpaced rider, and has been employed extensively as a single pacemaker in a number of the fast opens that have been run.

Eddie Cannon Bald is so well known that but little need be said in introducing him. For the last three or four years Bald has been one of the most prominent figures on the the racing path, and his performances have always been of such a high order that people have looked upon him as the most likely successor of the great Zimmerman. Bald closed last season the undisputed king of the path, and has done such brilliant work at times this season that his friends have not lost faith in him. Last Saturday, at Manhattan Beach track, he won a half mile handicap from scratch in 1 1-5, world's record time, which goes to show the magnificent form he is in, a form that will make him a prominent factor in the races here.

CYCLING ENTHUSIASTS WITNESS THE NOTED RIDERS AT PRACTICE.

Eddie Bald Arrived Yesterday and Took a Spurt on the Track—All the Professionals Are in the Best of Condition.

If Plainfield does not appreciate the treat that the Crescent Wheelmen have secured for their National circuit meet on Saturday then she—well, never mind what ought to happen.

The programme will equal that of any of the circuit meets outside of the National meet at Louisville and the big Springfield meet, for all the fastest riders of the country have entered. Plainfield people are going to have an opportunity to witness as good racing as has been seen anywhere on the circuit, and everybody should make the best of the opportunity and go, for a meet of this kind deserves the united support of all of Plainfield's citizens.

Despite the chilly north wind, that nearly froze the boys from California, there was quite a gathering out at the Oval yesterday morning and afternoon. There was a good-sized crowd out to see the "cracks" at work in the afternoon.

"Charlie" Murphy was one of the first of the big men to appear on the track and he warmed up after a time to some lively quarters. This isn't his first appearance on the Oval. He rode here last year when the National circuit opened there on Decoration Day, and was one of the contestants in that unlucky race in which Taxis suffered so severely. "Harry" Maddox also rode at that meet and will appear here on Saturday, although he has not arrived yet. Arthur Gardiner, one of the best on the Morgan & Wright team, was also out early.

The rest came out in a bunch and the crowd was kept guessing regarding their identity. It was too cold for the regular racing suits so the full-length tights were utilized and rather startling were some of the combinations. Ziegler, Loughead and Mertens hung together and took turns at the pace, doing some of their quarters in 30 seconds which, considering the gale that was blowing for half the distance against them, was rather lively. Then John Scott, one of the local riders, chased them, but got all he wanted in one lap.

"There goes Eddie Bald," whispered one of the spectators, as a racer clad in white climbed on a "White Flyer" and started around the track. The mistake was not so great, for the rider was Bald's team mate, Otto

OWEN S. KIMBLE.

Maya, and it is very hard to distinguish the two when riding on the track. Bald, himself, did show up later, and rode around the track on Gardiner's Thistle tandem with Billy Young, the latter's trainer. Bald wore his derby, overcoat and walking suit, but he appeared later in his white track suit and reeled off four miles all alone at about a 2:25 clip.

Howard Mosher came out for a spin, while the Detroit wonder, Tom Cooper, E. H. Kiser, of the Palmer team, and several other riders of note made things lively for a time.

Every day brings new arrivals of professionals for the meet. Bald and his trainer showed up yesterday afternoon. Ray McDonald is coming and is expected to show up well. He has been gradually improving since his return from abroad and has nearly recovered his old championship form. On Saturday W. C. Skillinger, of Chi-

GOOD FIELDS TO WORK IN CHINA AND JAPAN AFFORDS PLENTY OPPORTUNITY FOR MISSIONARIES.

Ernest R. Ackerman Relates Some of His Experiences While Touring Through Japan—A Progressive Country, he Says.

Missionary meetings as a general thing are considered uninteresting and the simple announcement of such a meeting is often an excuse for people to stay away, but such is not the case at the Crescent Avenue church, for they have adopted a method whereby missionary meetings are made attractive and interesting. Last evening the regular prayer meeting took the form of a missionary conference, and there was a large number of people present, as usual, who thoroughly entered into the spirit of missions.

Wm. D Murray presided, and the subject of China and Japan was introduced by him, after which Arthur C. Maclay, of West Eighth street, at one time a missionary in the above countries, gave an intensely interesting talk on the manners and customs of the people. He talked from knowledge gained while in the work, and he presented facts that carried truth with them in such a way that much additional interest was gained thereby. He also spoke of the many religions of the two countries, and in his opinion the false religions were gradually passing away, the result of the recent war. Upon the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Murray called upon Ernest R. Ackerman, who lately traveled through Japan, and asked him to speak concerning the country.

Mr. Ackerman spoke in a general way and hurriedly told of some things of interest. He told how he and his party were invited to partake of a genuine Japanese meal and after sitting for three hours on the floor eating, they were informed that the meal was about half over and that it had taken four days to prepare it. He also exhibited a pair of native shoes, which he said could be bought for 35 cents in silver and 17 cents in gold in Japan. Mr. Ackerman gave a short sketch of the language and illustrated the same on a blackboard, showing a few of the characters and explaining the same. He said that during his stay in Japan he did not see a drunken person, nor he did not hear any swearing.

In conclusion, Mr. Murray gave a digest of the recent reports of the Presbyterian Board concerning the work in Japan. In the report it was stated that natives were being taught to go out and labor among their own people. This plan was thought to be more advisable than sending additional missionaries in the field. The Missionary Board thinks that the prospects in China and Japan are exceedingly bright for the advancement of Christianity and united effort is urged upon all. After the singing of a hymn the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Richards and the meeting came to a close.

The great feature regarding the success of these meetings is that speakers are secured who are known and who know what they are talking about Exhorted at the Wrong Time.

Exhortation is all right in the proper place, but when the peace of a community is disturbed, the law generally takes a hand. Such was the case yesterday when James Emmons and William Calloway engaged in not only an argument but a fight, and they were both arrested by Chief Marshal Wilson and Marshal Hansen. The affair took place on Lincoln place yesterday afternoon. This morning Justice Crosley find Calloway $10, which amount was paid, and Emmons was sent to Somerville for 35 days.

Just Cool Enough for Dancing.

The dance given in Red Men's hall last evening, under the auspices of Minerva Temple, Rathbone Sisters, was a pleasing affair and well attended. Mrs. Thatcher, Mrs. Haberle, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Rounsaville composed the committee in charge and they deserve credit for their able management. Music was furnished by Frazee.

May Proceed Against the Justice.

In the county court at Elizabeth yesterday Ernest Barrett, the young Italian who married the Giles girl, was remanded for trial next week. His lawyer, Wm. A. Coddington, Prosecutor Marsh, Chief Grant, of Plainfield, and the judge had a consultation that may result in some legal steps against the Westfield justice who married the girl and boy.

Important Witnesses Wanted.

The trial of Thomas Marley, which was to have been held this morning, was adjourned by City Judge DeMeza until Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock to give time for the securing of certain important witnesses.

A MOONLIGHT ROBBERY.

SCOTT TERRY CAUGHT THE MARAUDER BUT HE FINALLY GOT AWAY.

Mr. Terry Met the Prowler Emerging From His Cellarway—Lost a Gold Watch and Several Other Valuables.

A bold robbery, accompanied with more or less dramatic scenes, was enacted near this city during last night, and the robber got away. The occurrance did not take place within the city limits, however, and the authorities here did not have an opportunity to work on the case.

Scott Terry, who lives on the Rahway road, about two miles east of this city, had been out to a lodge meeting, last evening, and was returning home on foot at about 1:15 o'clock this morning. Walking along the board walk leading from the roadway into his dooryard he discovered a strange man emerging from his celler through a back door. Mr. Terry stopped the man and asked his business about the place at such an hour, when the fellow made an effort to escape. Scott grabbed the man by the collar, but the man was too much for him, and twice he shook him off and ran towards Plainfield.

Mr. Terry describes the man as about five feet ten inches in height, thirty-five years old, stocky built and wearing a heavy cropped beard. He wore dark clothes, no overcoat and was barefooted, as foot prints in the soil indicated.

When Mr. Terry entered his home, he found his wife and three children reposing peacefully in their rooms in the upper story, but the cellar and ground floor presented a most dilapidated appearance. The parlor and dining room had been thoroughly ransacked, and in the cellar a quantity of canned goods had been sampled and packed up ready for removal. A $50 gold watch lay on the dining room mantel, and this, together with a gold pin and a pocketbook containing several dollars in money, were taken. Dozens of burned matches were afterwards found strewn about the kitchen and dining room, showing conclusively that the robbers had made a thorough search of the cellar and ground floor. This morning a pair of old No. 8 shoes were found on the back stoop The police have been notified.

An Important Furniture Sale.

The well-known and old-established furniture house of H. H. Miller, succeeding John Jelliff & Co., of Newark, recently sold their entire stock of elegantly-carved, sturdily-built furniture (hand work throughout) to Amos H. VanHorn, Littell, also of Newark. This latter firm, with their characteristic enterprise, have just inaugurated a magnificent sale of this stock at 75 per cent. less than the actual cost incurred in its manufacture. The woods which have been used in constructing this furniture are rarely beautiful, and the whole assortment, which represents everything in the furniture way, is worthy the highest praise. Detailed announcement of this sale will be found elsewhere in these columns.

Death of a Former Plainfielder.

Word has been received by relatives in this city announcing the death of Harry Moncton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Moncton, a former resident here, which occurred at the Utica hospital in New York state on Saturday last. He went to North Brookfield, New York, five weeks ago and was taken ill there, and removed to the hospital where he died as above stated. The direct cause of death is the result of a kick by a horse some two years ago, from the effects of which he never fully recovered. He was twenty-two years of age and unmarried.

A Joint Celebration.

Arrangements are making for a joint celebration of the twenty-sixth anniversary of Mt. Olive Baptist church, in this city, and the third anniversary of Rev. P. S. Gibson as pastor of the church. The joint celebration will take place the latter part of December and will continue for eight days. All of the surviving pastors of the church are expected to be in attendance and take an active part in the proceedings. Delegates will be present from many of the colored Baptist churches in New Jersey and New York States.

A Noted Lecturer Coming.

To the friends of the Children's Home—The ladies of the executive committee are happy to announce that by the kindness of W. S. Angleman they have made arrangements with Major Pond for a lecture on Tuesday, December 8th, by Rev. John Watson, "Ian McClaren," who lands today in America. They make this early announcement hoping that all their friends, who might otherwise go to New York to hear him, will wait for this opportunity.

COBB'S SIDE OF THE CASE

HIS EMPLOYES AND FRIENDS BELIEVE THAT HE IS UNJUSTLY ACCUSED.

Mr. Cobb Says That Col. Moore's Patterns Were Left at His Factory, But That He Never Appropriated Them.

Popular opinion seems to be with George B. Cobb in his trouble with Col. C. K. Moore, judging from the way the news of his arrest was received.

His former employes are of the opinion that Mr. Cobb is unjustly accused, and a number of them held a meeting and formulated the following paper expressing their sentiments:

To George, B. Cobb, Esq., Plainfield, N. J.—We, the undersigned, your former employes, having heard of your arrest on a charge of grand larceny beg to assure you by this testimonial that our sympathies are entirely with you. From the knowledge we have of your integrity and straightforward business methods, we believe the charge to be utterly unfounded. Gladly tendering you any assistance in our power at any time, we are respectfully yours, Albert J. Doty, S. T. Williams, F. W. Pew, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Newton H. White, Frank Smith, A Allen and F. Sprague.

It will be remembered that Mr. Cobb was arrested last Monday night on the charge of grand larceny, Col. Moore charging him with using patterns of his patent sewer trap and converting the metal to his (Cobb's) use.

It is but just to Mr. Cobb that his side of the question should be told. He says that when he took possession of the Climax Stopper Company's factory, Col Moore's patterns were stored there in a box. Col. Moore spoke to Mr. Cobb about the manufacture of the traps by the latter and gave Mr. Cobb a paper on the subject. Mr. Cobb said that the patterns might remain if the Colonel wished. The press of business drove all thoughts of Col. Moore's patent from the mind of Mr. Cobb until Mr. Moore came and said some of his patterns had been stolen. Then Mr. Cobb looked into the box and saw what he supposed were wooden patterns. The ones which Col. Moore alleges were stolen were made of brass. Then came the arrest and the hearing.

Mr. Cobb's friends have no doubt but that the Grand Jury will dismiss the case.

THE "COUNT" DISCHARGED.

No Effort Made to Extradite the Alleged Defaulting Banker.

"Count" Alberico Caroselli, the alleged absconding banker, was brought from Elizabeth this afternoon and arraigned before Justice Newcorn. The fact that the New York authorities failed to furnish requisition papers, and that no one appeared against the "Count," gave the Judge no sufficient reason to hold him. He was accordingly discharged.

All in Working Order.

A full meeting of the '96 committee was held Wednesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, at which the chairman of the various committees reported upon the progress of the convention arrangements. The music committee reported the attendance at the rehearsals gratifying. The reception committee has not yet been appointed but will consist of about fifty, who will meet the delegates at the incoming trains and conduct them to the headquarters. The results of the finance committee are so far favorable. The ushers, Junior, evangelistic and printing committees also reported briefly upon their work, and full particulars of the Junior session and evangelistic noonday meetings will be published later. After discussion upon various minor points of the convention, the meeting adjourned until next Tuesday evening.

The P. & R. Sold.

The auction sale of properties of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, under the foreclosure of the general mortgage and as directed by the United States Circuit Court, took place yesterday at Philadelphia. The assets were offered in three separate "parcels." The only bidder was C. H. Coster, representing J. P. Morgan & Co., the head of the Reading Reorganization Committee, and he was the purchaser of the three lots for $4,500,060.

A Social Time.

A delightful evening social was given by Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Roberts, of North avenue, last evening, in honor of their granddaughter, Miss Jessie Roberts, of Brooklyn, who has been their guest for some time past. About fifteen intimate friends were present, who entered into the festivities of the occasion. Vocal and instrumental music was a feature of the affair.

THE JEHUS DEAD LINE.

WHOLESALE ARREST OF HACKMEN FOR SOLICITING NEAR THE CURB.

Acting Roundsman Totten Takes Eight Into Custody for Violating the City Ordinance—Five Will Defend the Charge

A crusade has been started against the hackmen who repeatedly violate the city ordinance, which forbids them from approaching nearer than twenty feet to the curb by the North Avenue station when soliciting passengers. The crusaders are the police, in the person of Acting-Roundsman Totten. He visited the North Avenue station yesterday and, as a result, eight complaints were lodged against local hackmen. Eight arrests followed and the entire bunch was brought before Judge DeMeza this morning. They were Peter Peterson, John Goodwin, Peter Seader, Alonzo Smith, John Keely, John Lynch, Thomas Burns and Michael Higgins. According to Acting-Roundsman Totten's statement, these men were all across the line, some more and some less.

Peterson, Goodwin, Seader and Smith recognized the truth of the statement and pleaded guilty and paid their fines of $3. Keely, Lynch, Burns and Higgins decided differently, pleaded not guilty to the charge and determined to fight it to the bitter end. Their trial was set down for Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in the city court room. While a number of arrests for breaking the hack ordinance have been made lately, this wholesale arrest of the offenders has caused great excitement among the hack drivers. It is likely to be followed by a more strict observance of the ordinance.

MILITARY STUDENTS.

High School Cadets Instructed in New Manœuvres Today.

The prospects for the next year for the High School Cadets are very bright, judging from the first drill that was held this morning. The cadets will be divided in two companies, the regular uniformed cadets and those who are not uniformed. The division was made this morning and Captain George Edwards, under whose command the boys did so well last year, instructed the ununiformed company in some of the principal manœuvres. The uniformed cadets were divided into squads and drilled by the company officers. There were many new faces in the ranks but the older cadets were mingled with them and the first drill was very satisfactory to all.

Tipped Over the Hay.

A farmer passing through Watchung avenue yesterday afternoon, with a load of hay, had the misfortune to upset the load at the corner of Fourth street, in attempting to get out of the car tracks. He secured the assistance of some friends and they helped him to reload the hay on the wagon. Travel on the street railway was stopped in consequence for a short time.

Married a Dunellen Girl.

Harry VanFleet, of North Plainfield, and Miss Lizzie Gallagher, of Dunellen, were united in marriage in St. John's church, Dunellen, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Rev. Father Bogaard. The bride was at one time a member of Dr. M. B. Long's household on Park avenue, this city, and is a most estimable young woman.

New Closed Cars to Arrive Today.

Superintendant Adleman, of the street railway, has received word that the new closed cars were shipped today and will arrive in Plainfield tonight. As soon as possible they will be prepared for service. The open cars will then be taken off the road for the winter.

New Baptist Deacons.

At the business meeting held at the First Baptist church last evening, Reuben Knox and L. W. Randolph were elected deacons to fill the unexpired term of H. E. Needham and the vacancy caused by the death of the late D. F. Randolph.

MacCready Sykes to Speak.

All Democrats are earnestly invited to attend the meeting to be held this evening in the rooms at the corner of Muhlenberg place and South Second street. MacCready Sykes will address the meeting and answer all questions propounded to him.

A Prize for Excellence in Latin.

A gentleman from Yale College, whose name is not to be known, has offered a prize of $5 in gold for excellence in first year Latin at the North Plainfield High School.

—Don't trifle away time when you have cholera morbus or diarrhœa. Fight them in the beginning with DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure. You don't have to wait for results, they are instantaneous, and it leaves the bowels in healty condition. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

COLORED G. O. P. VOTERS

MEN OF THEIR OWN RACE TELL THEM HOW TO VOTE.

One Speaker Says the Colored Man Was Born a Republican and Will Die That Way—Democrats Are Bad.

The colored Republicans of this city held a mass meeting in the Republican Association rooms on East Front street last evening, and the attendance was fair. Rev. P. S Gibson, pastor of Mt. Olive Baptist church, called the meeting to order, and Rev. C. Jackson offered prayer. L. L. Croom presided and R. J. Terrell was the secretary. The following list of vice-presidents and secretaries were named: Vice-presidents—Daniel Brown, L. L. Croom, W. J. Douglass, A. S. Venable, James Babbitt, George VanBlake, Robert Randolph, Wm. Mayhew, Spencer Conway, Wm. A. Kline, Tucker Johnson, Fernando Brown, Abram Brown, Samuel Green and Lewis Peterson. Secretaries—Wm. Fisher, Lewis Peterson, Joseph Saunders, Frank Nelson, Robert Terrell, James Brown, A. E. Butler, Grant Cannon, Fred White, Brother Norwood, Burril Gibson, Charles Barber and Benjamin Sutton.

The first speaker announced was Rev. Chas. H. Dickerson, a member of the Republican County Committee of Essex county. "We have entered upon a campaign of education," he said, "and it is hardly necessary to send a missionary here to create a Republican party among the colored voters. We were born Republicans, and as such we will die in the faith. It won't do to persecute the man who goes astray from the Republican ranks, but it is the duty of the honest voter to take him by the hand and lead him back into the straight and narrow way.

"Free silver is a license to evil doing and the dominant Democratic party believe in this. Bryan is not to be despised on account of his youth, but on account of his 16 to 1 policy. Bryan came from the Platte River region and the river itself is shallow. The Republican party has so much good material in its ranks that it cannot all be woven into the fabrical government." The speaker said that a Democrat was a bad enemy but a Populist was even worse. The black man is usually honest until he gets with the white man. In closing he admonished his hearers to accept all the money proffered them and then go to the poles and vote the straight Republican ticket.

D. W. Griffin, assistant warden in the Hudson county jail, was the next speaker. The tariff, he said originated in Tariffa, Spain, and it was first introduced in this country during the time of James Madison. He explained the working of the tariff system and admonished the women folks to influence their husbands to vote for a free and unrestricted ballot The colored race, he said, was the greatest and most intelligent race on the face of the earth. As doctors, lawyers and ministers they can't be beat, and in the matter of self defence they can't be beat.

One other speaker made a few remarks and the meeting came to an end.

Died in Her Nineties.

Mrs. Vermeule, of New Market, widow of the late Henry Vermeule, died yesterday afternoon in her ninetieth year after an illness lasting three weeks. She was well known throughout this locality, and many will learn of her death with great surprise. She was a good woman and a faithful Christian. The funeral will probably be held tomorrow afternoon from the house. Several relatives in this city survive Mrs. Vermeule, who up to her death was remarkably hale and hearty for one of her age.

To Attend the Annual Field Day.

Crescent Division, No. 13, U. R., K. of P., and Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., both met last evening and completed arrangements to attend the annual field-day exercises to be held at Paterson next Monday. The above lodges, together with Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will send large delegations to Paterson. The new by-laws were placed on a first reading at the meeting of Unity Lodge last evening and were also adopted.

—On Friday evening at 8 o'clock the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold its meeting. The subject will be "One Longness for Christ." All interested are cordially invited.

If you have ever seen a little child in the agony of summer complaint, you can realize the danger of the trouble and appreciate the value of instantaneous relief always afforded by DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. For dysentery and diarrœa it is a reliable remedy. We could not afford to recommend this as a cure unless it were a cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

BRYAN'S MOVEMENTS

He Addressed Three Big Audiences Last Night.

GREETED BY BROOKLYN DEMOCRATS

Resolutions Endorsing the Chicago Nominees and Denouncing the Democrats Who Took Part in the Indianapolis Convention Adopted.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Wm. Jennings Bryan, the democratic candidate for president, delivered three speeches in this city last night before large audiences. He spoke first at the Academy of Music, next to an overflow meeting outside and later addressed a large gathering of labormen in the upper part of the city A solid mass of humanity packed the Academy of Music. It was an early crowd and fully an hour before the meeting began the doors were closed and many were turned away. The crowd in the theatre amused themselves while awaiting the beginning of the proceedings in a good natured way. There were loud cheering for Bryan and Sewall and an occasional shout for McKinley. The name of Senator Hill was derisively called and alternately cheered and hissed by the "gallery gods." When chairman of the county committee James D. Bell took his seat on the speaker's stand at 8 o'clock there was over 6,000 people present with a fair sprinkling of ladies. Judge William J. Gaynor of this city was introduced as the chairman of the meeting. Just before the opening of the meeting Mr. Bryan was escorted to the theatre by ex-Congressman Clancy and B. J. York of the Kings county democratic committee. Mr. Bryan remained in an ante-room awaiting his turn to speak. After a few preliminary remarks by the chairman resolutions, endorsing the Chicago nominees, particularly laudatory of Mr. Bryan, and denouncing gold democrats who took part in the Indianapolis convention were adopted. The resolutions were quite lengthy, and after their adoption the secretary said: "I have a list of vice-presidents of the meeting. I will read a few." But he never read them. Mr. Bryan had become tired of waiting for the preliminaries to end, and, with Bernard J. York, had entered the stage from the rear. His appearance was greeted with cheers and with much disorder. When quiet was restored Mr. Bryan said: "If you don't stop, if you don't preserve order, our opponents will say you are against order as well as against law." He then began his speech by paying a tribute to the late Henry Ward Beecher. He said: "I esteem it a great privilege to be permitted to defend the cause which has been espoused in this campaign; and I am glad to be permitted to present that cause to the people of Brooklyn. I only wish that the distinguished divine whose name has added to the fame of your great city, Henry Ward Beecher, (applause) were with us to-day that he might champion the cause of the people in their great fight. Any man would whose sympathies were on the side of humanity, my friends." The balance of his remarks were confined almost entirely to the money question.

Branch Headquarters Closed.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The branch headquarters of the national democratic committee in this city has been closed and such business pertaining to the national committee as is transacted from this point will be carried on under the supervision of Senator Faulkner, chairman of the congressional committee. This branch was opened for the conduct of the itinerary part of the campaign, but as the work is now done in Chicago it was deemed useless to longer continue the office here.

Clyde Steamer Wrecked.

Cape Henry, Va., Sept. 24.—The Clyde passenger steamer Frederick de Bary, from New York for Jacksonville, was wrecked yesterday at Kitty Hawk, N. C. The crew of seventeen men were taken off by life-savers. No passengers were aboard. The vessel will be a total loss. She had no cargo.

New York, Sept. 23.—The steamboat Frederick de Barry, which was wrecked off Kitty Hawk, N. C., had been in the excursion business during the past summer around New York. Last Thursday she cleared this port for Jacksonville, Fla., to engage there in the excursion business during the winter on the St. Johns River.

Women's Outfitters Fail.

New York, Sept. 24.—The Richards company, women's outfitters, on Twenty-third street, has been attached for $35,234. It is a New Jersey corporation. The manager, when asked concerning the attachments, said the company had felt the effects of the financial stringency, was unable to borrow any more money, and the banks had shut down on their loans. The liabilities are $110.000, nominal assets $150,000, and actual assets probably $75,000.

Rescued from an Upturned Boat.

Boston, Sept. 24.—While the tug Camilla was comining through Hull Gut last evening Capt. Brittain sighted an overturned boat, with two men clinging to it. The sea was quite rough and the waves were sweeping completely over the two men. They were taken aboard the tug and it was learned that their names were Chas. Hill, the first mate of the brig H. B. Hussey and Mate Ward, second mate of the same vessel.

Three Men Killed from Ambush.

Havana, Sept. 24.—A detachment of the local military and a squad of police yesterday laid an ambush in the outskirts of the city and killed three men who were attempting to get out of the country.

GALE ON THE BRITISH COAST.

Great Amount of Damage Among Coasting and Fishing Craft.

London, Sept. 24.—A terrific gale has swept over this city and the coasts of the United Kingdom. The storm lasted all night long, playing havoc with the trees in the London parks and causing a great amount of damage among the coasting and fishing craft. The loss of life, however, is reported to be slight. The Red Star line steamship Rhynland, Capt. Bevnon, from Philadelphia on September 12 for Liverpool, has arrived at Queenstown and reported having passed through the full force of the gale. Heavy seas swept over her and flooded her deck house and staterooms. The mail boat running between Calais and Dover was badly damaged by the storm. The Anglo-American Telegraph company issued the following notice: "The British government telegraphs, issue notices of considerable delay to France, Italy and Switzerland, and, probably, delay to Germany."

ACCUSED OF BEING A PADRONE.

The Hearing of Police Commissioner Doolittle at New Haven Adjourned.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 24.—The hearing of police commissioner John A. Doolittle for violating the state law regarding contract labor resulted in the temporary acquittal of the commissioner. It was held before Assistant City Attorney Bristol, being conducted by William W. Ives, chief clerk of the State Labor bureau. It disclosed the fact that Michael Abazzio, who claims that Mr. Doolittle is his partner, hired about twenty-five Hungarians in New York recently and brought them to this city. He was, it is alleged, to receive a large sum from an employment agency for securing them work. The testimony advanced shows that they were nearly starved in this city. Mr. Doolittle protested that he was not a "padrone," Abazzio's partner in the matter as claimed, and the hearing was postponed pending an investigation of Mr. Doolittle's books.

HIS WIFE SUSPECTED.

An Exeter, Pa., Man Believes Poison Was Placed in His Coffee.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 24.—Charles Richards of Exeter Borough was seen to fall suddenly yesterday afternoon while at work in a garden. Friends went to his assistance, and exhibiting symptoms of poison, he was at once given an emetic. He finally recovered sufficiently to explain that he had been sick since drinking his coffee at noon. An examination revealed a quantity of paris green in the coffee, enough to kill several persons. He has had trouble with his wife who often threatened to poison him if he did not leave home. Steps have been taken for the arrest of Mrs. Richards.

LORD RUSSELL AT GRAY GABLES

The Distinguished English Jurist Received by the President.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Sept. 24.—Gray Gables had a distinguished visitor yesterday in the person of Lord Russell of Killowen, chief justice of England. He was accompanied by Secretary Olney and two other gentlemen. The party occupied a special car on the rear of the train. They were met at the flag station by the president's carriage and carried to Gray Gables, where they were received by the president and Mrs. Cleveland. After lunch and a social chat, they returned on the evening train.

THE TROUBLE IN CRETE.

Reported Agreement Regarding Annexation of the Island to Greece.

London, Sept. 24.—The Athens correspondent of the Telegraph says that a dispatch from Canea, island of Crete, reports that the Turks have desecrated the protestant cemetery at Suda Bay under the eyes of the officers of the British and Austrian men-of-war. The correspondent adds: "I am informed that, during the negotiations for the Cretan settlement, Great Britain and Russia agreed to permit Greece to annex Crete at the first opportunity presenting itself."

Police Suspect Foul Play.

Trenton, Sept. 24.—John McManus, a white man residing at 116 Humboldt street, was found dead on the floor of his room yesterday. He was in good health or seemingly so on Sunday and the police suspect that Charles Brister, a colored man, either suffocated or poisoned him. Brister had an insurance policy for $200 on McManus' life.

ABOUT THE "SLOPPER."

His Researches in the Garbage Receptacles and His Finds.

"That man is a slopper," remarked a police officer to a Washington Star writer a few mornings since, "and he and his class give us any amount of trouble. If he stole we could reach him by law, but as he only finds we cannot easily reach him." In further explanation he said: "A slopper is a man who searches through the garbage cans in the alleys in the rear of hotels, boarding houses and private houses. Some search for spoons, knives and forks that are thrown into the garbage receptacles by careless servants, for it is a fact that there are more silver spoons and knives and forks thrown away with the garbage than are stolen by servants, though the contrary is generally believed. The slopper is generally an hour or so ahead of the garbage collector and he is often more regular and careful in his rounds than the garbage man.

"'By industry we thrive,' as the line in the copy-books used to contain, and by industry on a good west end route, especially one which takes in a number of boarding houses or hotels, a slopper can find enough tableware to pay the expenses of his tour. Often he makes a rich find. Very frequently he has permission to 'slop' the can from the owners of the house themselves, for he tells them he is on the lookout for stray pieces of meat, etc., which he sells to those who have dogs to feed. Some sloppers are honest enough to return any silverware they may find for the dog-meat privilege, but it is a terrible temptation to many and one they cannot or do not at times withstand."

Ceremony at Marlborough.

At Marlborough house there is more ceremony, socially speaking, than at Sandringham. A number of servants herald your arrival or departure, and there are usually two servants standing outside your room door when you are staying in the house, and a man behind the chair of every guest at meal time.

The English Language.

English is spoken by 45,000,000 persons in the British Isles, by probably 57,000,000 or 60,000,000 inhabitants of the United States, by 4,000,000 persons in Canada, by 3,000,000 in Australia, by 3,700,000 West Indians, and by 1,000,000 in India and other British colonies, bringing the total of the English-speaking race to over 100,000,000.

Nerve

Excitement, overwork and worry are ruining the health of thousands of women. Pure Blood is required to feed the nerves, a good appetite and digestive strength are demanded to keep the body strong and vigorous, and to restore the exhausted energies there must be sound and refreshing

Sleep

By its power to respond to all these needs Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved itself the greatest friend of women. Thousands write that they have been given health and strength by its use. It is the great blood purifier, and consequently the true nerve tonic.

"I feel that I should be wanting in common gratitude should I fail to tell the benefit my wife has derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla. She became seriously ill from running ulcers, caused by poorness of and was strongly advised by a friend to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. She said it had cured her and would no doubt cure my wife. So we tried it, and to say that its effect is wonderful, is only using a mild expression. It appears to be building up a new constitution for her; and, as we are a family of eleven, there are eleven of us rejoicing at the result.

"If the foregoing induces only one person, suffering in the same manner, to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I shall feel more than rewarded." ELIJAH PACKER, 585 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

SUMMER COSMETICS.

Suggestions Regarding the Treatment of the Skin.

The word "cosmetic" originally was applied to a healing lotion that restored the skin to a wholesome condition, and did not refer to a preparation that covered up natural deficiencies of the complexion. It is in the old sense that the term is used in this article. Nothing that improves the skin by covering up defects can long be used without detriment to the skin. The pores, which exercise a most important function in throwing off impurities of the body, must not be clogged, but rather stimulated, so that they may be kept in healthy activity. But there are certain harmless powders that may be used in summer to subdue excessive perspiration. These powders in no way injure the skin if they are washed off daily. They are usually made of pure starch, sometimes colored with a little saffron and a speck of vermillion for persons of very dark skin. Excessive perspiration certainly coarsens the skin, and any harmless check like this used in moderation would probably act wholesomely. This simple powder is certainly cooling and refreshing. It should be carefuly rubbed off with a piece of white velvet or a very soft linen handkerchief. Some authorities especially commend the velvet; they say it does not tend to injure the tender "grain of the cuticle." The disagreeable look that some complexions take on in hot weather can only be removed by the judicious use of some harmless powder.

Sunburn may cause a serious blistering and disfigurement. A simple cold cream, applied at night, will remedy this. Take two ounces of oil of almonds, half an ounce of spermaceti and two drachms of white wax. Melt the whole in a cup which has been set in warm water on the stove. Stir the cream while the warm water is boiling around it. Add two ounces of rose water when it is melted and a drop of pink coloring matter if you wish it a delicate rose color. Pour it into a jar or small cup to cool. Use it at night, after carefully washing the face in warm water. Wash it off in the morning with warm water. Finally tone the skin by washing it in cold water. Dry the face with a very soft damask towel. A pint of milk, to which the juice of two Mediterranean oranges is added, is said to whiten the skin. To bleach the hands, melt a pound of white castile soap, add the juice of a lemon and half a cup of coarse oatmeal. Let the preparation harden, and use it in washing the hands. It is worse than folly to attempt to remove freckles by any lotion. This trifling disfigurement of the skin is due to a discoloration of the lower layers of skin, and any preparation which will reach that must first eat through the layers on top, leaving a scar behind them. Time only bleaches out the "kisses of the sun."—N. Y. Tribune.

PICKED UP ALL THE PINS.

Cleveland Man Who Followed the Practice, But Not for Luck.

A well-dressed man walking along Superior street suddenly stopped and stooped down. Two men behind him just saved themselves from falling over his bent body, and a passing woman shied to one side in sudden fright. Three bootblacks sprang from the curb, and a policeman moved forward with a suspicious glance. Then the man who caused the trouble straightened up with some glittering object in his hand.

"I've got it," he said, with a triumphant smile.

And he held aloft a pin.

"Seems silly, doesn't it?" he remarked to one of the men behind, as they fell into step. "But I've picked up pins ever since I was a boy. If I saw a pin and didn't pick it up, I felt uncomfortable for hours. Do I believe in the old rhyme? You mean about picking it up and having good luck? Well, no; I can't say that I do. The only disaster I can remember in connection with a pin that I happened to pass by didn't prove anything. My neighbor's wife eloped with the coachman the same day, that's all. But really and truly, the queer old superstition once saved my life. It was in New Orleans not long after the war and street rows were common. I was passing up the street one morning, and right in front of a bank building, close up to the big plate glass window, I saw a pin on the sidewalk. I stooped suddenly to get it, and at the same instant I heard a sharp explosion and a queer little crash and there exactly opposite where my head would have been if I hadn't stooped was a splintered hole in the plate glass window, made by a rifle bullet. I got the pin just the same, and then jumped for the nearest stairway. Since that happy escape I have picked up pins with an almost religious fervor. Ha, there's one now."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

M'KINLEY'S PLANS

He Will Remain at Home Until After the Election.

IN COMMUNICATION WITH LEADERS

His Time from Now Until November 3 Will Be Taken Up Principally with the Reception of Visiting Delegations and Intimate Friends.

Canton, O., Sept. 24.—Major McKinley will devote all the time he can spare to-day and to-morrow, when he is not engaged in receiving visitors, preparing speeches for Saturday, when several big delegations are expected to visit Canton. While Major McKinley is in constant communication with Chairman Hanna and other leaders, and the different republican headquarters, the duties of the campaign, evidently, are not wearing upon him. His intentions now are to remain at home until after election, entertain the numerous callers and take matters as comfortable as possible. Yesterday Major McKinley succeeded in clearing away his accumulated correspodence, as only two delegations called upon him. The first visitors were from Wood county and Bowling Green, O. They arrived about half-past 2 o'clock. The delegation was composed of a first voter's club of Bowling Green in white duck uniforms, parts of the various republican clubs of the county, and the Women's McKinley and Hobart club. The members of the latter organization wore white Tam O'Shanter caps. Miss June Noyes is captain of the Wood county Woman's McKinley and Hobart club. The whole delegation numbered six hundred. The second and last delegation came from Muncie, Ind. Four bands of music accompanied the Indiana visitors. After Major McKinley had finished speaking, C. M. Kimbrough of Muncie presented him with the pictures of the two republican national candidates framed in narrow twisted rolls of bread made from Delaware county, Indiana wheat. This unique gift was sent Major McKinley by an old soldier, F. H. Rodman. The spokesman for the Indiana delegation was A. E. Needham, who made an earnest address.

Novel Present for McKinley.

Canton, O., Sept. 24.—Major McKinley has received a finely polished and embellished stump of a tree intended for use in delivering his front porch addresses. The stump was sent by Jesse Grover, sheriff of Knoxville, Tenn.

SHERMAN IN CHICAGO.

He Visits Republican Headquarters and Address a McKinley Club.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Senator John Sherman was a notable visitor at republican national headquarters yesterday afternoon. He stopped in Chicago on his way home from a trip to Montana and Colorado taken for rest, and he was induced to address a meeting of the Commercial McKinley club No. 1 at the club rooms. He will make some speeches in Ohio and other states, but he is not physically able to do much active campaigning. He addressed two meetings in Montana, and he told Chief Hahn of the speakers' bureau he was surprised to find so many republicans in Colorado. Senator Manderson of Nebraska, who has been here trying a lawsuit, returned to-day to engage in campaign work. He will accompany the Alger party through Nebraska the 1st of October and will confine his speaking to Nebraska on account of his professional engagements.

British Association Discuss Bimetallism.

Liverpool, Sept. 24.—The economic section of the British association last evening discussed the currency question. In the course of the discussion William Fowler declared that low prices were the cause of the contest between gold and silver, adding that prices affected money, but that money did not affect prices. Bimetallism, he said, was trying to fix prices by law, but it was trying to accomplish an impossibility. Henry Higgs spoke in defense of bimetallism, but believed it should be established on an international basis.

For Receiving Political Contributions.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The civil service commission is informed by the treasury department that it has discontinued the services of William Springer and John Terney, deputy collectors of customs at Port Huron, Mich., who were charged by the civil service commission with having received political contributions from government employes.

Rhode Island Tennis Championship.

Providence, Sept. 24.—Budlong and Dana, champions, defeated Godfrey and Brown, challengers, 6—3; 6—2; 6—0, in the doubles match for the state tennis championship at Elmwood yesterday afternoon. The game was a poor exhibitionship on both sides.

Illegal Sealers Seized.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Capt. Hooper, of the Behring sea sealing fleet, reports that he has made this season six captures of vessels sealing in the prohibited zone: Namely, the Aurora, Viva, Jane Gray, James G. Swan, Ainoka and Beatrice. Four are British and two American.

Trains Wrecked in England.

London, Sept. 24.—A collision between an express and an excursion train took place yesterday at the Ramsey, Cambridgeshire, station of the Great Eastern railroad. Both trains were wrecked and seventeen persons were injured, many of them seriously.

Gilbert Louis Duprez Dead.

Paris, Sept. 24.—Gilbert Louis Duprez, the celebrated French tenor, died at Passey last night. He was 89 years of age.

EXPENSIVE MODEL TOWNS.

It seems to be the misfortune of model towns to have expensive governments. Next to Plainfield, Orange is considered to be one of the finest residential cities in New Jersey. but with all her beauty and improvements she is struggling under a tax rate of 2.75, though in the last year $800,000 increased valuation was added to the assessor's books. With a tax rate but little below that of Orange, and the committee appropriations being exhausted before the end of the fisal year, the taxpayers of this city are confronted with a condition almost as bad.

ELECTORS CHOSEN.

The Executive Committee of the National Democratic State Committee of New Jersey selected the following Palmer and Buckner electoral ticket at the headquarters, Jersey City, yesterday afternoon. Ashbel Green, of Englewood; James J. Bergen, Somerset; Thomas P. Curley, Camden; Gardner H. Cane, Mercer; F. Randolph, Morris; William P. Ellery, Bergen; Eugene Vanderpool, Essex; Nelson J. H. Edge, Hudson; Samuel Williams, Union, and Richard Lindabury, Somerset. The electors must be nominated by petition.

MAY RUN FOR ASSEMBLYMAN.

From the Elizabeth Journal we learn that J. P. Powers is spoken of as a possible Assembly nominee of the Democrats this year. Mr. Powers formerly lived in this city, but is now numbered among the legal luminaries of the county seat, where he is building up a large legal practice. He is a Democrat loyal and active and if honor comes his way, he may be sure to at least receive the congratulations and best wishes of his erstwhile neighbors in this city.

Hon. Fred C. Marsh will not be a candidate for Senator this fall. He says he will not, and he ought to know.—Elizabeth Journal.

THEATRICAL.

"The Gold Bug," which is being produced at the Casino in New York, is a clever satire on politics of the present day, dealing with politicians from Mark Hanna down to lobbyists and office-seekers. There are a number of pretty songs and choruses, those scoring the biggest hits being "When First I Began to Marry," daintily sung by Marie Cahill, a lady fifteen times divorced; the chorus of the sporty girls with a Yale yell finale and the Indian chorus in the first act, is capital. The principal part, the "Hon. Willet Float," is played by Max Figman. Others prominent are Virginia Earle, Mollie Fuller, Fred Hallen, Henry Norman and Charles Wayne. The music, by Victor Herbert, is catchy, and the book, by Glen McDonough, is full of topical hits and bright lines. The scenery and costumes are gorgeous and the work of the chorus excellent.

The condition of Mrs. Robert Rushton, of LaGrande avenue, remains about the same.

Miss Anna VanArsdale, of Grove street, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Garrett Conover, of Hawthorne.

A. B. Nelson, of Dunellen, has just returned from Maine where he has completed the construction of a railroad twenty-eight miles long.

Justice D. D. Smalley, of Manning avenue, who has been troubled with hiccoughs for the past five weeks, has entirely recovered, The trouble left him on Monday. Physicians say that they were caused by indigestion.

S. L. Brewster and family, who have been living at Netherwood this summer, are moving their household goods to Jersey City, where they will take up their residence on Barton avenue. Mr. Brewster is connected with the American Steamship Line.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing. and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

—S. E. Flower has leased of Mr. Leggett the vacant store adjoining his store in the Y. M. C. A. building, and will remove his picture frame business to that place about October 1st.

—Jack Frost will soon be here—are you prepared for his reception? If not you had better repair to Peck's and buy fine wool underwear of medium weight, suited to the season.

—The members of the Cabinet Social Club have arranged for an evening social and dance at the Fanwood clubhouse next Wednesday evening. Prof. O'Reilly will furnish the music.

—A regular meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association has been called for next Tuesday evening, when further arrangements will be made for the forthcoming reception to the New York Volunteer Firemen.

—A phonograph entertainment will be given at the American Volunteers' headquarters this evening. The programme will consist entirely of sacred music. A small admission fee will be charged.

—The hedges surrounding the golf grounds and the Stillman estate on Plainfield avenue are being trimmed by Daniel Conway. The grass on the golf grounds is also being cut and the entire work will be completed this week.

—A special programme of music will be rendered at the Christian Endeavor service to be held in the First Baptist church tomorrow evening. A. M. Pierson, superintendent of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp, will address the meeting an tell some of his experiences.

—An Italian named E. Gardner, employed as a helper by one of the local masons, sustained an injury to his right foot while at work Tuesday afternoon. A large stone fell on the foot and crushed it severely. The man was taken to the hospital and it is thought that he will lose one of his toes.

A Deception Easily Practised.

is the offer of a reward for "any case of catarrh not cured" by certain "cures." Nothing is said regarding the number of bottles required, and therein lies the deception. Ely's Cream Balm is an elegant preparation, agreeable to use, and immediate in its beneficial results. It cures catarrh. You can rely upon the fact that it contains no mercury nor other injurious drug. 50 cents.

OPENED THE PACKAGE.

EXTRAORDINARY MEASURES RESORTED TO TO STOP EXPRESSMEN.

United Express Company Open a Bundle of Somerville's Package Expressman and Separately Waybill the Packages.

It seems that the Central Railroad is resorting to extraordinary measures to stop the package expressmen in the towns along their lines from using the passenger trains.

A. C. Stevenson, of Somerville, has been a purchasing agent for twenty two years and while he sends a good many packages by express, he usually took some bundles home on the train with him.

He was notified six months ago that he must stop carrying parcels for other people. He ignored the notice. Detective Large, of the Central Railroad, a week ago stopped him from entering the train with a bundle. Then he addressed it to himself and paid expressage.

Then the road claimed that the bundle contained packages for various persons and the United States Express Company claimed it was entitled to expressage on each. The railroad accordingly posted a notice to keep Stevenson off trains when he had packages.

Tuesday, accompanied by John Anderson, the Superintendent of Education of Somerset county, as a witness, Stevenson asked Clerk G. W. Downey on the Jersey side to express a package he offered.

Downey said he would have to open the bundle to see if it contained others. Stevenson warned him that each package had been bought by him and that no person had any claim to any until paid for.

Downey cut the rope and waybilled each of seven packages. Only one had Stevenson's address and there were five separate receipts for the other six, although there were no names to them.

"The owners will have to present receipts to get them," said Downey.

Stevenson will have to pay from $1 to $1.25 more in consequence.

"The United States Express Company," he said, "will have to pay dearly for this. I shall have Downey arrested. It isn't the company's business what I do with the packages after they get to Somerville. I have to do something to prevent them destroying my means of livelihood."

William Pittis has left for Montreal, Canada. He has passed the entrance examination to McGill University there He will commence the study of medicine.

Sent It to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mrs. George Marsh is indisposed at her home.

Mrs. James Heath is confined to the house suffering from a severe cold.

Walter S. Force and family, who have been doing Europe since May last, arrived home yesterday.

William Traynor, who has been confined to his bed for the last three days by illness, was able to walk out today.

Mrs. Robert Radford, of West Front street, Plainfield, was the guest yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr.

Miss Maggie Fitzgerald and Miss Sadie Lee arrived home Tuesday evening from a few days' visit with relatives in Raritan.

John Collins, late of Red Bank, has been spending a few days with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Blimm.

Miss Eva Baker is learning the art of mastering a bike. She has so far advanced that she can now ride with little or no assistance.

The mother of William Lee, proprietor of the West Side House, is very ill at her home in Paterson, and "Billy" and James Fitzgerald are planning a trip there at an early date.

Mrs. L. Fox, who has been a summer guest at Flander's boarding house, left for New York Tuesday. Next Monday another batch of the boarders will leave for their homes in the metropolis, but it is quite likely that Mr. and Mrs. Flanders will keep their house open all winter for the reception of guests.

Stage Driver Thomas Newman has gained the reputation of being a careful handler of the ribbons. He invariably gives lady bicyclists at least two-thirds of the roadway, and if they insist on having the entire street as some of them do, he simply directs his team to the extreme righthand side and allows the riders to pass.

Mrs. Thomas Paff, Sr., has not been in the best of health for sometime past, and she says she has not left the house and dooryard for the past three months. Her many friends, both in the Plains and at Plainfield, are rejoiced to see her in the store, however, and trust that ere long she will have fully recovered her health and strength.

This town, although comparatively small and without a lockup, keeps its end way up in the matter of petty thieving. The Press has already told of the many potato and pumpkin robberies, and of the apple tree and grape vine manipulator, but the latest report is to the effect that some miscreant went into a hen roost on Monday night and deliberately carried away a hen from a setting of eggs about to be hatched. This seems to be adding insult to injury, for the chicken's head was left near the coop. Some of the older heads are quietly advocating the formation of a vigilance committee, as this seems to be the proper plan to pursue. Such lawlessness should not be tolerated in a civilized community, and most of the Scotch Plains people are at least civilized.

DUNELLEN.

Charles Mattis, of New York, was in town yesterday visiting among his many friends.

Tonight there will be a great Republican demonstration here at the raising of the McKinley and Hobart banner. The banner will be strung across the street in front of Adam Dealaman's grocery store, and Lawyer Fred Pope, of Somerville, will be the orator.

Mrs Ellen Carpenter, of Williamsport, Pa., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carpenter, of Washington avenue.

Watson Emory, of Evona, yesterday removed his family to Dunellen, where they will occupy the upper story in Paul Kraenzel's house.

T. F. Pettit, operator at the Tidewater oil station, west of the town, has gone on a two weeks' vacation, and his place is being filled by Operator Fred Dunn.

Mayor Brakeley, L. S. Titsworth and A. S. Gaston, of Lodge No. 1123 Court Dunellen, Order of Foresters, were present at the meeting of the High Order of Foresters at Somerville on Tuesday.

An adjourned meeting of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association will be held at the office of Alvah Gray tomorrow evening, when the regular dues will be paid in and other business transacted.

Liveryman Fred Nelson was subpœnaed to Somerville today as a witness in the proceedings brought by Wiedemeyer against Merserole. The case is the result of a spirited controversy and assault over the payment of a board bill.

A young woman from Newark came out to Dunellen yesterday in search of her husband, who, she said, had deserted her two weeks ago after a marriage relationship of less than three days. She found her hubby working on a farm near Greenbrook, and a reconciliation was effected without the aid of the authorities.

The work of excavating for the new town hall is going forward rapidly. The trenches for the foundation walls are nearly completed, and the work of laying the stone and brick will probably begin tomorrow. The contractors, it is thought, will have to do some tall hustling in order to complete the building within the specified time.

NEW MARKET.

Invitations have been issued for a "barn party" to be held at the residence of Mr. Lawton, New Market Heights, this evening. Prof. Naylon will furnish the music for dancing, and some sixty or more couples, from Dunellen, Bound Brook and Plainfield will attend.

The Kickapoo Indian tribe, which has been giving open air concerts here for the past month or more and selling some sort of an alleged Indian cure for anything from consumption down to ingrowing nails and outgrowing heels, offered a prize in the shape of a piece of silverware to anyone of the purchasers who should fall heir to it. With each bottle sold a check was given and Monday night the duplicate checks were placed in a box and drawn for. Mrs. Leach, of Dunellen, drew the lucky number and carried her prize home in triumph over some two hundred and fifty contestants.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

"Boys will be boys," but you can't afford to lose any of them. Be ready for the green apple season by having DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure in the house. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

ENOCH PRATT'S WILL

Division of the Baltimore Millionaire Philanthropist's Estate.

THE BULK GOES TO HIS WIDOW

Educational and Charitable Institutions, the Congregational Church and Business and Personal Servants Not Forgotten.

Baltimore, Sept. 24.—The will of the late Enoch Pratt, Baltimore's eldest millionaire banker and philanthropist, has just been filed for probate. It is estimated that the estate is worth $3,000,000. Testator left to his wife, Mrs. Marie Louise Pratt, absolutely, $400,000 in United States and Baltimore city bonds. His city residence, together with its contents, his horses and carriages and personal effects are also left to Mrs. Pratt, to enjoy during her life. At her death the house is to become a part of the residue of the estate. The two statues, the "Shepherd Boy" and "Campaspe" by Bartholomew, are after Mrs. Pratt's death to go to the Peabody institute. One hundred thousand dollars are set aside to pay taxes, etc., on the residence given Mrs. Pratt, and at her death the principal is to be given to the Meadville (Pa.) Theological school. Five thousand dollars are left in trust for the Congregational church and Society of Titicut, at North Middleborough, Mass., and $10,000 as an endowment fund for the public library of the same town. Ten thousand dollars are given to the Boy's home of Baltimore. After remembering a number of relatives and business and personal servants Mr. Pratt leaves the residue of his estate to the trustees of the Sheppard asylum, with the stipulation that the name of the corporation be changed to the Sheppard and Enoch Pratt hospital. He instructs that the legislature of Maryland be asked to so amend the charter of the corporation as to make this change of name. Should the trustees fail to obtain an act of the legislature by which the charter of the institution is amended, then the residue of the estate is to be equally divided among the testator's six nieces and nephews.

CORBETT ARRESTED.

Taken Into Custody at Asbury Park To Answe to an Indictment in New York.

Asbury Park, N. J., Sept. 24.—James J. Corbett was arrested yesterday afternoon at his training quarters at Loch Arbour, by chief of police Wm. H. Smith of Asbury Park. The warrant on which the fighter was arrested was issued by justice John H. Borden, on information and papers brought here by Detective McNaught of the central office, New York. Corbett took his arrest cooly. When arranged before Justice Borden he was met by a crowd of friends and curiosity seekers. The champion was required to give $1,000 bail for his appearance in New York on Sept. 30. A. R. Parsons, proprietor of the hotel Brunswick, signed the bail bond and the prisoner was discharged.

National Insurance Commissioners.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—At the third session of the twenty-seventh annual convention of the National Insurance commisioners the following officers were elected: President, James R. Waddill; vice-president, Sephen W. Carr; secretary and treasurer, F. L. Cutting. Old Point Comfort, Va., was chosen as the next place of meeting.

An Arrest in the Three Friends Case.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The department of justice is informed that J. B. Castilla has been arrested at Key West, Fla. It is charged that he was the head man in a recent filibustering expedition carried on in Cuba by the Three Friends now detained in Florida. The arrest was made by the United States marshal.

More Reinforcements for Spain.

Havana, Sept. 24.—Three additional steamships have arrived from Spain with reinforcements of troops. The steamer Miguel Gallart brought twenty-three officers and 1,170 private soldiers, the San Francisco had on board thirty officers and 1,200 rank and file, and the Guadalupe landed fifty officers and 1,830 men; a total of 103 officers and 4,200 men.

A Bomb Found in Dublin.

Dublin, Sept. 24.—An unignited bomb, supposed to be of dynamite, has been found outside the window of the residence of the deputy lieutenant of Cork, who recently received a menacing letter. The bomb was sent to Dublin castle to be examined.

Sugar Crop in British Guiana.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Consul Patterson reports to the department of state from Demarara, British Guiana, that there will be an increase in the sugar cane crop of that colony from 10 to 30 per cent. over last year's crop which amounts to 100,000 tons.

Appointed by the President.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The president has appointed James A. Keaton of Oklahoma, associate justice of the supreme court of Oklahoma; John G. Cowie of Pennsylvania, marshal of the United States consular court at Tientsin, China.

Ice Formed in Livingston County, N. Y.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 24.—A dispatch from Dansville, Livingston, county, says ice a quarter of an inch thick formed last night and great damage to grapes is reported.

New York Democratic Committee.

New York, Sept. 24.—The democratic state committee has established permanent headquarters at the hotel Bartholdi, Twenty-third street and Broadway.

THE FLOWERS OF THE TREE

Need to Stoop to No Tricks for the Scattering of Pollen.

It has come about that the lowly plants, unable to secure their ends by fair words, have had recourse to guile—to tempt the insects by velvety textures of rich color widely spread, by exhaling sweet and powerful odors, by offering nectar, and finally by devising artful appliances, whereby an insect can be loaded with pollen without his knowledge what time he is imbibing the seductive nectar. Some have gone a step lower, and because they could not afford to produce so brilliant a display as other plants, have set to work to press the vulgar carrion-loving flies into their service by developing petals of a livid purple hue, and giving forth a putrid odor. Faugh! Shall hearts of oak and beech and ash stoop to such tricks?

The forest tree, says Good Words, has a hundred or a thousand years to live, and exhibits no precocious anxiety to produce fruit. At 15, 20 or 30 years is time enough to think of such things; and when the time comes the delicate essential organs are protected merely by a few simple green or yellow scales, or by none at all. The pollen is lavishly produced, for the wind is not so precise a vehicle of transmission as the insect, and but a very small percentage of the pollen grains will reach their destination. This, however, is of little consequence, for an incipient seed needs but one pollen grain to fertilize it, and should a hundred fall upon it, 99 would be superfluous.

THE SEA THEIR BEAT.

Maritime Police Who Preserve Order in the North Sea.

In the middle of the North sea would perhaps be a curious place to find a policeman on duty; yet some hundreds are appointed to keep order there, and at other places where their services are likely to be required. Great Britain, Belgium, France, Germany and Holland each keep a certain number of cruisers upon the high seas for this purpose, whilst they are empowered to prosecute, or, if necessary, take into custody any vessel belonging to either of these countries. In addition each cruiser carries a judge, in the shape of an officer in charge, who can try the case and inflict a penalty—providing the defendant consents to his trying the case beforehand—and whose decision can only be altered by the court of appeals.

Allowing a ship to wander about the high seas without keeping proper control over her is far more common than might be expected. The man whose watch it is may be asleep, and it is often a difficult matter to prove that a large percentage of the collisions that occur are directly due to this cause.

The Elbe disaster is only one example of the many awful results of careless watching. However, the eagle eye of the "sea bobby" by his bull's-eye lantern—which in the case of the maritime policeman is a powerful searchlight—is so keenly on the alert for cases of this sort, and such a heavy fine is inflicted on conviction, that charges of "wandering without proper control" are every year becoming less frequent.

WHEN SOVEREIGNS CONFER.

Great Ado Made on the Occasions of Royal Meetings in Europe.

The innumerable banquets which are offered to the royal persons on every occasion are exact emblems of the many valuable and pleasant days which are, at their instigation and by their command, wasted in senseless formula, says Ouida in the Forum. Once, when costume was beautiful, pageantry was so also, and ceremonial was so also; but now both are unsightly and grotesque. Two bearded men in hemlets, or caps, kiss each other on a railway footboard; old ladies in waterproof cloaks toddle through two lines of policemen; a fat gentleman, with a round hat, with a cigar in his mouth, walks over a piece of red carpet, nodding to a bending human hedge of stipple spines; faces beam inanely, throngs outside the station door cheer, they know not why, troops are massed in readiness, for nowhere are these personages safe from attempts upon their lives; the whole thing is unlovely, absurd, anomalous, a caricature of what was once both intelligible and respectable, but in which there is no longer either prestige or symbolism. Without dignity in its object loyalty is a mere boneless bundle of wornout robes; and dignity perishes at the scream of the railway whistle.

A New Surgical Instrument.

An instrument which, as the name denotes, is intended for the arrest of bleeding in surgical operations, has been perfected by Lawson Tait, of London. A platinum wire, arranged to carry a current of electricity, is inclosed in the blades of a pair of steel forceps of any other requisite instrument, the wire being insulated by a bed of burnt pipe clay. A current of suitable voltage is turned on, the artery seized and compressed and in a few seconds the tissues and arterial walls are so agglutinated that the passage of blood is rendered impossible. The temperature employed is about 180 degrees Fahrenheit, so that it will be seen that the principle is fundamentally different from that of electrical cauterizing instruments. It is stated that by Mr. Tait's instrument the necessity of a ligature is removed, and a new and completely effective method is placed in the hands of the surgeon for the treatment of surface oozing.

Bird and Balloon.

If by any means a bird attained the lightness of a balloon it could not fly. A balloon drifts with every gust; steering is impossible; the wind chooses its course. The bird-balloon, as light as the wind and as strong as iron, is a figment of the imagination.

Elephant's Sense of Smell.

Sense of smell in an elephant is so delicate that when in a wild state it can scent an enemy at a distance of 1,000 yards.

TENNESSEE MOUNDS.

Contain Evidences of Giant and Pygmy Races.

Relics of the Ancients Which Set Scientists to Thinking—The Finds Thought to Be the Remains of Worshipers of Vishnu.

In the beginning of this century there was plowed up in Hawkins county a stone trumpet. It seems to have been made of hard soapstone, and when blown through makes a sound which may be heard two or three miles. It is very smooth on the outside, but rough within. This was probably used by the giants to convene assemblies, and to regulate the movements of their army, on days of rejoicing to make a part of the musical sounds with which the people were entertained.

The trumpet was not in use till about A. D. 600. In the time of the Trojan war neither Greeks nor Trojans had flutes and pipes, and the Greek stentor, a man of mighty voice, proclaimed orders to the army. In the year 514 B. C., when Darius, the Mede, crossed the Danube and invaded the Scythians he had no trumpet. When Xerxes invaded Greece, 478 B. C., no trumpet was there used; the signal for battle was given by torch-bearers. Soon after the invasion of Greece by the Persians the trumpet was used for many purposes. The Greeks probably learned it from the Phenicians. The dispersed Israelites of the Assyrian or Chaldean captivity imparted the knowledge of the trumpet and its uses to the people from whom it came immediately to the American giants. From it we make the following deductions: (1) There were no large hollow horns in the country which could have been used for the same purpose. (2) If the makers of the trumpet, which no doubt were the giants, knew the use of metals, they did not have the time or material to form trumpets, as they had been engaged in a long and protracted war with the natives. (3) The mound builders did not make this trumpet, or they would have made it with metal. Hence we arrive at a just conception of the martial music of the north invaders. There was contemporaneously with the giants of Tennessee a race of people of small stature. These people were the pygmies of the giants, and were captured by them somewhere in the northeastern part of America and were adopted and brought as slaves by them in their southward wanderings. In 1820 a great number of small graves and skeletons in them were discovered in White county.

A Mr. Lane submitted quite a number of these bones to the medical fraternity at Nashville, and it was their opinion that the skeletons belonged to adult persons. The height of this people was about two and one-half to three feet, and they buried after the fashion of the giants with rocks set up around the body and head to the east and face to the west. That this people were addicted to strong superstitions is evident. In the graves mentioned were found conch shells—also mussel and taper shells. These people no doubt were worshipers of Vishnu. In ancient times the worshipers of the sun from the confines of China and Thibet emigrated from Sarmartia, thence to Germany and thence to Finland and the country of the Samoedes, which so much resemble the Esquimaux. The later, with the Greenlanders, were sun worshipers and brought to America with them through many ages and people the most ancient religion of Asia.

In other places in our state and elsewhere are found the remains of this diminutive race of people. That such people once existed is asserted by Homer and Herodotus. They are mentioned by Pliny, Strabo and Mela as existing in India and Ethiopia. But Jovius locates them in the extremes of the northern regions. The best opinion advanced upon the subject seems to be that these people came from northeastern America, and were brought hither, either willingly or by force, by the giants when they migrated to this country.

Among the relics of this people was found in White county a stone about six inches long, half an inch thick and three inches wide, and still widening to the edge and having an edge like an ax. This ax was found in an old fortification near Sparta, and seemed to be tinged with blood which had been petrified on it. The color of green was intermixed with a few spots of lighter complexion. It is very hard and smooth. Stone axes of the same description are brought from the Fiji islands in the Pacific by navigators. The same species of stone is found on the banks of the Amazon. As to what became of this mysterious race, we can but conjecture that, having come so far south that the climate was so uncongenial to them—together with the labor and fatigue of their long and aggressive warfare in connection with the giants against the aborigines—that the strain and climate was too great for their northern constitutions, and they all perished and their dust mingles with our southern soil unseen by no eye but God's, and whose history is only written on the scrolls of eternity.

—The dairy maids of this country last year manufactured 5,593,812 pounds of butter for export and received for it $915,533.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

LEHIGH UNIVERSITY.

Address of President Drown on the Subject of Athletics.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 24.—Exercises of the opening of the fall session of Lehigh university were held in the Packer Memorial church yesterday afternoon. In his address to the students, President Drown spoke of some changes in the faculty and in the equipment of the university. On the subject of athletics President Drown spoke as follows: "It is a truism, I think, that physical training and athletic contests have their place in college life solely as an adjunct to sound scholarship. The sound mind in the sound body is the aim of the college life. Excess of mental training and excess of physical training are alike harmful. It is another truism, I think, that a good system of college athletics is one that is good for all students. I have no sympathy with that system which selects a score or two of men to do all the athletic work, while the remaining hundreds get their exercise by cheering the athletes. I want all the students of the university to get all the benefit they can from outdoor games. Every student (except those who are physically unfitted for violent exercise) should be enrolled in the athletic association and have regular, systematic field practice. I would like to see more inter-class games and more inter-course games and a lively enthusiasm for healthy outdoor sport on the part of every member of the college. This will not work against the interests of the representative college teams, so dear to the hearts of all collegians and alumni, but rather work for them. In these days of great intercollegiate contests we are in danger of overlooking the needs of the great mass of college students and compelling them to get their exercise by proxy.

HOT AFTER GLOVE CONTESTS.

New York Chief of Police Looking Up the Law Regulating Them.

New York, Sept. 24.—Chief Conlin on August 21 asked the corporation counsel for an opinion as to the locality of boxing contest under the new law which took effect on September 1 last. The chief wanted to satisfy himself as to the exact meaning of the law by which all boxing contests in public are prevented except in regularly incorporated athletic clubs. Acting Corporation Counsel Turner wrote an opinion on the subject on September 11 which has just been made public. Mr. Turner holds that regularly incorporated clubs can give public boxing shows at which gloves weighing not less than five ounces are used. Under the opinion the police will stop all other public contests. Chief Conlin said that the point which he most wanted to know was whether or not an association having an exhibition open to the public in general and for which an admission fee was charged would not be compelled to secure a theatrical license under section 1998 of the consolidation act. The opinion of the corporation counsel states that under these circumstances it would be considered an "entertainment of the stage" and a license under section 1998 of the consolidation act would have to be secured.

AN AERONAUT INJURED.

Prof. Bonnette Falls a Distance of Six Hundred Feet But Escaped Alive.

Malone, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Prof. C. C. Bonnette of St. Johnsbury, Vt., made a balloon ascension at the Franklin county fair yesterday afternoon and when up about 600 feet the wind opened a rent in his balloon, causing it to collapse. His parachute being twisted at the time he was unable to cut loose from the balloon and came down with it. The parachute opened slightly breaking his fall, and he would not have been injured but for a post in a wire fence east of the grounds, which he struck. Two ribs of his left side were broken, but the aeronaut says he will make the ascension to-day.

Arrest of the Laurada's Captain.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The treasury department is informed that Edward Murphy, master of the steamer Laurada, has been arraigned at Port Antonio, Jamaica, and placed on trial for making a false report to the collector of customs in regard to landing on the island of Navassa and discharging cargo and reporting that he had no passengers on board during the voyage. The informant charged that twenty-two passengers were landed at Navassa. These were the men supposed to have been conveyed to Cuba in the Dauntless.

Catholic Union Officers.

New York, Sept. 24.—The Catholic Young Men's national union has elected the following officers: President, the Rev. W. V. McGuirl of Brooklyn; first vice-president, Rev. Father Bernard M. Bogan of Newark, N. J.; second vice-president, Daniel P. Toomy of Boston; secretary and treasurer, John J. Brady of Albany.

Steinert Cup Series.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 24.—In the Steinert cup series of the Eastern league yesterday the Providence club defeated the Buffalo club by a score of 16 to 7. It was the first game of the series in this city, the first three having been played in Buffalo. If the Gray's win to-day's game it will end the series.

SIAM SAPPHIRE MINES.

Value of Their Product Is in the Quantity Not Quality.

The Pailin mines are spread over an area six miles by two, and consist of 13 mining villages, the chief of which are Baw Taka and Baw Dineo. These two are more than four miles apart, but they are joined by an excellent road cut through the forest and well drained. Sapphires, says the London Times, are found all over this district; the whole countryside is riddled with holes sunk in the red soil down to the sapphire layer. Formerly the stones were found quite near the surface, but those places have long since been exhausted, although the Burmese still continue to turn over the old heaps in the firm conviction that precious stones grow. Now the stones are found at a depth of from 15 to 25 feet, in a reddish, gravelly layer of varying thickness up to 18 inches. The pit sunk is usually some five feet in diameter and either square or circular. Soil is raised in bamboo baskets, attached to the end of a balanced lever, and when the sapphire layer is reached the stratum is carried to the nearest water and washed carefully for stones. Not more than one shaft in three pays for its working expenses, but when the sapphire layer is struck the profits may be large indeed. It is all a question of luck. To dig and work out one shaft occupies two or three men one month. Two or three Burmese generally go into partnership and hire Laos miners to work for them and sink the shaft at the rate of two ticals (two shillings eight pence) per 18 inches. Occasionally sapphires of considerable value reward the miner, but the sapphires of Pailin are of more commercial value because of their quantity than because of their intrinsic excellence.

A NEW RECORD.

Deepest Spot in the Ocean Nearly Six Miles.

For 20 years or more the deepest spot in the ocean has been supposed to be to the northeast of Japan, says the New York Journal. There the bottom lies 4,655 fathoms down, or more than five miles beneath the surface of the waves.

In the latest hydrographer's report of admiralty surveys, made by the British government, this ocean record, which has stood so long, is beaten, for there is official information of a deeper sounding than has hitherto been made. The deepest spot in the ocean, so far as known at present, has been found to be in the neighborhood of the Friendly and Kermadee islands, in the Southern Pacific. Here the maximum depth is 5,155 fathoms, or close upon six miles. The observation, made by the officers on board the British ship Penguin, is all the more interesting for the fact that it bears out the result of previous researches, showing curiously enough as it does that the deepest parts of the sea are not far from land.

Deep-sea sounding has come of late years an exact science in itself. One curious feature of it, and one which is little known, is that the "leads" used have to be constructed with especial strength in order to withstand the enormous pressure of the mass of water which bears down upon them when they lie upon the bottom. So great is this pressure that the sounding apparatus in ordinary use would be crushed.

SALOON IN TWO COUNTRIES.

Ingenious Arrangement for the Thirsty on the Mexican Border.

There is an ingenious saloonkeeper who conducts a place in a little village on the border between this country and Mexico, says the Louisville Commercial. The village is half in California and half in Lower California. There are two bars in his saloon, one on the south and one on the north side of a large room. The dividing line between the two countries bisects the house, and one bar is located in Mexico and the other is located in the United States. The proprietor pays big license to both countries, but still makes a handsome living out of the business. He has suspended all the way across the street in front a unique sign. On the United States side it reads, in letters a foot high: "Your first and last chance." On the other side, in Spanish, it expresses the same idea.

The saloon is known by that name for miles around, and many an eastern tourist who has quenched his thirst there will remember it. It is a great resort for "cow punchers" of both nations who work in that territory. Hence many is the bloody fight that takes place there, and few are the ones brought to justice whose crimes are committed there.

A Judge's Reply.

At one time a delicate question as to the construction of a statute was discussed before the venerable chief justice of the New York court of common pleas, Charles P. Daly, and after elaborate arguments on each side the chief justice decided the question in open court, giving his reasons in a few well timed remarks which caused a lull in the courtroom. The silence was speedily broken by the successful attorney, who stood up and said with an air of patronizing approval: "May it please your honor, I, for one, agree with you entirely." The chief justice, with a twinkle in his eye which betokened his enjoyment of the joke, but a perfectly grave face, quietly removed his glasses, and, amid a breathless silence, said: "I have, counselor, generally found in my experience that the successful party agrees with the court."

TYNAN MAY GO FREE

England Has Made No Demand for His Extradition.

KNOWS IT WOULD BE REFUSED

Turner Stated That He Is To Be Released at the Request of the Scotland Yard Officials—Dublin Police Blamed for the Trouble.

London, Sept. 24.—The Post to-day publishes a dispatch from Paris to a news agency here saying that, despite the statements to the contrary, the British embassy in Paris, through which demands for the extradition of prisoners pass, as a rule, has received no demands for the extradition of Tynan, the Irish invincible recently arrested in Boulogne. It is stated that, in view of the certainty that a demand for Tynan's extradition would be refused by the French government, his surrender to the British authorities will not be asked for, and that the prisoner will be released at the request of the Scotland Yard. It is further asserted that the Dublin police authorities are answerable for the false position in which Great Britain has been placed.

DENIAL BY LOWLES.

Did Not Say Great Britain Could Not Act Independently Regarding Turkey.

London, Sept. 24.—John Lowles, member of the house of commons for the Haggerston division of Shoreditch, has written a letter to the Daily News in which he asserts that the remarks made by him at the meeting held in Shoreditch on the evening of the 21st inst., to protest against the massacre of Christians by Turks, were incorrectly reported. Mr. Lowles declares that he did not state that he was authorized by the foreign office to say that Great Britian was confronted by an agreement between three powers; that if she attacked Turkey upon any excuse or pretext she would have to face that combination, and that if she fired a single shot or took action alone it would mean that at that moment there would be a European war.

RUSSIA AND CHINA.

Shanghai Expecting Great Events To Follow Li Hung Chang's Visit.

London, Sept. 24.—A dispatch to the Globe from Shanghai, published yesterday, says it is believed there that the sending of a Russian squadron to Shanghai will be the first result of an agreement reached between Li Hung Chang and Russia which is viewed with great anxiety and suspicion in Japan. China, it is added, is rapidly repairing the docks and workshops of Port Arthur and is storing there vast quantities of coal. It is thought that these movements indicate a startling development in Russian policy.

Nominated by Gold Democrats.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—Ex-representative William McAleer was nominated for congress by the democrats of the Third congressional district yesterday. A letter from Mr. McAleer declaring unreservedly for the gold standard was read in the convention. The third is the only one of the five districts in the city that is regarded as doubtful. The republicans, at their recent convention, adjourned without making a nomination, and it is rumored that a deal will be made whereby Mr. McAleer will receive republican support in exchange for democratic support of republican legislative candidates.

Princeton's 150th Anniversary.

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 24.—The opening exercises in connection with the 150th year of Princeton's history as a college were held yesterday afternoon in Marquand chapel. President Patton spoke with special reference to the sesquicentennial celebration to be held October 20, 21 and 22. He said that the occasion would be marked by several things of great importance to the college. Among the most important of these are the increase in the endowment.

Dinner to General Palmer.

New York, Sept. 24.—Simon Sterne last night at the Manhattan club gave a dinner in honor of General Palmer. Covers were laid for seventeen persons. The dinner, which was a strictly private affair, was participated in by W. B. Hornblower, Henry A. Richmond, Abram S. Hewitt, ex-Governor Flower, J. Edward Simmons, R. G. Monroe and others.

Explosives Found in London.

London, Sept. 24.—It has just been learned that enough of the explosive known as cordite to blow up a house was discovered on Monday hidden in the hollow of a pillar on Stamford street, which is inhabited by Russian Hebrews who are suspected of nihilism. The police are actively searching the premises in that neighborhood.

Not a Candidate for Governor.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 24.—State committeeman Charles Roe of the gold democratic party has received a letter from Judge Bradley of Corning in which the latter declines to allow his name to be presented to the Brooklyn convention as a candidate, for the gubernatorial nomination. He says he could not accept if nominated

SPORTS

THURSDAY, Sept. 24. Sun rises 5:44 a. m., sets 6:03 p. m. Lanterns must be lighted between 7:03 p. m. and 4:44 a. m.

Cyclists desiring to join the League of American Wheelmen will be furnished with application blanks and necessary information by addressing the Cycling Department of the Daily Press.

CYCLING COMMENT.

A firmly packed bicycle track about a foot in width has been formed on each side of the main driveway along East Front street, and by constant use the track has become smooth and solid.

Sandford Robinson, of West Second street, will ride an exhibition quarter-mile for a record at the circuit meet to be held on Saturday afternoon. He will be paced by H. K. Lister and William Waters, on a tandem.

The Springfield road is perhaps more traveled than any other county road in this section of the State. On Sunday last 1,014 bicyclists from various parts of the country registered at the wheelmen's rest near the Springfield Hotel.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

For the first time, tonight, the Y. M. C. A. football team will practice outdoors at night on illuminated grounds. The moon will aid greatly, while gasoline lamps are to be used. The candidates will meet at the Y. M. C. A. building tonight at 8 o'clock and then go to the field. All who are trying for the team should make it a point to be present tonight as Captain Freeman expects to select the principal candidates and have them measured for their suits.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Y. M. C. A. gymnasium classes commenced yesterday. The business men turned out in good style to the 5:30 class. They invite the members to join the classes at once. First eve class tonight at 8:15.

The business men's class at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium met for the first time this fall, last evening. The attendance was good, about fourteen being present, and all were very favorably impressed with Mr Heywood, the new physical director.

A Joke on Mr. Murray.

Sometime ago Roger Murray, of Madison avenue, exposed to view on the side of his house large portraits of McKinley and Hobart, and he said they would not be removed until both candidates were elected. Tuesday night someone covered McKinley's photo with one of Bryan, and the joke was not discovered till late yesterday, when Mrs. Murray by chance happened to notice the change. The picture was quickly removed by Mrs. Murray, who knew that it would not do to let her husband see it.

Additional Seats Needed.

On account of the crowded condition of the meeting room in Mt. Olive Baptist church on Liberty street at the Friday night meetings, the Board of Trustees has decided to remove some of the old pews from the main auditorium to the basement, and put in some 120 new pews up stairs.

—Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., will initiate several candidates at their meeting tonight.

—Neuman Brothers have a few choice baskets of peaches. They are selling rapidly at 50 cents and $1.25.

—E. R. Taylor will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday at 4:15 p. m. There will be duet and solo singing. These meetings are largely attended and full of interest.

Miss Clara Williams, of Madison avenue, has returned from a visit with friends in Newburg.

Judge V. W. Nash and wife, of Prospect avenue, returned last night from an extended trip west. Both are much improved in health.

Miss Helen Boice, of East Front street, gave a very pleasant boating party to a number of her friends yesterday afternoon on Tier's lake. About 16 were present and the afternoon passed very enjoyably.

Theories of cure may be discussed at length by physicians, but the sufferers want quick relief; and One Minute Cough Cure will give it to them. A safe cure for children. It is "the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results." For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

TRAINING ON THE OVAL.

cago, will make his first appearance in his native land after a long visit across the water, where he came out very well in a number of races. Whether his good record in Europe will be continued here remains to be seen.

Carroll B. Jack is another plucky little rider who will ride here Saturday. He is well known to Plainfield enthusiasts, having trained here for some time in the spring, and then rode at the last Decoration Day meet.

Quite a number of the Morgan & Wright team went to Waverly this morning to take part in the conclusion of the Quill Club Wheelmen's race meet. There are several of the others who have not yet been seen on the track. Among them is Harry C. Clarke, the Denver flyer. He has been one of the most consistent followers of the circuit, and has scarcely missed a meet except when incapacitated by his recent accident at Meriden, Conn. He will be out this afternoon, and between he, Loughead and Kimble, the audience will be kept guessing as to who is to be the winner of the two-mile handicap, for there is not a better trio of handicap riders in this country.

The fastest man that has ever been produced in the south is Owen Kimble, of Louisville, who held all the Kentucky championships at the time he entered the professional ranks, five weeks ago. His first appearance upon the circuit was as a member of the Morgan & Wright team, and he has been winning with commendable regularity ever since. Kimble is one of the largest men on the team, and strong in proportion to his size. He is ambitious and faithful in his work, and is made of the stuff that makes the champion.

Jimmie Bowler is a product of the noted Thistle Racing Club, of Chicago, under whose colors he began riding his amateur races. His record last year was a phenomenal one, and his winning streak was only cut short by a severe attack of fever that followed his record-breaking work at Louisville, with the Morgan & Wright camp. He is again showing his former wonderful form, and will make his mark before the season is over.

The pride of northern California is big Charlie Wells, of San Francisco, who rejoined the circuit recently after an absence of nearly a year. Wells is a giant in build, strong as an ox, with a lightning sprint and a whirlwind finish that has landed him at the tape a winner over some of the best riders in the game. As a handicap man he has few equals, and at indoor riding and on small tracks he has made a most favorable record for himself.

In the open races, Cooper is hard to equal as his record will show. He has thus far this year competed in forty-seven races against the best racing men in America, of which he has won 33, the higest percentage of winnings to be shown by any man regularly following the National circuit. He has defeated Bald, his chief rival, in 13 out of the 20 events in which they have met; Sanger in 21 out of 24; Otto Ziegler in 24 out of 27, and the balance of the stars in like proportion.

Not a bad showing, is it? But that doesn't say he has any cinch on the open events for he has got to move if McDonald, Bald, Gardin and a score of others, are going to get left.

All the excitement over the "pros" has rather left the amatuers in the shade but they will not be a slow set by any means. Fred W. L. Fullerton, of Montclair, most of you know him as he attended school here for several years, was on the track yesterday and showed up quite creditable in his chase of Bald's rear wheel. Joe Harrison and L. R. Lefferson, two of our Will McCutchen's training companions at Asbury Park, will be here and their past record promises some lively moving. Bert Ripley, who has been classed as the fastest amatuer in New Jersey is coming and is in good condition while Walter Roome, of the N. J. A. C., who always claims that title, will be at the oval Saturday. Ray Dawson, the fast man of Boonton, who held one of the state championships last year, is also among the entries.

And so you could go on for the fast men are numberous as the entry list published in last night's Press showed. Personal inspection will be more satisfactory than anything that can be told about the riders, and Saturday is the day to see them.

MRS. H. P. JAMES FOUND

THIS TIME SHE WAS FOUND ON A WHITE OAK RIDGE FARM.

Taken in Charge by the Overseer of the Poor and Her Son Notified to Come and Take Her to His Home in Warrenville.

Mrs. Harriet P. James, of Warrenville, who strayed away from the residence of her son William, with whom she made her home, over a week ago, is now at the Milburn poor farm at White Oak Ridge. Mrs. James is seventy-five years of age, and her memory is weak and she is unable to tell a consistent story. She appeared in Springfield a week ago last night and applied for food at several residences on Westfield avenue. Supper and clothing were given her and she went away.

The woman's next appearance was when Officer Kearney, of Milburn, arrested her last Wednesday night while she was sitting on the roadside on Milburn avenue. She was placed in the Milburn lockup, and the Plainfield authorities were notified and said they would send for her. She was kept at Milburn until Friday afternoon, and as no one called for her she was liberated.

After getting out of the lockup the woman went in the direction of St. Cloud. On Friday afternoon her son went to Milburn, but was unable to find her. He went there again Saturday afternoon, but had no better success. While Township Committeeman G. W. Reeves, of White Oak Ridge, was attending to the milking of his cows about six o'clock Friday night, he saw Mrs. James crossing his farm, going in the direction of Baldwin's Pond. She was taken to Mr. Reeve's house and afterward to Overseer of the Poor Simpson, who placed her in charge of the matron of the poor farm. It was there discovered that her clothing was wet and muddy up to her waist, as if she had waded through a muddy brook or swamp. Word of her whereabouts was sent to her son at Warrenville yesterday.

Slander Suit Threatened.

Two of Scotch Plains most prominent business men, both in the same line of business, are at war with each other, and the matter will probably be ventilated in the county court. It appears that one merchant wrote a flowery letter to a family in Fanwood, who are large consumers and whose trade is worth considerable to anyone who gets it. It is alleged that the letter stated that "the other man" was selling an inferior quality of goods and at reduced rates in order to get clear of them. The recipient of the letter carried it straightway to the merchant accused, and the latter was so vexed that he at once threatened to bring a $25,000 suit for slander. Papers in the case, it is understood, are now being made out, and some interesting developments are looked for.

Mrs. Fred Moore, of this city, has gone to New York to visit friends.

Mrs. A. F. and James Carpenter, of Bound Brook, are visiting relatives on Manning avenue.

Miss Wilcox, the bookkeeper at Edsall's Commercial Palace, has returned from her vacation.

Proprietor Mesick, of the Alpha Hotel at Bloomfield, was the guest yesterday of John Whitehead, of West Third street.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, Mrs. S. R. Krom, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins and Mrs. Parse are among the members of the local W. C. T. U. who are attending the county convention being held in Elizabeth today.

—The employes of the local branch of the Prudential Life Insurance Company will attend in a body the funeral of Mrs. Schoettlin, the late wife of Mark Schoettlin, who is employed by the company.

BOROUGH FLAG RAISED.

MCKINLEY AND HOBART ENTHUSIASM GETS A CHANCE TO VENT ITSELF.

As is the Custom This Year, the Money Question Received Most of the Attention, Though Protection Was Alluded to.

Plainfield's sturdy and healthy neighbor—North Plainfield—entered the political arena last evening in a manner that gives her much promise of being a close rival of many places considerably larger. The Republicans of this lively borough gathered together and with a glorious blaze of red fire, intermingled with music, cheers and the sound of bombs, unfurled a very handsome American flag bearing the names of their standard bearers, McKinley and Hobart.

The crowd present was all that the party leaders had hoped for and the enthusiasm reached the top notch. The scene of all this activity was on Somerset street directly opposite the residence of H. N. Spencer, one of North Plainfield's most staunch Republicans.

After the outdoor celebration, the crowd adjourned to Saengerbund Hall, which was elaborately decorated with flags and bunting, and listened to addresses on the political topics of the day. The Plainfield Cornet Band occupied the gallery and discoursed appropriate music. Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., occupied the seat of honor and in opening the meeting extended to all a hearty welcome on behalf of the County Executive Committee. He said that when the boroughites vote for Mr. Spencer they give him a big majority and they do the same by Charles Reed. Continuing, he said:

"Now, we are going to vote for McKinley and Hobart and we want North Plainfield to do better than ever for sound money and protection." At this point W. W. Howland was made chairman of the meeting. Mr. Howland accepted the honor gracefully and made a short address in which he urged all to vote unanimously for McKinley and Hobart. He discussed briefly the silver question and explained the problem of 16 to 1 from a Republican point of view. Charles Sminck was then chosen secretary, and the following vice-presidents were selected: Charles A. Reed, Charles Place, H. K. Carroll, R. M. Fountain, P. A. Emmons. As an executive campaign committee the following were named: W. W. Howland, Fred Williams, P. A. Emmons, J. G. MacLoughlin, Charles Place, N. B Smalley, J. K. Arnold, Charles A. Reed, Charles Sminck, W. C. Smith, H. K. Carroll, E. A. Overton, A. V. D. Honeyman, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., T. S. Armstrong, Andrew Lutkins, Albert Runyon, Lewis Barkalew, G. W. Bullman, J. H. Cooley, R. M. Fountain, Frank Rowley, H. A. McGee, C. B. Pope, C. W. McCutchen and P. Acker.

Mr. Howland then introduced Mr. Prendergast, of Brooklyn, who spoke in part as follows: "Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, we have assembled here tonight to show our interest in this campaign. We are seekers of knowledge which will enable us to more intelligently enter this contest.

"No speaker need lack for inspiration or no audience need lack for a emotive. This campaign presents many phases. We ask the question, what party for 36 years gave entire satisfaction in all departments? The unbiased citizen will answer the Republican party, which has rendered permanent the institutions of the country. Now the people have again turned to the same party for relief, but a new champion has appeared with a new cause. He claims to have a cure for all ills, in the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. This scheme has been tried and was found wanting. It wasn't a success as we all know. The Indianapolis convention denounced in no uncertain tones the Chicago convention. We ask free coinage what it can give us. Austria and Russia have given up the silver standard, and those countries who are now on a silver basis are very much depreciated. There is a natural law which governs the money standard, and we all know that cheaper money would drive the more valuable out of existence. It now takes 32 ounces of siver to buy one ounce of gold, and 16 to 1 would mean just one half, and two fifths of the money now in circulation would go out of trade. If we had free, and unlimited coinage of silver, the government would be powerless to regulate its coinage.

"At present, the government is pledged to maintain the parity between gold and silver. The integrity of the United States must not be polluted. Bryan tells the farmer that under the new order of things the

A HARVEST FESTIVAL.

A SEASONABLE EVENT AT THE MONROE AVENUE CHAPEL.

The Chapel Decorated With Colors of an Autumn Hue—Refreshments Served to and Entertainment Afforded Guests.

With the waning harvest moon peeping over the trees a "Harvest Festival" was held at Monroe avenue chapel last evening by the Ladies' Aid Society for the benefit of the chapel fund. The moon made all seem bright out of doors, while inside the chapel was brilliantly illuminated. Goldenrod was artistically placed at every convenient point, while yellow bunting was used to decorate some of the tables.

In the small class rooms at one end of the chapel, which were all opened into one, tables were arranged, and on the snow white table cloth a delicious supper was arranged, which was greatly enjoyed by the visitors. The tables were under the supervision of Mrs. Theo. VanPelt, Miss Annie Stafford, Miss Alice Foster, Miss Bertha Wenzel, Mrs. Ekins, Mrs. Frank Fulton, Mrs. Charles Haynes and Miss Mary Brower. On the opposite end of the chapel there were other tables, and here ice-cream and cake were served by Miss Emily Haff.

In the rear of the main room was the candy table, loaded with a tempting display of home-made dainties and prettily decorated in yellow and white. Miss Charlotte Aldrich, appropriately gowned in the prevailing colors, presided, and she was assisted by the following from the Junior League: the Misses Helen Fulton, Sadie Kinney, Edith Robinson, Annie Wenzel, Alice Pugh, Etta Randolph, Lulu Randolph, Sophie Saums, Edna Phillips and Grace Cowling.

There was no regular programme rendered during the evening except a number of well-rendered selections by the Schubert Ladies' Orchestra, which occupied the platform behind a wall of autumn flowers and leaves.

The decorating, which, by the way, was very tastefully done, had been looked after by a committee composed of Mrs. Charles Hayes, Mrs Theodore VanPelt, Miss Annie Stafford and Miss Emily Haff. Mrs. Nicholas Brovard, treasurer of the Ladies' Aid Society, presided at the entrance and acted as cashier.

The festival was largely attended and the lively chatter and gay laugh of the visitors told, as well as the busy clatter of knives and forks, that they were enjoying themselves.

CADET OFFICERS.

A Drill and Business Meeting Combined of the High School Military.

The North Plainfield High School Cadets have regularly begun their existence under the supervising eye of Captain George Edwards. Their first drill and business meeting was held yesterday afternoon. The boys showed up very well under Captain Edwards' direction. All the officers from the High School Cadet Company of this side of the brook were present and watched the drill.

At the meeting following the drill the following officers were elected: Commander, George Edwards; captain, Charles Marvin Dolliver; first lieutenant, Fred J. Bettman; second lieutenant, Walter Conover. The uniform was chosen to be the same as that of the Plainfield High School Cadets, dark blue coat and cadet blue trousers, with the addition of a white stripe around the collar. The drill will be held every Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

LOST A DIAMOND.

Otto Zeigler Has a $125 Stone Stolen Out of His Shirt.

Otto Zeigler, Jr., the "Little Demon," of California, who is now training at the Crescent Oval for tomorrow's meet, has something to remember Plainfield by, or, rather, he hasn't got something. That's the trouble and the missing article happens to be a diamond stud, valued at $125.

Wednesday, the Californian crack came down to the track to go out for a spin on his wheel. And while he was out there riding about, some stranger then entered his stall beneath the grandstand and laid felonus hand on the diamond stud, setting and all. It lay with his clothes, but nobody knows, except the abductor of course, when the thief entered in and committed the sin. He left no trace of his course. There is not a clue to work on and Zeigler is not likely to see his diamond stud again.

LAWYER AND MINISTER PREACH THE GOLD GOSPEL

REV. J. B. CLEAVER BELIEVES THAT THE DANGER OF FREE SILVER OVERTOPS THOSE OF INTEMPERANCE—MCCREADY SYKES TO WAGE EARNERS.

The young Lawyer Takes up a Line of Argument to Convince the Wage-Earner That His Interests Are Not With Silver.

The Minister Talks to a Room Full of Rebublicans Who Applaud His Sentiments, Which Are Gold and Protection.

The average political speaker spends most of his time in declaring his party to be the first and only one in the eyes of the workingman, and the rest in denouncing the faults and frailties of his opponents. And in those ways did MacCready Sykes, who addressed the meeting of the Gold Democrats at their club rooms at the corner of Muhlenberg place and South Second street, last evening, differ from the usual platform speaker. He took a decidedly practical topic and discussed it in a plain and straightforward way. His topic if such it might be called, was as to what would be the practical effect on the wage earner of Bryan's election and an immediate passage of a free silver bill.

The passage of such a bill would, he said, necessitate one of two things, the bullion value of silver would rise to meet that of gold or remain stationary. He asked his hearers to imagine the situation in the beginning of 1897, if allowing for the sake of argument that Bryan was elected and the free silver bill passed. Admitting everything that the silver men claimed, what would be the result? The circulation would be increased, and therefore prices would rise. What prices? The prices of the crude articles, thereby increasing the price of the products made from them. That was all right, but then Mr. Sykes brought forth his chief argument What would become of the companies that had contracts for the future made in the time of the gold standard and of the railroads and corporations whose income was fixed by rates and prices made permanent by charters and state laws? Prices would be increased and yet these companies would have no increase in their income. They would have to reduce expenses. Repairs and materials had increased in price and the companies would have to retrench in some direction. Where should it be? There was only one way left, and his hearers understood what he meant, a reduction of wages.

He said a remedy that might be suggested was that organized labor should demand a rise in wages in comparison to the rise in prices. That might serve against one company or railroad, but against all of them it would never do. The capitalists had better allow their plants to lie idle than run them at a loss. Is there any way of meeting this situation? So Mr. Sykes asked and read Bryan's speech to the working men of Brooklyn to get an answer. The speech he declared was mere idle talk as Bryan could not and did not tell what they are going to do about it.

The meeting was well attended, most of the seats being occupied, and many took part in the informal discussion that followed in which Mr. Sykes and Mr. Atterbury answered a number of questions. The audience was a very enthusiastic one and and seemed to thoroughly appreciate Mr. Sykes' remarks.

HURLED BETWEEN HIS LEGS.

A Bolt From a Blue Liner Just Misses a Messenger.

Matthew Sweeney, one of the Western Union Telegraph messenger boys, had a narrow escape yesterday afternoon about 4:15 o'clock. A westbound Blue Line flyer was passing the North Avenue station at the rate of a mile a minute, when a large metal nut, about four inches in diameter, flew from the train and went straight at young Sweeney who was standing near the door of the telegraph office. Sweeney's feet were spread somewhat apart and the heavy piece of metal flew directly between his legs, making a deep dent in the bootblacking stand behind him and then left its mark on the wall. The little incident was too exciting to suit Sweeney. He prefers more room for such missiles.

Will Receive at the Tea.

The following ladies are to receive at the Golf Club tea on Saturday afternoon: Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Sheppard, Mrs. Doull Miller, Mrs. Rhienhart and Miss Walz.

—Tomorrow morning at 10:30 Dr. Lewis will preach upon "Moral Issues in the Presidential Campaign," from the text "Thou Shalt Not Steal." Strangers will be welcome.

If you have ever seen a little child n the agony of summer complaint, you can realize the danger of the trouble and appreciate the value of instantaneons relief always afforded by DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. For dysentery and diarrocea it is a reliable remedy. We could not afford to recommend this as a cure unless it were a cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph 143 West Front street.

DEATH OF A NOBLE MAN

ERIC M. ERICKSON LEAVES A BRIGHT RECORD BEHIND HIM.

Worked His Way From Boyhood to an Honorable Career in Business and Public Life—No Man More Respected

Plainfield has lost one of her best citizens, a man whose honesty and integrity was never doubted, a thorough business man, and one who had the courage of his convictions and followed the dictates of his own conscience, no matter where they led to. Such was the character of Eric N. Erickson, who passed quietly away at 6:30 o'clock this morning, surrounded by his family at his home, 424 West Eighth street. Death came rather suddenly as his condition was not considered critical until yesterday morning, and all Plainfield was startled with the sad news of his death this morning.

Three months ago he was compelled to relinquish his business duties and go to Avon, N. Y., to secure the benefits of the sulphur baths there. Last Friday he was taken suddenly ill while preparing to return home. He recovered sufficiently to reach Plainfield in safety on Saturday. His illness proved to be inflammation of the bowels which developed into appendicitis. Last Sunday, Dr. Frank Hartley, of New York, assisted by Drs. Probasco and Endicott, of this city, performed an operation, and it was thought that he would recover, but yesterday he grew rapidly worse until this morning when he passed away. He was conscious to the last and bid good bye to his weeping family that gathered by the bedside

Eric M. Erickson was born in Christiana, Norway, on May 25th, 1842. When very young he and his three brothers were brought to this country by their parents and took up their home at Alabama. He was educated at a school at Tuscaloosa, Ala. Just prior to the Civil War the Erickson family moved north to Brooklyn. When the war broke out his father and one of his brothers enlisted. His father was promoted to the position of captain, while the brother died in the Andersonville prison.

When twenty years old Mr. Erickson entered the employ of W. B. Shattuck & Co., a New York advertising agency, as a clerk. The firm did a great deal of advertising for the Union and Central Pacific railroads which were just being boomed. About five years later the firm went into the banking business and Mr. Erickson started a financial and general advertising agency on his own account. He has continued in that business up to the time of his death. His office was in Temple Court, on Beekman and Nassau streets.

He moved to Plainfield about twenty-five years ago, and was married to Miss Delia Davidson, of New York, at the home of J. W. Murray, on Central avenue. Mrs. Murray and Mrs. Erickson are sisters. He leaves three sons, Jules, Roger and Eric, and one daughter, Mrs. James Hallock. His sons, Jules and Roger, have been connected with his office, and the former conducted the business during Mr. Erickson's absence at Avon.

Mr. Erickson was a stanch Republican, but he was too true to his own convictions to believe in the infallibility of any party. He followed his own judgment and was not afraid to stand alone. He was elected to the Common Council from the Third ward for four terms and was the efficient chairman of the fire, water and lamps committee. He was the originator and one of the chief supporters of the well-known building ordinance passed some time ago, which so regulates the building of houses in Plainfield that they will be a credit and an honor to the city. As a member of the sewer committee, he accomplished a great deal.

For many years he was treasurer and vestryman at the Grace P. E. church, and only lately resigned. He was one of the organizers of the Muhlenburg Hospital Association and has been a member of the Board of Governors since its organization. He was the president of the Board at the time of his death. He was also a member of the Union County Club.

Mr. Erickson was always known as a great family man and he preferred to spend his evenings at home.

The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon from Grace P. E. church.

MRS. TOMLINSON PRESIDENT.

Annual Meeting of the Union County W. C. T. U. Held Yesterday.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Union county was in session all day at the Fulton Street Methodist Episcopal church in Elizabeth yesterday. There were 100 delegates in attendance. Mrs. L. H. Tomlinson, of this city, presided. The membership of the Union has increased eighty one in the past year. Most of the session was taken up with reports of committees and officers. A prayer service was conducted at noon by Mrs. Yates, of Plainfield. The annual election resulted in the choice of Mrs. Tomlinson as president; Mrs. D. D. Irving, of Cranford, recording secretary; Mrs. S. R. Krom, of Plainfield, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. L. H. Noe, of Elizabeth, treasurer. The convention closed tonight with an interesting address by Mrs. A. M. Hammer, State president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Pennsylvania.

Rallying Day.

Sunday will be "Rallying Day" at the Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church and, of course, there will be special exercises. There will be an address by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Herring, and special music. The latter will include violin solos by William McKillop and Charlotte Cave, and "the Lost Chord" by G. T. Dunham on the trombone accompanied by his daughter, Miss Clara Dunham, on the piano.

And the Dog Came Back.

Thomas Lyness, of West Second street, has a black deer hound that about two weeks ago, he took down to Glen Gardner. Yesterday morning the dog suddenly appeared in Plainfield to the great surprise of its master. The feat is quite remarkable.

—Boehm's millinery opening is set for Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. His display will be the finest, and he asks the public to inspect his styles and prices before makiug their purchases. Cloaks, capes and suits are also a speciality with Mr. Boehm.

A JOLLY LOT OF SPORTS

CIRCUIT CHASERS CAN CRACK A JOKE AS WELL AS BREAK A RECORD.

Some Anecdotes About the Morgan & Wright Team—Pat O'Connor is Funny in Spite of His Bad Luck in Being Suspended.

As at the time of the recent Bicycle Carnival, Plainfield is at the mercy of Farmer Dunn. The Crescent Wheelmen's National circuit race meet is to take place tomorrow unless it rains. It is to be hoped that the Crescent Wheelmen have got enough influence to down Plainfield's Jonah and allow us a pleasant day for Saturday. The professionals are here and with good weather the meet will be an excellent one. The track is in good condition and the racing men are much pleased with it. They pronounce the surface faster than that of a cement track and predict some fast time. The few defects are being remedied and the Crescent Oval promises to do its share toward making the meet a success. The riders are all ready and now all that is needed is a big crowd to encourage them on to victory and at the same time aid the Crescent Wheelmen in decreasing what remains of their debt.

The weather was milder yesterday and so many of the racers appeared in their racing suits. The blue suits with white trimming of the Morgan & Wright team are very becoming, while the well known name in black and white across the front is very striking.

Some of the fast men were down at Waverly but the rest were flying around at a lively clip. Harry C. Clark, the Denver flyer, and Jimmie Bowler from Chicago rode some fast miles, going several quarters in a fraction over thirty seconds. Arthur Gardiner and Loughead, the Canadian crack, chased the Thistle tandem for several laps and then went it alone. Otto Ziegler came out while Gardiner went in, and Ziegler and Loughead did some fast work.

While these two riders were moving around the track at about a 2:20 clip, Simmons and Scott, two of Plainfield's colored riders, delighted the crowd by trying to keep up with the "pros." Then the cracks tried a fast quarter. The colored riders hung on for a while but they were soon left hopelessly in the rear when the spurt began and the crowd received them with a hearty laugh.

Pat O'Connor will probably not appear in Plainfield after all. Poor Pat, he is in hard luck. For he received word yesterday that he has been suspended as he entered at the Quill Club Wheelmen's meet last Saturday and failed to appear. O'Connor is a great fellow, however, even if he is under Chairman Gideon's bar at present. For genuine Irish wit no one on the circuit can compare with him. The racing men were discussing a proposed trip to Australia this fall, when one of the party called attention to the fact that at the Antipodes they do not have cement tracks, such as are generally used in this country, but that the usual track there was a grass track. Manager Pelot, of the Morgan & Wright team, spoke up, and said, in the slang of the race track: "Well, boys, if we go there we'll burn up their old grass tracks for them." "Yis," remarked Pat, quickly, "an' faith an' we'll make cinder paths of thim, we will."

They are a jolly lot, those Morgan & Wright boys, and Plainfield people have been very agreeably surprised by them in their opinion of the professional racing men. They have a complete stock of anecdotes of their experiences on the circuit, but one of the most exciting was their visit to a coal mine. They went down the Hollenbeck shaft near Wilkesbarre. At the mouth of the shaft one member of the party, "Jimmie" Bowler, weakened at the sight of the yawning chasm, and stayed above ground. It was Bowler who, on the recent boat trip of the party from New London to New York, refused to descend the hatchway into the lower saloon and sleep there, "because," as he said, "when the boat sank he couldn't get out." The worst scared man in the party when the the carriage reached the bottom was Tommie Cooper. The Detroit beauty's face looked ghastly under the flare of the mine lamps, and his teeth chattered as he said, "How am I ever to get back up there again?" A little later on he came to a telephone down in the mine, and his over-wrought nerves caused the exclamation, "Look there, boys; there's the telephone down to Hades." Owen Kimble, who comes from the south, was much interested in the mules that live and labor under-ground, and he and Loughead, the Canadian, came to the surface with a mule's shoe each, for good luck. The boys timed their trip down with their stop-watches, and claim to have descended the 980 feet in twenty-two seconds, and to have come up in twenty-nine seconds, which they consider pretty good going even on a bicycle.

An Indictment for Murder.

In Somerset county court this morning the license applications of J. H. Graceley and George Sisser, of North Plainfield, were laid over for a week. The license of the former does not expire until October 4th. The Grand Jury has brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree against Elmer Clawson, the eighteen-year-old boy who killed Harry Hodgetts last month. His trial was set down for October 6th.

BRYAN'S CAMPAIGN

Tour of the Democratic Nominee Through New England.

TO SPEAK AT BOSTON TO-NIGHT

A Luncheon To Be Given by the Bimetallic Union to Messrs Bryan and Sewall ---Hospitality of the City Extended by Mayor Quincy.

Boston, Sept. 25.—Mayor Josiah Quincy will not attend the luncheon to be given in honor of William J. Bryan and Arthur Sewall this evening at the American house. Replying to an invitation from S. W. Nickerson, president of the Massachusetts Bimetallic union, Mayor Quincy has written thanking the union, but expressing his regrets that it will not be possible for him to attend the dinner. He gladly offers the hospitality of the city to the distinguished guests while they are in Boston, and says he has just sent to each of them by wire an invitatation to meet the members of the Boston city government at a reception and supper after the meetings to-night. He would also be glad to see that any arrangements as to carriages or hotel accomodations that may be thought proper by those in charge of the movements of Mr. Bryan and Mr Sewall are made on behalf of the city. Mr. Nickerson, in reply to the mayor's letter, says he fears that the arrangements already made for Messrs. Bryan and Sewall will preclude the acceptance of the hospitality of the city, "although," he continues, "of course we have no wish even to assume any control over their movements." Mr. Nickerson says he understands the arrangements are in the hands of Hon. George Fred Williams.

BRYAN'S CONNECTICUT TOUR.

Closed His Journey Through the Nutmeg State with Two Speeches at Hartford.

Hartford, Sept. 25.—Mr. Bryan ended his Connecticut tour last night by making two speeches in Hartford. Both meetings were held in the open air, the first in Capitol park and the other on Main street in front of the city hotel. When Mr. Bryan reached Hartford from New Haven at 6:20 o'clock in company with Col. Graves, chairman of the Hartford committee, and Alex Troup, chairman of the democratic state central committee, he found a great throng at the station and he was received with cheers. His carriage was followed to the Heublein hotel by a crowd of men and boys, many of them bearing flaming candles of red Greek light. At 8 o'clock he went to the Capitol park being accompanied by another Greek fire escort and the members of the local reception committee in carriages. The gathering in the park was extremely large. Mr. Bryan stood upon a table on the stand erected a hundred feet from the capitol building in order that the crowd might see him better. Over his head was a big electric light and this with the bright moon and continuous glare of red fire made his figure stand out in picturesque relief against the black human figures packed on every side of him. He confined his remarks entirely to the financial issues of the day and was often applauded. The Capitol park speech concluded, the nominee was taken to the City hotel where he found another big assemblage. He spoke from the portico over tha main entrance of the hotel.

Foreign Interest in the Campaign.

London, Sept. 25.—A Budapest dispatch to the Times says: "A number of members of the International Agricultural congress have cabled to Mr. Bryan wishing him success in his struggle against 'the domination of the creditor class' and promising, in the event of his election, to endeavor to influence their respective governments to co-operate with the United States in restoring silver to the world's currency. The signatures to the message include those of Count Alexander Karolyi, president of the Agricultural society of Hungary, and the presidents of similar societies in Holland, Belgium and Russia; M. Segnier, member of the council of the French Bimetallic league; M. Ruffalowich, president of the Azoff bank, St. Petersburg; Dr. Arendt and Herren, Hardoff, and Dollingen and other members of the reichstag, and the Austrian Count Kolowrat."

Australian Cricket Team Wins.

Bergen Point N. J., Sept. 25.—The New Jersey Athletic team concluded their second inning in the match with the Australians yesterday afternoon and were all disposed of for 226 runs, which with 28 scored in the first innings Wednesday brought their total to 154. The Australians, therefore, won the match by an inning and 99 runs. The result was a foregone conclusion when the stumps were drawn.

Lyon Diamond Failure.

New York, Sept. 25.—The schedules of Julius M. Lyon, diamond merchant, who made an assignment on August 26, having been robbed of $150,000 by an employe, have been filed. They show liabilities of $142,522; nominal assets, $174,050; actual assets of $68,034, consisting principally of cash, $5,905; diamonds, $30,253, and accounts of $22,866.

Failure of a Shoe Firm.

Boston, Sept. 25.—The National Shoe & Leather exchange has announced the failure of Burdee, Ramsey & Co., shoe manufacturers of Lynn. The firm did a business of between $600,000 and $800,000 annually.

Sues for the Loss of a Leg.

Providence, Sept. 25.—Felix Gallagher has begun suit against the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company for $10,000. He lost a leg at the Sabin street crossing in this city last May.

GET APPETITE.

IF YOU DONT, YOU WILL NEVER BE STRONG OR HEALTHY.

Appetite is one thing that you can't afford to be without, for without it your health, strength and comeliness flies out of the window.

Poor appetite means weak stomach, starved body, sick individual. Good appetite the opposite.

Poor appetite is a sign that your stomach is too weak for digestion. You can aid it with the Shaker Digestive Cordial.

When your stomach is able to digest all the food that your body needs, you will have a good appetite. Not before.

Good food, well digested, means strength and a long, healthy life. Undigested food creates poison which affects the whole body, and may give you headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, flatulence, languor, weakness, mental depression, stomachache, fever, nervousness, offensive breath, anaemia, rheumatism, etc.

All these disorders will be relieved if you will take Shaker Digestive Cordial.

It is a pure vegetable digestive and natural invigorator, which aids the stomach, purifies the system of the poisons of indigestion and makes you strong, fat and healthy.

Shaker Digestive Cordial does not act on the liver, but on the undigested food in the stomach. It cures indigestion or biliousness without irritating the liver or any of the internal organs.

At druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle.

FULLY EXPANDED NAMES.

Progress of the Custom of Using Full Names Instead of Initials.

A recent protest addressed to the Sun against the expansion of the late H. C. Bunner's name serves to call attention to the fact that the habit of using Christian names in full is comparatively new in this country. The habit of bestowing more than one Christian name upon a child was not usual 100 or 150 years ago. Colonial worthies usually had a single Christian name. Few famous men of the revolutionary period bore more than one Christian name. John Quincy Adams was the first president with a middle name, and 16 presidents were blessed with but one single name each. Every president but one since Johnson, however, has had two Christian names, for Grover Cleveland conceals a baptismal Stephen.

Few literary men of the colonial period and of the republic's early years bore middle names. Cotton Mather, John Cotton, Benjamin Franklin, Joel Barlow and Thomas Payne at once come to mind. William Wirt, Washington Irving and Philip Freneau are later examples of the same kind. Perhaps it was the desire to preserve a record of revolutionary and colonial ancestors that led to the giving of two or more Christian names in the first quarter of the century and earlier. At any rate, men with such names began to be conspicuous in politics, literature, art, the church and most other fields before the middle of the century. Edgar Allan Poe would hardly be recognizable masquerading under bare initials. Charles Fenno Hoffman would look equally strange as C. F. Hoffman, and so of two or three other men of the time. But the use of the full first and middle name was not general.

The usual thing was the full Christian name with the middle initial, and this usage was so well recognized, especially as characteristic of politicians, that Lowell's "John P. Robinson" was instantly accepted as the exactly proper cognomen for the character portrayed. Those were the days of the James J. Polks, the Thomas H. Bentons and the Paul H. Haynes, though the old-time simplicity of single Christian names had not altogether disappeared. Even H. W. Longfellow is not an unfamiliar form. Whittier was widely known to his countrymen as John G., and several other famous men who lived well on to the end of the century were popularly known by their initials only, or by the first name and middle initial. James Russell Lowell, who is always spoken of thus at full, habitually signed his letters "J. R. Lowell." He was seldom called by his countrymen, as the English called him, "Russell Lowell."

The taste for using the full first and middle name seems to be confined in this country to literary and more or less fashionable persons. It is still unusual in politics and in business. It is almost general among the literary men that have begun to attract attention within the last 12 or 15 years. Mr. Howells is oftener William Dean Howells than he was 20 years ago, but how many readers of Frank Stockton's books know what his middle initial, "R.," stands for? Society believes itself English in using the full first and middle names, but, as a matter of fact, the usage, save in a formal way, is less common in Great Britain than most persons think. Indeed, the bestowing of a single Christian name seems to be more usual there than here, and while in this country the use of a single initial is accepted almost as evidence of illiteracy, it is not unusual among distinguished and highly accomplished men in Great Britain. An examination of distinguished British names from the fourteenth century to the present time would show comparatively few double Christian names. In literature the men with more than one Christian name are chiefly confined to the present century, and after Byron, Shelley, Coleridge and Swinburne have been named, those of two Christian names are rare.—N. Y. Sun.

Voracious Birds of Prey.

The voracity of the eagle and similar birds of prey is well known, but the contents of a nest which was recently discovered in the Alps by a Swiss hunter shows the following remarkable variety in the daily menu: A hare, 27 chamois feet, four pigeons' feet, 30 pheasants' feet, 11 heads of fowls, 18 heads of grouse and the remains of a number of rabbits, marmots and squirrels.

HIS LEG IS PULLED.

The Way a Southern Congressman Regards His Lot.

"Some people may think that a congressman saves a pile of money out of his salary," said a well-known southern congressman, who was talking to a Washington Star reporter on the vicissitudes of running for office, and especially for congress, "but a man has to be a small walking bank to accommodate the large number of his 'friends' and supporters who need a little money for some urgent matter. In my state we have to make campaigns and appear before the people at meetings. Well, I have never attended a meeting that I did not have some kind of a subscription poked into my face. Somebody wants something for a church and for missionary purposes or for helping some fellow who has been burned out.

"You can't avoid subscribing, and have to head the list with the largest sum. Then about the time you think you are through having your leg pulled some lazy fellow will walk up and say: 'How do, general? I had ter quit my work ter come out and hear you terday, and I thunk yer mout give me a dollar.' While you have the greatest contempt for the man, you give him the dollar.

"When you leave the meeting you are out anywhere from $20 to $50. These are just a few instances of what a candidate has to spend money for. After he gets through the campaign and is elected he has to furnish every dead beat from his district who should happen to come to Washington with money. I've actually given them money and railroad tickets to get home and have them go back and work against me."

ALLIGATOR PEARS.

To Acquire a Taste for Them Is an Expensive Luxury.

Most interesting of all South Florida fruits, because little cultivated, almost unknown outside of the tropics, and most highly appreciated when once introduced, is the alligator or aracado pear—the aguacate of Cuba, says Harper's Round Table. A very few alligator pear trees are grown in sheltered spots of southern California; but South Florida, below latitude 26 degrees, is the only section of the United States where it can be cultivated on a large scale and as a profitable crop. Here it grows as luxuriantly and with as little care as the guava, though it requires a greater depth of soil. The tree is tall, slender, and covered with a dense foliage of dark glossy green, while the ripened fruit also green in color, is smooth-skinned and as large as a man's two fists. Inside is a great round stone or seed surrounded by a soft, yellowish-green pulp, which, sprinkled with salt and eaten with a spoon, or made into a salad, is delicious beyond description. No one ever eats an alligator pear without wanting another, and the taste once acquired demands to be gratified, regardless of expense. I have known 50 and even 75 cents apiece to be paid for these pears, and when I once asked a Broadway dealer which was the most expensive fruit in his store, he promptly answered: "Alligator pears."

Electricity in Heathen Temples.

The temples of India are to be lighted with electricity, the example having been set by the great shrine of Siva, at Kochicarrie, near Mutwall, in Ceylon, and is to be followed by the equally vast and ancient foundation of the Natukotta, in the same island. In no long time others will adopt the same improvement, till all the holy places of the peninsula are so equipped that by pressing buttons they can be instantly illuminated, like a modern hotel or theater. The innovation is enough to make Siva and Vishnu and even the great Brahma himself gasp and stare.

"Bulls" of a Parliamentarian.

Two rather good "bulls" are attributed to the late Sir George Campbell. On one occasion he had been calling attention in the house of commons to some abuse in Indian administration, and proceeded to observe that he had further revelations to make concerning other scandals, in comparison with which this one was "a mere flea-bite in the ocean." Another time, when speaking about military affairs in India, he declared that "the pale face of the British soldier was the backbone of our Indian army."

a million killed
would make no impression on the number of the germs of consumption that exist in one affected lung. All germs are little enough, but those which cause consumption are very minute. Cod-liver oil won't kill them. We don't know a remedy which will. The germs float in the air and we can't keep from breathing them into our lungs. Then why don't all of us have consumption? Because a healthy throat, sound lungs, and a strong constitution won't allow the germs to gain a foothold.

Scott's Emulsion
of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, restores and maintains the strength, increases the weight, heals inflamed membranes and prevents serious lung trouble. This is why it is the food-medicine in coughs, colds, loss of flesh, and general debility.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

H. M. LA FOLLETTE ARRESTED.

Charged with Fraudulent Representations in a Bond Sale.

New York, Sept. 25.—Harvey M. La Follette, formerly a congressman from an Indiana district, who some months ago endeavored to buy and manage the Mercury as a free-silver organ, with the intention of disposing of the property to a syndicate, was arrested at the Hoffman house by Deputy Sheriff Wolgering and spent the night in Ludlow street jail in default of $10,000 bail. The arrest was in an action brought by Harry E. Mooney to recover $27,333 for fraudulent representations alleged to have been made by La Follette that 122 bonds of the Connorsville Gas and Electric Light company sold by him last December and April to Mooney were first-mortgage bonds when in fact there were prior liens on the company's property. In part performance of the contract La Follette delivered sixty-two bonds which were a subsequent lien to another issue amounting to $20,000, and Mooney paid $10,000 in cash. In part performance of a contract for another lot of sixty first mortgage bonds La Follette delivered twenty-two second mortgage bonds and Mooney paid him $9,783.12, relying on La Follett's warranty that the bonds were first mortgage bonds. The control of the Connorsville company was sold to La Follett in November, 1894, by James N. Huston, formerly treasurer of the United States, for $145,000 in stocks and bonds of the La Follett Coal and Iron company, and the La Follette Land and Improvement company, $20,000 in cash and La Follette's note for $10,000.

COLLISION ON A RACE COURSE.

Four Horses Come Together and One Driver Receives Serious Injuries.

Baltimore, Sept. 25.—Four horses went down with their drivers as a result of a collision in the last heat trotted at the Gentlemen's Driving park yesterday afternoon. Three of the horses, after regaining their feet, ran away and made several circuits of the half-mile track before being stopped. Two of them were badly cut up. John Reamer of Philadelphia, the owner and driver of Major Flowers, was severely injured. He was unconscious when carried from the track half an hour after the accident, and the doctors believe he was internally injured. Brawley, Merrefield and Willis received bad falls but pulled themselves out of the wreck with only a bad shaking up. Corie McGregor and Maggie Campbell, driven by Willis and Marrefield respectively, were in the van as the horses passed the three-quarters pole, with the others close up. It was too dark to see just how the collision occurred, and the stories told by the drivers are very conflicting. It is known, however, that Maggie Campbell and Corie McGregor went down in a cloud of dust. Red Blossom and Major Flowers were so close up that they, too, went down. Two of the sulkies were smashed.

AN INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE.

To Look into Affairs of the Massachusetts Benefit Association.

Boston, Sept. 25.—A letter has been sent out by Insurance Commissioner Merrill appointing a committee of five policy holders of the Massachusetts Mutual Benefit association to make an investigation. After referring to the discontent and dissatisfaction among some of the policy holders, the letter say: "The statute authorizing the committee, in case of application of one-tenth of the members in Massachusetts, to appoint a committee of policy holders was enacted, and has now been a law for over three months. No such petition has been presented and it is understood that the attempt to secure the number suggested by the committee themselves has proven a disastrous failure. However, the commissioner, believing that the legislature having indicated through law a plan by which this could be done, although the scheme failed, the suggestion is in a degree in force that the policy holders ought to be entitled by themselves to an examination of the public affairs of the company."

GENTRY'S FAST MILE

The Wonderful Horse Establishes a New World's Pacing Record.

GOES THE DISTANCE IN 2:00 1-2

Clips One Second Off of His Own Previous Record and with More Favorable Conditions Would Have Paced in Two Minutes.

Portland, Me., Sept. 25.—Yesterday was an eventful day for Rigby because the world's pacing record was broken by John R. Gentry, the magnificent horse pacing the fastest mile ever made in harness and placing the world's record at only half a second over two minutes, or 2:00½. Gentry was roundly applauded when he appeared on the track for his great trial of speed. He had been out on the track several times before and had been the centre of all eyes. When W. S. Andrews drove him on the track for the effort to break his record, the air was chilly and a light, northwesterly breeze blew up on the home-stretch. It was to be a great effort, for Andrews was resolved to send his horse for all he was worth. His record before starting was 2:01½, which he made Sept. 8 at Glen Falls, N. Y., in the second heat of the race with Star Pointer. Andrews had given Gentry two warming up miles, and it was nearly sunset when he was ready to start for the eventful mile. Andrews rode his sulkey easily, with an air of confidence, but among the spectators there were very few who believed that the record would be lowered so near the 2-minute mark. A runner appeared with Gentry to pace him. After scoring twice Andrews came down to the wire to begin the fastest mile that was ever accomplished by a horse in harness. The crowd cheered as he approached the starting point. "Go," shouted Starter Culbertson, and hundreds of watches caught the pacer at the start. The runner's nose was within two feet of Gentry's nose as they made the first turn. On the stretch Gentry was going gracefully and steadily, getting over the ground in great shape and the runner had to work hard to keep up. The first quarter was given by the judges as made in 29 1-4 seconds. People began to wonder when the half mile was finished in 59½ seconds and to look for a two minute pace. At this point the runner's driver was using the whip and making a great effort and succeeded in keeping at the wheel of Gentry's sulky. The third quarter was reeled off in 30 3-4, making the time at the three-quarter post, 1:30¼. This was great going and now came the last quarter and home stretch. As the horses turned into the home stretch and caught the wind in their teeth, the crowd began to shout, and hurrah and Andrews shouted encouragingly to his horse. The runner's driver also urged his horse and used the whip sparingly. All this nerved the pacer to a supreme effort and it can be seen how noble an effort he made, for with the wind in his face he made the last quarter quicker than the third quarter, doing it in 30¼, and thus covering his mile in two minutes and one-half second. This was a whole second less than his former record, which had never been surpassed by any horse and only equalled by Robert J. (2:01½) in 1895 at Terre Haute.

PALMER'S DILEMMA.

New York's Secretary of State Without Funds To Carry Out a Provison of Law.

Albany, Sept. 25.—Secretary of State Palmer is in a dilemma. The election law compels the secretary of state to have made a compilation of the election statutes and to have a sufficient number of copies of it printed to enable him to furnish eight for each district, the distribution to the election officers to be made by the county clerks. The last legislature made no provision for the carrying out of this command, and the constitution prohibits a state officer from contracting for any such supplies except there be an available appropriation to pay for them. Secretary Palmer estimates that it would cost $3,000 to make the compilation and about $20,000 for the entire work, including printing and distribution. He has decided to endeavor to secure reasonable figures from a printer willing to do the work and take his chances of securing pay for it from the next legislature. If he succeeds the intent of the law will be carried out.

For Slapping a White Child's Face.

New Orleans, Sept. 25.—As the result of slapping a white child's face at Grenta, across the river from this city, yesterday, two negroes were shot and one was lynched. The negro who struck the child was in a crowd of his color when officers appeared to arrest him. The officers fired and killed two innocent men, and arrested the negro, who was put in jail. A mob soon formed and took him out and hanged him.

National Flower Agitation.

Albany, Sept. 25.—Governor Morton has received a communication from the governor of North Carolina requesting that he name two delegates and two alternates to attend a national convention to be held at Asheville, N. A MAN TO BE MISSED.

Eric N. Erickson was one of those fortunate men who seldom had an ill word spoken of him. His work, whether public or private, was done conscientiously and without that gratitude which some are wont to say arises from "a lively sense of favors to come." The motive that prompted him was that of intuitive honesty. His conscience directed his endeavors in the right path, and he was never blocked by that question of personal policy that too frequently moulds the course of men nowadays. Firm and progressive, yet quiet and unobtrusive, he was a man whose death causes universal regret.

WANTS A LAW ENFORCED.

One ardent member of the Town Improvement Association, whose efforts are directed towards the suppression of the practice of burning leaves in the streets, suggests a method of how best to stop it, which she believes would be an effective and at the same time a lucrative crusade for the city. She has been delving into the city ordinances and finds that there is a fine attached to the act of burning leaves in the streets, and now she suggests that since the street appropriation has been exhausted that all violators of the above ordinance be arrested and the fines utilized in continuing the work of street improvement which has been stopped on account of the deficiency. She urges that a number of bonfires daily sending out a sickly and stifling smudge in the public streets at this time of the year in contravention of what the city fathers have said is proper, would soon provide revenue enough to allow the street work to go forward, and at the same time hold out a warning to all future violators that would be salutary in its effect.

DUNELLEN FLAG UNFURLED.

Lawyer Runyon and Pope the Speech Makers of the Occasion.

The Republicans of Dunellen officially opened the campaign last evening by raising a flag, and listening to speeches on the political questions of the day, by Lawyer Harry Runyon, of Plainfield, and Lawyer Frederick Pope, of Somerville. The celebration brought together a large and enthusiastic crowd of citizens. The Dunellen Fife and Drum Corps was present and enlivened the event very much. At 8 o'clock, the flag was unfurled, in front of Dealaman's grocery store, corner of North and Watchung avenue, while the crowd cheered and the musicians played. A wagon was placed in the gutter near by and was used as a platform for the speakers. Both Mr. Runyon and Mr. Pope discussed the political situation in a fair manner and frequently their remarks were cheered. Mayor Brakely presided at the meeting and he also spoke a few words of encouragement. In all the meeting was a success and will long be remembered by those present.

FOOTBALL SEASON SOON TO OPEN.

A Crack New York Club to be the Y. M. C. A.'s First Opponents.

For the first time in Plainfield last evening, football was successfully practiced out-of-doors at night. The candidates for the Y. M. C. A. eleven met at the Y. M. C. A. grounds and some lively practice resulted. Nearly twenty were present and the prospects for a strong team are exceedingly good.

The bright harvest moon partially illuminated the scene and several gasoline lamps were used to complete the illumination.

The season will open on the afternoon of Saturday, October 3d, with the San Reno Football Club, of New York. It is really composed of members of the New York Athletic Club and is looked upon as a very strong team. The second game will also be played here with the New York Y. M. C. A. eleven that last year scored against the Orange Athletic Club. Other games are being arranged with the Rutgers 'Varsity team, Pennington Seminary, the South Orange Field Club, the Orange Y. M. C. A. eleven and many of the other crack teams of this district. On Thanksgiving Day it is planned to have a class team from one of the leading colleges. Plainfield is to be given a chance to see some of the best football that has ever been played in this city.

THE DAM WILL BE BUILT

THE TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE CONVINCED THAT IT WILL BE SAFE.

A. B. Nelson, the Civil Engineer, Has Examined the Plans and Specifications and Finds No Cause for Alarm Whatever

It now looks as though the building of an ice pond and a dam in Washington Valley is a sure thing. Last evening Andrew Wilson and Harrison Coddington of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, appeared before the township committee, which met at Demler's Hotel, and submitted plans for the construction of the pond and dam. The dam is to be four hundred and forty-four feet wide, with a seventy foot bottom and a ten foot top. The stone work is to be one hundred and twenty feet high. The flood gate is to be five feet wide and eight feet high. The dam is run from the raceway near the Luerssen property property to the Sterling road.

The committee think that so long as a proper flood gate is built, they see no reason why permission to construct the pond and dam should not be given, and it is reasonably safe to predict that the permission will be given. The committee received a petition from ten property owners living near the proposed pond, and they asked the committee to refuse the company the privilege. The petition was laid on the table.

Alfred B. Nelson, a civil engineer, has examined the plans and specifications for the new dam and ice pond of the company, and makes the following optomistic observations:

Having noted in your columns of Tuesday and Wednesday articles about the proposed ice pond being built by the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, which articles have a tendency to create alarm in the minds of some timid residents of Plainfield, I took advantage of an opportunity today to examine the location and work in progress, and, knowing that your aim is to be right, I give you the result of my observations. The company will own upwards of fourteen acres of land but only about ten acres of it will be covered with water. The dam will be of earth and stone. The extreme lenghth on top being 428 feet, 120 feet of which will be a stone core thirty feet high, six feet thick at the buttom and four feet thick at the top, which stone work will be reinforced by an earth embankment thirty-nine feet thick at the bottom. At each end of the stone work, the dam will be built entirely of earth put in in layers and thoroughly puddled. It will reach four feet higher than the overflow, will be ten feet thick at the top, twenty-two feet thick at the water level and sixty-one feet thick at the bottom. The greatest depth of water will be fourteen and a half feet while the average depth will be only five and three quarters feet. These details of construction I got from H. C. Smith, the engineer in charge.

Now, as to the quantity of water stored in this pond and its menace to life and property. There will be stored about 2,500,000 cubic feet or 500,000 barrels of water. This volume of water is less than one quarter of the quantity which falls during any good summer shower upon the land drained by this brook, or less than one quarter the quantity you have had fall upon the city of Plainfield during one hour of rainfall in many of the storms which we have all witnessed. And should there come a storm or flood sufficiently severe to destroy this dam, it would not suddenly give way from the pressure, but by the water being carried over the earthen portion and gradually eating it away; and the "Oldest Inhabitant" has never seen that stream, which is about the size of Cedar brook, increase to a volume of 120 feet in width by four feet deep, which would be necessary in order to wash away the embankments. Or could you by some means cause this dam to suddenly disappear and pour the water out on the valley below, there would be no vertical wall of the maddened elements seeking out human victims, for the valley broadens just below the dam, and the waters would spread over this land before passing through the "Notch," so that by the time it reached Demler's it would hardly overflow the banks.

In fact, this dam is less of a menace to the citizens of Plainfield than the dam at South Plainfield is to the people of New Market and the valley below. And if it is fear for the safety of life or property that called forth the articles which this is intended to answer, let those timid ones go on the ground and examine for themselves, and I am satisfied we will hear no more about it.

SMITH WON'T SERVE.

Democratic State Committee Finally Accept the Resignation.

Senator James Smith, Jr., is no longer Chairman of the Democratic State Committee or a member of the Democratic National Committee. His successors for both of these places were selected yesterday at a meeting of the Democratic State Committee at the rooms of the Democratic League in Trenton. Col. E. Livingstone Price, of Essex, was chosen chairman of the State Committee and ex-Senator Philip P. Baker, of Cumberland, was selected for the National committee. There were ten members of the State Committee present at the meeting: Messrs. Price, Essex; Kuhl, Hunterdon; Keys, Somerset; Lanning, Mercer; Paul, Camden; Braun, Passaic; Wolfskiel, Union; Donnelly, Mercer; Baker, Cumberland; Crater, Monmouth. Neither Senator Smith, E. F. C. Young, nor ex-Senator Blodgett was present. A telegram was received from Senator Smith insisting that the committee accept his resignation as chairman and also as New Jersey's member of the National Committee.

Johnston Cornish was elected chairman of the executive committee of the State Committee. Gen. R. A. Donnelly, who was one of the four persons who, at a meeting of the committee some time ago, voted against endorsing the Chicago ticket, was present at the meeting. His resignation tendered some time ago as member and treasurer of the committee has never been accepted. He continues to remain on the committee at the request of the other members, although he emphatically declares his position with respect to the Chicago ticket and platform to be just what it was when he first declared himself against both. The State Committee has decided upon Newark as permanent headquarters for the campaign.

BEAU BRUMMELL.

At the Grave of a Famous Dandy and Wit.

English visitors to Tilly-sur-Seulles having satisfied their curiosity, turn to Caen, where lie the bones of an Englishman who has left behind an immortal reputation as a dandy and a wit. Beau Brummell, after having been the friend of the prince regent, died in poverty, a friendless imbecile. Born in 1778, George Bryan Brummell was educated at Eton, where he made a name for social aplomb, readiness of repartee and fastidious neatness in dress. He went to the Oriel college, Oxford, for a years. He was presented with a coronetcy by the prince of Wales in the Tenth Hussars, and for some years enjoyed the friendship of the prince, who was afterward George IV. At last they quarreled, but "Beau" Brummell held his own in society until gambling losses made him flee the country. In 1830 he was appointed British consul at Caen. His creditors closed round him, and in May, 1835, he was cast into prison. His spirit seemed to have been broken, and in 1837 he showed signs of imbecility, and died at the Asylum of the Bon Sauveur, Caen, in March, 1840.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Edward Brant, who has been ill for sometime past with malaria, is able to be out again.

Mrs. William Lee is anticipating a trip to Boston to visit her mother-in-law, who is ill.

The receipts at the Scotch Plains postoffice are said to be dwindling away since most of the summer boarders have gone back to the city.

William Lee has, perhaps, the best collection of dogs in the place. He has Irish setters, pointers, fox terriers and others commonly known as the mongrel variety. He also has a large variety of game fowls.

The matter of the alleged $25,000 lawsuit, between two well known business men of the place, seems to be the main topic for conversation among the townspeople here. There may be, however, an amicable adjustment of the matter, and it is to be hoped that will be soon.

Clarence Lamber went bicycle riding from here Tuesday night, after the town meeting, and when about a mile from town, on his way home, he struck an obstruction in the roadway and was thrown from his wheel, striking on his head. His face was badly skinned, his hands cut and he was badly bruised about the body.

Dealers in real estate here say that since the trolley is about to be introduced into the town there is an increased demand for building lots. They further claim, and reasonably, too, that with the advent of the trolley the price of property would be increased and much of the unimproved land would be taken up. Some lots here in town have been for sale for the past ten years but there seems to be no purchasers.

Edgar Miller is a Scotch Plains farmer. Recently he agreed to pasture thirty cows for a specified sum. Each day at noon the dairyman drove his cows home, presumably for the purpose of milking, and came back again soon. Mr. Miller somehow got it into his head that the cows underwent a great change during their short absence. He took the trouble to investigate, and found that the dairyman was pasturing sixty cows instead of thirty. The contract has been declared off, but the cow owner announces that he will seek the aid of the courts to enforce it.

DUNELLEN.

Mrs. J. E. Benner and child have returned to their home in Elizabeth, after a pleasant visit with Mrs. Benner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brown.

The Emorydale station at the Dunellen street car terminus has already proven too small. This is particularly so with the waitingroom. At one time yesterday afternoon there were eighteen passengers at the station waiting for a Plainfield car, and as the capacity of the waitingroom is at present limited to about five grown persons and a child, the other thirteen stood outside in the chilly September winds.

The benefit of the trolley is already heard in the land. One business man says he goes to Plainfield every day and buys everything that is needed in his household, except his groceries, and these he buys in small quartities from the home merchants. He says by spending a dime for carfare he can enjoy the outing—in good weather, of course—and besides he can be better suited and have a larger assortment to select from by going to Plainfield. This seems reasonable, and besides it is understood that some of the Plainfield merchants grant carfare to purchasers provided, of course, they purchase to the extent of $1 or more.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

"Boys will be boys," but you can't afford to lose any of them. Be ready for the green apple season by having DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure in the house. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

The new Maitland house, next to Charles Ward's residence, 28x28 feet in dimensions, is nearing completion. Augustus Runyon has the entire contract for the construction of the new building, which it is thought will be ready for occupancy in less than a month.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A harvest festival was held at the Baptist church Wednesday evening by the Christian Endeavor society of that church and proved very successfull. The attendance was large, for the delightful evening tempted many out and the brisk chilly air made all feel in a lively mood.

WELCOMED HOME BY A SONNET.

Rev. C. E. Herring Given a Reception By the Members of His Church.

"Welcome Home" were the words that greeted Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, when he arrived at the chapel last evening to be received by the members of his church. The women of the church had arranged the reception, which was one of the most pleasant in the history of the church from a social standpoint.

A feature of the evening was the reading by Miss Petrie of some poetry recently composed by Theophilus Bond. It relates in an interesting, yet matter of fact way, Mr. Herring's trip abroad, and it will be read with great pleasure by all who know anything regarding Mr. Herring's trip. The composition is one of credit to Mr. Bond, who is not a novice in writing poetry. The lines are as follows:

Gladly tonight once more we meet
Our pastor and our friend to greet;
Gladly we take you by the hand,
Safely returned from foreign land.
And so with thankful hearts we come
To bid you welcome to your home.
And pray that He who hitherto
Hath led us, may abide with you.
We in the spirit day by day
Oft journeyed with you in the way;
Mourning with you each mishap dire,
Of loosened spoke and punctured tire.
Toiled with you as uphill you sped,
Pushing the loaded wheel ahead;
Saw you with pride once more astride
And coasting down the other side.
Watched with you when the stormy night
Closed 'round you on the lonely height.
When Cremotartaro you bought
And Grane sales vainly sought
Sometimes we hope to hear you tell
Of all the scenes that pleased you well:
Tell of the German river grand,
The snow crowned peaks of Switzerland.
But tell us most of Italy,
Of Venice, rising from the sea,
Of Milan and of Florence, fair,
And all the treasures gathered there;
Of ancient and of modern Rome,
Of Naples, whence you sailed for home.
And lastly, all your perils o'er,
Tell of Hoboken's classic shore.

Those in charge of the reception were: Mrs. Howard Pope, Mrs. Fred Williams, Mrs. Searing, Mrs. William Shotwell, Mrs. Fred Martin, Mrs. J M. Drayton, Mrs. Robert Radford and Miss Agnes Blair. Miss Blair very kindly devoted her efforts to decorating the chapel. During the evening refreshments, consisting of coffee, cake, cream and sandwiches, were served.

—A band of gypsies have arrived in town and are camping on the outskirts.

—The general committee in charge of the firemen's celebration to be held next week Saturday, will hold an important meeting next Wednesday, when all arrangements will be completed.

—A special song service will be held at the Scotch Plains Baptist church next Sunday evening, when it is expected that Whitney Frazee and Miss Jomini, of this city, will assist in the rendition of the programme.

—The new clubhouse of the Boys' Club will be formally opened on the evening of Thursday, October 1st. There will be a number of short speeches. On the following night the boys will be invited to inspect the new clubhouse.

—The caps for the members of the Christian Endeavor choir may be purchased, the ladies' from VanEmburg's and the gentlemen's from U. B. Crane's. The former are white duck Tam O'Shanters and the latter white duck yachting caps.

—Alexander Woolston, of Grove street and Linden avenue, has caught five opossums during the last week. He has quite a number of chickens and recently found a hole in the side of his chickenhouse. He set a trap there and five victims were caught.

Albert P. Simmonds, of this city, is a candidate for half-back on the eleven of the New Jersey Athletic Club.

The whole system is drained and undermined by indolent ulcers and open sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve speedily heals them. It is the best pile cure known. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

REBELS HOLD CAVITE

15,000 Now Occupy the Philippine Island City.

OVER ONE HUNDRED MONKS SLAIN

Many of the Victims Burned to Death Tied to Trees—Names of Some of the Leaders in the Fight for a Republic Known.

Havana, Sept. 25.—Rebels have burned the town of Lagunillas, province of Maranzas. They have also destroyed the sugar estates Olano, near Bolondron; Ozado, near Lagunillas; Santo Domingo, near Guamanaro; San Antonio, near Corrol 'Falso, and buildings on other estates of more or less importance. All of these estates are in the province of Matanzas. The queen regent has commuted the death sentence placed on Octavio Zubizarretas to imprisonment for life.

Rebels Burn a Town.

Madrid, Sept. 25.—A dispatch to the Imparcial from Hong Kong says that steamers which have arrived there from Manila, the capital of the Philippine islands, bring the announcement that Cavite is occupied by 15,000 insurgents. Over a hundred monks have been murdered on the islands since the breaking out of the insurrection. Many of the victims have been fastened to trees, their clothing having been soaked with kerosene oil and then ignited and been burned to death. Rich natives are being arrested daily. Documents have been seized by the authorities in which are given the names of the president and the various other officials of the proposed republic.

FOR STEALING A BICYCLE.

A Young Cadet Sentenced To Prison for One Year Under an Assumed Name.

Buffalo, Sept. 25.—In the criminal term of the supreme court yesterday a young cadet hailing from a small military college on the Hudson river, was sentenced under the name of John Hardin to one year and three months in the Erie county penitentiary for stealing a bicycle. The prisoner admitted that Hardin was not his right name, but he refused to disclose it, saying he would not bring disgrace on his family. To the court he made a touching appeal for mercy, saying that if given his liberty he would make full restitution for his crime, but that if sent to prison it would ruin his prospects for life. The court expressed sympathy for him, but imposed the sentence. It is said that Hardin's parents are wealthy residents of New Jersey.

The Cool Weather.

New York, Sept. 25.—Yesterday was the coldest September 24 this city has experienced in twenty-one years. The temperature at 7 o'clock in the morning was 43 8-10 degrees, which is within eight-tenths of a degree of the record of September 24, 1875, when the lowest temperature in this city was 43. There were frosts in Ohio valley and a portion of the middle Atlantic states, light frosts being reported as far south as Lynchburg and east to Philadelphia, with a heavy frost at Pittsburg and killing frost at Louisville and Northfield, Vt.

Victory for Carthagena Railroad Company.

Colon, Sept. 25.—The government has decided in the matter of dispute with the Carthagena & Magdalena Railroad company that shippers must abide by the rules of the company and pay the freight rates demanded. It demands, however, that this decision shall be subjected to arbitration. It is considered that the action of the government in withdrawing from its original demand that the company carry freight by weight will settle the difficulty.

Death of Theodore Fachiri.

New York, Sept. 25.—A cablegram from Liverpool received at the cotton exchange announced the death in that city yesterday of Theodore Fachiri of the large cotton firm of Fachiri Bros. Mr. Fachiri was one of the charter members of the New York cotton exchange. He was born in Greece fifty-three years ago and was very highly esteemed both in this country and abroad. His firm is one of the largest cotton exporting houses in this country.

Big Oil Fire at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Sept. 25.—The oil tanks of the Waters-Pierce Oil company in St. Louis were destroyed by fire last evening. There were ten large tanks in the battery and it is estimated that they contained nearly 150,000 barrels of oil. The tanks were at such distance from other property that the flames were confined to the Waters-Pierce plant. No estimate of the loss can be made at present, but it is very heavy.

Bessie Bellwood Dead.

London, Sept. 25.—Bessie Bellwood, the music hall singer, who became widely known through her relations with the Duke of Manchester, and subsequently with the late Marquis of Ailsbury, died last evening from heart disease. She was 39 years old.

Wants $5,000 for Personal Injuries.

Providence, Sept. 25.—James Donnelly has brought suit for $5.000 against the Union Railroad company. He was hurt a year ago by being thrown out of a wagon that was struck by an electric car.

Request for Tynan's Extradition.

London, Sept. 25.—A dispacth from Paris to a news agency here states that Great Britain's request for the extradition of P. J. Tynan, the alleged dynamiter, has been received by the French government.

Nominated for Assembly.

Middletown, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The republicans of the Second assembly district of Orange have renominated Louis Bedell for the assembly.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE COAL DEMON

has an insatiable thirst for money, hasn't he? Eats it up faster than anything else, doesn't he? The only way to save money on coal is to get the most for your money—to get clean, solid coal that will burn down to fine ashes without stopping half way between coal and ashes. We know we can give you perfect satisfaction, but don't want you to buy here until you know it.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

A WONDERFUL SEAWEED.

Has a Stem Sometimes Three Hundred Feet Long.

One of the most extraordinary seaweeds among the Laminariaceæ is the Nereocystis, the stem of which occasionally attains a length of 300 feet, though extremely slender, even at the top, where it is surmounted by a huge floating bladder six feet or seven feet in length, that affords a favorite resting place to the sea otter. This plant is found on the northeast coast of America and the opposite shores of Asia. The filiform stem, which is about as thick as pack-thread, suddenly swells above, when two feet or three feet long, into a globose bladder, from the top of which springs a tuft of germinate leaves mostly rising on five petioles. As the plant grows older the stem increases enormously in length, but only slightly in thickness. The globose bladder swells into a turnip-shaped or retort-like cyclinder, six feet long and four feet six inches or more in diameter in the widest part, the lower extremity gradually passing into the stem. The leaves, which at first were marked with a few faint nerves, split in the direction of the latter, cover a wide space by their entangled mass, and attain a length of 30 feet or more. When the plant grows in any quantity, it forms large floating islands, and the surface of the sea becomes impassable to boats. The stem, when dry, is employed by the Aleutians for fishing lines, some of which have a length of 40 or more fathoms. The large bladders are used by the same people as syphons for pumping water out of their boats.—Fishing Gazette.

UNHAPPY AUSTRIA.

Her Only Capable Parliamentary Party Is Broken by Dissensions.

The cruel humiliation Austria suffered in Italy was followed by the crushing blow at Sadowa, and the not less painful collapse of a brother's ambitions in Mexico, says the Saturday Review. If the dignity of a Caesar was to be saved for the Hapsburgs out of the wreck, it seemed most likely to be achieved on the lines suggested by Count Beust. The choice once made, it was impossible to turn back. What is given as a boon to distressed nationalities in the name of progress cannot afterward be withdrawn on the plea of prudence. The result is pathetic, but there is no help for it.

We see Croats, Ruthenians, Poles, Servians, Wallachs and the rest of the half-barbarous hordes cutting one another's throats when they are not combining to insult the civilized Hungarians and Germans, whose fate it is to be their neighbors; we see Vienna itself in the hands of a fanatical anti-Semitic rabble, and we see the power of the only capable parliamentary party in Austria broken by hopeless dissensions. Truly, the domestic state of the empire is nothing less than pitiable. Its influence in Europe is also a thing of the past. The Balkan states, which were its props in the south, have publicly gone over to Russia, and its solitary remaining protection against dismemberment is the alliance with Italy, which covets Dalmatia, and with Germany, which is moving heaven and earth to establish secret relations with Russia.

CAPTURING ELEPHANTS.

Sport That the Maharajah Occasionally Indulges In.

The enterprise is organized for the amusement of the maharajah, and takes place only once in about four years, else the forest would be denuded of big game. A small army, consisting of about 5,000 men and perhaps three elephants and a few horses, take part in the hunt, says Chambers' Journal, and they carry tents and provisions, just as if a campaign against a powerful enemy were in progress. When the pad marks of the elephant are found he is steadily tracked down, and as soon as he is found a trained fighter of his own species is urged against him.

As a rule, he steadily retreats upon sight of his pursuers, and their object is to press him so as to tire him out. He then stands at bay, and the tug of war commences. The opposing animals butt at one another with their heads down, and should one show his flanks, he is quickly brought to earth. When finally conquered, the wild elephant is pressed by his pursuers toward water, of which he is so much in need after his exertions that his hind legs can be shackled as he drinks. He is then kept attached by ropes to other elephants until he gradually becomes accustomed to bondage, and in a few months he is completely under control. The sport is a bloodless one, and the elephants when captured are most kindly treated.

A WOMAN'S HOUR.

A Man's Entire Day Could Not Be Filled More Completely.

"Please state to the court exactly what you did between eight and nine o'clock on Wednesday morning," said a lawyer, according to the Chicago Chronicle, to a delicate looking little woman on the witness stand.

"Well," she said, after a moment's reflection, "I washed my two children and got them ready for school and sewed a button on Johnny's coat and mended a rent in Nellie's dress. Then I tidied up my sitting-room and made two beds and watered my house plants and glanced over the morning paper. Then I dusted my parlor and set things to rights in it. I washed some lamp chimneys and combed my baby's hair and sewed a button on one of her little shoes, and then I swept out my front entry and brushed and put away the children's Sunday clothes and wrote a note to Johnny's teacher, asking her to excuse him for not being to school on Friday. Then I fed my canary bird and gave the grocery man an order, and swept off the back porch, and then I sat down and rested for a few minutes before the clock struck nine. That's all."

"All!" said the dazed lawyer. "Excuse me, judge, I must get my breath before I call my next witness."

THE ALLEGED DYNAMITE PLOT

Edward J. Ivory, Alias Bell, Arraigned in the Bow Street Court.

London, Sept. 25.—Edward J. Ivory, alias Edward Bell, the American saloon keeper who was recently arrested at Glasgow, charged with being connected with the alleged dynamite conspiracy of which P. J. Tyana is said to be the moving spirit, was arraigned at Bow street police court yesterday. C. P. Gill, who acted for the treasury department as prosecutor, said that the prisoner's real name was Ivory, and charged him with conspiring with Tynan, Kearney and Haines to cause dynamite explosions in the United Kingdom and also with aiding and abetting dynamite offenses. Mr. Gill claimed that the four men mentioned left New York in August, and said it was quite clear that they were supplied with money sent to this country by a Fenian organization in New York for the purpose of going to Antwerp, preparing bombs and dynamite, and then securing men in London and Glasgow to commit the actual explosions. The date of September 15 had been fixed upon as the time for the last step of the conspiracy. Mr. Gill further said that on September 11 Kearney and Haines, who were at Antwerp, concluded they were being shadowed, and telegraphed Ivory to come right away, as the business was stopped. Ivory objected and pointed out how he would disappoint his friends if he returned to America without concluding the business. A long letter to Tynan was also read, in which Ivory charged Tynan with "hugging the shores of France too much," and not forwarding the cause enough. The prosecutor than gave the details of the arrest of Ivory, who, he said, claimed he was an American journalist. Later Mr. Gill stated that infernal machines of a new pattern were found in the possession of Kearney and Haines when they were arrested. The formal evidence of the arrest of Ivory was then presented. After evidence had been furned of meetings between Ivory and his so-called fellow-conspirators at Antwerp, the case was adjourned until to-day.

MISSIONARY SCHOONER LOST.

Foundered in the Pacific After a Severe Storm—No Lives Lost.

San Francisco, Sept. 25.—The South sea missionary schooner Josephites Evaneila is reported to have foundered at sea in longitude 147 degrees west, latitude 14 degrees 30 minutes south, on July 26. The news was received in advices brought by the Tahiti brig Tropic Bird. The Evaneila was sailing between Pomuto and Tahiti, when she was caught in a storm, which so strained her that her seams opened and she filled and sank. Capt. McGrath, the cook and several missionaries who were on board took to the small boats, none too soon to save themselves from being carried down. After drifting about for twenty-six hours they were picked up by a southbound vessel and landed safely on the island of Tahiti. The Evaneila was built on this coast not long ago. It cost about $40,000 to construct her and fit her out.

MESSAGE FROM LI HUNG CHANG

The United States the Model Government of Western Civilization.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Acting Secretary Rockhill has received from United States Commercial Agent Peterson at Vancouver, B. C., the following dispatch under date of Sept. 4: "At an interview given the consuls of this city on board the steamship Empress of China, just prior to her departure for Hong Kong to-day, his excellency Li Hung Chang, viceroy of China, requested me to become the bearer of the following message to my government: 'I was greatly impressed by the courtesy and kindness extended to me by the government of your country, which I regard as the model government of western civilization. I shall ever retain the most pleasant memories of my visit to the United States, and I desire to make my greetings to your country most cordial as I now take leave of America.'"

Opening of Cornell University.

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Cornell university opened for the fall term yesterday, and president J. G. Schurman made his annual address to the students. He spoke of the vital issuses of the campaign, referring to it as the most important since the civil war. As to the college registration he stated that 550 new students had registered, an increase of 61 students over last year. Reference was made to the recent death of Prof. Albert Nelson Prentiss, and President Schurman paid a tribute to him as a profound student of botanical science and a loyal, kind-hearted gentleman.

The Discount Rate Advance.

London, Sept. 25.—Yesterday's gold withdrawal from the Bank of England was arranged before an announcement that the governors at their meeting had advanced the minimum rate of discount a half per cent., but it is believed in good quarters that the rise to 3 per cent. is not likely to check exports to America. Gold will probably go to-day to Egypt.

Puget Sound Drydock Accepted.

Washington, Sept. 25.—The navy department has finally accepted the great drydock at Puget sound and released the contractor by giving him the last payment, including those reserved. This action provides the government with facilities for docking and cleaning the largest ships at any time of the year.

Soby Cup Series.

Hartford, Sept. 25.—Hartford easily defeated Paterson in the first game of the Soby Cup series by a score of 13 to 3. The rules for this series provide for only one coacher and players who kick at the umpire are fined.

GAY DAYS AT CANTON

Major McKinley's Home Town in Holiday Attire.

BUSY RECEIVING THE MANY VISITORS

Two or Three Excursion Trains with Delegations of Republicans, Many in Uniformt and with Their Own Brass Bands, Arriving Each Day.

Canton, O., Sept. 25.—This city is in the midst of a veritable fete which promises to continue until election day in November. Every day two or three excursion trains arrive bringing delegations of republicans, many of the visitors being attired in uniforms of their different clubs and with brass bands and banners march through the streets to the home of Major McKinley to pay their respects to the republican presidential nominee and to assure him of their support at the polls. The town is profusely decorated with flags, banners and bunting, many of the decorations having already been displayed for two or three weeks. Yesterday three delegations called on Major McKinley. The first composed of miners from West Newton, Pa., arrived shortly before noon. The next was the McKinley and Hobart club and first voters' club of Oil City, Pa., and forty-five pretty young women of that city, each representing one state of the union. The third and last delegation was from West Moreland county, Pa. It was largely composed of miners and glass-workers and numbered 3,000 men. Major McKinley was in excellent condition and spoke with clearness and vigor. His first speech was made in response to the remarks of W. S. Van Dyke, who spoke for the delegation of miners from West Newton. Major McKinley said that it gave him sincere pleasure to meet and greet all of his fellow citizens who were assembled there, and he said it would give Mrs. McKinley great pleasure to meet the young ladies who wree the bearers of beautiful flowers, representing our glorious and unbroken union.

NEW YORK GOLD DEMOCRATS.

Daniel G. Griffin of Waterton Nominated for Governor—The Ticket.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The democrats of the state of New York have placed this ticket in the field: For governor—Daniel G. Griffin of Watertown. For lieutenant-governor—Frederick W. Hinrichs. For judge of the court of appeals—Spencer Clinton of Buffalo. The convention of the national democracy adjourned from the session held at Syracuse, Aug. 31, met last evening in the Academy of Music in this city and completed its work by naming a ticket for state offices and electors for Palmer and Buckner. The action of the regular democrats at Buffalo in endorsing the Chicago platform and the ticket was denounced, and that at Indanapolis endorsed.

Wanamaker Talks to Farmers.

Towanda, Pa., Sept. 25.—Hon. John Wanamaker of Philadelphia addressed a crowd of 12,000 persons at the Bradford county fair grounds yesterday afternoon. He spoke of the cause of the hard times and of the prosperity of the country under the Harrison administration, and reviewed at length the improved condition of the postal service. In the evening he spoke in Hale's opera house to a large audience, taking for his subject the political issues of the day.

Ex-Mayor Stuart Speaks at Asbury Park.

Asbury Park, N. J., Sept. 25.—Ex-mayor Edwin S. Stuart of Philadelphia addressed a large open air mass-meeting last night of republicans and gold democrats. Gen. James F. Rustling of Trenton also addressed the meeting.

Split Over a Congressman.

Stroudsburg, Pa., Sept. 25.—At the Democratic congressional conferene of the eighth congressional district the Northampton and Carbon county conferees placed Laird H. Barber of Carbon county in nomination. The conferees of Monroe and Pike counties refused to take part in the conference unless congressman J. J. Hart be renominated. The requests were refused and the conferees of Monroe and Pike counties formed a separate organization and nominated J. J. Hart.

Imperial Council of Friends.

Boston, Sept. 25.—At the afternoon session of the Imperial Council, United Friends, it was voted to change the headquarters of the imperial council from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to New York city. There was a good-natured contest between Albany, Rochester and Saratoga, N. Y., and Washington, D. C., for the holding of the session of 1897. Albany finally won by a close vote.

Death of a Well-Known Cricketer.

Brisbane, Queensland, Sept. 25.—Percy McDonnell, the well-known cricketer, who has been suffering from heart disease for some time past, is dead.

Croker Did Not Arrive.

New York, Sept. 25.—Richard Croker was not a passenger on the steamer Germanic, which arrived last night from Liverpool, as was expected.

SPORTS

FRIDAY, Sept. 25th. Sun rises 5:50 a. m., sets 5:53 p. m. Lanterns must be lighted between 6:53 p. m. and 4:50 a. m.

Cyclists desiring to join the League of American Wheelmen will be furnished with application blanks and necessary information by addressing the Cycling Department of the Daily Press.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Isaac Titsworth, of Dunellen, is now playing on the scrub team at Rutgers College.

Charles C. Brower drove James Arkell's trotter "Highland Boy" in 2:18 at Lynbrook, L. I., last week.

Arthur B. Crane, of East Second street, and Walter E. Probasco, of Dast Front street, have returned from a very enjoyable bicycle tour through the State.

Ex-Judge W. A. Coddington, John Beerbower and J. E. McClintock, left town yesterday for Forked River, where they will spend their time hunting and fishing.

When Peter Simmonds, one of Plainfield's colored riders, came out on the track, Harry Clark remarked: "How much like Fred Titus he looks," and then everybody noticed that the colored man's features and build strikingly resembled those of the great rider, Fred Titus, who is now suspended from the track for life.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

The return match between the Dunellen and the Plainfield Independent Gun Clubs took place yesterday afternoon at the latter's grounds in North Plainfield and resuulted in another victory for the Independents, as per the following score, the conditions being 25 targets each. The contesting teams consisted of six men. The score:

Plainfield.		Dunellen.
Smith, C.	24	Runyon, D.	24
Adleman	19	Osborne, P.	14
Jay, P.	23	Giles	18
Williams, 21	21	Lindzey	21
Wedemeyer	20	Warden	19
Wheeler	17	Sisty	20
	124		116

The shooters were favored by a beautiful day, and the visitors were pleased with the picturesque surroundings of the grounds. The third match will be shot at Dunellen, Thursday, Oct. 8th.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Thomas Brantingham has shipped his horse "Myrtle Twig," 2:24½, to Mt. Holly to trot this week.

C. C. Brower shipped the trotter "Highland Boy" from Lynbrook, L.I., to Minneola, L. I., Tuesday, and he trotted there yesterday.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The boys of the North Plainfield High School are planning to organize an athletic association and will then apply for membership to the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association.

—W. L. & J. M. Smalley, of 94 Somerset street, announce the following prices: Sugar cured ham, 12 cents; sugar cured shoulder, 7 cents; extra fine native beef, Jersey lambs and pork, their own make of sausage, spring ducks and chickens. They guarantee their meat to be the best or money refunded.

Marked a Birthday.

Councilman Wm. Westphal and wife, of West Fourth street, entertained a few friends at their home last evening in honor of Mrs. Westphal's birthday anniversary. Sociability and music were features of the evening, and refreshments formed a pleasant side issue. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Newcorn, Mr. and Mrs. Stiglitz, Mr. and Mrs. Holstein, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Westphal, Miss Flora Pope and Mr. Smith.

Big Republican Meeting.

On Friday night, October 2nd, the Republicans of this city will hold a monster mass meeting in Music Hall. The speakers will be Hon. Frank Plumley, Ex-United States District Attorney of Vermont, who is acknowledged to be one of the very brightest speakers from that State. B. S. Greed, of Topeka, Kansas, will be the second speaker. He also comes well recommended.

price of produce would be doubled, but the fact remains that it would not and we would have cheap money in the bargain. During the past twenty-five years the supply has exceeded the demand in all commodities, but this you will find is all due to the labor-saving machinery which has been introduced." In closing his remarks the speaker paid high tribute to McKinley and Hobart and protection. His remarks were heartily applauded throughout. Assemblyman Chas. A. Reed was then introduced. A digest of his remarks follow:

"I am glad to see so many women present. It shows that they have an interest and there is every reason why they should have. Money was created for them and we men who have wives and sweethearts work all the harder for money so as to give it to the women. If it was not for that fact the incentive for securing money would be absent.

"There used to be a wide difference between the two political parties, but that time is past. The time arrived when it was necessary to have a new theory in addition to the tariff, and that theory has turned out to be silver, which has recently been flaunted in our presence. Now, to have a clear conception of the money question one must go back to its origin. When the world was young there was no money. When a man found something that he wanted he took it. That was the medium of exchange. Later it was decided that if a man earned anything it belonged to him, and still later it used to be the custom to exchange animals, etc., instead of buying, as we do now. Then we secured the third commodity, which was money. Silver and gold were selected as the best metals for money, and after it was discovered that one was worth more than the other the relative value of the two metals was ascertained, and a parity was maintained through an act of Congress. One ounce of gold will bring a standard price without the government stamp on it, while in the case of silver the dollar is only worth the value which is stamped upon it. If the stamp on the silver dollar is defaced the coin is only worth 53 cents."

Mr. Reed then went on and gave reasons why the free and unlimited coinage of silver was sought, the object being to help the silver mine owner. His address was well received and frequently applauded. After the band rendered a selection the meeting adjourned.

AN IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL.

The Final Obsequies Over the Remains of the Late Mrs. Schoettlin.

Exceedingly impressive were the funeral services of the late Mrs. Mark Schoettlin, which were held this morning at 9 o'clock from the house, 16 Linden avenue, and later from the German Reformed church. Rev. Geo. Hauser officiated and a short service was held at the house. At the church Mr. Hauser conducted the service both in English and German. The attendance of relatives and friends was very large and included a large delegation from the singing section of the Gesang and Turn Verein, who rendered several appropriate selections. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes consisting of two large pillows bearing the inscriptions "Wife" and "Mamma," a crescent of white roses, an anchor of white roses with a base of pink roses, a star of white orchids and several bunches of cut flowers.

Mr. Schoettlin's associates in the Prudential Insurance Company's office gave a large broken column of white chrysanthemums, orchids, violets and maiden-hair fern. After the services the remains were taken to Elizabeth, where a short service was held at the home of the decedent's mother who, owing to illness, was not able to attend the services in this city. Interment was in Evergreen Cemetery, Elizabeth.

An Autumn Event.

A pleasant September event occurred last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Western, of Washington Park, when their daughter, Miss Fanny Western, entertained a few friends in honor of her guest, Miss Ethel Marsh, of Washington Heights, N. Y. The chief feature of the evening was an apple race, which afforded great amusement. Dancing followed and was enjoyed until a late hour, when refreshments were served. Those present were Miss Louise Pangborn, Miss Clara Fellows, Miss Gardner, Miss Georgia Fountain, Miss Gertrude Hazeltine, Miss Ethel Marsh, Miss Fanny Western and Harry Drake, Charles McNabb, Chas. Hazeltine, Robert Terrill, J. H. VanWinkle, Jr., and Rowland, George, William and Percy Western.

[illegible] Quartette—They Are Still Alive.

The greatest dinner that I ever sat down to, says Watterson in the Courier-Journal, consisted of a leg of mutton, dressed with mustard, a bit of hot wheat bread, and some fresh butter, with half a jug of fine whisky to wash it down. It was in front of New Hope church in the summer of '64. Some one had sent Eustis a leg of mutton. Some one had sent Yeatman a large pill box of butter. Bragg, Gen. Polk's cook, had some flour. Eustis and Yeatman invited Gov. Harris and myself. The governor happened to have a key which fitted Gen. Polk's medicine case. All of us united in making the robbery of a vial of Irish whisky, the general himself being absent, and that was the dinner! Glorious dinner!

Please God, the quartette still survive to tell the tale, which they do whenever they meet and can get an audience. Eustis is in Paris, ambassador, the same cool, self-possessed man in diplomacy he used to be under fire; able, brave and lazy. Harris—touching the eighties—is the dashing, brilliant, impetuous boy he was 32 years ago—and, silver or gold, or neither, I look toward him as I write! Yeatman, obtrusive only in his courage on the battlefield, lives the life of cultivated leisure and unambitious rusticity which delighted him most when he was both younger and richer than he is, though he still has his ancestral acres.

That was a dinner.

NO AUTOGRAPHS FOR HER.

Servant Girl Had No Use for the Check She Received.

A certain family, whose home is in the suburbs of London, have in their employ, says Amusing Journal, a cook, whose ways are invariably so methodical and her cooking so near perfection that, were she to leave her present home, one-half of the mistresses in the district would be eager to secure her services. Never by any chance has dinner been late at the Myrtle villa, or the joint under or over done, neither has any policeman crossed its threshold. But, treasure that she is, she came near to making a change of residence at the close of her very first month's stay.

On the morning of the day upon which her wages became due, her mistress requested her to step into the study, where her master was waiting to pay her. In a few moments she rushed from the study to the kitchen, where she had left her mistress, and in less time than it takes to narrate had given that astonished lady notice.

"But whatever is the matter, Mary?" inquired her mistress. "What has your master said or done to annoy you?"

"He hasn't said nuthin'," replied Mary, as she flourished a check in her mistress' face, "but he's on'y given me this for a month's slavery. Not me; I ain't no ortygraph collector, I ain't."

REPRODUCED IN OREGON.

The Red Sea Miracle Often Seen in Link River.

It is a well-known fact that at certain times of the year Link river, a stream a mile and a quarter long, which connects the great water systems above and below this point, becomes almost dry, says the Klamath Falls Express. This state of affairs, however, lasts, as a rule, but a few hours, during which time people have been known to walk across the river, 300 feet wide, without getting their feet wet. The bottom of the river has been dug out in many places by the action of the water, forming large potholes, and when the river becomes dry these holes are filled with trout, which are left stranded. At such times it is a common occurrence to see men and boys knocking the fish on the head with clubs, and in this way secure many a good meal.

There are many traditions regarding this phenomenon among the Indians here, but the real cause of the low water in the river is the action of the wind. The course of the stream is southeast, and the high winds which prevail in the spring and fall are from the south, and blow up the river. The outlet from the upper lake being small, the force of the wind keeps the water back in the big lake, causing the river to become very low.

A FRENCH INCIDENT.

Cyclist with a Broken Leg Wins a Race.

A fatal cycling accident happened recently at Maison Laffitte. Two young Englishmen, F. Morris, the steeplechase jockey, and F. Davis, first stableman in the employ of L. Robert, the trainer, had arranged a bicycle match of six kilometers from the Maison Laffitte railway bridge to the Croix de Noailles and back. They had almost completed the race when Morris, who was a little ahead, looked back to see how far Davis was behind, and in doing so he left his machine run against the curbstone. The unfortunate rider came to the ground and broke his leg below the knee. Morris, who was following close behind, could not avoid his fallen opponent and was thrown heavily to the ground, where he remained insensible.

Disregarding both his own broken leg and his friend lying motionless on the ground, Morris, in his anxiety to win the race, mounted his bicycle and soon reached the winning post, with one foot on the pedal, the other hanging useless on the opposite side. Davis was then carried home, but he died during the night.

Indian Basket Makers.

A delegation of Indians from the Grand Ronde reservation make an annual outing trip to Portland, Ore., every year in time to attend the Fourth of July celebration, and if possible a circus. They have tents and come in wagons, some having two horses and some four. The ostensible purpose of their visit is to sell baskets. These they make from hazel twigs, heated in the fire till they are rendered tough and pliable, and the bark peels off easily.

DEATH OF MRS. PROBASCO.

Died Very Suddenly at Her Home After a Brief Illness.

The death of Mrs. Probasco, wife of Dr. John B. Probasco, of East Front street, which occurred this forenoon at 11:15, was a great shock to the community, who did not know that she was seriously ill. During the past week she has been confined to the house and her death resulted from heart failure, with which she had been affected since an attack of grip several years ago. She was fifty-five years old and was the daughter of the late Insley and Margaret Boice, of South Plainfield.

She has been a resident of Plainfield many years. She leave a husband and three sons, Frank, Norman and Walter, also two brothers, Calvin and Luther Boice, of South Plainfield, and a sister, Mrs. John Stelle, of Madison avenue.

Mrs. Probasco was a member of the First Baptist church and a thoroughly conscientious Christian woman. The even tenor of her life was a marked trait, and won for her many friends.

One of the sad features of her death was that her husband was away from home on professional duties when she died.

The funeral will probably be held on Monday.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

SUING FOR A DIVORCE.

A LONG RUMORED SOCIFTY SENSATION BECOMES A REALITY.

Mrs. George W. Endicott Institutes a Suit for Absolute Divorce and Alimony From Her Husband—Names Six Corespondents

What has been rumored and gossiped about in society circles for some time past, has at last become a reality—the institution of divorce proceedings by Mrs. Tillie C. Endicott against her husband, Dr. George W. Endicott, of Park avenue and East Seventh street. The suit is for absolute divorce upon statutory grounds.

Mrs. Endicott, through her attorneys, McCarter, Williams & McCarter, of Newark, has filed a petition for divorce in the Chancery Court at Trenton. She sets forth that she was married to Dr Endicott on November 10th, 1879, and that one child, George W. Endicott, Jr., now six years old, is the result of the marriage. The offences charged against her husband, are numerous, and cover a period of six years.

She names six co-respondents, among whom is a domestic servants and women mingling in the best of society.

The bill says that these persons are all residents of Plainfield, but the offences which Mrs. Endicott claims have occurred took place in several parts of New Jersey, chiefly at Asbury Park and Long Branch.

Mrs. Endicott asks the Court to allow her temporary and permanent alimony and award her the custody of her child. The defendant has until October 20 in which to file his answer.

At present Mrs. Endicott is stopping at the boarding house of Mrs. Kirk, diagonally opposite the Endicott residence on the corner of Park avenue and Seventh street. A Press reporter saw Craig A. Marsh, Mr. Endicott's counsel, this morning, but he had nothing further to say than what appeared in the New York Herald this morning, which was as follows:

"I do not care to discuss the subject at this time, but I will say that we deny absolutely that there is any truth in Mrs. Endicott's accusations. At the proper time we shall prove that they are false." Mr. Marsh refused to say if Dr. Endicott intended filing a cross bill.

HIS AIM WAS POOR.

Otherwise Joseph Tice Might Now be Charged With Murder.

Joseph Tice and John Traynor, of the village of Scotch Plains, have not been on the best of terms for some time past, and the climax was reached yesterday when Tice aimed a shot gun at Traynor and blazed away. It might have been murder but it wasn't, for the aim was poor and the shot missed the objective point. However, Tice was arrested and held by Judge Clark in the sum of $200 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Nor is this all. Traynor swore out a warrant for the arrest of Tice, charging him with confiscating $25 from Traynor's house within the past three or four weeks. Tice was also held in the same amount for the Grand Jury.

More New Fall Goods.

Six large cases of new fall goods were received at Edsall's Commercial Palace again yesterday. Several cases were dress goods, which, in addition to the new stock already received there, Mr. Edsall says comprises the largest and most complete stock this house has ever carried. In the finer grades one dress pattern of a kind only has been selected, so that there will be no duplicates sold. The prices are just as low or lower than the same goods are sold for in New York, and the styles are right up-to-date.

To Light the Drive.

The contract between the North Plainfield Township Committee and the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, for lighting Somerset street from Johnston's drive to Demler's corner has been consummated. Eleven lights will be located along that thoroughfare, and the company was given permission to erect poles for the wires.

New Cars Here.

Two of the new enclosed cars for the Street Railway Company were unloaded from the cars at the old freight house, yesterday afternoon, and run down an improvised track to the Fourth street route, and thence to the car house on West Fourth street, where they will be put in shape for a trial run early next week.

John Kenney Stumping for Bryan.

An odd-looking image was perched on the top of a telegraph pole on the corner of Front street and Park avenue early this morning. It was in the shape of a rag-man and was placarded to the effect that "John Kenney is stumping for Bryan." It caused much laughter and John didn't care one bit.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY.

The Emoryside Station Withstood the Assault of Prowlers, However.

People have been known to rob banks and get away with the boodle, but one of the latest pieces of depravity was the attempt made on Thursday night, or early yesterday morning, to rob the waiting room at the Emoryside end of the street railway at Dunellen. Mr. Emory and his faithful clerk had gathered up the day's proceeds and securely fastened up the place before going home late at night. The next morning when entering the place it was evident that some one had either been in or else made a desperate effort to get in. Investigation showed conclusively that the doors and windows had all been tried, and a coal chisel had been used in trying to pry open the wooden shutters, but without success. On the floor inside several boxes of cigars, fruits and candies lay strewn promiscuously about, yet nothing was known to be missing. The building is rudely staked to the earth, and the jar caused by trying to open the window, caused the cigars and fruit to drop from the shelves.

HACKMEN ARE HEARD.

They Vigorously Defend Themselves But Make Some Admissions.

The hackmen of Plainfield are excited, or, at least, several of them were this morning, for the crusade that acting-Roundsman Totten started a few days ago, came up in the city court. The four who had pleaded not guilty, John Keeley, John Lynch, Michael Higgins and Thomas Burns, were tried and the Judge reserved his decision until next Saturday.

The testimony was very contradictory, several of the offenders admitting that it was a common practice to edge up toward the curb.

There was another offender, Charles Barry, whom acting-Roundsman Totten arrested before he made a big haul. He was also charged with soliciting custom from the curb, and although he vigorously denied the charge, the evidence was too strong against him and the Judge fined him three dollars.

SUCES HOLIDAYS.

Rabbi Gorwitz Following Out an Old Hebrew Rite.

The Hebrews of this city are now observing what is known among the race as the Suces holidays, which last for nine days. The celebration commenced last Monday and will continue till next Wednesday. The first two and last two days are observed strictly, while the intermediate five days are not so closely kept. The observance is in accordance with an old Hebrew custom, and one of the fundamental principles in connection with it is that during the nine days the Hebrews are supposed to live in rude huts, which represents the sojourn of the Children of Israel in the wilderness. With some it is impossible to do this, but Rabbi Gorwitz is following out the Hebrew rite, with the exception that he does not sleep in the improvised hut which he has built in the rear of his yard.

Nearing the Century Mark.

Two candidates were initiated and three propositions were received into Central Lodge No. 48, A. O. U. W., Thursday evening. The latter will be initiated at the next meeting when the Grand Master Workman and District Deputy and Grand Lodge officers will be present to celebrate the admission of the one hundred members. Thursday evening, in the good of the order, S. C. Baker, C. H. Randolph, L. J. Spicer, C.C. Smith, and Clark T. Rogers, gave short addresses, recitations, vocal and instrumental music. The programme was followed with a smoker.

Got a Farm in Exchange.

G. Q. Dolliver, of Fairview avenue, has exchanged the house wherein he now resides and a house and lot on Manning avenue, where he formerly resided, with John Ross, of LaGrande avenue, for a farm of 100 acres on Clinton avenue, Piscataway township. The deal was consummated by the genial Charley Lyman. The many friends of Mr. Dolliver will be glad to know that he and his family do not intend leaving Plainfield, for the present, at least.

Former Plainfield Girl Married.

Miss Lizzie Schermerhorn, of Athens, Pa., formerly a resident of city, was married to Nathaniel P. Moody, of Frenchtown, Pa., on Wednesday evening of this week by Rev. G. A. Cure at the residence of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Moody are now visiting Mrs. Moody's uncle, C. H. Schermerhorn, of Madison avenue.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is an antiseptic, soothing and healing application for burns, scalds, cuts, bruises, etc., and cures piles like magic. It instantly stops pain. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

HAS A COW ON HIS MIND

FRANK L. C. MARTIN REGRETS HIS STEP INTO THE DAIRY BUSINESS.

Afflicted With a Bovine and a Calf He Finds But Little Real Pleasure in This Life—Anxious to Get Rid of It.

Frank L. C. Martin has a cow. And the bovine has a calf And between the two the bicycle dealer has been having all kinds of trouble.

They arrived at his barn several weeks ago and Frank discovered that there is considerable difference between a cow and a bicycle. Now a bicycle doesn't eat and will usually stay where you put it, but not so the cow. All the resourses of the bicycle store did not furnish anything for the mild-face creature to devour, for, unlike the goat, the cow cannot live on gas pipe and rubber shoes as naturalists agree.

The calf was of a very inquisitive frame of mind and Martin was at a loss how to keep it around without locking it up in the darkness of the stable. He stood guard over it with a spare spoke as a goad and at last fastened it up with some tire tape.

The question of pasturing soon disturbed his peace of mind. He proposed taking the animal out to a neighboring farm on a tandem but somehow the confounded thing wouldn't go, so he had to give up an hour of his well-earned rest and drive the thing to an open lot. Nobody had ever objected to his pasturing his bicycle where ever he wanted to, but somehow a cow was different and residents of Park avenue and West Eighth street seriously objected to getting up in the morning and finding the cow enjoying a meal off their choice shrubbery or placidly chewing her cud in the middle of the flower bed.

The thoughts of that awful cow so filled his mind that he began to dream of escorting the bovine to the next Assembly and all sorts of other terrible adventures. At last he decided to get rid of the cow and the calf. Now Martin can sell bicycles in the most up-to-date fashion but when it comes to cows, he is not in it. At last, he devised a scheme to entrap some unway Plainfielder into taking the cow and he is now persuading all his friends to take a chance on the two. It is hoped that he can find some one to relieve him of the awful responsibility of providing for that cow and her calf.

TONGUES WAGGED AT COURT.

And They Kept On After the Case Was Adjourned.

The city court was pursuing the even tenor of its way this morning when the case of John and Thomas Brennan was called. The offenders came to the front and pleaded not guilty to the charge of using indecent language and threatening to thrash somebody. They were talking to the Judge about how the man that made the complaint was really the guilty party and that they could bring witnesses to prove it.

Quietly a man rose up in the audience and remarked:

"I want this settled at once."

"Well, it won't be settled at once," snapped out one of the prisoners in a tone so loud and shrill that everybody jumped. The man in the audience was going to reply and had his mouth wide open but before the words came he subsided under a stern "Silence" from the Judge. The case was adjourned for a week and the arguers departed with their tongues wagging at a speed that would have left Tommie Cooper, Eddie Bald or any of the other crackajacks far in the rear.

Gashed His Hand.

W. L. Smalley, Sr., of Craig place, cut his left hand severely this morning with a butcher's knife, while cutting a chicken at the meat market conducted by his sons on Somerset street. The knife slipped and inflicted a deep gash from which blood flowed profusely. The injury was attended to at once and no serious results are feared.

Twenty-Five Indictments.

The Somerset County Grand Jury completed its labors yesterday, and the members were discharged with the thanks of the Court. A batch of twenty-five indictments was brought in, and the trial of these will probably keep the court in session for at least three weeks.

A Ministerial Treat.

Grace church parish is promising itself a treat in listening tomorrow night to the Rev. Lloyd Appleton, of the City Missions, New York City. Mr. Appleton graduated last June from the General Theological Seminary with high honors, taking the prize for extemporaneous preaching.

Speed and safety are the watch words of the age. One Minute Cough Cure acts speedily, safely and never fails. Asthma, bronchitis, coughs and colds are cured by it. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

THE RACES ARE NOW ON.

CRESCENT WHEELMEN'S CIRCUIT MEET ATTRACTING A BIG CROWD.

The Crack Circuit Chasers Will Return Here Next Week and Continue Training Training, as the Oval is in Condition.

Everything is ready and if it doesn't rain, the National circuit meet of the Crescent Wheelmen will take place this afternoon and generally distinguish all connected with it. Of course you are going but even so, don't forget to look at Monday's Daily Press and read a full detailed account of all the races.

Plainfield will not lose the big riders directly after the meet after all. They will all go down to Trenton Monday morning to take part in the National circuit race meet there in the afternoon. Then, however, they will return to this city and spend the remainder of the week training at the Oval for the Vim Bicycle Club's meet at Waverly Park, next Saturday. The Oval has found favor in the eyes of the racing men and is much better than either the Trenton or Waverly track while the training quarters here suit them very well, hence the decision to remain in Plainfield.

Although yesterday was the day before the meet the racers were out on the track both morning and afternoon. In the morning, Harry C. Clark, the Denver flyer, and A. C. Mertens, winner of the two mile handicap at the Quill Club Wheelmen's meet, had a lively brush. They rode five miles, pacing alternately and ended in a rattling finish with Clark a length ahead, making the distance in twelve minutes flat.

Eddie Bald did some fast work in the afternoon all alone and then a big push of the fast men occupied the track and made some fast time. There was a large crowd out at the Oval, especially in the afternoon, and several ladies were numbered among them.

Of late, there has been a great tendency among many riders to use large gears. The circuit chasers, however, as a usual thing, ride comparatively low gears. Walter Sanger and Harry C. Clark, are the only two prominent professionals to ride an 80 gear while Bald, Cooper, Zeigler, Gardiner and the others ride with their wheels geared to 76, 74 or 72.

Ray MacDonald arrived in Plainfield yesterday afternoon all ready for the fray. He has not been on the circuit long having returned only comparatively recently from across the water. Like many of the other crack riders, he is quite short. A smooth face, usually developed into a smile, distinguishes him.

New Arcanum Lodge.

G. N. Buzby, special Deputy Grand Regent, who has been in Plainfield for several days looking into the advisability of starting another Arcanum lodge in this city, has decided to do so and on Monday evening next the formal application for permission to start the lodge will be made to Plainfield Council, No. 711. Twenty-nine members have signed the petition as charter members of the new lodge. Dr. Ben Hedges will be the medical examiner.

Baptist Rallying Day.

The Sunday-school of the First Baptist church have a "Rallying Day" programme for tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. In addition to exercises by the main school and primary class, Dr. Yerkes will speak, Miss Addie Parker Jackson recite, and the soprano and contralto soloists of the church choir sing.

William Jones, of Randolph's pharmacy, will leave tonight for Baltimore and Washington where he will spend his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tilney, of Boston, arrived in Plainfield this morning, and are stopping with Mrs. Tilney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Murray, Sr.

Mr. Charles S. Lewis, the basso of the Crescent Avenue church choir, has made his home in this city at 925 Watchung avenue. Mr. Lewis has been identified with the musical circles in Boston and New York.

HOW TO GET STRONG.

Physical Development for the Purpose of Leading an Upright Life.

The following has been written about William Blakie, who is to deliver the first lecture on "How to Get Strong!" in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course next Tuesday evening:

"He opposed the exhibition of feats of strength and the development of one part of the body at the expense of the other parts, and advocated physical development for the exclusive purpose of enabling a man to lead his body to serve the highest purposes of life. What he said carried conviction to the very large and enthusiastic audience. It was the most practical lecture we have heard on the subject, admirably delivered, popular in style, witty, well illustrated, and positively Christian in its tone and spirit. We wish that not only every member of the association, but that every young man and old man, too, in New York, might have heard Mr. Blaikie. We hope that our lecture committee may be able to secure him for a lecture in next year's course. We desire to urge the lecture committees of other Young Men's Christian Associations in the United States and Canada to secure Mr. Blaikie for their popular courses of lectures. His lectures are as interesting and profitable to women as to men. We depart from our usual course in thus calling special attention to a lecture, because we are so fully convinced that what Mr. Blaikie has to say is just what the young men and young women of America need to hear."

YOUNG SPICER MAY GO FREE.

Investigation Shows that the Death of James Ernest Was Accidental.

County Detective Keron has been investigating the death of seven-year-old James Ernest, at Tremley, who was hit with a clamshell by Willie Spicer, a twelve-year old colored boy, and later died of lockjaw as a result of the cut inflicted on his mouth by the shell's sharp edge. It seems that William Ernest, the dead boy's older brother, first threw the shell at young Spicer, hitting him on the leg. The negro hurled it back and it struck young Ernest.

Detective Keron had a talk in the jail yesterday with young Spicer, who is still kept in ignorance of the deadly result of his act. The authorities are puzzled to know what disposal to make of the case, as the investigation shows no malice was entertained by Spicer when he threw the shell. There will be no inquest, Detective Keron says, and he thinks there is nothing left for the court to do next Wednesday but declare it an accident and release the prisoner.

A Young Woman Dead.

Miss Annie Glennan died at her home on Elizabeth street, yesterday afternoon from intermittent fever and heart trouble. She had been ailing for some three months and her death was not altogether unexpected. She was beloved by all who knew her, and her death will cast a gloom over a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

The funeral will take place from the house on Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m and from St. Mary's church at 3:15 o'clock. Two of the societies of the church, with which the decedent was prominenty identified, will turn out at the funeral in a body.

Thursday Night Whist Club.

The organization of the Thursday Night Whist Club for the season took place on Thursday evening last, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Western, Washington Park, and the following officers were elected: President, A. T Gallup; vice-president, Horsely Barker; secretary, Mrs. B. R. Western; treasurer, Mrs. A. M. Hannigan. The first meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Western, Thursday evening, November 5th. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Amthor, and Mrs. Taggart have retired from the club, and new members have been chosen in their places.

Pleasant Afternoon Party.

A very enjoyable party was given to Miss Ida May Wallander yesterday afternoon by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wallander, of West Sixth street, in honor of her tenth birthday. The afternoon passed very pleasantly and all were very sorry when the time came to say good bye. Those present were the Misses Eda Westphal, Bessie Richards, Mamie Richards, Mildred Coleen, Edith Coleen, Lulu Vail, Issie Randolph, Mary Hall, Emilie Conde, Nellie Bird, Nellie Larue, Lottie Benner and Hannah Brandt.

Thacher Out.

New York, Sept. 26.—John Boyd Thacher, has declined the nomination for Governor on the Democratic state ticket.

Charles W. Nichols, of North avenue, leaves Monday for a several weeks trip in south Jersey.

ON THE MORAL ISSUES

DR. LEWIS CONDEMNS FREE SILVER FROM THE PULPIT.

Argues That it is a Plot of the Silver Barons and Nothing But Ruin Can Come From its Adoption in This Country

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis delivered a sermon in the Seventh-Day Baptist church this morning on "The Moral Issues in the Presidential Campaign." A portion of his remarks follow:

"As to free silver, remember that labor, muscle or brain is the only creator of value. Law may affect values; it cannot create them. Money is crystalized and transferable labor. The civilized world measures this by the gold dollar standard. All contracts hitherto made with us, national or individual, rest upon this basis. If this nation creates a new standard without the co-operation of other nations and without adequate safeguards to honesty in adopting the double standards, we attempt repudiation. That is dishonest. A few silver barons have accumulated an overplus of silver which shares with wheat the decline in the markets of the world. These men seek to secure the stamp of the goverment on this silver, without restraint, in order to raise its value from 52 cents to $1.00. If this could be done, or should it be attempted, it would be most unjust and unrighteous class legislation, which would temporarily enrich the few at the expense of the many and finally engulf all in worse ruin. It would be sinful on the part of the government to do this, and the more so because these "Barons," working for years, have deluded many people into believing that good would come to all by such a course. If the government should declare that 24 inches make a yard or 16 quarts a bushel it would not be true.

"The supreme moral issue of the campaign comes in the fact that one candidate for the presidency, evade it as he may seek to, is pledged by platform and personal avowal to one of the worst forms of Anarchy, and that at the dictation of the governor of a state, who has shown his support of Anarchy in many ways. This Anarchy is slightly veiled under the proposition that the United States may not interfere in the affairs of any State, until asked to do so by the executive of that State. It is the moral and political treason of the doctrine of "States rights," which has been once settled by this nation on the field of battle.

"It is an echo of the 'Debs Rebellion,' an odor from the fires of the Chicago strike. A President of the United States who should carry out that doctrine would deserve the title of 'Destroyer.' Russian Nihilism and French Communism of the worst type lie like foul serpents under that plank of the platform on which its candidate stands. He may not purpose it, but the possibility and this probability of National Anarchy are both there.

"This is the hour for Christian patriotism, for manly firmness against the folly of misguided men. Existing evils cannot be cured by creating false standards, nor cultivating lawlessness. We want none of anarchy born of Old World despotism and driven to our shores by the bayonet of those who have helped to give it birth. Our evils can be cured by patience, industry and honesty. They will be helped beyond computation when our savings banks receive the millions which now flow into saloon and brothel. We need '16 to 1' in favor of purity, temperance and Christian manhood. Sixteen churches to one saloon, and sixteen honest statesmen to one selfish silver baron, who would prostitute the sacred functions of Government to make him sixteen times a millionaire at the expense of the honest labor he now seeks to delude."

A Decade of Work.

The Workers Training Class of the Y. M. C. A. will hold its opening session tomorrow at 9:15 a. m. in the Directors' room on the third floor. Visitors will be gladly welcomed. Ten years ago today the first class was organized. It supplies a knowledge of how to apply the Word to those who desire to be useful in Christian service.

Surprised by the Bicycle Boys.

Miss Beatrice Snell, of Brooklyn, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsay, of West Front street, and is one of Brooklyn's most popular contralto singers. A surprise was tendered to Miss Snell Friday evening by a visit from the bicycle boys. Among those present were E. C. Bald, Arthur Gardiner, Tom Cooper, Ziegler and others.

A hacking cough is not only annoying to others, but is dangerous to the person who has it. One Minute Cough Cure will quickly put an end to it. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

CAUSED A SENSATION

Williams' Speech Excites the Bryan Meeting at Boston.

INVECTIVE AND DIRECT ACCUSATION

Mr. Bryan Greeted by a Large Gathering on the Commons and in Music Hall—Mr. Sewall Speaks and Says He Will Not Retire.

Boston, Sept. 26.—William Jennings Bryan arrived in Boston at 5:37 last evening. The delegation to meet Mr. Bryan consisted of Robert Treat Payne, jr., Timothy M. Coakley, F. A. Hobart, Major Henry Wynn, Frederick Crawford and Ernest C. Marshall. Hon. George Fred Williams came in on the train with Mr. Bryan, having gone on a train to Springfield to meet him. A great crowd was at the depot to see Mr. Bryan. The police had great trouble in keeping the people in order. Again and again the police made a noble stand to control the crowd, but each time they were forced up against the train which brought Mr. Bryan in. After a few minutes Mr. Bryan appeared upon the platform of his car. There was a cheer and a mighty rush by the crowd. The police resorted to force, as they were obliged to do, and at last pushed the crowd back and made way for Mr. Bryan and Mr. Williams. The candidate then walked through the station to Kneeland street, the crowd yelling all the time. When he finally reached Kneeland street, where his carriage was in waiting, the crowd in the street which filled the whole neighborhood, cheered and yelled. Mr. Bryan quickly entered the carriage and was driven to the American house, where, after a short reception at which a few members of the Bimetallic union and Hon. Arthur Sewall of Bath were present, he took luncheon with political silver men. At the close of the dinner Col. Nickerson introduced Hon. E. Moody Boynton, who welcomed Mr. Bryan to Boston. Mr. Bryan responded in a few serious words. It was then ten minutes after 7 o'clock and Mr. Bryan was due to begin speaking on the common at 6:45. It was 7:30 before he finally arrived there and he found gathered about the temporary stand that had been erected near the corner of Beacon and Charles streets from 50,000 to 75,000 people. Police officers said that the crowd numbered at least 50,000 people. Mr. Bryan said it was the largest gathering he had addressed. It was a howling, pushing, good natured, police-resisting crowd. Mr. Bryan was introduced by James H. Mellen of Worcester. After the cheers had subsided, he began his speech, which was confined chiefly to she money question and contained but few points not already covered by the speaker.

Sewall Says He Will Not Decline.

When Mr. Bryan had finished Mr. Sewall stepped upon a chair beside Mr. Bryan, who introduced him in the following words: Fellow citizens, I introduce to you a man who way up in Maine was willing to stand for free coinage when his neighbors were against it. I introduce to you a man who was in favor of an income tax although he had to pay it. I introduce to you a man who did not bow the knee or worship the gold calf. I introduce Arthur Sewall, the democratic candidate for vice-president." Mr. Sewall was received with applause and spoke briefly. Said he: "It is with great satisfaction to me that you have had this opportunity to see the great leader of the democratic party, your candidate for president. And I may say that it is a great satisfaction to me to let you know that his associate is still on the ticket. Some have asked whether I was no the ticket or not. I am glad of the opportunity to show you that your nominee for vice-president during this campaign will not decline until after election."

Williams' Sensational Speech.

After the close of the open air meeting Mr. Bryan was driven to Music hall where a great audience had already assembled to get a view of the democratic nominee. But the chief interest in this meeting was not the young candidate for the presidency, but in a sensational speech delivered by his friend and supporter and former colleague in congress, George Fred Williams, candidate for governor before the democratic state convention which will meet in Music hall to-day. The first demonstration of the evening was when Mr. Williams came on the stage from the wings. A cheer went up as Williams was recognized. Mr. Sewall's entrance also called forth applause and the disorder lasted for several minutes. Mr. Dennison called the meeting to order and presented Mr. Williams and the audience finally settled down to hear what Mr. Williams had to say. They heard something they had not expected.

Direct Accusations.

It was a speech full of invective and direct accusation. Josiah Quincy, mayor of Boston was criticized by the speaker and his name was hooted by the audience. Secretary Robinson of the Democratic state central committee was accused of moral irresponsibility. The most sensational part was toward the close, where Mr. Williams, addressing the delegates to the state convention, who were in the hall, requested them to remain until the meeting was over to draft a bill of equity to present to a judge, or to stay in their places until 11 o'clock tnis morning, when the convention will meet, to prevent the state committee from packing the house with "its heelers," to quote Mr. Williams, and thus take the temporary organization from the rightfully accredited delegates. The cheering and disorder became intense when Mr. Williams proposed this method of outwitting his opponents."

NOT A NOODLE.

The Farmer Did Not Care to Stop the Wedding.

I was standing on the corner of Hawk and High streets when a frisky-looking old farmer came to me, says a writer in the New York World, and said excitedly:

"Stranger, does a minister of the Gospel live in yonder brick house with the green blinds?"

"Rev. Mr. Sawyer lives there," I replied.

"Thank goodness," he said, with a sigh.

"Sickness in your family?" I asked.

"No sickness there, stranger," he replied, "but daughter Libbie run away frum hum with a feller this morning. Soon's I heard of it I started after 'em an' got sight of 'em jes' outside the city an' kep' sight of 'em till they went into yonder house."

"Why don't you go into the house and stop the wedding?" I asked.

"Stop the weddin'? Me? Say, stranger, do I look like a noodle? Do I look like a gawk that would kick at havin' 35 years of care an' worry lifted off his shoulders in a minute?" he asked sarcastically.

"Not exactly," I replied.

"Guess not, stranger. I jes' run after the guilty pair to keep 'em from changin' their minds. I'll jes' wait here as happy as an angel with a new pair of wings 'till the happy pair come out, then I'll give 'em my blessin' an' hurry hum an' kill the fatted calf. Stop the weddin'? Nixey."

MUST OBEY HIS OWN LAW.

Why the Bartender Refused to Sell His Boss a Drink.

Because a man makes a law he may not always break it with impunity. Hiram Clayton, who keeps the Branchtown hotel and is quite a well-known character, made a rule some time ago for the government of his barroom, says the Philadelphia Record. He decided that when a man went to sleep in his barroom that was sufficient evidence that the man had had enough to drink. Upon awaking, therefore, the sleepy one was promptly refused any more liquor. The rule was rigidly inforced both by Clayton himself and by his brother-in-law, who acts as bartender. One day recently, however, the rule proved to be a boomerang. Clayton was sitting in his barroom. It was a very warm afternoon and the host gradually dozed off into a sound sleep. Some time later a customer came in. He wore heavy boots and the noise of his entrance awakened Clayton. The latter sat up and rubbed his eyes. "Come an' have somethin', Hi," said the customer. Clayton stood up against the bar and sleepily called for a beer. "Sorry," said the bartender, "but you can't have any drink." "What!" yelled Clayton, who was now thoroughly awake. "It's against the rules; you've been asleep," said the bartender, seriously. He stuck to it, and his boss realizing the justice of it was obliged to give in. The rule has since been abolished.

KIPLING'S LITTLE JOKE.

How He Gave Out a Policy for the Australians.

Rudyard Kipling is usually represented as being very cold and distant to young newspaper men, and proof against their efforts to interview him. There is evidently a kind side to his nature, however, as is shown by a story that is told by the Literary Digest. In regard to the statement in an Australian paper that he landed on that island at 12 o'clock and 16 minutes later "had formulated an Australian policy," Mr. Kipling, according to the Digest, makes the following explanation: "A young reporter cornered me just after I landed. I treated him kindly, but said firmly that I was not to be interviewed. 'I have not thought of interviewing you,' replied the reporter, with a sadness in his voice. 'I ask a much greater favor than that.' It turned out that the reporter had an Australian policy which he knew would be of the greatest benefit to the country. No paper would print it. His modest request was that Kipling would let him put forth his theory as the scheme of the novelist. 'They will print it,' he said, 'if I give it as coming from you.' 'All right,' agreed Kipling, 'fire ahead.' So the young reporter got in four mortal columns telling the people of Australia how to govern their country. 'I never read the article,' Mr. Kipling placidly says, 'but there must have been amazing theories in it from the storm it raised.'"

Meaning of the Fleur-de-Lis.

The uniform of English drummers must be familiar enough to every Englishman, yet few know the significance of the spotted lace with which their tunics are decorated. The blue spot is the celebrated fleur-de-lis of France which, being worn by the highest ranks in the French army, was, as a mark of military superiority, bestowed by the prince regent upon the lowest ranks.

Technical Instruction in Farming.

The duke of Bedford has placed at the disposal of the technical instruction committee of the Bedfordshire county council a farm of 275 acres, 149 of which are arable land and the rest grass. Twenty boys are granted free scholarship by the county council, entitling them to two years' board, residence, and instruction in the science and practice of farming.

PERILOUS SITUATION.

Hardrocks Narrowly Escapes a Scene with His Wife.

"I see," said Mrs. Hardrocks, as she crumpled up her morning paper, "that you are advertising for a typewriter."

"Yes," her husband replied. "I had to come to it. My business is of such a nature that the pen won't do any more."

"Humph!" his loving wife returned, staring at him hard. "And I see that you say in your advertisement: 'Must not be too old, and must come with a good supply of ribbons.' I want to know what you mean by putting such things in the paper over your name. I shall be the one to decide whether your typewriter is too old or not and whether she has enough ribbons or not. Have you ceased to care for me that you can deliberately"—

"Pardon me for interrupting you, Angelina," said Mr. Hardrocks, "but I am merely advertising for a typewriting machine—not the other kind."

"Oh!" the lady retorted, "I hope you don't think it makes any difference to me whether you have a typewriter or not, or what kind of a one you get."

"Oh! dear, no! I couldn't think that for a minute," Mr. Hardrocks returned. "I know that you are one of the most sensible little women in the world, and that you have the confidence in me that I deserve. Of course, if you don't think I ought to have a typewriter, why, I'll not get one. I guess we could worry along in the old-fashioned way."

"Not for the world," his wife said, as she kissed him at the door. "You must have one, dear; and get any kind you want."

"By Jove!" said Hardrocks to himself, after he had secured a seat in the car, "I'm almost sorry now that I engaged that little brunette."—Cleveland News-Herald.

An Unexpected Answer.

On a recent Sunday night a minister was preaching in Belfast, when a young man in the congregation, getting weary of the sermon, looked repeatedly at his watch. Just as he was in the act of examining his timepiece for the fourth or fifth time, the pastor, with great earnestness, was urging the truth upon the conscience of his hearers. "Young man," said he, "how is it with you?" Whereupon the young man with the gold repeater bawled out, in the hearing of nearly the whole congregation: "A quarter past eight!" As may be supposed, the gravity of the assembly was very much disturbed by the occurrence.

Health

Depends upon keeping the blood in a pure condition, free from disease germs, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla cleanses, vitalizes and enriches the blood, throwing out the impurities that clog and irritate the system and permits no lodgment of the seeds of disease. Read the following:

"I cannot recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla too highly for it has done wonders for me. I was

and all run down and my health was so poor I could not get out of doors. I was not able to do anything, being troubled with asthma and heart disease. I was nervous and could not sleep nights. I had become completely discouraged when I happened to read an advertisement of Hood's Sarsaparilla and concluded to give it a trial. After taking the first bottle I felt better and since taking five bottles I am so much improved that I feel like a new man. I am now able to do a fair day's work and sleep at night. My heart does not trouble me and I have realized great relief for asthma. I feel full of courage once more and life seems brighter and worth living. I would recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all afflicted as I have been, for I know it will help them. If this statement of facts will be of benefit, you are welcome to use it as you please." HENRY J. WRIGHT, Box 502, Oxford, New York.

A Great Battle.

Do consumptives recover? Yes, thousands of them. Even after the disease has a firm hold? Yes, no doubt about it. After cavities have been formed and hemorrhages have occurred? Yes, even then. If the system is too weak, the disease will probably conquer, but if the body can be reinforced there is a fair chance for a winning fight. For twenty years, thousands have testified how they gained the victory.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with the Hypophosphites is still coming to the rescue. Out-door life, fresh air, and good pluck are of immense value. But in addition to these the body must be supplied with that peculiar kind of fat which is found only in cod-liver oil; combined with valuable medicinal agents; and there must be the tonic effect which comes from the hypophosphites. It is a great battle, and a great victory is often gained.

"Just as Good" is not SCOTT'S EMULSION.

FIGHT BETWEEN ELKS.

How the Patriarch of the Drove Demonstrated His Prowess.

A writer in the last issue of the American Field had a very interesting paper on "Hunting Big Game in the Rockies," in which he depicts a combat between the chief of a band of elks and a number of valorous but indiscreet young bulls of the same family.

After leaving camp and hunting the mountains for a distance of four or five miles he came in sight of a fresh sign, followed it up, and soon found a band of perhaps a hundred elks, cows, calves and bulls, going to the windward. They soon crept up within 50 to 75 yards of them. There was one old bull among them who seemed to be chief of the harem. He came out into an open park and challenged the other bulls to combat. Pop and Van were lying flat in the timber taking in the circus. The old patriarch would whistle, and soon a young bull would answer him and trot out ready to take up the challenge, and fight for some favorite. They would spar around for some little time, for points, then back off and rush together like two battering rams, bellow and tear up the earth. One such round would usually end the fight, and the youngster would take to the timber, fully satisfied. Another challenge from the old patriarch and another young bull would appear on the ground to take up the gauntlet, only to get an awful drubbing and be sent back to the timber cowed. This challenge was given and accepted by four different bulls, and all were beaten back to their corners and over the line. After two hours of hard fighting he called time on the old bull and shot him.

WHEN DAYS WILL BE LONG.

Eventually Each Will Be as Big as a Month.

Do you know that the day, which is now only 24 hours long, is slowly increasing in length, and that it will eventually be 25, 26, or even 100 hours in length? This statement, strange as it may sound to one who has not read the results of observations made on that score, is believed to be true in every respect.

Not only will the earth's motion slow up until the day will be one, two and three times as long as it is at present, but this pace-slackening process will increase with time, until the day will eventually be a week or even a month in length. The "retarding medium," which the astronomers speak of as being the cause of this phenomenon, is not fully understood at present.

Sir Robert Ball says that it is the friction of the tides which is responsible for the most of it. He urges that the time will come when the day will be a full year in length! Others among the investigators along this line declare that it will be absolutely impossible for this day-lengthening process to increase beyond one lunar month.

HER WEDDING PRESENTS.

The Princess Maud Now Possesses Forty-Eight Wheels.

It is evident that Princess Maud, who married Prince Carl of Denmark, will not lack for means of locomotion, says the London Letter. The parents of the bride and the aristocracy having presented their gifts to the young bridal couple, they are now being followed by the numerous towns, counties, shires and guilds. Among the presents received there are not less than 48 ladies' bicycles, for it is known that Princess Maud is an enthusiastic wheelwoman. There are wheels of almost every class, make and of the most varied constructions and executions, some adorned with engravings and others with inscriptions. Besides the wheels the princess is the recipient of several dozen motor carriages, some driven by steam, others by petroleum motors, compressed air and electricity. Since the exhibition of wedding presents is still fashionable in aristocratic England, the show of Princess Maud's wedding gifts looks very much like a cycle show or an exhibition of motor carriages.

Suicide in Austria.

Austria is suffering from an epidemic of suicide. Vienna had 207 suicides during the first six months of the year, which is double the average for the last ten years. At Lemberg, in the same period, seven soldiers in the Thirteenth infantry regiment killed themselves.

Virtue's Crown of Roses.

The crown of roses and the title of the Rosarie for one year is given annually as a prize for virtue in some of the provincial towns of France, notably in Nanterre, a little town near Paris. The city confers the crown of roses and other gifts upon the fair maid who has been pronounced worthy by the municipality, who have met in solemn convocation to consider the merits of all the maids of the town.

GOLD IMPORTATIONS

Movements of the Yellow Metal to This Country Continues.

SEVERAL BIG ENGAGEMENTS ABROAD

A Further Sum of $2,300,000 Taken from the Bank of England for Import—More Than $3,000,000 Brought in During the Past 24 Hours.

New York, Sept. 26.—The importation of gold into the United States, which began a few weeks ago, stil continues. Lazard Freres, it was announced last evening has engaged to import to this country $1,300,000 in gold by the steamship Augusta Victoria and $600,000 by La Bourgogne, making a total of $2,100,000. This gold comes from the Bank of France. It was also announced that $200,000 in eagles had been sold yesterday afternnon by the Bank of England for export to this country. The Hamburg-American line steamer Normannia, which arrived yesterday from Hamburg, Cherbourg and Southampton, brought $3,250,000 in gold coin. Of this amount $2,000,000 was for Lazard Freres, $500,000 for Kuhn, Loeb & Co., $500,000 for the Bank of Montreal and $250,000 for Ladenburg, Thalman & Co. The consignment to Lazard Freres was sent to the treasury and no doubt all in due course will be added to the treasury reserve. Legal tender notes were taken for half of it so that the treasury reserve gained $1,000,000 at once. The treasury gold reserve also gained a further sum of $150,000 deposited by the Produce Exchange bank in exchange for legal tender notes.

Confident Feeling in Financial Circles.

Besides the gold received by yesterday's steamers, the St. Paul, which arrived last night, had $400,000 on board. The transfers of currency to the west and south yesterday from the subtreasury were very light. Sterling exchange was inactive, the actual rates being the same as on the previous day. A very confident feeling prevailed in financial circles. Next Thursday the interest on the old 4 per cent. United States bonds will be due and the treasury will have to pay out $5,596,000, of which sum about $4,200,000 will be disbursed through the sub-treasury in this city. This disbursement will tend in slight degree to the further relaxation of the money market. The treasury's gold balance of course will not be affected by the payments, except that it may relieve the banks to that extent of the necessity of depositing so much gold in exchange for greenbacks.

SHORT OF MAIL SACKS.

The Flood of Campaign Literature Swamps the Postal Facilities.

Washington, Sept. 26.—The activity of the headquarters of the various presidential nominees in sending out public documents and other literature has somewhat embarrassed the postoffice department by overtaxing its mail bag facilities. The result was an order issued to postmasters throughout the country directing all surplus mail equipment to be promptly forwarded to regular depositories; also that when mail sacks containing documents or other matter are received by any postmaster, they must be emptied at once and promptly forwarded to the proper depository. If members of congress or others have been permitted to take from a postoffice sacks containing matter addressed to them, the postmaster should demand the immediate return of such sacks and forward them with other surplus.

Reunion at Springfield.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 26.—At the annual reunion of the Forty-sixth regiment held at Grand Army of the Republic hall yesterday these officers were elected: President, Major S. S. Spooner; vice-presidents, Lieut. Gideon Wells, Lieut. W. S. Loomis, Capt. A. Campbell, G. Ceath, G. M. Dustin, Capt. F. D. Lincoln, Capt. F. C. Cook, Lieut. R. Dewitt and Capt. John Avery; secretary, S. Bryant; treasurer, G. W. Turner. Resolutions on the death of Col. Schurtleff were adopted. The attendance was remarkably large. After the business meeting adjournment was made in order that the veterans might hear Bryan.

Defeat of Philippine Rebels Reported.

Madrid, Sept. 26.—An official dispatch from Manila, capital of the Philippine islands, says after three days' fighting at Rehazada the insurgents were repulsed with the loss of fifty men killed, including their leader, Cabecillafuen. A dispatch to the Imparcial from Manila says that the insurgents have occupied eight villages near Cavite, and that they have considerable supplies of arms and food.

The Recent Massacres at Kharput.

Constantinople, Sept. 26.—It now appears that 1,000 Armenians were killed during the recent massacre at Egin, in the Kharput district, and it is reported that 100 Armenians have been killed at Divrig in the same villayet.

London, Sept. 26.—The Turkish embassy has telegraphed verbatim to the porte Mr. Gladstone's speech delivered at Liverpool.

Raines Law Special Agents.

Albany, Sept. 26.—State Excise Commissioner Lyman has appointed the following special agents under the Raines excise law: William H. D. Sweet of Albany, a veteran; Fred'k J. Bryan of Binghamton, N. Y., and Menze W. Johnston of Farmer, N. Y., a veteran.

Prohibition Nomination.

Fort Plain, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The prohibitionists of Montgomery county have nominated William Platner of Fort Plain for member of assembly.

SWINGING AROUND THE CIRCLE.

Like all the politicians, Billy Kirk is swinging around the circle in the endeavor to capture the Shrievality nomination. Thursday he invaded Rahway, and here is what the Newark News correspondent has to say of his visit:

William T. Kirk, of Plainfield, who is after the Republican nomination for Sheriff, was in Rahway last night, accompanied by Chas. J. Fisk, of Plainfield. Kirk hopes to capture the Rahway delegates to the county convention. His most formidable opponent is ex-Freeholder Houston, of Elizabeth. Mr. Kirk, however, says he will sweep Plainfield, and, it is claimed, will secure the delegates from a majority of the townships, and if he gets Rahway this will, it is claimed, give him the nomination.

KEYS FOR CONGRESSMAN.

When the Congressional convention of the Third district is held at Somerville next week, former Senator William J. Keys will loom up as a prominent candidate for the honors of the convention. Though at first quoted as a dissenter from the Chicago platform and candidates, Mr. Keys later on declared his loyalty and is now an ardent supporter of them. It is conced there is a fighting chance for a Democrat in the Third district this year.

The Middlesex County Republicans have nominated A. S. Church, of South River, for Sheriff; A. C. Litterst, of Menlo Park, and James Fountain, of Madison, for the Assembly.

—Tomorrow will be Rallying Day at the Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church.

—A reception to the parents of the pupils in the North Plainfield High School will be held this afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock.

—At the Congregational Sunday School tomorrow afternoon, the pastor will conduct a moral review exercise. Mr. Bond will lead the singing.

—A novel method of reviewing the international Sunday-school lessons of the last quarter will be introduced by Rev. C. L. Goodrich at the Congregational Sunday-school tomorrow.

—Rev. James M. Whiton, Ph. D., of New York, associate Editor of The Outlook, who has been preaching in England during the summer, will preach in the Congregational church tomorrow morning.

—"That birds of a feather flock together in little droves by themselves" is no more truly verified than at Peck's store. Those who are good judges of goods and those who wish to get the best goods in the market for the money congregate at his store. "There's always room for one more," so come along.

Allowed Her Children to Wander.

Mrs. John Richter, of Richmond street, was brought before City Judge DeMeza this morning and reprimanded for allowing her children to wander about the streets and disturb her neighbors. She promised to keep them at home in the future.

Got No Headway.

W. T. Kirk recently leased Chas. Hand's barn on Sycamore street, and is having some alterations made. This morning he stopped at the barn to see how the work was progressing. While there he noticed smoke rising from the rear of the barn. Investigation revealed the fact that some one had started a fire in an outbuilding. Had it not been discovered at this time a serious loss would have resulted as there are several frame buildings close by. The fire was undoubtedly of an incendiary origin.

Tetter, eczema and all similar skin troubles are cured by the use of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It soothes at once, and restores the tissues to their natural condition, and never fails to cure piles. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

THEATRICAL.

Charles Frohman, who has taken one more New York theatre, the Garden, situated at the corner of Twenty-seventh street and Madison avenue, will open it next Thursday evening with Rice's new "Evangeline." It was Mr. Frohman's original intention to celebrate the opening of the Garden Theatre by a production of one of his new plays, but the famous burlesque was so eminently successful at Manhattan Beach this summer, that an elaborate revival was arranged for the Garden. After the run of "Evangeline," Mr. Frohman's own plays will be put on at the Garden. Manager Rice has secured several novelties for his new "Evangeline." Mlle. Yvonne de Guerre, a celebrated Parisian harpist, has been especially engaged to play the part of Evangeline's sister, and during the play Mlle. De Guerre will introduce her harp solos. Evangeline will be played by Theresa Vaughn, the sweet singer of "1492," and Mr. Rice has composed some new songs for her. The lone fisherman will be enacted by James S. Moffitt, the famous pantommist, who was the original of this character. One of the features of elaborate scenic production which will be given in "Evangeline," is a new act drop representing the shipwreck of Captain Dietrich's bark. Cheever Goodwin's burlesque has been brought up to date, and as Mr. Rice says, a good old thing is better than a bad new one.

A Deception Easily Practised.

is the offer of a reward for "any case of catarrh not cured" by certain "cures." Nothing is said regarding the number of bottles required, and therein lies the deception. Ely's Cream Balm is an elegant preparation, agreeable to use, and immediate in its beneficial results. It cures catarrh. You can rely upon the fact that it contains no mercury nor other injurious drug. 50 cents.

Sent it to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

A special missionary day will be observed in All Saints church, Scotch Plains, on Tuesday next, the 29th inst., it being St. Michael's and All Angles' day. At 11 o'clock a. m. there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion, with address by the rector. At 2:30 p. m., the Woman's Auxiliary will hold a meeting, and addresses are expected from several ladies prominently engaged in missionary work. At 7:30 p. m. a public missionary service will be held, with addresses by several clergyman. A most cordial welcome is extended to all who will be pleased to attend this gathering.

DUNELLEN.

Robert Humpton and wife are visiting friends at Metuchen this week.

Miss Mamie Dineen is at home again from a visit with relatives at Junction.

Word has been received that Rev. J. W. Seran, formerly pastor of the M. E. church, died recently.

The case of Turton vs Baker has been amicably adjusted, and further publicity to the matter has been thus averted.

Mr. and Mrs. G Reed, of the New Market road, who were recently married and took up their residence here, have gone to New York to stay.

A mid-fall night's dance will be given by Sheehan Brothers at the Fanwood club house on Wednesday evening next, and Prof. O'Reilly will cater for the dancers.

Mrs. T. Cuniner and daughter returned to their home in New York Thursday evening. after a very pleasant visit with the family of P. S. Harman on Front street.

One of the largest sunflowers of the season was plucked by W. H. Terry, on a vacant lot near T. C. Bodine's property, yesterday. It measured fourteen inches in diameter.

The estate of the late C. F. Enander, who was killed by the cars here on September 6th, is advertised for sale today. The business will be sold in whole or in part to close up the estate.

With the advent of cooler weather the checker fiends are beginning to gather in W. H. Cole's coal office, their headquarters. A schedule of games is being arranged between local players.

Attention has frequently been called to the district in the low lands opposite the depot and the Central Railroad Company is now filling in the infected spot. The dirt and gravel which is being taken from the new siding and freight yard near Grant avenue is being transferred to Dunellen and dumped on the low and marshy ground there, for which the inhabitants of the place are very grateful.

It is stated upon most excellent authority and this by Central Railroad managers, that the main object in filling in the low land running adjacent to the Todd estate, is mainly for the purpose of removing the depot there in the spring. The present depot has stood where it now is from the road's incipiency and a larger, more convenient and more comfortable structure will be erected on the made land early in the spring.

A gold scare is about to loom up at the Plains. Yesterday, a laborer came to town with a piece of rock in which there were undeniable particles of gold. Just where the rock was obtained is not known, and some evil disposed persons are inclined to believe it was "surped" from a rich man's mantle piece. But the Plains needs a little shaking up, and if the owner will only divulge the spot where he obtained it, it may be the means of inducing capitalists to invest here. So by all means let him divulge.

J. E. Wiedemeyer and sister, of Newark, are guests at the Trust farm, at Greenbrook.

The annual meeting of the Dunellen Fire Department was adjourned Thursday night for one week, on account of the Republican banner raising and speechmaking.

Charles Vail and Walter Brokaw became hors du combat on wheels in front of Adam Dealaman's store, Thursday night, and both were more or less broke up. In each case, however, the "bikes" suffered more injury than the rider.

Patrick McMann, better known as "Red Pat," on account of his golden-hued tresses, was digging in the trench for the foundation walls of the new municipal building yesterday afternoon, when he inadvertently unearthed a four-foot snake. Pat goes home early nights, so the snake couldn't have possibly emerged from his boots.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

Whist Supremacy Comes Back to Parks.

The State championship challenge at whist playing, at Orange, last evening, was won by the Park Club, of North Plainfield, consisting of the expert players, Messrs. McCutchen, Townsend, Howell and Rogers. After winning the State championship in Jersey City, last spring, against all New Jersey players, it was lost to the Newark players here in Plainfield. Orange subsequently took the prize and defended it against all comers until the close of the season. The score at the close of the match was 14 to 2, and this is the first of a series of games in the 1896-'97 series.

Vesper Service in the City Park.

The vesper service to be held in the City Park tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor societies should be largely attended. One of the main features of the service will be the music conducted by a large choir. F. H. Andrews will conduct the service, and those who know Mr. Andrews are assured of a good talk. Every Christian Endeavorer is urged to co-operate heartily in this service which is a preparatory one in connection with the coming convention.

Chronic constipation is a painful, disagreeable and life-shortening difficulty. It deranges the system, causes sickheadache, bad breath, and poisons the blood. TRADE IS IMPROVING

A Brighter Outlook in All Branches of Business.

GAINS NOT RAPID YET DISTINCT

Prices Stiffened, the Money Market Improved, Industries Resuming Operations and on the Whole the Situation Is More Cheerful.

New York, Sept. 26.—Dun's review of the state of trade for the week just closing will, to-day, say: A moderate and yet distinct improvement is seen, no longer only in the buying of materials, which continues and stiffens prices, but also in orders for products of some industries, in money markets and in exports of staples. It is as yet little more than a step towards better things, but has already started some important works, and prompted a few considerable contracts. Continuing arrivals of gold, since the movement began, have raised the treasury reserve above $115,000,000, strengthened the banks, and relaxed the stringency in commercial loans, so that at about 1 per cent. lower rates more business was done than in three previous weeks. Hoarding is no longer reported, but some hoards are being unlocked. The movement of crops continues large, and purchases for export have advanced prices or prevented depression. While the gain in working force is not great, it seems clear that for the first time in many months there is some net gain.

Advance in Produce Markets.

An important change is the general advance in produce markets, especially in wheat, which rose sharply on Thursday and Friday, closing 5½c. higher for the week, with much buying, apparently on foreign account. Reports of crops abroad were supposed to be the chief cause, as visible supplies in this country increased largely, but for the first time since July 1 western receipts fell below those of the same week last year. They are still large, and for the first quarter of the crop year thus far have been 52,721,158 bushels, against 40,414,351 last year, a gain of about 30 per cent., and it is conceivable, but cannot be considered quite probable, that such receipts have come from a crop smaller than last year's, although prices averaged 10¼ cts. lower in July and 6.8c. lower in August than last year, and only fell below last year's in September because of the sharp decline then and as much advance now.

Cotton, Wool and Iron.

Cotton advanced an eighth a week ago, but lost three-sixteenths, and with full receipts might have gone further but for the resumption of work by several important mills. Less than the full capacity of mills is working, and the demand for goods has been slack, with a decline of a sixteenth in print cloths, but in other goods recent advances are maintained. A few of the woolen mills are resuming, the belated demand for heavy goods constituting most of the gain visible, but manufacturers show confidence that more goods will be wanted when the future is more clear. Finished products of iron meet more inquiry, and the placing of contracts for 15,000 tons of steel for three new battleships, for one large building here, and for several bridges, explain the starting of two or three works, but after such months have passed, a little business is a gain. There is no change in the boot and shoe manufacture, spring orders being held back to a great extent because of the advance in prices asked, but filling orders for immediate needs keep part of the shops busy. Completion of old orders resulted in shipments during four weeks past 2.7 per cent. larger than in 1894, and 6 per cent. larger than in 1892.

Business Failures.

Failures have been large, liabilities in three weeks of September $18,016,232 against $6,633,990 last year, $5,278,584 in 1894, and $26,899,197 in 1893, including the Lombard concern for $14,000,000. Manufacturing this year have been $6,385,140, against $2,994,145 last year, and $2,382,313 in 1894, while trading have been $6,734,327 against $3,386,020 last year, and $2,679,212 in 1894. Failures for the week have been 315 in the United States against 216 last year, and 39 in Canada against 50 last year.

Spanish Steamer Ashore.

Amsterdam, Sept. 26.—The steamer blown ashore Thursday on Terschelling island, in the North sea, and reported to be a North German Lloyd liner, proves to be the Spanish steamer Hugo. Her crew has been landed on Ameland island.

Nominated for Congress.

Tunkhannock, Pa., Sept. 26.—C. P. Shaw of Bradford county has been nominated for congress by the democrats of the Fifteenth congressional district. Shaw has also the populist nomination of the congressional district.

Hurricane in the West Indies.

Havana, Sept. 26.—A hurricane swept over Curacao Thursday night. Its indicated course is west-northwest. There is every indication of disastrous atmospheric disturbances in the eastern provinces.

An Abandoned Brig Sighted at Sea.

London, Sept. 26.—The British brig Hyaline, which was abandoned at sea while on a voyage from Liverpool, N. S., for Barbadoes, having been on fire, was sighted Sept. 10 in lat. 44 n., long. 23 w.

Fierce Gale on the Newfoundland Coast.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 26.—A severe gale has been raging here for the past two days. A number of boats and fishing establishments along the coast have been destroyed.

CONGRESSMAN MORSE

Tells the Wonderful Curative Powers of Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Hon. Elijah A. Morse, Member of Congress from Mass., Used Dr. Greene's Nervura in His Family with Astonishing Benefit.

HON. ELIJAH A. MORSE, MEMBER OF CONGRESS FROM MASSACHUSETTS.

Hon. Elijah A. Morse, of Canton, Mass., Member of Congress from Massachusetts, forwards his endorsement of the remarkable curative powers of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, together with a letter from his sister, Mrs. Albert F. Morse, who writes to the people concerning her wonderful cure by this grand restorer of health and strength.

Congressman Morse is a statesman of power and influence in Congress and his own state holds him in highest honor having elected him Representative in the Legislature, Member of the State Senate and one of the Governor's Council. As business man of high order, he is known throughout the world as the manufacture of the Rising Sun Stove Polish, which is sold in every nation of the earth.

Congressman Morse says:

"My brother's wife received great benefit from the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura. She has been a long time ill and other medicines failed. She is greatly improved by the use of Nervura. She had insomnia and nervousness and can now sleep well. There is no question that Dr. Greene's Nervura is a valuable remedy and it is a down right benefit to nervous affections."

Mr. Morse's sister, Mrs. Albert F. Morse, of Canton, Mass., says:

"I had been in feeble health for 23 years and had employed all the usual means for cure without much benefit. I have had many hemorrhages of the lungs with severe neuralgia and insomnia.

"My friends had used and knew of the good results from Dr. Greene's Nervura and recommended its use to me. I have now used three bottles and received help from the very first. I have now become so much benefited that I can say that I am in the best health that I have enjoyed for three years. I sleep well and soundly and my food does not distress me at all.

"I can heartily recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura to any person on account of its good effects on myself and friends."

Surely no one who reads this positive proof of the marvelous powers of Dr. Greene's Nervura to make the sick well, the powerful endorsement of this grandest of medicines by one of Massachusetts' foremost statesmen, will hesitate another instant in seeking the sure road to health by using Dr. Greene's Nervura.

It is what the world of sufferers needs. It is the great cure for weakness, nervousness, tired-out bodies, shaky, unsteady and weakened nerves. It gives power and strength to nerves and body, with restored vigor and renewed vitality; makes rich, red blood, cures dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, kidney and liver complaints. It banishes headache, sleeplessness, neuralgia and rheumatism. In fact it makes the sick well. Use it and prove for yourself its wonderful power to cure.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is not like the preparations put up by irresponsible and unprofessional people, but is the prescription and discovery of a widely known physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th St., New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. It is plainly evident therefore why it always cures—because it is perfectly adapted for just these complaints. Another thing which can be said of no other medicine, and which practically assures a cure by Dr. Greene's Nervura, Dr. Greene, its discoverer, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

THE ALLEGED DYNAMITE PLOT.

Examination of Ivory in the Bow Street Court Adjourned for Two Weeks.

London, Sept. 26.—The examination of Edward J. Ivory, the alleged dynamiter who was arrested in Glasgow on September 12, was continued in the Bow street police court yesterday. Mr. Goll, the keeper of the hotel at Antwerp at which John F. Kearney and Haines, two of Ivory's alleged follow-conspirators, stopped while in that city, was put on the stand. Goll is a brother-in-law of Kearney. He identified photographs of Kearney and Haines, who are under arrest in Rotterdam, and P. J. Tynan, who is in the custody of the French police at Boulogne-sur-Mer. He said the three men had been at his hotel. He also identified the prisoner in the dock, who, he said, had been known to him as Edward Bell. The four had held conferences in a wine shop. Kearney "drank like a fish" while in Antwerp and the witness threatened to put him in an asylum. Detective Beausedom of Rotterdam was the next witness. He described the arrest of Kearney and Haines. When they were searched the police found in their possession receipted bills for nitric and sulphuric acids and absorbent clay. In a bag belonging to Haines were found twelve bombs. When asked how it came about that they had these bombs in their possession they said an unknown man had given them to them. They then refused to answer any further questions. Dynamite cartridges were found beneath Kearney's pillow in his room, and torn letters signed Edward Bell. The examination was then adjourned for two weeks.

DRIVER WILLIS RESPONSIBLE.

Suspended for Causing the Collision on the Baltimore Race Course.

Baltimore, Sept. 26.—The fall meeting at Gentlemen's Driving park closed yesterday. Willis, the driver of Corie McGregor, was found to have been responsible for the collision of Thursday in which four horses and their jockeys went down in a heap, and was suspended for a year and the horse declared distanced in the heat. Later in the day the judges reinstated Willis with the approval and by request of the other drivers interested in the race. Corie McGregor was badly cut about the legs and will not, it is thought, be in good condition to race for a year. John Reamer of Philadelphia, who was thought to have been fatally injured, escaped with slight bruises and was in his seat when the horses were called to the wire yesterday.

SYMPATHY FOR SPANIARDS.

Relief Measures Started in London for the Sufferers in Cuba.

London, Sept. 26.—A large number of the Spanish residents of this city met at the Winchester house yesterday afternoon and adopted resolutions expressive of sympathy for their fellow countrymen in Cuba and the Philippine islands who have lost their business or properties through the rebellions in those places, and who have otherwise suffered from the insurrections. The resolutions also congratulated the Spanish government on its determination to conquer the insurgents, even if it should be necessary to drain the Spanish treasury to attain that end. A committee, composed of leading members of the Spanish colony, was appointed to collect funds for the relief of the Spanish sufferers from insurrections. The money will be placed in the hands of the Spanish minister of war and the Red Cross society for distribution.

Killed by a Boy Scorcher.

Rahway, N. J., Sept. 26.—Patrick O'Keefe of East Rahway, who was run down Thursday night by Orville Way, aged 14, with a bicycle, died last night. He was a member of Company C, Thirtieth New Jersey volunteers. Way was trying a companion's wheel, and was scorching along Cherry street at a pretty lively gait when he struck O'Keefe. In falling O'Keefe's head came in contact with the curb stone, which caused a fracture at the base of the brain.

Survivors of the Fenian Raid.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 26.—A large deputation of veterans of 1866 who served in the Fenian raid, waited on Premier Laurier yesterday and requested that a grant of land and a medal be bestowed on each of the survivors. The premier said that it was too late to consider the matter this session, but he would lay it before his colleagues so that the matter could be presented next session.

Found Dead in His Laboratory.

Boston, Sept. 26.—Prof. George. F. Markoe, chemist, one of the founders of the Massachusetts college of pharmacy, and also one of a committee of four appointed to revise the United States Encyclopedia of Pharmacy, was found dead in his laboratory yesterday. He had been stricken with apoplexy. He had been employed by the Joseph Burnett company for the last five years.

Trade Papers Incorporated.

Albany, Sept. 26.—The Markets Publishing company of New York city, to publish in the state of New York, a daily newspaper, known as the Journal of finance, has been incorporated. The capital is $25,000. The F. P. Prial company of New York city, to publish in this state a weekly newspaper, called The Wheel and Cycling Trade Review; capital, $150,000; has also been incorporated.

Salisbury To Meet the Czar.

London, Sept. 26.—Prime Minister Salisbury started last evening for Balmoral castle, where he will meet the czar. It is the general belief that the conference between Lord Salisbury and his majesty will have an important bearing on great Britain's attitude on the Armenian question.

GALES ON THE BRITISH COAST.

Telegraphic and Cable Communication Seriously Hindered.

London, Sept. 26.—A very severe gale from the northwest still prevails along the coast and is causing much damage. Telegraphic communication is seriously interfered with over the whole of the British islands. The British postoffice yesterday gave notice of delay to Ireland, the east, northwest and west of England, South Wales, the Channel islands and to the continent. The wires of the cable companies are working very slowly and cable messages are subject to delay. A large number of coasting vessels were unable to make a safe offing and were thrown ashore at Holyhead, Sheerness, Dover and Yarmouth. So far as known all the men on these wrecked vessels were saved by the lifeboats and coastguardmen. Isolated cases of drowning have been reported from different places along the coasts. At Yarmouth the wind blew with hurricane force. Many buildings were unroofed or otherwise damaged. At Ilfracombe, the fashionable watering place in Devonshire, the Arcade was wrecked and a great number of trees torn up by the roots. The steamers plying between Folkestone and Boulogne-sur-Mer were compelled to abandoned their trips. The steamers of the other lines running to the continent were greatly delayed, and their nonarrival under the circumstances caused much anxiety among those who had relatives or friends aboard of them. The American steam yacht Arcturus, owned by R. Stuyvesant of New York, has arrived at Southampton from Dover. She was caught in the storm and sustained some damage.

NOW THE BONITA JUAREZ

The Old Filibuster Bermuda Changes Her Name and Gets a New Registry.

New York, Sept. 26.—The former filibuster Bermuda has again changed her name, this time to Bonita Juarez, and will hereafter sail under the Mexican flag. She leaves here to-day or Monday under a provisional registry from the Mexican consul for Vera Cruz, stopping at Newport News for a cargo of coal. The Bonita Juarez will carry as passengers on her trip down Capt. Brown's family and others. Daniel Bacon, the agent, says the vessel will be engaged in the West Indian trade, and will not engage in filibustering so long as he is connected with her.

Dixon and White Fight to a Draw.

New York, Sept. 26.—The twenty-round bout last night between George Dixon of Boston and Jimmy White of Chicago, for the featherweight championship of the world, ended in a draw after twenty rounds. The colored lad went into the ring a hot favorite, but before the battle was half over the 5,000 spectators saw that he was not the Dixon of former battles. At times he showed some of his old-time cyclonic dash, but the restless energy and terrific punching power that made him famous were not there. Dixon met his match at last, and although the decision was a fair one, there were many who thought that White had the best of the encounter. In the last round he smilingly jabbed Dixon all around the ring.

International Cricket.

Philadelphia, Sept. 26.—The second of the series of three matches between the Australians and an eleven representing the best cricket talent among the gentlemen players of Philadelphia began yesterday afternoon and a merry time the home team had of it chasing leather. The Australians won the toss and went to the bat and when the last man had been retired just at the hour for stopping play for the day, the Antipodeons had put together 422 runs.

For Violating Intercommerce Law.

Buffalo, Sept. 26.—The United States grand jury has found an indictment against President de Coursey of the Western New York & Pennsylvania railway, charging him with violating the United States intercommerce law. is alleged that while he was receiver of the company two years ago last August he paid, contrary to law, rebates to the Fairmount Coal company.

The Czar and Wales Go Deer Stalking.

Ballater, Sept. 26.—It has been very rainy ever since the czar and czarina arrived at Balmoral castle on their visit to the queen. Yesterday there was quite a heavy downpour, but notwithstanding this fact the czar, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught, went deer stalking.

HIS MANY VISITORS

Seventeen Delegations To Call on Major McKinley To-day.

ABOUT 20,000 STRANGERS IN CANTON

Ten Excursion Trains Had Arrived Up to Noon and Others Are Due—The Streets Alive with Marching Clubs and Brass Bands.

Canton, O., Sept. 26.—This is a great day for the residents of Canton and for Major McKinley. Up to noon fully 15,000 visitors had arrived and it is estimated that by 3 o'clock this afternoon there will be 20,000 strangers in the city. Seventeen delegations in all are expected and the streets are alive with marching clubs, and the air filled with brass and martial music. The citizens have added to the already well bedecked houses and the principal streets of the city are masses of flags, banners and bunting. Ten crowded excursion trains had arrived before noon and one road alone has arranged for fourteen trains. In view of the numerous addresses which Major McKinley will make to-day he has found it necessary to make them much briefer than he intended. As every visitor who succeeds in getting in reach of the republican nominee insists upon shaking his hand that member must surely ache by the time day closes. Only four delegations visited Canton yesterday, but they were large ones, and with the speechmaking and personal greetings nearly the entire day was consumed in receiving them, and Major McKinley was somewhat fatigued when he retired last night. This morning a number of messages announcing the formation of McKinley and Hobart clubs and notifying the nominee of their intention of calling upon him were received Major McKinley's correspondence has again accumulated, and much of it cannot be attended to until the first of next week. He has done his best to answer all letters, even of minor importance, but he fond this to be almost impossible. This morning early he dictated a letter to Chairman Hanna, but outside of that the entire day will be given up to the reception of his host of callers.

NEW PACIFIC STEAMSHIP LINE.

United States Capitalists Negotiating with the Russian Government.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—It is understood here that United States capitalists are negotiating with the Russian government for the establishment of a rapid steamship service between San Francisco and Vladivostock. In connection with the above statement it is said that a French company is being formed, supported by the minister of commerce, to run a regular steamship service between Dunkirk and Vladivostock.

University of Pennsylvania Open.

Philadelphia, Sept. 26.—The fall session of the college department of the University of Pennsylvania opened yesterday with the largest number of students in the history of the institution. The college freshman class numbers about 900. The other departments open next Thursday and the total number of students at the university will be about 3,800.

"Count" and Winston Pigeon Match.

Long Branch, N. J., Sept. 26.—A shooting match at 100 birds for $145 a side took place at Elmwood park yesterday afternoon between the "Count" and Winston. The former stood at 28 yards and Winston at 32. They tied at 77 birds each, and it was decided to shoot of the tie at 25 birds. The "Count" killed 21 and Winston 22.

Gladstone's Speech Excites the Sultan.

London, Sept. 26.—The Exchange Telegraph company says that the speech delivered at Liverpool Thursday by Mr. Gladstone has caused great excitement in the Yildiz Kiosk, the residence of the sultan. Papers containing the speech have been prohibited from entering Turkey.

Gen. and Mrs. Harrison Entertained.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 26.—An informal reception was given to ex-President and Mrs. Harrison, who arrived Thursday evening, at the Union League club house last evening. They were the especial guests of William Beri, president of the club.

Tie Game for the Soby Cup.

Hartford, Sept. 26.—The first tie game in this city this season was played yesterday and it was a battle royal. It was the second game in the Soby cup series, the Hartford and Paterson playing eleven innings and scoring one run each.

Whitehead Is Insane.

New York, Sept. 26.—Albert Whitehead, the Irish dynamiter, who recently arrived in this country, has developed marked symptoms of mental derangement and is to be sent to an institution.

10,000 Armenians Forced Into Islamism.

Constantinople, Sept. 26.—According to reliable advices received here ten thousand Armenians in the province of Van have been forcibly compelled to embrace Islamism during the past two months.

Dangerous Derelict.

St. John's, N. F., Sept. 26.—The steamer Coban, from Montreal, reports passing yesterday the schooner Marie Fannie of St. Pierre, abandoned sixty miles off Cape Race, right in the track of shipping.

CYCLING COMMENT.

W. L. Price, of the Eldridge Bicycle Company, is touring through West Virginia with a friend.

Mrs. E. R. Ackerman, of West Eighth street, has purchased a lady's Cleveland Swell Special.

J. Hervey Doane and Dr. D. C. Adams rode over to Orange and back Thursday afternoon on a Cleveland tandem. They had a delightful time and adventures en route.

One of the latest to join the Crescent Wheelmen is T. H. Keller, the well known shooting and baseball enthusiast. "Tee Kay" has become a full-fledged cyclist, and the club has gained an active worker in our genial friend.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

F. L. C. Martin, of Park avenue, left this morning on a week's yachting, hunting and fishing trip around Long Island.

A special meeting of the Union, Middlesex and Somerset county Game Association was held last evening at Percy C. Ohl's office. The call was made to thoroughly discuss the legality of the members' power and authority to arrest without a warrant. As the association has complied with all the requirements of the law, and members are fully empowered to arrest violators. The members will from now until the open season in November, vigilantly watch and endeavor, with the aid of wardens and other state officers, to effectually break up the habit of violating the game laws.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

All candidates for the Y. M. C. A. football team are requested to be present for practice at the Y. M. C. A. grounds on Monday evening.

The Alis football eleven expect to open the season next Saturday morning. They will play on the Martin field on Park avenue. Most of the team were out for practice yesterday afternoon, and several of the Y. M. C. A. team were present and coached them.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

An important meeting of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association will be held Tuesday afternoon. A matter of great importance to all contestants in the coming field day will be brought up.

GOLF.

The opening of the new club house of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will take place this afternoon. There will be a tea and a golf tournament, mixed foursomes.

BASKING RIDGE.

A Bryan and Sewal Club was organized on Thursday evening. J. E. Buck was made president of the club, and over eighty citizens signed the roll. After the organization had been perfected, Mr. Allen, of Newark, a life long Republican, addressed the meeting, urging all to vote for Bryan, saying that his election alone could promote permanent prosperity. James E. Martine, of Plainfield, also addressed the meeting at some length, urging bi-metalism as the salvation of the farmers and toiling masses.

—A meeting of the Alert Hose Company will be held on Monday evening.

—In Edward White's show window they have a very fine dislay of trunks, bags and satchels of all kinds. The price tickets on them tell the story.

—Vocal sight reading classes will be formed as soon as possible by Miss Anna O. Marsh. All who wish to study are requested to send their names to Miss Marsh before Friday, October 2d, or be present at an informal talk that afternoon, at 915 Madison avenue, at 4:30.

Chris Sorrenson, of Webster place, who has been enjoying a trip to Denmark, returned home this noon.

Miss Benjamin, of Harrisburg, has returned home after a visit with Miss Marie Dryden, of West Seventh street.

THEIR STORIES TALLIED

UNABLE TO CONVICT THE WEST END GANG IN THE CITY COURT.

There Had Evidently Been a Conference Between the Accused and They Told a Story as of One Voice When in the Court

Any one interested in the study of human nature would have found a good subject in the five West End specimens of young men that were brought before City Judge DeMeza this morning in the city court for trial. The complaint was made by another denizen of that district, Isaac Myers, for throwing mudballs at him, beating him, and running away with his hat and a package of shoes sometime ago.

The accused were James Kane, Phillip Sheridan, William Barry, Daniel Kiely and Louis Wilson, and each and every one responded to the Judge's question of what they knew about it, with the significant remark of "Don't know nothing 'bout it."

Their stories tallied exactly, and all but one declared that they had had no previous conference regarding the case.

The complainant's story of how he had been abused and ill treated, sounded very plausible, but he had no witnesses to back up his statements. Patrolman Lunger could testify only by hearsay evidence in regard to Myer's trouble, but he said that these lads formed a "gang" that worked together, and that they always ran when he appeared on the scene.

Judge DeMeza dismissed the complaint for lack of evidence, but stated that in his own mind he was assured that Myers was telling the truth, and that the other West Enders had arranged a story to suit the occasion. He warned them that if they were ever convicted of a similar offence before him he would send them to jail.

Expects to Get Out of Jail.

Lawyer S. S. Swackhamer appeared before Judge Magie in Supreme Court this morning to secure a habeas corpus with which to obtain the release of Mike Watson to appear in Plainfield for another trial, on the ground that his conviction last Monday was illegal. The bondsmen which Mr. Swackhamer offered were not satisfactory, and the Judge told him that if he would secure satisfactory bondsmen he would sign the necessary papers to release Watson today. Mr. Swackhamer expects to have Watson out of jail tonight.

Blooms Tonight.

There is a night-blooming cereus in the office of the Scott Printing Machine Works with about fifty flowers, some twenty-five of which will open tonight about 9 o'clock. This is the third series of flowers which it has produced this summer.

Still Taking Testimony.

Additional testimony in the Supreme Court proceedings of Pangborn against Teale is being taken today in the City Council chamber. The case is on contract and will in all probability occupy several days yet.

George Fine, of Newark, is the guest of Plainfield friends today.

Garrett Dreier, of Fall River, Mass., is visiting his parents in this city.

Mrs. Arthur Boone, who has been visiting relatives in Plainfield, returned to her home in Brooklyn today.

Mrs. A. Vanderbeek, of Second place, went to Orange this morning to be the guest for several days of Mrs. Baldwin, one of the State officers of the W. C. T. U.

Dr. G. H. Stevenson, of Fourth and New streets, is suffering from a stroke of paralysis, with which he was stricken down on Monday. Today he is reported as somewhat improved.

—The cases in the city court against Wm. Burke and John F. McIntyre have been dismissed.

—A meeting of the Republican campaign committee will be held Monday evening to arrange for the mass meeting to be held Tuesday evening.

Degenerating.

No jokes are better appreciated than those that are made unwittingly by sober-minded men. An English journal relates a case in point, the sober-minded man being Mr. John Burns, a very serious member of the house of commons. He was speaking in a pessimistic strain about what he felt to be a great falling off in the character and standing of that august body. "Since I came into this house, four years ago," he said, "the confidence of the public in it has much diminished."—Youth's Companion.

Cold Slaw Dressing.

The simplest is to add to two large tablespoonfuls of whipped sweet cream, two of sugar and twice that amount of vinegar with salt to taste. Again, a simple French dressing is good over cabbage. So is that made by beating the yolks of three hard boiled eggs to a paste, then seasoning with one small teaspoonful of French mustard, half a teaspoonful of salt and a pinch of cayenne pepper. After these ingredients are well mixed, gradually add, while stirring, enough vinegar to make the dressing the consistency of cream. Pour this over one pint of chopped or shredded cabbage.—Good Housekeeping.

CUT WITH WIRE ROPE.

How Stone Is to Be Taken Out of an Eastern Quarry.

Those who have indulged in deep sea fishing know how the fish line cuts deeply into the hard wood of the gunwale as it is hauled in while taut. Even an iron protection, after a time, shows the wear of the rope, which is comparatively soft. This, says the Detroit Free Press, gives a clew to the invention of an Albany quarryman for cutting stone. Instead, however, of hemp, he proposes to use wire rope, and with this he will carve the marble and stone right out of its native bed. The wire is wound in strands, and has a very rough surface, powerful machinery gives a strong and steady strain, and the stone, yielding to the constant wear, parts, with smooth edges. It would be easy enough to cut the blocks after they are removed from the quarry, but where the cleverness of the inventor comes in is devising mechanism that can be applied to the stone while in the quarry. This is effected by sinking two parallel channels in the quarry to a depth of little greater than that of the lowest level of the stone to be cut. The channels may be from 2 to 100 feet, or more, apart. At the bottom of each is made a small hole to receive the foot ends of the shafts of the machine. This is the only preparation of the quarry that is necessary. The ropes, which are coiled on huge drums, are then passed around the channels, and as the drums revolve the cutting proceeds. Suitable brakes are provided for the regulation of the speed and pressure. The ordinary speed of the strand is 800 feet a minute, so that a mile length of it passes in six minutes. While the strand is moving, crushed stone or chilled shot and water can be introduced to increase the attrition. Far better, however, than either of these is a composition obtained from the tailings of a magnetic iron separator, which costs about one-tenth as much as the chilled shot. It does not leave the lines caused by the shot, and it can be used over and over again.

WELCOMING A RIVER.

A Joyful Occasion to the People of a Portion of Peru.

In the long coastal desert of Peru, which is some 2,000 miles in length, but only 120 miles broad at its widest part, the rivers, Maj. A. F. Sears says, disappear in the dry season and begin to flow again in February or March when rain falls in the Cordilleras. One of the most important of these rivers is the Piura, the return of whose waters is welcomed with great rejoicings by the inhabitants of its banks. About the time when "the coming of the river" is expected, says the Youth's Companion, eager inquiries as to the progress of the water are put to all persons who chance to come from the head of the valley, and when the water approaches the town of Piura processions go out to meet it, and escort its first trickling stream down the dry river-bed with music and fireworks. At the outskirts of the city thousands of people greet its arrival. The valley of the Piura is said by Maj. Sears to produce excellent cotton, although its possibilities in this respect are not well developed for lack of systematic irrigation. Once in a period of from five to seven years rain falls upon the coastal plain, whereupon, with magic quickness, grass and flowers cover it, and cattle browse in its pastures, but in a few weeks everything withers, and desolation reigns once more upon the barren sands.

LONGS TO BE A SLAVE.

A Southern Negro Who Wants to Go Into Bondage Again.

Some of the letters that Mayor Thacher gets are curiosities in their way. People from out of town who wish to find out anything in the city of Albany invariably write letters to the mayor. It doesn't make any difference what the information desired relates to, the mayor, they think, ought to know, says the Albany Argus.

A letter was received from a negro away down south, who, Mr. Monahan says, has been dead for 30 years—not literally a corpse, but deceased as far as his grip on bustling, progressive nineteenth century life was concerned. This man believes that slavery is still an institution in this great land, and is ignorant of the glorious fact that the master's whip hasn't cracked for 30 years. He never heard of the president's proclamation, never knew that the north had whipped the south, and that 1,000,000 lives had been sacrificed to free the slave. In his letter to the mayor this colored man asked to be brought north and sold back into slavery. There is no question that he found it impossible to live in the south, and longed again for the irresponsibility from self-support of slavery days which he thought still flourished in the south.

What Mohair and Alpaca Are.

Mohair is the fleece of the Angora goat, grown in the orient and at the Cape, and is the most lustrous fiber known. In its natural state it is white, and can consequently be dyed to any color. Alpaca is the fleece of the animal of that name, also of the goat family (llama is a near relation), and is grown in South America. In its natural state it is black, brown or piebald, with a very small proportion of white. Consequently it can only be dyed a darker color, generally black. Whenever, therefore, you see a luster dress which is lighter than dark gray, you may be sure it is mohair, especially if it has a peculiar sparkle which is something like that of a newly broken piece of lump sugar. Alpaca, being somewhat finer and softer than mohair, is mostly used for coat linings, but it is also made into dress goods in its natural gray. It was introduced and intended for linings, but was taken up by a whim of fashion for dresses and had a great run 30 years ago. Its popularity gave the name of alpaca in a rough and ready way to all bright goods, although most of them are made from mohair, and many of them from English wool. — St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A PLEASURE-LOVING PEOPLE.

And Yet the Hungarian Peasants Make Good Soldiers.

Writing of "Hungary's Picturesque Peasantry" in the Ladies' Home Companion, Dr. Edward A. Steiner says:

"They are all a pleasure-loving people, and the roving gypsy, if he can wield a bow, finds a welcome in every hut. The csarda (inn) is filled every night with villagers and shepherds from the pusztas (plains). The wives, babies and sweethearts come, too, and over a glass of palenka (whisky) or soc (wine) the evening is spent, never ending without a dance or a fight; and good fighters they are, these Hungarians. They fought for their liberty, and retained it, as did no other of the Austrian provinces; and if Austria lost her battles with foreign foes, it was due to no lack of bravery on the part of Hungarian soldiers. Though hating the German tongue, which is used in the army, when the call 'vorwarts' came, they unquestioningly obeyed, and shed their blood upon the battle fields of sunny Italy and in the forests of Bohemia.

"The Austrian empire, once the holy Roman empire, has lost her place in the front rank of nations because of her decaying aristocracy, which yielded only cowards and weaklings for the captains of her host, and because of her narrowing conservatism which kept alive the spirit of persecution, and which hindered any real progress. But Hungary, though under Austrian rule, has steadily been gaining, and her progress, as I have said, is due largely to her brave, industrious and liberal-minded peasantry."

The Gold Standard.

"No silver for me," quoth the patriot sage,
In a tone of exceeding vitality,
"Let gold, pure, intrinsic, incomparable gold,
Be the metal of our nationality!
But if you're in need of eyeglasses," he said,
With an honest-eyed glimmer of jollity,
"At Collier's you'll get either silver or gold,
But both of the gold-standard quality."

A GHASTLY DISCOVERY.

DECOMPOSED CORPSE OF A MAN FOUND IN THE WOODS.

The Horrible Discovery Made by an Italian Near Fanwood—No Information Gained That Would Lead to Identification.

Horrible was the discovery made by an Italian named Michel Ricardo yesterday afternoon just as the last rays of the setting sun shone on the roofs of the houses in Fanwood. Ricardo was strolling through the woods that lay to the west of Fanwood when he almost stumbled over the prostrate form of a man. His first thought was that someone had fallen asleep there but one look at the face made it very apparent that the man was dead and had been so for sometime. His face was nearly black while the skin hung down in shreds and the flesh was fast decomposing.

Frightened nearly out of his wits, the Italian made no effort to examine the corpse but hurried away. He notified the Fanwood authorities at once and County Physician Westcott went to the place. The body was found near the end of a blind-road running close to the house of Anthony Farley, about one-half mile from the Fanwood station and not far from Terrell road.

Dr. Westcott found the body in a terrible state of decomposition, as if it had been there for some time. The features were almost unrecognizable. The hair was grey and straight. The man had apparently been about five feet, three inches in height, and between fifty and sixty years of age. He had been slightly corpulent and was apparently a German.

The corpse was dressed in a dark suit of mixed cloth, a white shirt with a white collar and colored necktie. It was evidently that of a well dressed man and not a tramp. On his feet were Congress gaiters, badly worn. In the pockets of his suit, Dr. Wescott found a black pocket book, containing three postage stamps, two white linen handkerchiefs, one of which had the initial E on the corner, two lead pencils, a pearl handled pocket knife, containing several blades and a corkscrew, and a pair of steel rimmed eye glasses.

Close to the body a black derby, considerably blocked, was found. This was the only sign of violence as the position of the dead man had been one of rest. He was sitting up, with his head and back against a tree, his legs crossed and his hands lying in his lap.

It was impossible to tell then whether there was any sign of violence on the body. There was no evidence of a terrible conflict, but an assault and murder could have easily taken place without leaving any trace. The County Physician and the Fanwood authorities are utterly at a loss to account for the death of the stranger. Up to this morning no information about the dead man had been discovered. The body must have been there several weeks to reach its present state, and it seems strange that it has not been discovered before.

Undertaker Casey, of this city, was notified and took the corpse to his morgue where it will be frozen and an examination made to discover if there are any marks of violence.

FIRST OF THE RECEPTIONS.

A Pleasant Event in School Life Over the Brook.

The first of the monthly receptions to be given at the North Plainfield High Public School, was given Saturday afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock. The assembly hall was well filled with the parents of the High School scholars, who listened with great pleasure to the recitations given by Prof. Maxwell Bingham, a graduate of the Boston School of Oratory. Among the best things given by Mr. Bingham was a scene from "Richelieu," "Jimmie Brown and the Pig" and several Irish selections, which were received with tremendous applause.

Miss Himes, the teacher of the kindergarten department, gave several exceedingly fine instrumental selections, showing that she is a finished musician as well as a teacher. At the close Mr. Loomis invited all the parents to meet Superintendent Warde. Among the guests were State Superintendent of Schools C. W. Baxter and delegations from New York and Westfield.

Kept Them Hustling.

Manager Schermerhorn and his corps of efficient operators were kept hustling, on Saturday night, in their endeavor to give prompt service to the newspapers throughout the country concerning the great bicycle races here on that day. Two operators were kept busy from seven to nine o'clock in the evening transmitting the 19,000 words asked for. By a direct circuit Buffalo, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago were notified of the results on one wire, and the same account was sent to New York and Pittsburg by another wire.

MIKE WATSON OUT AGAIN

LAWYER SWACKHAMER HAS THE PERSISTENTS LAW VIOLATOR RELEASED.

Judge Magie Orders His Release on the Plea That His Conviction Was Illegal—Certiorari Writ Returnable in November

Michael Watson, the alleged illegal liquor seller, is again breathing the pure air of freedom, for on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock he left his companion of questionable reputation at the Union county jail and returned to his home in Plainfield, where he was received amid great rejoicing by his family and friends.

Watson's release was brought about through the efforts of his attorney, S. S. Swackhamer, who has been hustling for the last few days with that object in view. Last Wednesday he went to Trenton to see Judge Van-Sickle, but the latter was out of town. Then Watson's lawyer hasténed to Somerville, where he obtained an interview with Judge Magie, who gave Mr. Swackhamer an appointment at the Judge's chambers in Elizabeth on Saturday morning and directed that City Corporation Counsel Marsh be notified of the proceedings. Mr. Marsh was informed.

Saturday morning Mr. Swackhamer appeared, but there was a defect in the arrangements regarding the bondman. That was corrected in the afternoon, and after considering the question Judge Magie signed the writ of certiorari and issued supercedaes directed to the warden of the jail ordering him to release "Mike" Watson.

Mr. Swackhamer carried the writ to the jail and informed his client of the good news and then escorted him to Plainfield. The writ was made returnable at the November term of the Supreme Court, and Watson is under $300 bail to appear at that time.

The principal claim in the affidavit asking for the writ was that Watson was committed without a hearing. It is claimed that he was advised to plead guilty and did so, but when under advice of counsel, he wanted to change his plea, he was not allowed to.

CONCOURSE OF SORROWING FRIENDS.

The Funeral of the Late Eric N. Erickson Largely Attended.

The closing scenes in the life and death of the late Eric N. Erickson, who died early on Friday morning, were enacted in Grace church at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the edifice was crowded with relatives and friends of the afflicted family, including many from New York, Brooklyn and other places. The ceremony was simple and appropriate, and according to the prescribed rites of the Episcopal church. Rev. E. M. Rodman, the rector, officiated, and read the usual burial service with responses. The floral offerings were very appropriate. Just previous to the service the Board of Vestrymen of the church, together with a delegation from the Plainfield Medical Association, met in the chapel and went to the church in a body. A good representation of the members of Alert Hose Company, with which Mr. Erickson had been identified for many years, also attended in a body.

The sweet and beautiful anthem "I'm Going Home" was rendered by the following members of Grace church choir: Mrs. W. A. Freeman, organist; Miss Mabel Smith, Miss Louise Egan, Miss Clara Woodward and Miss Olive Newell, sopranos; Miss Mary Collier, contralto; and Messrs. W. R. Cock and William N. Runyon.

At the close of the funeral service all that was mortal of the late Eric N. Erickson was conveyed to his final resting place in Hillside cemetery by the following representative citizens as pall-bearers: Mayor Alex. Gilbert, C. P. Bull, Otis T. Waring, Stephen A. Ginna, John B. Dumont and John H. Cuthbert.

Made a Merry Night.

Miss Genevieve Hazard, of North avenue, celebrated the fifth anniversary of her birthday Saturday afternoon, and it will long be remembered as a pleasant occasion. The young folks who were invited to make merry with their young host spent the time in playing games and singing popular songs. Refreshments were served in abundance to all. Each one of the following guests gave the host a handsome present: Lulu Richards, Mamie Richards, Bessie Richards, Hermenia Leightlouser, Lulu Hartpence and Musa Woodruff. The event was brought to a close about 5 o'clock and all agreed that they had enjoyed themselves immensely.

—The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will hold a business meeting tomorrow afternoon in the chapel of the church.

THE CRESCENT'S MEET PROVIDED FAST RACES.

EDDIE BALD AND TOM COOPER DIVIDE THE HONORS AMONG THE PROFESSIONAL CRACKAJACKS ON SATURDAY.

The Track Was in Excellent Condition and The Weather Just About Right For The Riders to Make Fast Time—The Track Record Broken in the One Mile Scratch Professional—The Races Described in Detail—Some Incidents.

Plainfield's hoodoo is broken, for the Crescent Wheelmen had all that could be wished, except a crowded grand stand, for their National Circuit race meet Saturday afternoon. The weather was perfect and the light breeze from the west troubled the riders but little. The track was at its best and the riders included the fastest professionals in the country and the best amateurs of the Metropolitan district.

The Crescent Wheelmen's boast had not been an idle one, and the races were as good as have been seen on the circuit, close finishes, fast time and pretty spurts characterizing almost all of the contests, while the spectators were also treated to one of the best burlesques that has been seen on a track for many a day.

Tom Cooper, the Detroit crack, who made the sensational finish in the one mile scratch.

The audience was not small, it numbered about 2,000, but it was not what it ought to have been. With all the attractions that the Crescent Wheelmen offered, nearly three times that number should have been out to see the races. The audience was a representative one, however.

The grand stand was comfortably filled, as were the bleachers, while carriages lined almost the entire back stretch.

On the programme it was stated that there would be a two third mile exhibition, unpaced, against time, to try to lower the American record, by V. W. Hubbard, of New York. Now, nobody had ever heard of any such individual. Even the Crescent Wheelmen didn't know who he was. He came out with a gorgeous red sash waving in the breeze, mounted a last year's road wheel with rubber pedals and no toe clips, and rode around the track twice amid the audible smiles of the spectators, in the remarkable time of 2:07. Tremendous applause greeted his finish. Hereafter Mr. Voorhees, for Hubbard is merely his track name, had better ride in private unless he can slightly increase his rate of going. Announcer Fritts stated before the youthful would-be record-breaker started that it was his first attempt. Through the megaphone it sounded like "first offence" and everybody thought he could easily prove an alibi. But to the races.

One mile novice. First prize, $20 gold medal; second, $10 silver medal; third, $5 bronze medal. First heat won by Peter Simmons, Plainfield; H. Potter, Rahway, second; F. S. Slater, V. C. R., Rahway, third; time, 2:31 3 5.

This was probably the most ridiculous exhibition of racing that Plainfield has ever witnessed. Slater, as pacemaker, for which he was to be given third place in the heat, carried the bunch of six starters right along until the last lap. The final spurt began on the far turn and the riders entered the stretch in a bunch. Here Gus Ackerland, of Elizabeth, and John Scott, a colored rider, of this city, fell. The rest kept on, Simmons, another of Plainfield's colored cyclists, winning by several lengths, with Potter second. W. J. Dodd, of this city, and Wm. Grigsley, a colored man from Rahway, were fighting it out for the place when they collided about thirty-five yards from the tape. The wheels were so mixed up that, in the excitement, it was impossible to separate them. Dodd grabbed his wheel and Grigsley seized his and they started to drag the unrecognizable heap of wheels to the finish. After a few yards had been covered the riders dropped their load and started to spurt on foot to the tape. The crowd was roaring with laughter now. Then both men seemed to realize that they had to get their wheels over the line too and so they started back for them. But Dodd this time objected to his colored antagonist continuing and began to pull the other way. While they were struggling over the confused remains of their wheels, Scott, who had remounted, came flying down the stretch head down and tumbled over the mass of debris and landed squarely on his head. It didn't seem to phase him in the least, however, for he got up, seized his wheel and carried it across the line, while the other two still struggled in the rear. The spectators laughed and screamed until the tears rolled down their faces, while the officials nearly forgot their duties in their amusement.

Second Heat.—Won by W. L. Abbey, Brooklyn; H. K. Lister, Plainfield, second; William Waters, Plainfield, third. Time, 1:42 2-5.

Only four started in this heat and they loafed until the last lap. Abbey won by a small margin just cacthing Lister at the tape.

Final Heat—Won by Peter Simmons; H. K. Lister, second; W. L. Abbey, third. Time, 2:46.

The riders persistently loafed until the finish. Simmons then winning easily. Their time was 2:52, over the time limit, and the referee made them ride it over. Simmons again appeared in front.

Two-Third Mile Scratch — First prize, $30 diamond stud; second, $20 diamond stud; third, $10 diamond pin.

First Heat—Won by L. R. Lefferson, Harlem Wheelmen, Ocean Grove; C. H. Tomlinson, Riverside Wheelmen, New York, second; F. W. Richt, Brooklyn, third. Time, 1:41.

Eight started while Richt cut the pace for the first third. Leffersen jumped the bunch on the back-stretch and had the lead with the rest bunched behind him. He crossed the tape first while Tomlinson was second by several lengths.

Second Heat—Won by Joe Harrison, Harlem Wheelmen, Asbury Park; Walter C. Roome, N. J. A. C., Jersey City, second; B. T. Allen, Bath Beach, third. Time, 1:33 3-5.

Harrison led the bunch of eight starters most of the way, but was pocketed on the last lap. By good headwork he reached a good position at the spurt, winning. Allen made a terrific jump through the bunch, but could not catch Harrison and Roome. He finished third.

Third Heat—Won by Ray Dawson, N. Y. A. C., Boonton; John T. Beam, Riverside Wheelmen, New York, second; W. H. Cane, Jr., Hackensack Wheelmen, Hackensack, third. Time, 1:47 2-5.

There were eight starters and they loafed for a lap. Dawson was the last of the bunch when the spurt began, but finally won after a beautiful exhibition of speed and judgment. Beam and Cane were close behind at the tape with Fred Fullerton fourth.

Final Heat—Won by Joe Harrison; Walter C. Roome, second; Ray Dawson, third. Time, 1:40 4-5.

IN THE EDIFICE OF GOD.

THE ENDEAVORERS HOLD A SERVICE UNDER THE CANOPY OF HEAVEN.

Large Assemblage of People Attend the Vesper Service in the City Park Yesterday Afternoon—An Inspiring Time.

Probably in all the history of Plainfield, the City Park has never witnessed just such a scene as was enacted there yesterday afternoon, when the Endeavor Societies of the city held an out-door vesper service. As the hour approached half-past four, a stream of people poured into the grove from all sides, and when the service of song began, the scene was a very pretty one. The audience, which must have included four or five hundred people, stood facing the centre of the square, and the light summer gowns of the women, with the darker costumes of the men, made a very attractive picture against the dark green of trees and grass, and the brown of the paths which intersect the square.

Leaflets containing the music which will be used at the coming convention were distributed, a large delegation from the choir which is practicing to sing at the services was massed together in the foreground, and Horace J. Martin, in his usual inspiring manner, conducted a short service of song. "I will sing the wondrous story," rang out on the quiet Sabbath air, followed by "Sunshine in my soul," and "Anywhere with Jesus," then F. H. Andrews stepped forward and offered an earnest, heartfelt prayer. Another song, then Mr. Andrews read a selection from the Sermon on the Mount, calling attention especially to the verses which say, "Ask, and ye shall receive, seek and ye shall find, knock, and it shall be opened unto you." "You are all praying for the Holy Spirit's presence in this convention, I know," he said. "Here is Christ's own promise, "Ask, and ye shall receive."

"According to your faith be it unto you," was the text of the short talk with which Mr. Andrews followed his scripture reading. He spoke of the necessity of the Holy Spirit's power in the convention if it is to be the benefit to the city and the churches which the Endeavorers are praying that it may be.

He urged a true consecration on the part of all the young people; that any sin which might be cherished in any heart should be entirely put away, and that a spirit of unselfishness and love should prevail. There are three benefits, he said, which it is hoped may come from this convention. First, there should be only the best influences thrown around the strangers who are to come into our midst. Many may be weak Christians; let them go back stronger and better from the good they have received in Plainfield's Christian homes. Then, a great blessing is desired for the churches of the city. We need rousing up; we are growing cold in the service of God. May the convention put new life into us all. Then, we hope for a great blessing for the unconverted of the city. Mr. Moody will be here for a week, and hundreds of consecrated Christian workers are coming among us. Through those days when we meet together in Christ's name, we pray that many may be won to our Lord and Master.

Other songs of love and praise stole out on the evening air, and one earnest worker after another in the audience offered fervent prayer for the blessing of God upon the convention and the city, while above the bowed heads of the endeavorers the sun's last rays glinted through the tops of the trees, like a golden benediction over the earnest hearts below. "God be with you till we meet again," sang the people, then the crowd dissolved among the trees, and the vesper service was only a pleasant memory, save for the desires for a deeper consecration which it might have kindled in some hearts.

A Popular Course.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Permit me to call your attention to the Y. M. C. A. course of entertainments, advertised elsewhere in your columns. We believe the course presented is a strong one, that will give ample satisfaction to those that attend it. The price has been put very low, not because it is a cheap course, but to make it a popular course easily within the reach of all. Attendance is free to all members of the Association holding $5 or $8 membership cards. The first lecture, by William Blaikie, Esq., is exceedingly witty and entertaining and is particularly valuable to every one who desire to inform himself in regard to body building.

THE CLUBHOUSE OPENED

COSY QUARTERS FOR THE HILLSIDE CLUB AT THEIR GOLF COURSE.

All the Cream of Plainfield's Society Was Present and Were Entertained in a Royal Manner by the Lady Members.

The formal opening of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club's new home on Plainfield avenue, Saturday afternoon, was a brilliant social event, attended by nearly all of Plainfield's society people who are admirers of both tennis and golf.

The new clubhouse is all that one can wish for and is admirably adapted for the needs of the members. It is a one-story structure, finished in colonial style, with one large reception room, containing an old-fashioned fireplace. Around the room are placed comfortable chairs, large, handsome rugs, and all that goes to make up a pleasant place for frequent gatherings. Vases and bric a-brac, the gifts of different members of the club, adorn the mantlepiece and walls.

The room was brightly illuminated toward evening with banquet lamps, and the various colored shades presented a pretty picture, while the room was graced by a number of Plainfield's charming women.

Altogether the clubhouse reflected much credit on its architect, Evarts Tracy, and the ladies who so kindly took charge of procuring the interior furnishings and the arrangement of them.

Tea was served at 3:30 o'clock. The Russian tea table was in charge of Miss Tracy, while the cafe freppe was served by Miss Stewart, and the lemonade by Miss Talmage and Miss Ginna.

Those who received were Mrs. Geo. Chapman, Mrs. A. D. Shepard, Mrs. J. Doul Miller, Mrs. J. T. Baker, Mrs. A. H. Atterbury. They were assisted by Miss Stewart, Miss Walz, Miss Ginna, Miss Talmage, Miss Reinhart and Miss Tracy.

In connection with the arrangement of the new club-house it might be well to state that dressing rooms are provided for men and women and these rooms are very complete in every detail.

The golf tournament for men and women was started about 3 o'clock and the playing throughout was good. Especially striking was the last match. The tournament was not decided on Saturday and it will be played off next Wednesday, as noted below. The full scores of the tournament are as follows:

May Evans ..... Harry D. West ...	1	Martha Tracy..... Evarts Tracy.....	0
Daisy Shepard..... Fred W. Walz.....	4	Margaret Tracy.. Dr. F. C. Ard.....	0
Gertrude Andrews L. H VanBuren...	2	Gertrude Baker... Howard W. Beebe	0
Gertrude Andrews L. H. VanBuren...	3	Mrs. Warren..... Mr. Warren.....	0
Daisy Shepard..... Fred W. Walz.....	1	Harry D. West.... May Evans.....	0

Miss Andrews and L. H. VanBuren finish even with Miss Shepard and Fred W. Walz, and they will play next Wednesday to decide the match.

DR. LEWIS' RESIGNATION.

With Much Regret it is Accepted by the Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

A special meeting of the members and congregation of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was held in the main auditorium room, last evening, to receive and act upon the resignation of Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, who has been called to broader fields, and will start out on a lecturing tour.

Professor Maxson presided and Dr. Lewis' resignation was accepted by a rising vote, with much regret.

Among those present at the meeting, who spoke eulogistically of the Doctor's great and glorious pastorate, were: David E. Titsworth, J. D. Spicer, Charles Potter, Jr., Joseph Titsworth, Mrs. Reuna Randolph and J. A. Hubbard.

A resolution was also adopted requesting the Board of Deacons to supply the pulpit temporarily for a few months, pending the selection of Rev. Dr. Lewis' successor.

Dr. Lewis will preach his farewell sermon on next Sabbath morning, but he will continue to make Plainfield the home for himself and family.

A Distinguished Visitor.

Enoch Wood Perry, Sr., of New Orleans, is visiting his daughter, the widow of the late Captain Holmes, of East Fifth street. Mr. Perry is ninety years of age and visits here annually. He is remakably well preserved for one of his years, and his intellect is not impaired in the least. He is the father of Enoch Wood Perry, Jr., the well-known artist, and he was also a member of the Louisana State Legislature in 1861. At the time the ordinance of secession passed the Legislature there, he strenously opposed the measure.

A hacking cough is not only annoying to others, but is dangerous to the person who has it. One Minute Cough Cure will quickly put an end to it. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

BRYAN'S MOVEMENTS

The Democratic Nominee Due in New York This Evening.

LEFT BATH, ME., AT MIDNIGHT

He Is Accompanied by Mr. Sewall, Who Will Journey with Him to the Metropolis --- Several Addresses Enroute.

Bath, Me., Sept. 28.—William J. Bryan spent a quiet, restful day yesterday as the guest of his political partner, and at midnight, with Mr. Sewall, left for Lynn and Boston over the Maine Central and Boston & Maine railroads. Messrs. Bryan and Sewall attended service at the Centre Congregational church. No reference to Mr. Bryan was made by the minister. At the conclusion of the services the candidates started for Small Point, fifteen miles from Bath, behind a mettlesome pair of trotters, Mr. Sewall holding the reins. Mr. Sewall has a summer cottage at Small Point overlooking the Atlantic at the mouth of the Kennebec, and here Mr. Bryan found quite a party of Mr. Sewall's friends. A fish dinner was served. Besides Messrs. Bryan and Sewall, there were present Charles W. Larrabee, collector of the port; George E. Hughes, chairman of the democratic state committee; W. D. Sewall, son and partner of Arthur Sewall; Edward A. Sewall, M. W. Sewall and F. D. Sewall, nephews; Josephus Daniels, democratic national committeeman from North Carolina; George Nichols, ex-postmaster and ex-mayor of Bath, and several newspaper men who have been accompanying Mr. Bryan on his tour. The presidential nominee immensely enjoyed the fish dinner and the quiet of Small Point. Joseph H. Manly also has a cottage there. Mr. Manley is in New York but his cottage was decorated with American flags in honor of Mr. Bryan's visit. Mr. Bryan returned to Bath at 7 o'clock and three hours later he went on board a sleeping car which was attached to the midnight train. He retired immediately. Mr. Sewall will accompany Mr. Bryan as far as New York.

His Itinerary for To-day.

Providence, Sept. 28.—William J. Bryan and Arthur Sewall arrived here shortly after 10 o'clock this morning and a great crowd greeted the nominees at the depot. Mr. Bryan was hastily escorted to a carriage and driven to a stand which had been erected for him and from which he made a short speech. Later the party left for New London, Conn. Just before leaving Portland, Me., at midnight, the itinerary for Mr. Bryan today was changed. Instead of going to Boston and proceeding to Lynn, he started for Lynn, where his train was due at 5:30 a. m. Taking breakfast there, he spoke at 7 o'clock and left for Boston at 8 o'clock. Arriving at Boston at 8:20 over the Boston & Maine railroad, he was driven to the Park Square station and left for Providence at 9 o'clock on the Colonial express over the Shore line. An hour will be spent at New London, and at 1:05 the candidate will depart for New York, where he is due at 4:30. To-night will be given up to speeches at Paterson, New York and Jersey City. Mr. Bryan's itinerary between October 3, when he will again appear in St. Louis, and October 8, the date of his Burlington, Ia., speech, has been practically arranged. He will go from St. Louis to Memphis and Nashville, thence to Indianapolis, and probably proceed thence to Michigan. The Michigan visit may be postponed until later and the dates filled in at places in Illinois.

Seven Lives Lost by Overloading a Boat.

London, Sept. 28.—Seven lives were lost yesterday afternoon at Shields by the foundering of a boat that was overloaded. The party that entered the boat sank her almost to her gunwales, but as long as they were in perfectly smooth water there was no great danger. When, however, they got some distance out in the harbor they encountered a small sea, which broke over the boat, and despite the efforts made to bail her the water soon filled her and caused her to sink.

Cordage Plant To Be Rebuilt.

Elizabeth, N. J., Sept. 28.—The mortgage for $7,500,000 given Saturday by the Standard Rope & Twine company to the Manhattan Trust company and the Central Trust company of New York, is the largest mortgage ever recorded in this county, and covers all the land of the former Elizabeth Cordage company. The Standard company, it is said, will rebuild on an extensive scale the cordage plant at Elizabethport, which was destroyed by fire in 1891.

Not a Candidate for Congress.

Greenfield, Mass., Sept. 28.—Hon. Daniel A. Malone has decided to withdraw from the contest for the congressional nomination in the First district and his name will not be presented to the convention to-morrow.

Close of the Baseball Season.

New York, Sept. 28.—The National league baseball season in the east closed with Saturday's games, leaving the clubs standing in the following order:

	W.	L.	Per Ct.		W.	L.	Per Ct.
Bal'm're	90	39	.698	N. York	64	67	.489
Cleve'd..	80	48	.625	Phil'ph'a	62	68	.477
Cine'ati..	77	50	.606	Wash'n..	58	73	.443
Boston...	74	57	.565	Brook'n.	58	73	.443
Chicago..	71	57	.555	St. Louis	40	90	.308
Pittsb'g..	66	63	.512	Lou'v'lle.	38	93	.290

The games to be played in the west to-day will wind up the schedule, although the following postponed games are yet to be played: Baltimore, 3; Cleveland, 4; Cincinnati, 5; Boston, 1; Chicago 4; Pittsburg, 3; New York, 1; Philadelphia, 2; Brooklyn, 1; Washington, 1; St. Louis 2; Louisville, 1.

CONEY ISLAND'S "ELEPHANT."

The Famous Wooden Counterfeit of the Monarch of the Jungle Burned.

Coney Island, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The sensational event of the season at this famous summer-day resort occurred last night in the total destruction of the famous wooden "Elephant." This counterfeit presentment of the monarch of the jungle was the most prominent feature of the island, and its peculiar outline, towering high in the air above all the surrounding structures, made it one of the finest objects on shore visible at sea to those on board incoming vessels. The interior of the body was divided into seven stories, and the "howdah" on the back or top of the structure made an observatory from which a fine panoramic view of the region round about was obtained. The "Elephant" had been used of late for a hotel and concert hall. It was originally built in 1880 by a syndicate of Philadelphia capitalists. The loss on the "Elephant" is estimated at $68,000, and on the roller-coaster surrounding it $10,000.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Mount Holyoke College Entirely Consumed---Loss, $200,000.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 28.—Mount Holyoke college was entirely destroyed by fire last evening. The main building, all the dormitories and the gymnasium went to the ground. Loss, about $200,000, probably covered by insurance. The fire started under the gymnasium, probably in the drying room connected with the laundry, and spread rapidly to the rest of the building. There was no adequate fire protection about the building, and assistance was called for from Holyoke and Northampton. Much of the furniture and contents of the building, including a large part of the students' property, was saved, and no one was injured as far as learned. Mrs. Mead, the president of the college, was considerably overcome by the excitement. The building that was burned was four stories high and 180 feet long, with two wings running back 200 feet, also four stories high, and a three-story gymnasium, with the laundry and machine rooms beneath, adjoined the wings.

TOLSON TO BE RELEASED.

He Must Leave Cuba, However---Rebels Defeat Volunteers.

Havana, Sept. 28.—Through the efforts of Consul-General Lee an order has been issued by Captain-General Weyler directing the release of Samuel T. Tolson, the American citizen who was arrested recently on board the Ward line steamer Seneca at this port. A condition attached to his release is that he shall leave the island on Wednesday next. Thirty-five Spanish volunteers, commanded by Lieut. Romero, were surrounded by a superior force of insurgents as they were leaving the town of Quivican, province of Havana. A desperate fight ensued, the Spaniards attempting to cut their way through the rebels. Their efforts were without avail, but they did not cease to fight until twenty-three of their number were killed and four wounded. Among the killed was Lieut. Romero.

Leadville Mine Disorders.

Leadville, Col., Sept. 28.—At 10 o'clock last night a report came in to town that the guard at the water works reservoir was being attacked by a force of armed miners. A few minutes later the report was followed by a rumor that another party was making an assault upon the Bohn shaft, which also is under strong military guard. Investigation, however, reveals the fact that a few shots had been fired in the vicinity of the water works, but no one was injured, and no attacking party was discovered. The mines under guard report by telephone this morning that everything is quiet.

Lost on Green Mountain.

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 28.—Dr. E. A. Smith of Philadelphia and Mrs. John Mintum of New York started to ascend Green mountain yesterday afternoon. They expected to return before sundown. At 8 o'clock, they having failed to appear, men with lanterns and horns began a search. They were found at 8:15, having lost their way on the mountain.

Probably an Elopement.

Trenton, Sept. 28.—Joseph F. Ribsam, a prominent florist at 12 East State street, this city, has been missing since Thursday last. His business affairs seem to be badly involved. Miss Linda Runkle, a pretty woman of 22, who was a clerk in Ribsam's store, has been missing from her home since Thursday evening.

One of Major McKinley's Callers Killed.

Canton, O., Sept. 28.—Much regret is expressed in Canton over the death of Thomas McKivitt of Duquesne, Pa., a member of one of the delegations which called on Major McKinley Saturday. McKivitt fell from the train Saturday night about twenty miles east of Canton and was killed.

Rival Irish Leaders Meet.

Dublin Sept. 28.—An amnesty meeting was held at Tipperary yesterday which was notable from the fact that Messrs. Redmond, Dillon and Daly all spoke. This is the first occasion since the death of Mr. Parnell that these rival leaders have addressed an audience from the same platform.

Waterbury Watch Factory Starts Up.

Waterbury, Conn., Sept. 28.—The Waterbury Watch company, whose factory has been closed for several months owing to the industrial depression, resumed work this morning, giving employment to several hundred operatives.

"Speak Easy" Proprietor Killed.

Pittston, Pa., Sept. 28.—Joseph Purple, the proprietor of a "speak easy" a Boston, a mining village near here, was stabbed and killed yesterday by Michael Pressaus.

MISS LANSING ROWAN.

The Plucky Young Woman Who Wants to Fight Corbett.

She Has Been an Athlete for several Years, and Promises to Put Up a Good Fight If Her Challenge Is Accepted.

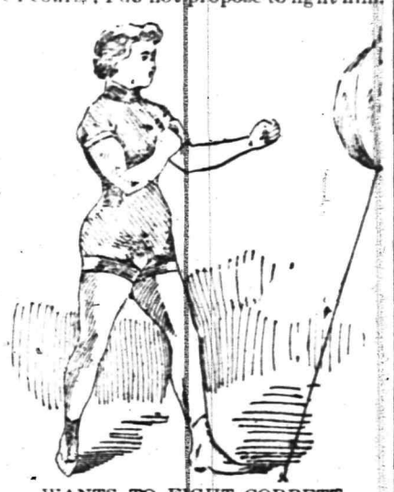
Miss Lansing Rowan, the young woman of California, who has challenged Corbett to meet her in a scientific sparring contest, and whose father killed himself as soon as he heard of the matter, is not, as you might imagine, a brawny woman of pugilistic appearance. She is, on the contrary, a rosy-cheeked lass with a sweet voice and a very girlish manner.

She took to athletic exercise in the beginning merely for the sake of her health, but became so fond of it that even after she had built up a strong physique, she devoted herself assiduously to some of the arduous forms of physical exercise. She began her athletic career at Mrs. Reed's private school in this city, a fashionable boarding-house, where gymnastics form an important part of the curriculum.

From New York she went as an invalid to her uncle in Los Angeles, and here she took to boxing, bag-punching and handball playing. Five years ago she went on the stage, and her daily exercise stood her in good stead; for in spite of the fatiguing work she was called upon to do, she retained her blooming complexion and her clear eyes. She told no one of her intention to challenge the champion until she had carefully trained herself for the encounter. Her announcement came to her friends like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky.

"I am quite in earnest in my challenge," she said to a New York World reporter. "I know it sounds dreadful, but I don't look on the matter in that way. I have made a scientific study of boxing, and I feel convinced that I can meet Mr. Corbett upon equal footing.

"All I want is sufficient notice and then I will meet him anywhere he likes. Of course, I do not propose to fight him.



WANTS TO FIGHT CORBETT.

I simply want to spar for points. Of course, I know that if he struck me one clear blow, it would be a complete knock-out.

"I have been training now for nearly a year. I take exercise in my room and walk to the park every day. Early every morning I ride to the beach, and when I find it deserted I take a little run. I find that I get more exercise out of ten minutes' run on the sand than I could get in half an hour on firmer ground. I have met several professional boxers and have stood up before them five or six rounds.

"When I box I wear a sweater and bloomers, made of a dark cloth and perfectly plain. I cannot tell you how anxious I am to put on the gloves with Corbett. His work, I know, is thoroughly scientific, and that is why I want to box with him."

The death of her father has not changed Miss Rowan's determination.

Her challenge has been conveyed to Corbett and has thrown him into no little embarrassment.

"It's the strangest proposition I ever received," he said, "and I haven't yet decided what to do about it. If I decline her challenge the championship goes to her by default. If I accept it and become at all interested in the contest, I would be terribly afraid of hurting her.

Starving Children

There are children without food. They cry for it, and are not answered. The pity of it! But often nature cries out in other ways that her children need nourishment. Is your child thin; actually poor in flesh? Does it get no benefit from its food? Then give something which produces flesh and makes rich blood.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites does more than this. It changes the unhealthy action to one of health, thus removing the cause. It acts on the nervous system, which controls all the processes of the body, toning it up into sound and vigorous activity. It is food for growing bone and brain. It makes the thin plump; the pale, ruddy; the weak, strong; it feeds and cures.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

JUST AS GOOD IS NOT SCOTT'S EMULSION.

Use Randolph's

QUININE AND GLYCERINE

Hair Tonic.

ONE OF THE MANY TESTIMONIALS:

Mrs. E. E. Waldron, who conducts the ladies' shampooing parlors at 504 Watchung avenue, says of Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine Hair Tonic that she uses it exclusively in her massage and shampoo treatments, and it is the only tonic she can recommend to prevent the hair from falling out and to thoroughly eradicate dandruff. Mrs. Waldron has had considerable experience in the treatment of the scalp, and feels that she cannot praise Randolph's tonic to highly.

Every One

Does It

—you do—we do. When we enter a room we immediately glance at the wall paper. We do it instinctively, for while the wall decoration is seemingly insignificant and unobtrusive, it lays the foundation for the beauty of the room. With inartistic paper you may work forever, and there will be something wrong about the rooms. While the right paper, well, it will almost furnish an empty room. No where else will you find so much beauty for so little money as here. Painter's supplies. Discount to the trade.

RATS KILL A BABY.

Three Big Vicious Rodents Attack a Helpless Infant in Its Crib.

Baltimore, Sept. 26.—Three big rats attacked the two-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Asher of 1150 Low street, Saturday night, and gnawed its face, head and neck to such an extent that the infant died in a short time. Mr. Asher lives over his store. He was looking after his business and Mrs. Asher had gone to market when the rats started to make a meal of the helpless infant which was snugly tucked in its crib in the second story of the dwelling. Hearing the baby crying the father hurried up stairs and, as he entered the room in which the infant was lying, three large vicious looking rats jumped out of the crib and scampered off. The horrified father found that the flesh had been torn from the babe's tender face, head and neck. Before a physician could be summoned the bady died.

NO LINEN IN AUSTRIA.

A Cotton Substitute Which Is Cheaper and as Good in All Respects.

Washington, Sept. 28.—Consul-General Judd at Vienna reported to the state department that the use of linen for collars, cuffs and shirt fronts is practically unknown in Austria, and that the substitute used, called chiffon, is not only cheaper but superior. He describes it as looking and wearing like a fine linen and taking the same gloss, though made wholly of cotton. Consul Judd thinks America should make chiffon, so that Americans might use it. The United States imports probably a million dollars worth of linen for shirts, collars and cuffs, which fact he considers worthy of thought on the part of American cotton manufacturers.

BAVARIA BICYCLE CRAZY.

An Excellent Market Open There for American Wheels.

Washington, Sept. 28.—Bavaria has gone bicycle crazy, according to a consular report reaching the state department from that kingdom, and as the demand cannot be even partially supplied by European markers there is an excellent market for American wheels. The strong prejudice against ladies appearing on wheels has altogether disappeared in Munich and other cities, and now married women, single women, old and young, are enthusiastic devotees of the sport. Consul Carpenter at Furth thinks many thousands of American wheels can be sold next spring in his vicinity.

THACHER'S DECLINATION.

The State Committee Will Be Officially Notified To-night.

New York, Sept. 28.—John Boyd Thacher's declination of the democratic nomination for governor because it would be impossible for him, with the views he held, to make a contest on the coinage issue in accordance with the silver platform of the Buffalo convention, will be reported to the state committee by the notification committee at the meeting to-night, when the matter of filling the vacancy on the ticket will be taken up. Already several names are mentioned for the place and it is believed nothing short of an out and out silver man will be acceptable.

Collision in New York Bay.

New York, Sept. 28.—The Stag line steamer Nymphaea, which arrived yesterday from Mediterranean ports, as she was proceeding up the lower bay at 10 o'clock, was run into during a thick fog by the British steamer May, bound to Barenquilla. The May, which was proceeding at a fair rate of speed, struck the Nymphaea on the port bow, smashing her stem and breaking several bow plates above the water line. The May immediately put about and returned to the city in a badly damaged condition. Her bow was badly stove.

Damaged by a Hurricane at Sea.

New York, Sept. 28.—The Lampor & Holt line steamer Rosse, which arrived yesterday from Santos, Brazil, experienced a hurricane on September 18 which swept her decks and did a great deal of damage. The steamer presents a battered appearance. She has a heavy list to port, her rails are bent and twisted and there are evidences on every hand of the severity of the weather she had encountered.

Hog Cholera in Minnesota.

St. Peter, Minn., Sept. 28.—For some time this part of the country has been infested with hog cholera. During the last few weeks it has been especially severe, and is killing whole herds of swine. It is estimated that the presence of the disease will cost Nicollett and Lesseur counties $100,000 and the other counties in this part of Minnesota as much more.

Towed into Port.

Quarantine, S. I., Sept. 28.—The American clipper ship Solitaire, of Bath, Me., Capt. Thompson, which left Philadelphia Sept. 19 for San Francisco, was towed into this port last night by the British steamer West Indian, Capt. Campbell, which fell in with her on Friday Sept. 25, at 2:30 a. m., in lat. 38.44, long. 62.45 in a dismasted condition.

Dying from Hiccoughs.

Kokomo, Ind., Sept. 28.—Rev. E. C. Siler, pastor of the Friends church at West Middleton, this county, is dying from hiccoughs with which he was seized ten days ago and which have continued constantly ever since. Medical attendants say he can live but a short time.

A Populist Paper Suspends.

BUSY DAYS IN VIEW

Many Strangers Booked To Visit Canton This Week.

MAJOR M'KINLEY IN GOOD HEALTH

Not at All Fatigued Over the Arduous Task of Receiving the Great Throngs of Callers Last Week.

Canton, O., Sept. 28.—Major McKinley was not in the least over fatigued over his week's hard work which he closed with eleven speeches Saturday night. He remained at home yesterday morning and spent the afternoon at his sister-in-law's, Mrs. Barber, where he and Mrs. McKinley dined. Major McKinley expects a week of arduous work, but he will not have as many delegation as he had to receive last week. Probably the most exacting six days of the campaign here will be this week, when there are a large number of big delegations coming from long distances to call on the republican candidate. Major McKinley seems to thrive on hard work and it cannot be seen that the campaign has in any way impaired his health or robbed him of his strength. It is his purpose to make his speeches considerably shorter as delegations increase in number and this new plan was resorted to Saturday when he made eleven speeches. To-morrow and Saturday will be interesting days this week. To-morrow a visit from a large woman's McKinley club of Cincinnati is expected, and on Saturday the wheelmen's McKinley and Hobart clubs of the United States are expected in Canton. It is believed that there will be between 8,000 and 10,000 wheelmen in the parade here on Saturday. A large delegation of wheelmen is coming from Chicago and intermediate points, and many are expected from Pittsburg and the east. There are six delegations booked for Saturday, but that number will probably be doubled before the end of the week. Delegations are scheduled as late as October 22, and it is likely that they will continue to come until the first day of November. It is proposed by some of the local leaders to have a big rally here about the middle of the last week of October and to have a number of strong speakers present. Maj. McKinley will begin this week's work to-day, when two delegations are to call.

THREE MONARCHS PRESENT.

Formal Opening of the Danube to Navigation After the Removal of Iron Gate.

Budapest, Sept. 28.—The great engineering work of removing the obstruction in the Danube known as the Iron Gate, between Alt-Orsova, in Hungary, and Gladova, in Servia, has been finally accomplished and yesterday the river was opened to navigation with elaborate ceremonies by Emperor Francis Joseph. His majesty was accompanied by King Carol of Roumania and King Alexander of Servia. A large number of diplomats, ministers of state and distinguished men were present, besides great crowds from the neighboring towns as well as large number of troops.

Bismarck's Letter to Gov. Culberson.

Berlin, Sept. 28.—The Vossische Zeitung, commenting upon the correspondence between Gov. Culberson of Texas and Prince Bismarck on the question of free silver, says that the letter of the prince can only be interpreted as meaning that he would be pleased if the Americans should succeed in settling the question, but that he does not know whether they will or how success could be assured.

Swift Bicycle Journey.

Waterbury, Conn., Sept. 28.—On a wager of $50, that he could not make the trip in two hours, Joseph Fleming yesterday rode from Waterbury to Hartford, 32 miles, in 1 hour and 44 minutes. He reached Southington mountain nineteen minutes after leaving Waterbury. This is the first year that Fleming has ridden a wheel, and his performance is considered remarkable here.

Drowned While Trying To Imitate Christ.

Toledo, O., Sept. 28.—Information has reached here from Defiance that Charles Gossler, a young business man of that city, was drowned in the Maumee river Saturday while attempting to walk on the water in imitation of the Savior. Gossler is believed to have gone insane over religion. He was married only last week.

Celebrated Her 100th Birthday.

Pittsfield, Mass., Sept. 28.—Miss Betsy Barrett of Hinsdale celebrated her 100th birthday yesterday. She was born and lived all her life in Hinsdale. Her mind is quite strong and her health quite good, but she has been deaf for several years. Her centennial was observed by her friends.

Steamship Damaged by Storm.

Dover, Sept. 28.—The steamer Ardath, which sailed from Greenock Sept. 21 for New Orleans, has put into Falmouth, having lost her funnel, had her boats smashed and sustained other damage to her decks when off Someton. No one on board was hurt.

Loss of the Schooner Webster.

San Francisco, Sept. 28.—Capt. Scott of the schooner Herman, which has just arrived from Kodiak with the excellent catch of eighty-five otter skins, brings further assurances of the loss of the schooner Edward E. Webster and the lives of the twenty-nine men she carried.

All the Members of the Crew Perish.

Paris, Sept. 28.—Advices received here show that the steamer Magadena foundered during a gale off the coast of the department of Landes, in southwestern France. All the members of MR. KIRK STILL IN THE RACE.

The New Jersey Contractor has the following to say in commenting on the Shrevalty race in the Republican camp:

"It is said that Mr. Kirk is out of the race in favor of Mr. Houston, but who can tell? It is certain that Mr. Houston has a strong following in both places. It is equally certain that up to the hour of the calling to order of the convention that no one will know who will be nominated. The strongest candidate may fail in the hour of trial."

Editor Pearson's tip that Plainfield's Billy is out of the race in favor of another man is strangely out of place. If signs amounts to anything, Mr. Kirk is decidedly in it, though as the Contractor remarks, the strongest man at present may lack the final spurt to capture the coveted prize.

PASSING EVENTS OF INTEREST.

Within the next fourteen days Plainfield is to be the scene of three big demonstrations, and in the preparation, enjoyment and aftermath of the events we shall be a busy community, intent upon displaying our hospitality in such away as to leave a lasting impression on the visitors. Beyond the mere passing pleasure to be extracted from the affairs, there is also a substantial reward for the business men in the increased trade which the very elaborate entertainment will afford.

NOT WHAT THEY DESERVED.

The Crescent Wheelmen really deserved far better financial support at their race meet, Saturday afternoon, than it was their fortune to possess. The entries included the most famous professional and amateur racers in the country, the day was fair and fine, the track in a fast condition and the contests close and exciting in the extreme. But with all these favorable conditions, it is understood that the Crescents will have to figure pretty close to make both ends meet.

Miss Laura L. Runyon, of Arlington avenue, leaves tomorrow for Chicago, where she will resume her studies at the University.

Mrs. M. G. Sird, of Vergennes, Vt., who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. W. Garo, of East Third street, has returned home.

Miss Jennie Quick, of East Fifth street, has returned home after a very pleasant visit of two weeks with friends in Trenton.

Miss Maude VanDyke, of East Front street, has returned home after a visit of two months with her uncle, Dr. Sutphen, at Bernardsville.

Ida Lewis, of the West End, was seized with a fainting spell while attending service at the Mt. Olive Baptist church last evening. She was taken home by friends.

Chief T. O. Doane, Harry Demarest, Auguste Saltzman, Wm. Townley and G. Thorn, of this city, leave tomorrow for Cape May to attend the state convention of the Firemen's Relief Association.

The funeral of the late Edward Henry, who died on Friday, took place from the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. James Graves officiating. Interment was made in the Evergreen cemetery.

Rev. Father J. A. Stafford, formerly assistant rector of St. Mary's church, this city, but now of Seton Hall College, South Orange, was the guest of Rev. Father Smyth yesterday afternoon and officiated at the evening devotions, during which he preached an eloquent sermon on "The Grace of God."

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

OLD AND YOUNG PRESENT

RALLYING DAY PROVIDES SORT OF A REUNION FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Special Services Held in Four of the Churches Yesterday Afternoon.—Attendance Was Large at All Schools.

Rallying day was observed yesterday by four of Plainfield's largest Sunday schools, and at each school the attendance was exceedingly large. This annual event among Sunday schools has become very popular from the fact that all persons who have ever been connected with the various schools are expected to be present, and it serves as a reunion. Yesterday, this feature was quite prominent. At the First Baptist Church Sunday-school the decorations were especially attractive. Two large flags were draped around the platform, and in front was an immense bank of golden rod. At the other schools the decorations consisted of cut flowers principally. Below will be found the programmes as rendered by the three schools:

FIRST BAPTIST.

Song, "Praise God"; Prayer, Superintendent, R. K. Case; Song, "When Morning Gilds the Skies," school; Scripture Reading, Superintendent, R. K. Case; Song, "Children's Prayer," Primary Department; Prayer, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes; Contralto solo, Mrs. T. M. Ward; Recitation, "Telling the Story," Hazel Grant; Song, "Bright Gallilee," school; Address, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes; Song, "Marching On," school; Recitation, "Coming," Miss Addie Parker Jackson; Soprano solo, Miss Harris; Recitation, "If I Were a King," Jerry Manning; Remarks, Superintendent R. K. Case; Song, school; Closing. Howard Case presided at the piano, and R. W. Barnes played the violin.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Hymn, No. 130; Responsive Reading; Prayer, and Lord's Prayer in concert; Gloria; Hymn, No. 4; Collection Hymn, Primary Department; Collection; Review, Titles and Golden Texts; Hymn, No. 72; Responsive Reading; Hymn, No. 98; Solo, "The Palms," Miss Blanche Fellows; Promotion from Primary Department; Address, Rev. C. E. Herring; Hymn, No. 116; Review of Quarter's Lesson; Hymn, No. 318; Trombone solo, with Piano accompaniment, Mr. and Miss. Dunham; Responsive reading; Hymn, No. 100; Closing Prayer, Rev. C. E. Herring.

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

The Missionary Society were in charge at the Trinity Reformed Church Sunday-school, and Rev. C. E. Herring was secured for a short address. Following was the programme rendered: Prayer, Rev. Cornelius Schenck; Singing, school; Scripture reading, A. K. Willett; Singing, school; Soprano solo, Miss Etta Krymer; Address, Rev. C. E. Herring; Singing, school; Benediction, Rev. C. Schenck. Miss Mabel Woodruff in a report stated that during the Summer the Missionary Society had shipped three boxes of library books to Sunday schools who did not have any books. One was sent to Schenectady, N. Y., one to Amsterdam, N. Y., and the other to Grand Rapids, Michigan.

CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH.

The exercises held in the Crescent Avenue Church yesterday afternoon were interesting and helpful to both young and old scholars alike. They were conducted by Mr. O. H. Newman. The following order of exercises were carried out: Hymn, "Break Thou the Bread of Life"; Prayer, William D. Murray; Hymn, "Lord, Thy Glory Fills the Heaven"; Address of Welcome and Cheer, Wm. D. Murray; Duet, Contralto and Alto, selected, Mrs. E. Banta Brooke and Miss Annie Hardenberg; Responsive reading led by Mr. Newman; Hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers"; Offering for mission work; Hymn, "Love Divine, All Love Excelling"; Address, Dr. R. W. Richards; Hymn, "Saviour, Listen to Our Prayer"; Prayer, Mr Newman; Closing Hymn, "Saviour, Again to Thy Dear Name We Raise"; Benediction.

Dr. Richards address was a brief story of the life of Solomon, embracing the story of the next quarter's lesson.

Will re-open for its fifteenth year on Monday, Sept. 14th, '96.
The Junior Department will have its own building and will receive boys from eight years old and upwards. The work will be conducted in accordance with most modern ideas and approved methods.
To enter the main school, boys must be at least thirteen years of age.
Improvements during vacation make it possible now for pupils in Physics and Chemistry to do laboratory work, for which there has been no room heretofore.
Boys are thoroughly prepared for college or business.
During fourteen years, fourteen classes have been sent to college.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mrs. W. S. Emery, who has been spending a week at Hoosac Falls, N. Y., is expected home today.

A party of Plainfield young people will have an evening sociable and dance at Lee's Hotel on the evening of October 12th.

Street Commissioner John Cook is improving the decidedly rough condition of Forester road, which has needed repairing for a long time past.

Postmistress Miss Eda Baker and her escort, Frank Allen, took an afternoon bicycle outing to Cranford Saturday, returning late in the afternoon.

About thirty of the members of Goodwill Lodge, No. 101, K. of P., have gone to Paterson today to participate in the field day exercises of the order.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lee entertained about forty of their most intimate friends and acquaintances from Plainfield, Rahway and other adjacent towns, Saturday night.

The balance of the Flanders' summer boarders will leave for New York today, and the large boarding house, which has been the scene of so much gaiety during the summer months, is now practically closed for the summer.

The Brooklyn Traction Company has awarded a contract to the Berkeley Heights stone crushing works, on the mountain near here, to furnish 200 tons of crushed stone. John Cook already has two teams at work delivering the stone on cars at the Fanwood station.

Julia, wife of George Ogden, Sr., died at her home in Scotch Plains, yesterday, aged seventy-six years She was the daughter of Benjamin and Mary Wilson, and her death resulted from old age after a tedious illness. Besides the husband one son survives her. Funeral services will be held at the house in Scotch Plains tomorrow at two o'clock p. m., and from the Methodist church at 2:30 o'clock.

DUNELLEN.

Miss Minnie VanMiddlesworth and her uncle, J. F. Snell, rode to Somerville and back on their wheels Saturday.

John Reynolds, age one month, son of Frederick W. and Constance B. Barker, of Dunellen, died this morning. The funeral will be private.

George Trust, of Greenbrook, who fell from his wheel a week or more ago and skinned both hands, is out and around, but the hands are not yet out of the bandages.

The work of laying the foundation walls for the new town hall was begun on Saturday and it is thought everything will be readiness for the carpenters by the middle of the week, and probably before that time.

Paul Reusch, who accidentally shot himself in the eye sometime ago, thereby losing the sight, is about to undergo a most painful and delicate operation, probably in Muhlenberg Hospital. The charge of shot entered the head and tore out his left eye, so that skin grafting became necessary. Particles of skin were taken from his arm and grafted to the face about the eye, but the operation seems to have been only partially successful, as the grafted portions do not properly knit together. This makes another and still more difficult operation necessary.

NEW MARKET

The postponed marriage of Robert Giddis, of Dunellen, and Miss Ida Fletcher, of New Market, is now definitely settled for the first week in October. The couple will occupy the Reed property on the main road leading to Dunellen.

—Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., meets tomorrow evening.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

FANWOOD.

Mrs. Kyte, the wife of Sheriff Geo. Kyte, of Fanwood, met with a serious accident at the Broad street railroad crossing at Westfield on Wednesday. While crossing the tracks upon her bicycle, she became confused at the sight of a Royal Blue express train approaching and did not notice that the gates guarding the crossing were being lowered. She collided with one of them, and was thrown from her wheel. Mrs. Kyte's head was badly bruised and she received a nervous shock, but no more serious injuries.

EARLY INTELIGENCE.

—Powelson & Jones received today a carload of spring mattresses and bedding.

—A special service will be held at Holy Cross church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

—Dr. H. K. Carroll preached an interesting sermon at Warren chapel last evening.

—The North Plainfield Board of Education will meet this evening in regular session.

—There will be a special meeting of the Temperance Aid Society in Reform Hall, Tuesday, at 3 p. m.

—William Kane and Albino Gressita were fined $1 each this morning for riding their bicycles without a light.

—Mrs. L. Adams' fall opening of millinery will take place next Friday. All the latest novelties will be found there.

—E. R. Taylor spoke very interestingly at the Y. M. C. A. meeting yesterday afternoon. There was solo and duet singing.

—The Epworth League meeting at the First M. E. church last evening was exceptionally large and much interest was shown. Arthur Crone was the leader.

—A requiem mass will be celebrated at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning in St. Joseph's church for the "month's mind" of Miss Marion Louise Anderson, who died Aug. 29th.

—Rev. Walter Russell, evangelist, will address the Christian Alliance on Tuesday evening, at 7:45 at the parlors of the W. C. T. U., Watchung avenue. Subject, "The Fullness of Jesus."

—A sociable and cake walk will be given by the "Jolly Four" in T. A. B. Hall, Thursday evening, October 29th. The committee of arrangements consists of J. C. Dunham, J. H. McCray, F. H Nelson and A. O. Dunham.

—The announcement of Edsall's millinery opening which appears in our advertising columns, only tells of the opening, but it is said by those who know, that it will be the finest fall opening this city has ever had.

—Some of the West Third street property owners are complaining because they have been obliged to lay stone flagging, when some of their neighbors, particularly those on Liberty street, have not been molested. They claim that it is unjust to make them lay walks when other property owners are not asked to do likewise.

Hurt in a Trolley Car Accident.

Lawyer Chas. Moffett, of this city, came near being fatally injured Saturday evening while riding in a trolley car from Clinton township to Newark. The car and a heavy milk wagon collided with such force as to cause one end of the shafts to penetrate the front end of the car. Mr Moffett sat in the front of the car and the shaft struck his left arm, making it very sore leaving a black and blue mark. He took the number of the car, the names of the motorman and conductor and several witnesses. Mr. Moffett has not yet decided whether he will bring suit or not.

Card of Thanks.

Mark Schoettlin and son Willie desire to express their heartfelt thanks and keen appreciation for the many kindnesses and favors extended to them by their friends in their time of sorrow when sickness and death suddenly entered their happy household and removed the wife and mother from them. They especially thank the societies and friends for the floral tributes presented at the obsequies.

Warren Chapel.

Rally day services were held yesterday afternoon by the Sunday-school of Warren chapel. Short addresses were made by Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., Rev. J. O. McKelvey and Leander N. Lovell. A special musical service was rendered. The offering was a special one for home missions.

Chronic constipation is a painful, disagreeable and life-shortening difficulty. It deranges the system, causes sickheadache, bad breath, and poisons the blood. It can be readily overcome by DeWitts' Little Early Risers. These little pills are great regulators. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Louis Coombs, of Trenton, was a guest in town yesterday.

Miss Piker, of Arlington, was the guest of Plainfield relatives yesterday.

R. E. Pease, of New York, is spending two weeks in Plainfield with relatives.

Mrs. Oliver Voorhees, of East Front street, is spending a few days in Somerville.

The condition of Mrs. Robert Rushton, of LaGrande avenue, is reported much worse.

Miss Gertrude Durand, of West Second street, is to enter a New York school of stenography.

Fred Durand, of West Second street, expects to leave for a business trip to Albany and Boston tonight.

Mr. Codington, of Mt. Horeb, was the guest yesterday of Assemblyman and Mrs. W. R. Codington.

Mrs. A. C. Baldwin, of Park avenue and Eighth street, has gone to Philadelphia for a few days stay.

Miss Adelaide Hillhouse, of Paris, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Alice Chandor, of East Fifth street.

J. T. Closson and Mrs. Edgerton, of East Front street, returned yesterday after a season at Elberon.

Joseph B. Yerkes and George H. Burgess, Jr., of Central avenue, have returned from Bethlehem, Pa.

Rev. George W. and Mrs. Lincoln, of Philadelphia, are the guests of Hugh R. Knox, of Webster place.

Charles Gifford, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday in Plainfield the guest of David Krymer, of West Second street.

S. A. Cahoone and family, of Watchung avenue, have returned home after an extended absence from town.

J. E. Martine will speak at Morristown tomorrow night. This is in Hon. Mahlon Pitney's Congressional district.

Mr. Walter Crane, of Orange, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Adams, of Netherwood avenue, returned home yesterday.

J. F. Sullivan, of Philadelphia, has returned home after a very pleasant visit at the home of the Misses Walsh, of the West End.

Miss M. J. Thickstun, of Central avenue, has returned home from Belmar, after a delightful rest at that popular seaside resort.

Mr. and Mrs. David Miodoonik, of West Front street, went to New York today to attend a christening of Mr. Miodoonik's son-in-law's child. Mrs. Rothberg went along.

Constable George N. Mockridge, of Newark is spending a month at Edward Lauffer's Rose Hill farm, near Sterling. He has a team of trotting horses with him and is thoroughly enjoying life in the country.

Mrs. C. L. Treat, of East Fourth street, was taken to her brother's home in Bayonne on Saturday, with the hope that a change might prove beneficial to her health. Mrs. Treat has been a sufferer from heart trouble for a year past, and she seems to get but little relief.

Joseph Brown, one of the foremen at Potter's Press Works, sailed on the Anchor line on Saturday for Glasgow, Scotland, to visit his mother and his child at Kilcaddy. Mr. Brown was the recipient of a handsome gold-headed umbrella from his fellow workmen before his departure.

P. H. O'Brien, representative of the Catholic News, was the guest yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Cashin, of West Fifth street. Mr. O'Brien is a professional singer of rare ability, and at the high mass in St. Mary's church in the morning the singing was greatly enhanced by his rich tenor voice, the rendition of a solo by him being especially pleasing. At the evening devotions he sang "O Salutaris Hostia" in the same capable manner.

Meeting of Knights of Pythias.

The annual field day of the Knights of Pythias of the state of New Jersey was held in Paterson today. Altogether there were about 4,000 members of the association from different cities and towns of the state present.

The knights this morning paraded through the principal streets of the city, which were gayly decorated. The parade was reviewed by many prominent officials and the men made a fine showing, being applauded all along the line.

This afternoon a competitive drill will take place in the armory to which many people have been invited, among them being Garret A. Hobart, Gov. Griggs, Mayor Braun, and the Board of Aldermen. Prizes are to be awarded. The festivities will come to a close this evening with a concert and reception in the Second Regiment armory.

TRADE IN THE CONGO

All Manner of Trinkets Used by the Natives as Money.

WON'T ACCEPT GOLD OR SILVER

Food Ridiculously Cheap and a Small Cup Full of Beads Will Buy Enough Provisions To Keep One Person for a Week.

Washington, Sept. 28.—In the course of an elaborate report on the Free Congo State made to the state deparment by United States consul Dorsey Mohun, who traveled for two years with the Belgian forces through the interior of that country, relates many interesting accounts of the methods of trading used by the natives. Where money is made the medium of exchange brass rods of different lengths are used as standards of value in some districts and in other places of cotton cloth, squares of woven palm fibre and beads pass for currency. Consul Mohun's opportunities for studying this almost unknown country was exceptionally good, and his report, which will soon be published by the state department, will give a clearer knowledge of the commercial possibilities of the vast Congo region than perhaps can be obtained from the chronicles of any other traveler in the great African valley. The first market described is that at Leopoldville, on the Lower river, where twice a week three or four thousand natives bring their products to exchange for gunpowder and checked cloth, the only money in use being brass rods or "mitako," which are cut in lengths ten inches long. At Bananapoint the articles used for trade with the natives are red bandana handkerchies, cloth, beads, machetes, old silk hats, colored parasols, cheap knives, flint-lock muskets, powder, brass rods, crockeryware, tinware, old uniform coats, old derby hats, rum, cheap watches and cologne.

Handkerchief the Standard of Value.

All these articles are specially for the trade, and the standard of value is a piece of handkerchief twenty-four feet long and three feet broad and valued at fifty cents. When the trader buys produce he gives cards to the natives which are good each for one piece of handkerchief, and when the caravan has been bought out the natives come to the fetich or store and hand in their cards, when they can select what they want to the value of the cards held. As a rule, they will not touch money, and this, of course, is a great advantage to the trader, who makes large profits in exchange for handkerchiefs, which probably cost him, landed in the Congo, duty paid, twenty cents apiece.

Other Mediums of Exchange.

At Lak Leopold, the medium of exchange consists of small, white and blue round beads, small cowrie-checked cotton cloth and strips of brass rods in small quantities, large and small bells, tin plates and looking glasses. American sheeting, commonly known throughout Central Africa as "Merikani," also goes well. At Yambinga brass rods, beads and cloth are currency, the rods being uniformly twenty-four inches long. One stone flint for flintlock musket is worth nine pounds of rubber at Ikimi. Lusambo, which is a large state post established to block the progress of the Arabs westward, is the depot of a thrifty, industrious, populous district.

Food Very Cheap.

Food is ridiculously cheap, and a small egg cup full of blue beads, a little larger than pin heads, will purchase food for one man for a week. The other currency is copper crosses, cowries, brass rods and cloth. Coffee and cotton grow wild, and the natives own a good many cattle. A cow can be bought for one flint-lock gun, valued at $2.50 on the coast. The dash of Arab in these people makes them exceedingly clean, in strong contrast to Congo savages. Mr. Mohun says that, while the Congo native is satisfied with a strip of dirty cloth a foot wide covering him in front and behind, with the ends tucked in a string around the waist, the Arab boy will sew together all the cloth which he receives in pay and drape the whole thing about himself. He saw one man wearing at least 200 yards of such cloth, and it was always kept clean.

Wear Their Money for Clothes.

At Kassongo, where a great market is held three times a week, the money is "madiba," a square of woven palm fibre and with six of these a man can get food enough to last him a week. These "madibas" are patched into garments and worn until needed as money. Madibas and iron hoes constitute the money at Nangive, which is the African salt centre. Here salt is also used to purchase everything, and is practically the standard of value. Ivory does not appear to be used in the payment of dues and taxes anywhere in the state, probably on account of its size. It is first exchanged for brass rods and madibas, which circulate freely. Only in exceptional instances will any fareign coin be received in payment for articles, the natives being suspicious of it. Gold and silver are altogether unknown and can not be forced upon the savages. The Congo state is said to be bankrupt, its expenditures more than double its receipts from domestic revenues. The advances from the Belgian treasury and King Leopold is making up the deficit.

Stabbed His Wife To Death.

Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—A quarrel took place between John L. Criblin and his wife Mary, in their room at 635 North Front street yesterday, and the man stabbed the woman in the throat, killing her almost instantly. Criblin was arrested. He was jealous of his

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to he genuine Youman at $5.00

LATTER-DAY CREMATION.

Complete Description of the Process of Incineration.

The Method Much More Popular Than It Was Five Years Ago—Number of Crematories Now in Active Operation.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

With the rise of Christianity and the belief in the doctrine of resurrection, the ancient custom of burning the dead fell into disuse. Inhumation took the place of incineration. The modern world has, however, discarded their crude conception of the meaning of resurrection and also knows full well that in less than 50 years the body secreted beneath the sod will decompose into its elements as surely as the corpse exposed on the funeral pyre. But the custom of 1,500 years is not easily overcome and the medieval prejudice against cremation still remains.

It was not until the latter half of the present century that the agitaion in favor of consigning the corpse to the flames began. Jacob Moleschott, the Dutch-Italian scientist, was the apostle of the movement. Progressive men in Italy took up his cause and in 1876 the first crematory of modern times, i. e., in Christain countries, was put into operation at Milan. Later in the same year a crematory was built at Washington, Pa., and a third at Gotha, Germany, in 1878.

Since then the movement has grown rapidly. The United States is the foremost champion, with Italy a close second. Cremation societies have been founded in nearly every country of the globe. In the United States there are over 20 such societies, and a class paper published in Chicago, Park and Cemetery, devotes a portion of each issue to the subject.

A cremation is no such hideous spectacle as one might imagine; in fact, its associations are not near as gloomy as those of the earth burial. When the funeral procession arrives at the crematory, the coffin is first taken into the chapel and placed upon a bier. If so desired, a final ceremony to correspond to that at the grave is performed, and then the bier bearing the coffin is lowered by a hydraulic system to the floor below.

Sometimes the corpse is taken out of the coffin and wrapped in asbestos, but usually coffin and all are burned together. Only the chief mourners are allowed at the scene of cremation. The coffin with its contents is placed upon a sliding frame and shoved up to the doors of the retort, which are then opened. No fire is visible. But the air is so intensely heated, from 2,000 to 2,700 degrees Fahrenheit, that a beautiful rosy light bathes the interior of the furnace. The retort has average dimensions of ten by five by five feet. It is lined with fire clay and has an outer wall of fire brick.

It takes about two hours to complete the cremation. The process may be witnessed through a window of mica. In many furnaces no fire touches the body; the superheated air alone does the work. There are two fires, one below and one behind and above the corpse. Coal oil is the usual fuel. The rear fire is fed by air obtained through loopholes in the rear of the furnace. It shoots its flames to the front and carries the gases from the body with it. These are driven down into the opening in front, which leads through the under fire back to the chimney in the rear of the retort. So perfect and so powerful is the ventilation that not a particle of gas can escape without passing through both fires and being entirely neutralized by oxidation.

When all the combustible material has been driven off, the furnace is cooled off and the ashes are gathered. The ashes of the corpse are white, those of the clothes and coffin black. The white ashes weight form five to eight pounds. They are picked out with metal tongues and returned to the relatives in metal receptacles.

The remains are variously disposed of. They may be buried in a grave with another member of the family or in a space set apart for this purpose by cemetery companies. The ancient custom of preserving the ashes in urns has, however, the greatest favor. The price of urns ranges from one dollar to fabulous sums. They are to the crematory what marble monuments are to the cemetery, and as many people cannot be content without a sacrifice of wealth for the deceased ingenious de-expensive. Some are made of the most exquisite serpentine stone, covered with elaborate decorations in precious metals. China and bronze are common material, and silver is frequently used.

In New York a columbarium has been built—the cremation cemetery. The columbarium is a large stone building whose inner walls are indented with 600 niches in which the urns may be kept. Thus the sentiment which demands some token of remembrance of the deceased is satisfied by the return to an ancient and poetic custom.

With a few notable exceptions, the church has shown itself apathetic toward the growing practice of cremation. But there are prominent ministers of all denominations who have spoken in favor of it. The pope has declared against cremation, but as it is a question of practice rather than of doctrine, the Catholic church may at any time change its attitude. Strange to say, one of the most enlightened governments of the world, that of Prussia, will permit no cremations in its territories. There is a columbarium in Berlin, but the incinerations take place at Hamburg, Gotha or Heidelburg.

The better educated people of all countries are to a large extent in favor of the reform, but its more rapid spread is hindered by the fact that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred in which the deceased preferred cremation without directly ordering it, the execution of his wish is prevented by the opposition of some more or less distant relative.

In this country the practice of cremation has grown more rapidly than anywhere else with the exception, perhaps, of Italy. From 1870 to 1884 there was but one crematory in the United States, then a second was built at Lancaster, Pa., and a third at New York. The twenty-second has just been completed at Milwaukee. Nine hundred and fifty four voluntary cremations took place in 1895, as against 25 in the nine years from 1876 to 1885. Forty-six hundred and forty-seven cremations, of which 1,635 fell to New York, is the total to January 1 of this year. The twenty-two American crematories are located at Washington, Pa., Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Pa., Lancaster, Pa., New York city (at Fresh Pond, L. I.), Buffalo, N. Y., Troy, N. Y., Swinburne Island, N. Y., Waserville, N. Y., Los Angeles and Pasadena, Cal., and two at San Francisco. St. Louis, Boston, Cincinnati, Chicago Detroit, Baltimore, Davenport, Ia., Ft Wayne, Ind., Milwaukee. There are three crematories in Germany, and about 25 in Italy, with a total number of cremations almost equal to those of the United States. Other crematories are located at London, Glasgow, Paris, Copenhagen and Stockholm.

In reality it is the old country that most needs the reform. The filthiness and infectious character of cemeteries increases with the thickness of population.

About 5,000 cubic feet of gas are given off by a decaying human body and must find an outlet somewhere. Some of it rises out of the ground and pollutes the air above and about the burial ground, while a part presses laterally until it finds an opening generally through a spring or well through which it escapes. The danger from such drinking water is extreme. Very frequently the peculiar sulphurous taste of polluted well water is mistaken for health-giving mineral. So well known is this danger that all over crowded Europe we find regulations prohibiting cemeteries within 300, 500 or even 5,000 feet of private dwellings. One hundred and fifty years after the great plague of London, the cemetery was dug up and every workman employed on the job died of the disease. The miasmatic atmosphere that hovers above a cemetery is swept along by the wind, and infectious diseases are almost certain to reappear where victims are buried.

The problem of economy in land is intimately connected with that of hygiene. In the old and densely populated districts of Europe it has led to the most outrageous abuses. It is but a few years ago that the English government found a large district in a London cemetery filled with 14 layers of coffins, packed side by side, one generation directly on top of the other, with just enough soil to intervene so that the relatives of the last arrival could not detect the fraud.

It has been estimated that 47,000,000 people die annually, and that it takes 21 square miles to bury them. Twenty-one square miles a year are thus taken from the living, and the country within a radius of half a mile is made practically uninhabitable.

New Theory of Sunstroke.

An English physician has discovered that sunburn is produced by penetrating light rays and not by heat at all. The face of a victim of sunburn is not only swollen, but pitted, and at the bottom of each pit the microscope discloses a freckle. The physician who has made this interesting discovery claims that sunstroke can be averted by wearing a hat and clothes of an orange hue. No remedy is found to be so satisfactory as the use of pigments. A lady who wore a blouse with red and white stripes had red stripes imprinted on her shoulders by the sun underneath the white, while the skin under the red stripes remained normal in color.

GOSSIP FROM BERLIN

General Criticism by the Press of Gladstone's Liverpool Speech.

MAY DO MORE HARM THAN GOOD

Thoumayan's Expulsion Dampens Any Possible Official Sympathies with the Armenians—Surgeons Responsible for Frau Klafsky's Death.

(Copyright, 1896, by the United Associated Presses.)

Berlin, Sept. 28.—The anti-Turkish speech delivered by Mr. Gladstone at last Thursday's mass meeting at Liverpool has been widely published here and generally commented on by the newspapers, a majority of which speak of the address unfavorably. The Vossische Zeitung is the most indulgent of any of the leading journals in its criticisms and goes no further than to express the hope that the words of the former prime minister of Great Britain will have a sobering effect on the sultan and the palace clique behind him. At the same time, the Vossische suggests the posstbility that the almost violent language employed by Mr. Gladstone may reawaken the fanaticism of the Moslems and the Armenian revolutionists and their friends, leading to the very results which he so strongly denounced. Among the other leading German papers the consensus of opinion is that the speech is more likely to do harm than good. The suggestion made by Mr. Gladstone of a severance of the diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Turkey is regarded by the papers as fantastic and only likely to encourage a renewal of the massacres in the sultan's dominion. The North German Gazette, in an exhaustive article in criticism of the speech, says: "It must be painful to many Englishmen to find that Mr. Gladstone does not know of any other remedy for the Turkish excesses than to threaten the sultan, while at the same time confessing that the threats can not be followed by action."

Expulsion of Prof. Thoumayan.

The practical expulsion from Berlin a few days ago of Prof. Thoumayan, the Armenian lecturer, who came to Germany for the purpose of organizing anti-Turkish meetings, has had a tendency to dampen any possible official sympathy with the Armenians. To the German official mind Prof. Thoumayan is a mere agitator, who, perhaps, may be personally irreproachable, but politically is indistinguishable from the wildest and most fanatical Huntchakist, or Armenian revolutionist. According to the semi-official version of the incident published in the Cologne Gazette Prof. Thoumayan owes his life to the German ambassador to Turkey, who interceded in his behalf when the professor was sentenced to death as a conspirator in Armenia, and procured for him a reprieve on the strength of Thoumayan's undertaking to abandon his anti-Turkish agitation. Nevertheless, despite the fact that he received repeated warnings from the Berlin police, Thoumayan continued his attack upon the sultan, and his crowning offence was committed in his declaration at a recent anarchist meeting that the porte itself had arranged the affair to take possession of the Ottoman bank. In recounting the details of this incident, however, the Gazette omits mention of the fact that Prof. Thoumayan went to the meeting mentioned in company with well-known and highly respected Berlin clergymen for the main purpose of refuting the statement which had been made by anarchist orators that the Armenian movement was purely anarchistic.

Frau Klafsky Killed by the Doctors.

The death of Frau Katharina Klafsky-Iohsee, the prima donna, which occurred in Hamburg last Tuesday, is greatly regretted here and the circumstances attending her demise are being widely discussed. Her friends are highly indignant at the medical treatment which she received and declare that she was the victim of the incapacity of the Hamburg physicians who attended her. The story of the cause of her death has many versions, but the one most generally accepted is that while she was singing in the United States she was struck on the head by a toppling cupboard which caused a painful inflammation of the scalp. She never fully recovered from the effects of the mishap and latterly the pain became almost unbearable. The Hamburg physicians diagnosed the case and pronounced her afflicted with tumor of the brain, which could only be removed by the operation of trepanning, which the doctors decided to resort to. The operation was performed with the result that it disproved the tumor theory, but killed the patient. The fact was that her ailment was really of a comparatively trifling nature.

Farewell Dinner to Captain Evans.

J. B. Jackson, first secretary of the United States embassy here, gave a farewell dinner last week to Capt. B. K. Evans, the retiring military attache at the embassy here, and Mrs. Evans, and a large gathering of friends of the captain and his wife were present. When Capt. and Mrs. Evans took their departure a large party of friends gathered at the station to see them off. Among those present were the members of the staff of the American embassy and consulate, a number of the attaches of the other embassies and legations, Mrs. Uhl, wife of the United States ambassador, and a host of social friends, who brought with them flowers sufficient to half fill the compartment of the railway carriage which the captain and his wife occupied. Ambassador Uhl was suffering from an attack of catarrhal cold and was unable to be present.

Mrs. G. H. Batchelor, Miss Laura J. Runyon, Mrs. B. W. Vail, Mrs. J. M. McNaughton, Mrs. Frank Jones, Miss Mary French and Miss Anna Boice, left town this morning with their wheels to enjoy a ride. Their objective point is Fort Lee, on the Hudson. They went to New York by train and will ride from there on their wheels. They will return this evening.

Regret and Condolences.

At the meeting of the Plainfield physicians held Saturday evening at the home of Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, a set of resolutions were adopted regarding the death of E. N. Erickson, and a letter of condolence was drafted to be sent to Dr. Probasco, expressing the sympathy of his associates in the loss of his wife by death.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital also met Saturday evening and passed a set of resolutions concerning the death of Mr. Erickson. Similar resolutions were adopted in relation to the death of Mrs. J. B. Probasco.

Christian Alliance Convention.

The convention and annual business meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance commenced yesterday at Eighth avenue and Forty Fourth street, New York and will continue till October 11th. These two societies spend over $200,000 per year in spreading the Gospel in home and foreign lands. They have now 300 missionaries in China, Africa and other unevangelized countries, The convention will be one of unusual public interest and they expect a great number of visitors from all parts of the country.

Arranging for the Knights Parade.

A committee from Corson Commandery, Knights Templer, of Asbury Park, was in town this morning, and made arrangement with the proprietor of Hotel Tuileries on East Front street to furnish dinner for 50 uniformed Knights and a band of twenty pieces for the Knights Templar parade here on Thurday. So far as known there will be at least eight bands of music in the parade, and Plainfield will be alive with music on that day.

Young Lady Pall Bearers.

The funeral services of the late Miss Annie J. Glennon were held at St. Mary's Church yesterday afternoon. A large number of her friends were present, and the society of which she was a member, the Children of Mary, attended in a body. The pall bearers were the Misses Carey, Culbert, Casey, Macier, Lynch, and Churchill. Interment was at the St. Mary's Cemetery, at which the Children of Mary also were present.

Death of Mrs. James Canary.

Catherine, wife of James Canary, died at her home on West Third street early this morning, aged 29 years. Her complaint was quinsy sore throat, and her illness dated back for a period of about three weeks. She leaves a husband and four young children to mourn her loss, the oldest being but eight years of age. Notice of funeral will appear hereafter.

Benefiting Their Swedish Brethren.

The Thule, or Swedish society, will hold a quarterly meeting in Red Men's Hall on the evening of October 3d, when reports on the sick benefits and expenditures will be made. The Thule is a beneficial organization, pure and simple, and at the first meeting night in January the semi-annual election of officers will take place.

Wandering Bohemians.

A band of itinerant gypsies have pitched their tents near Feltville, where the men follow their vocation of swapping horses, and the women go about the town selling beadwork and telling fortunes. Another band is camping in the woods east of Netherwood.

Held to Keep the Peace.

In the case of Hoffman against Beatty, Justice Mattison decided to hold Beatty in the sum of $50 to keep the peace. Both parties live in the borough and the defendant has been making things unpleasant for the plaintiff, hence the above action.

LAW INTERFERED WITH CUPID.

"Bundy" Wallace Was Going to Marry a Girl Under the Age of Consent.

It is seldom that a marriage is declared off, but such was the case last evening, when "Bundy" Wallace and Miss Josephine Davis, colored, were slated to be joined in wedlock. The young woman, whom it is claimed is under sixteen years, met Wallace at his home on Race street, early in the evening.

The two went to the home of a friend on Sycamore street, where they were to be married by Rev. Mr. Grobes, but Mrs. Davis, mother of the bride to be, was informed of the affair and summoning Roundsman Frederickson and Patrolman Vanderweg, the three went to the scene of the festivities and learned that the groom had gone for the minister. When he returned he was arrested and taken before Justice Newcorn on the charge of attempting to marry a girl under age. After the Justice had given both a good lecture, they were allowed to go. Mrs. Davis took her daughter home.

Wallace is the same man who was arrested in the borough a week ago for the alleged beating of his common law wife.

To the Citizens of Plainfield.

It is with pleasure that Trinity Commandery, No. 17, of this city are permitted to announce to the public that the field day of the Knights Templar of this state will be held in this city, Thursday, October 1st. As the city will be visited by commanderies from different sections of the state it is to be hoped that the citizens at large will give them a full and hearty welcome. Nothing adds more to the pleasure of a visit on such an occasion than a proper and liberal display of bunting and decorations, and the Sir Knights of this city trust that our visitors in this matter may not be disappointed. Knowing the usual liberality of Plainfield we feel that our fullest expectations will be realized.

Killed by an Ant's Bite.

News of a remarkable death near Pond Springs, Ga., has been received. Ben Harris, the 18-year-old son of a farmer, was hoeing cotton in a large field. A laborer working near him heard the boy scream. The young man then ran a few feet, sunk to the ground writhing and screaming in agony. In ten minutes the boy was dead. Examination showed that Harris had been stung by a "bull ant," as the insect is called in that country. The ant was found clinging to the swollen, purple ankle of the unfortunate lad, and was secured and preserved by David Hall, a Chattanoogan, who was in the vicinity. Mr. Hall said that "bull ants" are numerous in the Pigeon mountains, the scene of the occurrence. They are about an inch in length and have a stinger, which is fully a half inch long. One other case is on record where the bite of the insect proved fatal.

Child Attacked by a Rooster.

The three-year-old son of S. P. Surgher, at Lyle's Ford, Ga., slipped away from his mother and went into the barnyard. The little fellow was attacked by a large game rooster, and in trying to get away stumbled and fell. The bird pecked the child's face and thrust its spur into the little one's throat, severing an artery. The screams of the child at length attracted the mother's attention, and when she arrived on the scene the rooster was still sticking the child with his spurs, and the little fellow was then bleeding and unconscious. Physicians were summoned, but the boy had nearly bled to death, and his recovery is doubtful.

THE CRESCENTS MEET.

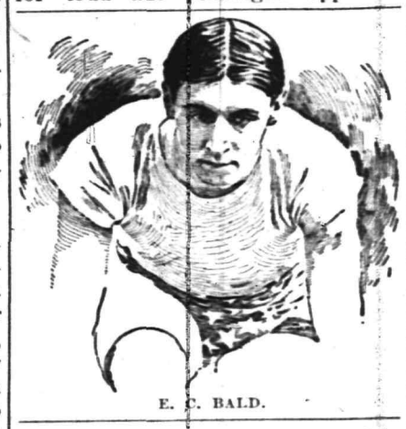
A time limit of 1:40 was placed on this heat. Lefferson started the final push. Harrison and Roome fought it out on the stretch while Dawson tried his tactics of the previous heat and rode through the bunch and caught third by half a wheel. Harrison managed to leave Roome a length behind at the tape.

One-Half Mile, Scratch, Professional—First prize, $50; second, $25; third, $10; fourth, $5.

First Heat—Won by E. C. Bald, Barnes team, Buffalo; A. Gardiner, Morgan & Wright team, Chicago, second; E. H. Kiser, Palmer Tire team, Chicago, third. Time, 1:10 3-5.

When Bald appeared in his white racing suit, with an American flag around his waist, it was the signal for loud and prolonged applause.



E. C. BALD.

Although he has never appeared in Plainfield before the crowd selected him immediately as their favorite. Eddie took the lead at the start while the rest bunched behind him. Hatfield jumped the bunch at the quarter pole, but Bald, Gardiner and Kiser were after him. They soon passed him and came down the stretch, the "White Flyer" maintaining his lead.

Second Heat—Won by Otto Ziegler, San Jose; Tom Cooper, Monarch team, Chicago, second; C. M. Murphy, Brooklyn, third. Time, 1:11 1-5.

Murphy paced the bunch with Ziegler close behind while Tom Cooper held a position in the rear. He jumped the crowd at the quarter pole with Carroll Jack following. That started Ziegler, Mosher and Murphy. The little Californian swung in on the long turn and passed Cooper who could not again regain the lead. Murphy took third after a close fight with Mosher and Jack.

Third Heat—Won by O. S. Kimble, Morgan & Wright team, Louisville; A. C. Mertens, Morgan & Wright team, St. Paul, second; Fred Loughead, Morgan & Wright team, Sarnia, Can., third. Time, 1:10 3-5.

Lindis headed the procession until Mertens ran up the bank and shot away from the rest. Kimble was not far behind and passed Mertens on the stretch by a pretty burst of speed, winning by a wheel. Loughead could not pass Mertens and finished third. Clark pushed past the bunch but too late to catch the Canadian.

Final heat—Won by E. C. Bald; E. H. Kiser, second; C. M. Murphy, third; time 1:10 3-5.

Gardiner was in front of the bunch for the first quarter and then Kimble shot out with Cooper tacked on behind. Bald and Murphy came upon the long turn and the former overcame Cooper's lead and took first place. Kiser pushed into second place in time to finish a wheel behind the Buffalo rider while Murphy was a few inches behind him. Zeigler came through the bunch and finished behind Murphy although the judges placed Cooper ahead of him. The others finished in the following order: Kimble, Loughead, Gardiner and Mertens.

One mile handicap—First prize, $35 diamond ring; second, $20 diamond stud; third, $10 diamond pin.

First heat—Won by F. W. Richt, 60 yards, Brooklyn; B. T. Allen, 50 yards, Bath Beach, second; Thomas Firth, 100 yards, Harrison, third; H. C. DeRaismes, 70 yards, Elizabeth, fourth; time 2:17.

Roome, the scratch man, caught the bunch on the second lap but the effort was too much and he rode unplaced. Richt won easily.

Second heat—Won by W. S. Slavin, T. C. C., Suffern, 30 yards; Louis Hunter, N. J. A. C., Bayonne, 50 yards, second; M. A. Shannon, Paterson, 70 yards, third; W. H. Cane, Jr., H. W., Hackensack, 50 yards, fourth; time 2:16 1-5

Dawson and Harrison started from scratch but they could not overcome the lead quick enough. Slavin won by a length while Shannon was four lengths behind Hunter, the second man.

Third heat—Won by E. C. Humphrey, H. W., Hackensack, 110 yards; S. W. Johnson, Jr., 150 yards, Brooklyn, second; Charles O'Connor, New York, 60 yards, third; C. H. Tomlinson, R. W., New York, 90 yards, third; time 2:13 2-5.

Ripley rode from scratch and never caught the bunch. Johnson rode ahead all alone until the finish and then Humphrey just caught him on the stretch.

Final heat—Won by B. T. Allen, Bath Beach; C. H. Tomlinson, R. W., New York, second; Charles O'Connor, New York, third; time 2:14 3-5.

H. E. RIDER, 147-149 NORTH AVENUE.

The riders bunched on the first half-mile and then loafed a trifle. Allen crawled through the bunch on the stretch and nipped Tomlinson at the tape, winning only by several inches.

One mile scratch, professional—First prize, $100; second, $50; third, $20; fourth, $10.

First heat—Won by E. C. Bald, Barnes team, Buffalo; H. P. Mosher, Storm King, second; Wm. P. Neville, Vim Cycle Club, Newark, third; time 2:20.

Pacemakers were used in this race and were given third place in their heat. Neville paced the first heat and the other riders strung out in single file behind him, first McCurdy, then Bald and Mosher and the rest. Hadfield jumped the bunch for the last quarter and the rest followed. Bald came up with one of his famous spurts and won by half a length from Mosher. McCurdy, Thompson and Hadfield followed in the order named.

Second heat—Won by Tom Cooper, Monarch team, Chicago; A. Gardiner, Chicago, second; Carroll B. Jack; Reading, third; time 2:17 3-5.

Carroll Jack acted as pacemaker. Loughead caught the pace with Gardiner, Bowler, Cooper, Maddox and the rest following. They kept that order until Cooper and Maddox headed the spurt at the quarter pole. Gardiner and Loughead passed the Asbury Park man and the former reached Cooper's pedal as they crossed the tape.

Third heat—Won by O. S. Kimble, Morgan and Wright team, Louisville; Otto Zeigler, Morgan and Wright team, San Jose second; Ray MacDonald, New Brighton, third; time 2:17.

MacDonald took the pace and Kimble and Clark both tried to catch it. The Southern man gained the coveted position with Zeigler and Clark behind. Clark swung wide of the pacemaker at the one fourth pole and took the lead. Kimble passed him with Kiser and Zeigler in tow. The finish was a rattling one, the closest of the meet. Clark, Kimble, Kiser and Zeigler, coming down the stretch abrest with their wheels only a few inches apart. The decision was very close but the judges gave the victory to Kimble, with Zeigler second.

Final heat—Won by Tom Coper, Monark team, Chicago; E. C. Bald, Barnes team, Buffalo; second, Carroll B. Jack, Reading; third, time 2:13.

Mertens and Maddox were put in as pacemakers and Cooper fell in behind him and then came Jack, Kimble, Bald, Zeigler, Mosher, MacDonald, and Neville. They rode in that order until the last lap when Bald moved up and started to pass Cooper. Kimble rode wide to do the same and the latter's front wheel touched Bald's rear wheel. The next instant the Louisville rider was down and Zeigler and Mosher went over him and MacDonald dismounted in a hurry. As Bald and Cooper turned into the stretch Bald was a trifle in the lead. The Detroiter pulled up, however, and they came down the stretch side by side. Some of the spectators yelled "Bald wins" but Cooper's wheel was a few inches ahead as the two champions crossed the tape in a very sensational finish. Jack was third and Neville finally finished fourth.

Two mile handicap professional—First prize, $60; second, $30; third, $15; fourth, $10.

First heat—Won by H. C. Clark, Denver, 80 yards; R. P. McCurdy, Philadelphia, 60 yards, second; A. C. Mertens, St. Paul, 40 yards, third; C. S. Wells, San Francisco, 120 yards, forth; H. H. Maddox, Asbury Park, 60 yards, fifth; O. S. Kimble, Louisville, 30 yards, sixth; time 4:45.

Murphy rode from scratch and finally caught the bunch. The riders bunched after the first mile with Mertens, Clark, and Maddox in the choice positions. Clark won the race by several lengths after a pretty spurt. The scratch man was seventh.

Second heat—Won by C. A. Church, Philadelphia, 40 yards; Otto Maya, Erie, 140 yards, second; Fred Loughead, Sarnia, Canada, 20 yards, third; J. B. Bowler, Chicago, 120 yards, fourth; Chas. Hadfield, Newark, 90 yards, fifth; E. P. Thompson, Newark, 120 yards, sixth; time 4-29-4 5.

Arthur Gardiner started alone from scratch and caught the rest on the fifth lap. Harry Hawthorne held the lead alone for three laps but succombed to the rest. Church won handily with Bald's mate, Maya, second.

Final heat—Won by O. A. Church, Fred Loughead, second; E. P. Thompson, third; C. S. Wells, fourth; Harry C. Clark, fifth; time 4:57 3-5.

The starters were fairly well bunched at the start and closed up together on the first lap. Church and Loughead fought for victory down the stretch and the Philadelphia man won by a trifle. Thompson and Wells closed in behind. Charles started too late for he was rapidly overhauling the leaders when he crossed the tape almost even with Wells and Thompson.

Two mile scratch tandem—Won by Joe Harrison, L. R. Lefferson, Harlem Wheelmen; Bert Ripley, Newark, and W. C. Roome, N. J. A. C. Jersey City, second; T. A. Cuming and E. T. Hand, Crescent Wheelmen, third; time 4:39.

Six teams started and they set a lively pace. At the sound of the bell for the last lap, the Crescent Wheelmen team jumped out and took the top of the bank. When they came down, at the quarter pole they shot far ahead of the rest and tried to hold their lead. The Harlem team passed them as they entered the stretch as did Ripley and Roome. The Harlem boys won by a length and Ripley and Roome took second by the same distance.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS SOON TO LINE UP FOR BATTLE—CRACK CIRCUIT RIDERS HURT IN THE RACE AT TRENTON YESTERDAY.

The Y. M. C. A. Will Put a Strong Eleven on the Gridiron This Season That Will Defend All Kicks and Punts.

The football season opens in Plainfield on Saturday when the Y. M. C. A. eleven, of this city, meets the San Remo Football Club, of New York. The San Remo team has scheduled games with the best clubs in the Metropolitan district and is reported to be a very strong eleven.

The team that will represent Plainfield will be one of the best that has been seen on the gridiron in this city for a long time. For the first time in several years the team has gotten down to solid work early in the season and the promises for a winning team are very bright.

When it was known that Waring had decided to coach the team and that "Ted" Freeman would return and again captain the eleven from behind the line, football took a big boom. The interest shown in the game has been great and the number of candidates for the team is very encouraging to the management.

The team met for practice again last evening on the Y. M. C. A. grounds which were illuminated with gosoline lamps. The regular team was lined up againt the scrub and an hour of good practice greatly improved the condition of all. There was a marked improvement over the last practice and there was a sharpness and vigor about the playing that promises much for Saturday's game. The field was in good condition and everything points toward a successful season.

Among the new candidates out last evening were Horace Moore and George Snediker, both of whom put up a good game on the scrub.

Captain Freeman expects to give all a chance, and the other candidates that are likely to get a chance before the season is finished are Horace Moore, George Schoonmaker, W. L. McClure, Ernest Swayze, N. R. Titsworth, George Snediker, Van R. Schuyler, and several others.

The team will practice on the field Thursday night, and a short practice of signals will be held Friday night. An invitation is extended to all football players in Plainfield to try for the team Thursday night. All are requested to wear football suits.

Rand's Magazine Exchange.

R. C. Rand, 140 West Front street, is introducing under the above style a plan that should prove of decided interest to magazine readers. He offers subscribers their choice of the best political, literary, scientific and juvenile magazines at a discount of from 35 to 58 per cent. from the publishers' prices. The magazines are delivered at any address within the city limits at the rate of one or more a week, according to the number for which you subscribe, and are kept neatly covered so that they are always in good condition. Hardly anyone cares for a magazine after having read it, and his plan among other advantages prevents the accumulation of old magazines about the house. The fact that you already have an unexpired subscription need make no difference, as if the magazine is on his list he will buy it at a discount of 10 per cent. from publishers' price, and that slight difference is much more than made up by the percentage saved. Intending subscribers should get one of his descriptive circulars entitled "A Brain Bargain," in which the plan is explained more fully, and fill in their subscription blanks as early as possible, as the first delivery is on November 1st.

A Pioneer in Home Mission Work.

The Women's Association of the Congregational church will meet on Thursday afternoon from 2:30 to 5 o'clock. One hour will be under the charge of the Home Missionary committee and an interesting and varied programme has been provided. The subject will be "The Sunday-school, a Pioneer in Home Mission Work." There will be special music by members of the Sunday-school. Tea will be served.

The Fast Men Return to Plainfield in a Much Battered Condition—Some Record Breaking Time Made at Trenton.

The crack-a-jacks are not in love with Trenton, for the trip to the race-meet there yesterday laid up Otto Zeigler, the Californian crack, for the season and temporarily disabled the Canadian champion, Loughead.

The track at the fair grounds in Trenton is a one-half mile flat race course, but it was in perfect condition. There were forty-seven professionals in the races, including all the fast men.

The one mile open went to Gardiner, with Tom Butler second, Cooper third, and Kiser fourth. Eddie Bald was close behind Kiser. Prizes were offered for the man finishing first at each quarter and they were won by A. C. Mertens, Harry Clark and Louis Callahan. The time was 2:14 3-5 John S. Johnson rode but did nothing in the races. He rode an exhibition mile, paced by a "quad" and a triplet, in 1:47.

"Jimmy" Michaels broke the world's three, four, and five mile paced records. He had a flying start and was paced by two quads and a triplet. His time for the different miles were as follows: One mile, 1:53; two miles, 3:50; three miles, 5:51, breaking the record of 5:55 3-5; four miles, 7:52, breaking 7:58 2-5; five miles, 9:51 4-5, breaking 9:58 1-5.

The two mile handicap for "pros" was the fatal race. In one heat, "Teddie" Goodman, who was riding in front suddenly slowed up and Mosher, who came next, was thrown; Ziegler tumbled over the two and fell into the fence and broke his arm in the same place he did last year. Hadfield and Carroll Jack also went down but escaped with sundy small cuts and bruises. Ziegler will be unable to ride anymore this season but it is hoped that he will recover in time to take part in the record breaking trials in California, this winter.

In another heat, Ray MacDonald's tire exploded and his weeel buckled, throwing him. Longhead was thrown and was so badly scraped and bruised that he will be confined to his bed all day. He also had a heavy rap on his head.

One of the amatuers tumbled into a projecting post along the track, had his face laid open and remained unconscious for nearly an hour.

The final heat of the two mile was won by Cooper from scratch, Starbuck second, Bouler third, and Bald, another scratch man, fourth.

The Morgan and Wright team and several of the other cracks returned to this city last night. Owen S. Kimble left for his home at Louisville yesterday morning for a short rest.

Another Convention for Plainfield.

Plainfield is this fall getting her share of conventions, bicycle meets, trotting races and entertainments. But still another convention is scheduled. October 7th and 8th are the dates decided upon for the annual Sunday-school convention of the colored A. M. E. churches of the Newark District. During the two days session, services and meetings will be held in Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, and it is expected that upwards of forty ministers and delegates will be in attendance.

A Practice Drill.

Trinity Commandery No. 17, K. T., met last evening and marched to the Cycle Academy where they drilled for several hours under the direction of Sir Knight Dungan, of Somerville. There was a large membership present and the different movements were executed in good style. After the drill the members returned to there lodge rooms where refreshments were served.

Fell Over the Car Fender.

Miss Millie Vail, who lives just west of Dunellen, had been to Plainfield making some purchases on Saturday evening, and returning home on the Dunellen car reached there about 9 o'clock. She stepped off the wrong side of the car and in passing around to the sidewalk stumbled and fell over the car fender. She was thrown down and quite severely injured, but managed to reach home with assistance.

A Missionary Talk.

Miss Carleton, of Elizabeth, will give a missionary talk this afternoon to the members of the Ladies Home Missionary Society, the Ladies' Foreign Missionary Society and the Young Ladies' Mission Circle, of the First M. E. church, at the home of Mrs. D. E. Davis, of East Fifth street.

IDENTITY ALMOST SURE.

BODY FOUND AT FANWOOD SUPPOSED TO BE A NEW YORK MAN.

He Was a Frenchman and Disappeared From Home Last June—Daughter Saw the Remains—Thinks Them Her Father.

The mystery that hung over the identity of the dead man that was discovered in the woods near Fanwood last Sunday afternoon is apparently clearing up. The identification may not be far off for a sorrowing daughter visited the morgue this afternoon to see if there was any resemblance to her father, who unaccouatably disappeared on the 18th of June last, and several circumstances led her to the opinion that she has at last found the object of her search.

A young lady called at The Daily Press office at about 1 o'clock this afternoon and inquired the way to the morgue. She had seen an article in one of the New York papers, she said, about the discovery of a stranger found dead in the woods. Her father had been missing since the 18th day of June when he started for the Hotel Imperiel, where he was wine steward, at about 11 o'clock.

She then told something of her story. Her name was Miss Louise Plancon and her father was George Plancon, a Frenchman. He had been engaged in the coal business on Twenty-Seventh street, New York, until last October, when he failed. He felt the failure very much at first but gradually recovered from the effects and accepted the position of wine steward at the Imperial.

He had held a similar position, a number of years ago. There was considerable jealousy on the part of another of the stewards of the hotel when Plancon was given the position and life was not made easy for him. Plancon appeared satisfied, however, for he loved his home and always confided his troubles to his wife. He had showed no sign, before his disappearance, of any mental derangement.

His daughter was traveling in Norway when he disappeared, and when she returned to this country she assisted her mother in the search for the missing man. They visited morgues, hospitals and insane asylums, and advertised for him, but without avail. They are living at 122 West Twentieth street. Miss Plancon was directed to the morgue, where Mr. Casey received her.

The unknown man corresponded to Mr. Plancon in size, height, and apparent age. The shoes were the same and the suit somewhat similar. The young woman was almost sure that the dead man was her father, but to make sure she carried a sample of the cloth, of which his clothes were made, home to her mother for identification. She will return tonight.

County Physician Westcott arrived in Plainfield this afternoon with another different clue to the identity of the unknown man. A man named Freshley, a German, had started from New Point road and Fourth street, Elizabeth, for Bound Brook in search of work three weeks ago.

It has always been his custom to write a postal card to his wife telling her of his whereabouts when he went in search of work, but this time she has received no word. Among the other articles found in the dead man's clothes was a postal card.

Mrs. Freshley telephoned Dr. Westcott that she would come to Plainfield this afternoon to see if the stranger was her husband.

A Beautiful Sight.

Miss Anna Miller, of Park avenue, has a night blooming cereus which has certainly made a record. It has bloomed twice. The first time it contained twelve flowers and the second time thirty were produced. They were all perfect and the sight was beautiful. It is rarely that this plant blooms more than once a year, and this one is probably the only one in Plainfield that has given such an exhibition.

Additional Seats Needed.

The Borough Board of Education met last evening and transacted chiefly routine business. The action of Mr. Loomis, in purchasing 100 extra seats to provide for the increase in the school membership, was confirmed by the Board. Miss Babbitt was employed as a teacher in the primary department. The members of the Board are exceedingly pleased with the marked improvement already noticed in the work of the school.

Will the Stores Close.

The clerks in the various stores about town, who are members of the Christian Endeavor society, are quite anxious to know whether the stores are going to close next week at 6 o'clock during the three days of the convention. It would seem as though the proprietors would not loose much by such action, and many would be profited thereby.

THE KNIGHTS' FIELD DAY.

HOW THE MASONIC PEOPLE WILL ENJOY THE FEATURES.

Twelve Commanderies With Bands of Music Will be Here to be Inspected and Reviewed by the Grand Officers.

If Plainfield has never been thoroughly woke up before, the next ten days promises to effectually accomplish such a result. The excitement begins day after tomorrow, that is, Thursday, with the Field Day exercises of the Knights Templar of this State. Now, while nearly everybody knows that the Knights Templar are going to hold something on that day, there are a comparatively few who know exactly what is going to happen, provided, of course, the regular programme is carried out. The Knights Templar Field Day is really their annual inspection, review and parade. On the morning of Thursday, the Sir Knights will arrive, all in full uniform, and each commandery will be accompanied by a band. They will be received by a delegation from the local organization, Trinity Commandery, and escorted to their various headquarters. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the Sir Knights will form on Park avenue, with right resting on Seventh street, when a dress parade will be held, the grand officers and a band marching the length of the column. Then the regular parade will start.

As the parade ends and the Sir Knights pass the vacant space across Madison avenue from the Babcock building, the grand officers, who will head the column in carriages, will halt and review the parade. As soon as the paraders have completed the line of march, they will march to their respective headquarters, leave their paraphernalia and then return to the "Asylum," or rooms of the local commandery, in the Babcock building, where the Plainfield Sir Knights will keep open house. One of the prominent local Masons will address the visitors in the lodge room, while speeches will be made by several of the grand officers. A sumptious banquet will be ready for all in the banquet room, and the visiting Sir Knights will be shown what royal entertainers the Plainfield members are. So far ten commanderies have promised to be in line and two more are expected to turn out. Each commandery will bring music, and the committee expect at least one thousand men in line.

As to decorating, it is confidently hoped that every merchant and resident in the city and borough will decorate to some extent. As the Knights Templar Field Day is to be quickly followed by the veteran firemen's parade and then the Christian Endeavor convention, the whole set of decorations will suffice for all three. There will be several thousands of strangers here during the next two weeks and Plainfield should be at its prettiest for all these visitors. Of course, the colors of the different organizations do not correspond but the red, white and blue are always appropriate and will make a pretty appearance.

A MISSING WHEEL FOUND.

It is Said That it Was Taken From Martin's Without His Consent.

A Cleveland wheel was missed from the rental department of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company on the morning of Tuesday, September 8th, and since that time "Manager" Sweeney has been on the watch for the missing bicycle. A well-known young man who is employed in this city appeared on the streets soon after that riding a Cleveland wheel, and Sweeney, knowing that he had not purchased of Martin, began to investigate. He found that the number of the missing wheel was identical to that one and yesterday morning he started to take possession. The young man interfered, but acting-Roundsman Totten appeared at the right moment and prevented any trouble.

The young man claims that one of the clerks lent it to him and that clerk indignantly denies ever having lent the wheel, and it happens that the clerk was not around at the time the wheel disappeared. No arrest has been made as yet.

Died at Morris Plains.

Mrs. Freelove Alvina Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Pangborn, of North Plainfield, died in the Morris Plains Asylum yesterday afternoon from an incurable complaint. She had been a patient there for several months, and she rapidly grew worse instead of better. A. M. Runyon & Son were notified of the death and arrived in town with the body this forenoon. The funeral will take place on Wednesday, at 2:30 p. m., from 2 Washington avenue.

Speed and safety are the watch words of the age. One Minute Cough Cure acts speedily, safely and never fails. Asthma, bronchitis, coughs and colds are cured by it. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

SUPPORTING SAME POLICY BUT IN DIFFERENT WAYS

REPUBLICANS AND GOLD STANDARD DEMOCRATS LABORING FOR WHAT THEY THINK IS PROPER IN GOVERNMENT.

Republican Campaign Committee Arrange For Two Big Demonstrations This Week—No Meetings to be Held Next Week. Palmer and Buckner Have Not Yet Been Indorsed, and Probably Will Not Be, Though They Stand on Their Platform

The Republican campaign committee met last evening and completed all arrangements for the mass meeting to be held in Music Hall this evening, at which time Judge Wilbur A. Mott of Newark and Frank Walker, of Trenton, will make addresses, and also for the meeting to be held on Friday evening at the same place when Hon. Frank Plumley, of Vermont, and Mr. Greed, of Kansas, will be the speakers. It was decided not to hold any meetings at headquarters this week nor next week owing to the coming Christian Endeavor Convention. Arrangements were partially made for a mass meeting to be held in Music Hall, Tuesday evening October 20th. Congressman Chas. N. Fowler and Senator Foster M. Voorhees will speak at this meeting. A letter was received from Governor Griggs stating that he could not be present October 15th, but that he would arrange for a future date and notify the committee. Other business of a routine nature was transacted and the committee adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

The meeting of the gold standard Democrats at the Revere House last evening was attended by not less than thirty-eight members.

President Atterbury, in opening the meeting, called for nominations for a county committee. Louis G. Timpson, of the Second ward, Edwin H. VanBuren, of the Third ward, and Thomas H. Keller, of the First ward, were nominated in the order named. Mr. Keller, generally known as Tee Kay, declined to accept the nomination, and upon motion the election of Messrs. Timpson and VanBueren was assured, and the executive committee was empowered to fill vacancies.

President Atterbury then made a short speech, stating in affect that that there was no doubt of the State going for McKinley, and that as it was the intention of the members of the association to form a permanent organization, it was deemed best to hold a meeting the latter part of the month of October to indorse the nominations of Palmer and Buckner.

Upon his invitation for remarks and opinions, Counselor McClure said that as between Bryan and McKinley he had no choice—that he would "go fishing"—but that now all true Democrats could vote a sound-money man. That to preserve the State organization it was really necessary to vote for Palmer and Buckner and that it was the duty of the association so to do.

Gen. Sterling then made a motion to the effect that the club ratify at a public meeting the nomination of Palmer and Buckner upon a sound-money platform.

C. P. Bullman then called attention to the fact that many members had joined the association with the understanding that they might vote for McKinley, if in their judgment it was deemed best, and the present action might prevent new members joining it. Mr. Bullman then proposed an amendment to the effect that the entire matter of endorsing Palmer and Buckner be left to the executive committee. The amendment was accepted by Gen. Sterling and was unanimously adopted by the club.

Following this came the question of a hall and funds. Music, Reform and the Y. M. C. A. Halls were in turned canvassed and as there was considerable doubt as regards capacity and cost it was decided to refer the matter to the executive committee.

In regard to the matter of funds, Counselor McClure called attention to the necessity of putting up a banner in the city and saw that nothing could be more appropriate than the American flag, with the names of the candidates below. President Atterbury then appointed Mr. McClure chairman of a finance committee to raise the funds for a hall and for banners, flags etc. with power to nominate two members in each ward of the city.

Owing to Mr. McClure's push and energy in the matter a considerable amount was raised at the meeting before its adjourment.

Mr. McClure has not yet made up the complete list of his finance committee but the probabilities are that Mr. Walz will accept from the Second ward and Messrs Rowland Cox and James Clark from the Third ward.

TRIBUTE OF AFFECTION AND ESTEEM.

The Funeral Services of the Late Mrs. Dr. Probasco Held Yesterday.

The relatives and a limited number of friends gathered yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the late Mrs. Dr. Probasco to pay their tribute of affection and respect. Flowers everywhere testified to remembrance and regard. The Rev. Dr. Yerkes in a touching discourse spoke of the ministration of sorrow as one of the means by which God revealed himself in His love and sympathy to human hearts. He paid a high tribute to the true womanliness of Mrs. Probasco, referring to the time when in her girlhood she had decided to identify herself with God's people, from which time she had lived a beautiful Christian life, fulfilling the duties of wife, mother and friend with a fidelity as true as the compass to its poles. Dr. Richards offered prayer. Two selections of music were sung by Miss Gussie Runyon, Miss Bessie Blair and Elmer E. Runyon.

The interment was in Hillside cemetery at the close of the funeral services.

Rev. Dr. Tuttle in Town.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Tuttle, formerly pastor of the M. E. church in this city, and now pastor of the M. E. church at Roseville, together with Benjamin F. Edsall and F. Day, two of his parishioners, arrived in town on wheels yesterday, and spent a short time with friends here. They had been enjoying a day's bicycle outing to New Brunswick and stopped here on their way home. The doctor reported the roads very dusty between here and Dunellen, but the rest of the way the roads were in a fair condition. The party left here at 4 o'clock for Roseville, expecting to reach home before dark.

Is This Plainfield Frank?

A dispatch from Perth Amboy to one of the New York papers states that Frank Martin, of Plainfield, fell from his wheel there Sunday. One ear was almost entirely cut off and his skull fractured, according to the dispatch. A Daily Press reporter saw a representative of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company this morning. No news of any accident befalling Frank L. C. Martin had been received by them. Mr. Martin left Saturday morning to take a yachting trip with friends from Newark, and it is not known whether he stopped in Perth Amboy or not.

An Entertaining Lectdre.

John M. Ellis, Professor of Mental Philosophy at Oberlin College, says of the witty and entertaining lecture to be given by William Blaikie, Esq., at the Y. M. C. A. tonight: "The Faculty of the College invited him here, and he gave us a most interesting, practical and useful presentation of the subject, which has greatly increased the interest in physical exercise." This lecture is free to all members of the Association who pay $5 and upwards.

A Little Fellow's Death.

Louis A. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, of Dog Corners, died yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The little one was in his eighth year and had been a sufferer for the past seven weeks with malarial fever. Funeral services will take place from the house, on Wednesday, at 1 p. m., and interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

Miss Cadmus, of Virginia, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Edward Johnson, of Duer street.

Along Legal Lines.

The case of Kyte against Reutseh was tried in Justice Newcorn's court yesterday and judgment was given the plaintiff. The case of Roberts against Mortimer was adjourned for one week. Summons were issued in the case of Johnson against Smith, and Sherman et als against Warren, which are returnable October 6th.

J. C. Pope Now Treasurer.

By a change in the Dime Savings Bank management, at the meeting held in the bank building last evening, the name of James C. Pope was substituted for that of the late Elias R. Pope, as treasurer. Money deposited on or before October 5th will draw interest from the 1st.

Mountain Park Inn to Close.

After a very prosperous season the Mountain Park Inn will close its doors the latter part of this week. Many of the guests would like to stay longer, but the owners have decided to keep the building closed during the winter and reopen it on June 1st, next.

James T. Closson and family, of East Front street, have returned home from their summer outing.

Arthur B. Crane, East Second street, left this morning for Philadelphia to enter the dental department of the University of Pennsylvania.

PLANNING THE WORK

Mr. Bryan in Conference with His Campaign Managers.

MEETS LEADERS AT NEW YORK

The Democratic Nominee To Make Two or Three Speeches at the Tammany Ratification Meeting To-night—The Burns Fire at Worcester.

New York, Sept. 29.—Besides William J. Bryan and Arthur Sewall a number of big guns of the democratic party are in the city to-day attracted here by the big Tammany ratification meeting to be held to-night at which the democratic presidential nominee expects to make two or more speeches. To-day he is in conference with the managers of his canvass mapping out ways and means of the campaign. Last night Mr. Bryan delivered two speeches, one at Paterson and the other at Newark, N. J. Both of them were largely attended. Concerning the suspicion that the burning of the Burns underwear factory at Worcester, Saturday night, was due to revenge for the action of the proprietor in suspending the red flag of anarchy with the picture of W. J. Bryan on it, Mr. Bryan made this statement to a representative of the United Associated Presses last evening: "There is nothing that I care to say on the subject. I do not believe that any advocate of free silver would do harm to Mr. Burns or to his property. While Mr. Burns' action last Friday was not very courteous, I paid no attention to it. He had a right to decorate his building as he chose, even though the decorations might be offensive to his political opponents, and his neighbors have a right to criticise his actions if they see fit to do so. But if any one has attempted to injure him or his property such person ought to be punished like any other violator of the law. No political reason can excuse an attack on person or property. Our campaign is a campaign of education, and no true friend of the cause will attempt to violate the law, no matter how bitterly the gold standard men may assail us or our principles."

WAR IN CUBA.

Insurgents Attack the Whole Line of the Western Trocha and Harass the Troops.

Havana, Sept. 29.—On Friday night last rebel bands made attacks on the Spanish troops along the whole line of the western trocha. They were driven off in some places, while in others they retired of their own accord. The attacks were renewed the next night, with the same result. It is believed that the rebels had no intention of crossing the trocha, but simply made the attacks to harass the troops. A train that was carrying troops was fired upon by insurgents between Las Canas and Alquizear. A sergeant and ten privates were killed. A rebel band has burned the Buenaventura sugar estate in the province of Matanzas. Francisco Tolon, a brother of Samuel Tolon; Jose Saez, a lawyer of Cardenas; Jose Reposo, a schoolmaster of Agucate; Manuel Planas, a druggist of Bayamo, and four others will be deported to the Chaffarine islands to-morrow.

Four Suffocated by Burning Oil.

Chester, Pa., Sept. 29.—Three of the crew and a stowaway of the iron steamship Cyrus met a horrible death last night while the steamer was lying off the quarantine station at Marcus Hook. The men in lowering a barrel of oil into the hold accidently burst it. They then procured another barrel to try and save the oil, and one of them struck a match and ignited the fluid. The hold was soon filled with flames and smoke and the men were suffocated before they could be rescued by their companions.

Assignment of Republican Speakers.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—A larger number of assignments have just been made by the speakers' bureau of the republican national committee. Among them are: Hon. Warner Miller of New York, to speak at Mansfield, O., October 14. Llewelly Powers, governor-elect of Maine, to Michigan, October 19-24; Minnesota, October 26-31. Hon. Robert M. Nevins of Dayton, O. (candidate for congress in the Third district), Illinois, October 9-10.

The Newfoundland Gale.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 29.—Seven different vessels that were in Thursday's gale are now in port here. It is feared that some crafts foundered. The Allan line steamer Assyria, from Glasgow, is now ten days overdue and must have been caught in the same storm.

Gen. Palmer Starts for Home.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Senator Palmer will leave here at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon via the Baltimore & Ohio road for his home in Springfield. He does not contemplate making any stops and has no programme arranged for his future movements.

Plantation Guards Withdrawn.

Havana, Sept. 29.—The government is withdrawing the detachments of troops stationed at the different plantations, and is authorizing the planters to enlist local guerilla forces for their own protection.

Death of an Old Pittsfield Dentist.

Pittsfield, Mass., Sept. 29.—Dr. Jas. H. Leavitte, aged 80, died last evening. He was one of the oldest dentists in Massachusetts. He had been in continuous practice since he was nineteen years old.

Gloucester Sailmakers Strike.

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 29.—Most of the sailmakers here have gone on strike, their demands for shorter hours and more pay having been refused by the bosses.

WHALE WAS A RACER.

Drew the Boat Under and the Men Had to Get Out and Swim.

Will Taylor, son of Capt. Thomas S. Taylor, of the whaling schooner Rising Sun, of Provincetown, arrived the other day, having left that craft on Hatteras ground a few days ago with 250 barrels of sperm oil below hatches. Mr. Taylor went on this cruise for the benefit of his health, which had been undermined by close application to his desk in a Boston office. He tells of one exciting incident of the voyage, by which a boat's crew narrowly escaped death. His story is as follows:

"July 8 we raised a school of whales bound across our course and going fast to windward. The mate's boat got away speedily in chase, and with oars and sail attempted to overtake the herd. The captain's boat followed, and we, hoping to cut in ahead of the herd and believing that a sail would assist, started to get the most in its step. Before this could be accomplished we met a big cow whale squarely head on, and an iron was socked in on the instant. The whale proved a lively one and full of fight, and going in an opposite direction to our course tore the whale line from the bow chock and swept it aft.

"But fortunately the line caught and held under a cleat on the bow, or it would have cleared that side of the boat of everything above the rail. The boat was whirled around, but the bow line, being out of place, made the boat tow at an angle. She began to move furiously through the water, with two men hurriedly striving to prize the line into place. They were unable to accomplish this, and the boat began to careen and show symptoms of swamping. One man lost his head and jumped overboard, but was immediately seized by my father and hauled in.

"The first tub of line ran out over the bow at lightning speed while all this was going on, and with equal rapidity the line from the other tub began to follow suit. But suddenly it snarled in the tub, and nearly the whole bunch came out at once and buzzed forward. The whirling mass of line narrowly escaped catching our men as it passed across the thwarts, and did catch a paddle, which it whirled forward amid the ruck as if to complicate matters.

"While the captain was rescuing the man overboard the turns came off the loggerhead and but a half-dozen coils remained in the tub.

"The captain seized the line to take new turns, but at that instant the boat went down head first. The captain was washed over the stern, and as he went snatched at the long steering oar, but it passed through his hands and out of sight under water.

"I clung to the boat until I found she was going well down, then let go, but I went so deep that I swallowed lots of water before I shot upward to the surface.

"When I came to the top of the water I found all the crew swimming around with only one oar to support the entire number. My father can't swim a stroke, but he had on a jacket which can be inflated with air, and he did very well by its aid.

"We kept up for awhile, when all at once the boat came to the surface. The line had parted and the whale had gone clear.

"We clung to the boat until the mate's boat came to our assistance and picked us up. We had been in the water about 15 minutes and had had sufficient whaling for that day. Nothing was seen of that whale afterward."

Matrimony and Pockets.

A wife has a right to go through her husband's pockets. A New York police magistrate has so decided. The man was right, then, who told his wife, when she awakened him by jabbing her finger in his eye to say that a burglar was in the room and going through his pockets: "Oh, don't bother me. Settle it between yourselves."

Cats and Men.

The cat was a solitary roamer, whose companions were the trees of its native forests. It found a home in the hollow trunk and safety among the branches. How do we know that the cat's ancestor's were dwellers in the forest? Because every kitten takes to a tree as readily as a duck to water. Also, because nearly all forest dwellers are mottled in color, so that they may not be conspicuous among the light and shadows beneath the trees. While I was considering what was the probable view held by cats about human beings, it was suggested by one ingenious friend that probably they regard man as a kind of a locomotive tree, pleasant to rub up against, the lower limbs of which afford a comfortable seat, and from whose upper branches occasionally drop tid-bits of mutton and other luscious fruits. We may laugh at the theory, but it has quite a respectable string of facts behind it to back it up. If the Kanakas argued from the pig to the horse, why should the cat not pass from the familiar tree to the unfamiliar organism called man. The cat, in spite of the domestic character it has acquired, is in reality the least tame of our animal servants. As far as its duties are concerned, man has taught it practically nothing. Its methods of pursuing rats, mice and birds are all entirely its own. It is indeed rather a wild animal which has taken up its residence in our houses for its own purposes than a servant or a slave.—North American Review.

Bears a Charmed Life.

There is a boy in Pennsylvania who can lay claim to having a charmed life, if any such thing exists. Two years ago a church was blown down upon him, but he came out not much the worse for wear. Three weeks ago a horse fell upon him, but the accident did him no material injury. On Saturday a large pole fell upon him, and it was supposed that he was killed. When the doctors got through with the boy it was found that he had a broken jaw and was covered with bruises, but he is around now about as lively as ever. The name of this lucky youngster is Elias Dunkie and he lives at Bellefonte.

Curiosity of the Antipodes.

The only fur-covered, four-footed member of the animal kingdom which lays eggs like a fowl is the native beaver of Australia.

Hood's

Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier and building up medicine leads everything ever produced. It is positively the best. Others may make the same claim. But there's this difference: We prove it. Not by antiquity, but by Merit. Not by what we say, but by what Hood's Sarsaparilla does. It has a record of Cures unequalled in medical history. It positively, perfectly and permanently cures when all other medicines fail. That the keen discrimination of the people recognizes its merit and the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, is shown by the fact that they buy Hood's Sarsaparilla in preference and to the exclusion of all others. Hood's Sarsaparilla has a larger sale than all other blood purifiers. It wins confidence everywhere because the statements in its advertising and testimonials are verified by all who take it. No other medicine has ever received such praise, or so many voluntary testimonials of wonderful cures. No other medicine possesses the peculiar combination, proportion and process used in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla, and which give it merit peculiar to itself. This is the secret of its wonderful power, of its wonderful sales, of its wonderful hold upon the confidence of the people. This is why it cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Rheumatism, all Humors, Kidney and Liver troubles, Dyspepsia, That Tired Feeling, builds up the nerves, creates an appetite and strengthens the whole system. Its merit, its sales, its

parilla

To Kill Thistles

It is not necessary to kill all the seeds of the thistles in order to exterminate these undesirable weeds. You can so cultivate the ground that they will not thrive; and at last will disappear altogether. It might be better to kill the seeds, but we cannot do it. It would be the wisest course to destroy all the germs, or seeds, of consumption, could we do so. But this cannot be done. So we must keep the tissues of the lungs, the soil, in such a condition that the germs will not thrive the

Our Kitchen

No kitchen is kept cleaner than the premises devoted to the manufacture of NONE SUCH Mince Meat. No housewife can be more fastidious in the matter of preparing food than we are in the selection and preparation of the materials of which it is made. The cleaning of the currants (for one thing) is more thoroughly done by means of perfected appliances, than it would be possible to do it by hand.

Its cleanliness, purity, wholesomeness and deliciousness are good reasons for using NONE SUCH Mince Meat. The best reason is its saving—of time, of hard work, of money. A ten cent package affords you two large pies, without trouble to you beyond the making of the crust. Makes just as good fruit cake and fruit pudding as it does mince pie. Sold everywhere. Be sure and get the genuine.

Send your name and address, and mention this paper, and we will mail you free a book—"Mrs. Popkins' Thanksgiving"—by one of the most famous humorous authors of the day.

CHASED BY A GRIZZLY.

Hair-Breadth Escape of a Prospector from Death.

Badly-Needed Refuge Offered by a Crevasse Which Had an Opening Too Small to Admit Bruin's Gigantic Body.

Harry L. Romaine, who has just returned to his home in Elk City, Idaho, after spending several weeks prospecting in the Bitter Root mountains, relates a most exciting adventure which befell him near Murray, the county seat of Shoshone county.

"My partner, Ben Williams, and I had been working our way along the range from a point near Big Bald mountain to the loop where the Bitter Root range and the Coeur d'Alenes from a big, natural amphitheater, where big game, especially elk, are plentiful. We decided to stay there until we had time to follow up the lead, as old miners say. We pitched our camp under the shadow of a rock-ribbed sentinel, passing our first night in the little tent which had served us splendidly during several hard rains. That makes me think—if you want a tent to shed water immerse it in linseed oil in which 'rosin' is melted. On the following morning Ben found the track of a bear down by the spring where we got our water. The print of that foot was as big as a dinner plate, and the fact that some empty salmon cans and other refuse which had been thrown just outside the tent were missing set us to thinking, and it wasn't difficult to trace the connection between the missing articles and the owner of the big foot.

"There was no more tenting for yours truly after that, so we built us a sort of stone fortress in a suitable nook, where nature had already done the mason work on three sides. After laying up the wall on the vacant side we placed heavy poles across the top, on which we placed flat stones.

"We did all our prospecting together for a week or ten days, Ben carrying his big 50-90 Sharp's special and acting as body-guard, while I handled the pick. All that time we saw no bears, but plenty of elk and antelope and not a few mountain sheep. Our grizzly bear scare finally cooled. One morning I decided to explore a side canyon. Ben was to climb over the big spur that loomed up over our camp, swing round and meet me at noon near a sharp cone of rock which we called Currecanti Needle. I found mighty likely pay rock up that ravine, and the further I went the better the showing. The place is undoubtedly the site of an old volcano. Great masses of rock from overhanging crags have fallen and rent the floors, with some of the fissures very wide and apparently bottomless. Knocking off a piece of friable sand rock I found it to be auriferous, or gold-bearing rock. I don't know whether the yell I gave split any more cracks in the rock round there or not, but one thing I do know. I nearly split my throat in the effort, and then I mounted the big chunk and swung my hammer like a madman.

"Soon I heard a noise close by, and supposing it to be Ben, I yelled out: 'Hurrah Ben, I've struck it ri—!' Just then I looked up and the sight I saw froze my blood. Not 40 feet distant was an immense silver tip grizzly.

"Acting upon impulse, I hurled my quartz hammer at the monster, and, as he dropped on all-fours, I leaped from the rock, hoping to evade him by dodging around the bowlder. It may have been a foolish move, but I had no time to think. After jumping from the rock, I was obliged to halt a moment, in order to satisfy myself which way he was coming. I improved the moment by drawing my 44 Colt's from its sheath.

"When the bear reached the point where he expected to nab me and found that I was not there, he gave vent to a tremendous snuff, followed by a kind of guttural roar, and again I heard him coming at a double quick. I ran as I never ran before.

"I glanced hurriedly around and saw the gigantic fellow coming like a demon and then I stepped into one of the fissures I told you about, and down I went like a flash. The grizzly was so close on me when I fell that he went entirely over me, carried by the force of his momentum. He was back again in a moment, though, his immense head hanging over the rim of my narrow prison, which I quickly and most gratefully saw was too narrow to admit his bulky body.

"I was on my knees not six feet below the grizzly, and I felt that I could do deadly work with my revolver at that range. I pointed the gun straight at the yawning red mouth. My pistol roared in my ears. Five shots more were fired, as fast as I could send them, and then my gun was empty, but, thanks to my lucky stars, one of my bullets pierced an eye and the job was done.

"I was as weak as a baby when I climbed out of the fissure. I'd got all over it, though, when Ben came, and I told him I just knocked that grizzly on the head with my quartz hammer."

THE SULTAN WARN

France Said To Have Conveyed a Message from the Powers.

THE REFORMS MUST BE GENERAL

Reported To Be the First Diplomatic Move Made by France in Turkish Affairs and Is Regarded as Final.

London, Sept. 29.—The Paris correspondent of the Chronicle learns that M. Cambon, the French ambassador at Constantinople, had a long interview with the sultan yesterday, in the course of which he declared that the western powers had resolved to insist that the reforms which had already been granted in the Armenian provinces should be extended to the whole of the Turkish empire. The Chronicle correspondent adds: "This is the first diplomatic move of France and is regarded as a final warning." The Daily News correspondent at Rome is assured that negotiations are pending between England and Italy with a view to the latter government holding in readiness a large body of troops to sail at a moment's notice for the Levant. The morning papers devote some attention to the sudden change in the attitude of the Russian press towards Great Britain. Of these the Bourse Gazette and the Novosti warn the government to beware of forcing England to join the driebund, hinting that Germany is annoyed at England's aloofness from that alliance and is trying to sow discord between England and Russia. The newspapers make note of the fact that this change of face on the part of the Russian press is coincident with Lord Salisbury's arrival at Ballater for a conference with the czar.

WANAMAKER'S BIG PURCHASE.

The Great Hilton, Hughes Store in New York To Be Reopened.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—Robert C. Ogden of the firm of John Wanamaker returned from New York last evening and to-day confirmed the report of the purchase by his firm of the entire business of the late firm of Hilton, Hughes & Co. of New York. The transaction includes the purchase of all the real estate of the original firm of A. T. Stewart & Co., consisting of the great store at Broadway and Tenth street, the stable and outfit of the delivery service and all the merchandise. The Philadelphia firm will enter immediately upon the occupancy of the premises of its new purchase and will run the business upon the same lines of the Wanamaker store in this city. The senior partner of the successors of Hilton, Hughes & Co. is John Wanamaker, who was postmaster general in President Harrison's cabinet. Mr. Wanamaker's establishment here is one of the largest general stores in the world and does an enormous business annually, and the ex-postmaster general is credited with being a millionaire several times. Nothing could be learned here of the amount involved in the purchase of Hilton, Hughes & Co., but it is known to run into the millions.

Wanted for Larceny.

Boston, Sept. 29.—Wm. J. Binley, a resident of Brookline, is wanted by the police of Wilmington, Del., for robbing the Delaware Hardware company of a large quantity of goods and also for the larceny of several pitchers and towels from the Clayton hotel of this city. Binley, who is a traveling salesman for a wholesale hardware house, lives on Aspinwall avenue with his wife and B. O. Flower, who is said to be a relative of Binley's. At the house it was stated that Mr. Binley was at home on Friday, but when he learned that the officers were after him he left for Chicago. Mrs. Binley is completely prostrated.

State Civil Service.

Albany, Sept. 29.—One of the subjects to which the attention of Gov. Morton will be first directed now that he has returned to town will be the matter of reclassifying the civil service of the state. A scheme to accomplish this result was agreed upon by the state commission at its recent meeting in Buffalo and the governor will probably have an opportunity this week of examining it. No details with reference to the proposed reclassification of state service will be made public until the scheme has been approved by the governor.

Reading Railroad Earnings.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—The statement of the receivers of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad company for the month of August, 1896, shows gross receipts of $1,755,708.44 and gross expenses of $946,242.87, which with net receipts of $44,922.29 from other sources leaves a profit for the month of $854,388.46. The total charges for the month were $890,956.71, which leaves the deficit for August $36,568.25.

Gorman To Stump Maryland.

Washington, Sept. 29.—It is announced that Senator Gorman will take the stump in Maryland for Bryan and Sewall. He will confine his speaking to his own state. His first speech will be in October, probably at Laurel, where he resides. Other places and dates will be arranged by the democratic state committee.

A JUST ADMENDMENT.

The decision of the Board of Governors of the Muhlenberg hospital to amend the rules of the institution so as to permit physicians of the homœpath faith to practice there, will end the talk of another hospital. This amendment is one that has long been desired in justice to a large number of the people who contribute to the support of the hospital, but who have been deprived of the privilege of having their family physician, if he was a practitioner of the new school, attend them within the walls of the institution.

TO FLOAT A BANNER.

The Bryan and Sewall Democrats will end the campaign in Plainfield with some display of enthusiasm at the least. A meeting of a number of the silver advocates was held last night and it was decided to raise funds for the purpose of floating a Bryan and Sewall banner at the intersection of Front street and Park avenue.

Congressman Howell, of New Brunswick, is slated for a re-nomination in the Third District on the Republican ticket.

The Democratic primaries for the election of delegates to the Congressional and Assembly conventions will be held in the various wards of this city this evening.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Caldwell and her daughter, Miss Grace Caldwell, have located on West Sixth street.

Mrs. Andrew Vanderbeek, of Third place, is spending a few days with friends in Orange.

Mrs. O. B. Leonard, of Madison avenue, entertained out-of-town friends over Sunday.

Miss Noble, of Mendham, is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. F. T. Ketcham, of East Fifth street.

Miss Mary Thompson, of Rockview terrace, left yesterday for Summit, where she will spend the winter.

Miss Bertha Warman has returned to her home on Grove street, after spending some weeks out of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Preaster, of Williamsport, Pa., are guests of their brother, Frank P. Storr, of West Front street.

Mrs. S. T. Wilson, has returned to her home on Central avenue, after a summer spent in the White Mountains.

Samuel St. J. McCutchen and family, who have been occupying a cottage at Belmar for the season, will return to their home on Rockview terrace, October 2d.

Miss Agnes Opdyke, daughter of Henry B. Opdyke, of Farragut road, left Saturday for Cambridge, where she will commence her studies at Radcliffe College.

F. F. Lockwood and family, who have been occupying the home of S. St. John McCutchen for the summer, will return to their home in Brooklyn, Wednesday.

Miss O'Neil, of Pittsburg, has been visiting Miss Martha Tracy, of West Eighth street. Miss O'Neil and Miss Tracy left yesterday for Bryn Mawr College, where they are students.

Nelson G. Ayres and family will leave Thursday for their home in Dean street, Brooklyn, after spending the summer months in the house owned by Mrs. Morgan S. Taylor, on Rockview terrace.

Silver or Gold.

On receipt of ten cents, cash or stamps, a generous sample will be mailed of the most popular Catarrh and Hay Fever Cure (Ely's Cream Balm) sufficient to demonstrate its great merit. Full size 50c.

ELY BROTHERS,
56 Warren St., New York City.

Since 1861 I have been a great sufferer from catarrh. I tried Ely's Cream Balm and to all appearances am cured. Terrible headaches from which I had long suffered are gone.—W. J. Hitchcock, late Major U. S. Vol. and A. A. Gen., Buffalo, N. Y.

Many political speakers, clergymen, singers and others who use the voice excessively, rely upon One Minute Cough Cure to prevent huskiness and laryngitis. Its value as a preventive is only equalled by its power to afford instaneous relief. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

BILIOUS PILLIOUSNESS.

WHY SOME BILIOUS PEOPLE TAKE PILLS AND OTHERS DON'T.

Biliousness is much misunderstood. So many people have it, that 'tis worth understanding, the more so as it is easy enough, if you begin right.

Liver secretes a fluid called bile. Bile goes to the intestines, where it performs important work in digestion Sometimes bile passages in liver get clogged. This is biliousness.

"Pilliousness" is the idea that by taking a pill which stimulates the liver, we may cure biliousness. It is only an idea.

Pill taking relieves but does not cure it. The cure can only come through the stomach.

Why?

Biliousness is caused by the poison of undigested food, irritating the liver. To cure biliousness, these poisons must be got out of the stomach. The only sure way to do this is with Shaker Digestive Cordial.

Shaker Digestive Cordial is a pleasant tonic aid to digestion, prepared from roots, herbs and wine by the Shakers of Mount Lebanon. It helps the stomach to digest its food, and sweeps out of the system all dangerous poisons.

In this way it cures biliousness headache, nausea, dizziness, bad taste stomachache, fever, flatulence, constipation, loss of appetite, etc., when other remedies only give temporaay relief. All druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle.

Write for interesting book to The Shakers, 70 Reade Street, New York.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Miss Sadie Blimm, of Plainfield, is visiting her brother, John H. Blimm, Jr., for a few days.

Mrs. J. H. Blimm and daughter, Miss Marion, went to New York today to spend the balance of the week.

Dr. Westcott reports the health of the town as quite remarkable for this season of the year. This is particularly so with the children of the place.

Randolph Drake has contracted to build a cesspool in the rear of Elimm Brothers Hotel. It will be about six feet in diameter, and built of stone and brick.

The New York papers have been printing exaggerated stories concerning a lot of alleged hidden gold and other valuables somewhere in Morris and Sussex counties. And some of the farmers there have become so enthused with the reports that they work hard all day tunneling under their fields, and sit up with the watch dog at night so as to be sure that no robbers can discover the hidden treasure. But the latest comes from Scotch Plains. Contractor Jacob Humes while making some repairs to a house in the village a day or two ago found firmly mortised into the stone foundation wall in the cellar an old-fashioned stone pot filled with documents and other articles of more or less value, all in a good state of preservation. Whether or not there was anything of great value in the receptacle the finder refuses to state, but it is presumed there was. The building is said to have stood in its present position for upwards of 140 years, and repairs became necessary from time to time. At any rate Mr. Humes is carefully and personally guarding his treasure.

DUNELLEN.

George Williams, of Somerville, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. P. Reusch here.

Miss Carrie Uhdal of Netherwood, spent yesterday with Mrs. Griggs and Miss Staats of Dunellen.

Miss Lizzie Reusch and Miss Georgiana Reusch have gone to Brooklyn for a week's visit.

Edward Manchester, of the Smith corn-cob factory, has gone to Williamstown, Delaware, to remain for an indefinite period.

Contractor John Kitchen, of Plainfield, started to lay the frame foundation and floor beams for the new Town Hall, yesterday morning.

An infant son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Barker of the New Market road, died at three o'clock yesterday morning from heart trouble. The little one was only sick a few hours.

Herbert Wyckoff, who is employed in the New Jersey Central Railroad office on the New York side, is enjoying a week's vacation at his home here and at White House.

Isaac D. Titsworth, of Prospect avenue, who is 93 years of age, occasionally walks half a mile to town and back, and he don't seem to mind it one bit. Yesterday he walked over and met many of his old friends and acquaintances, whom he cordially recognized.

—The new French class at the North Plainfield High School commenced work this morning under the direction of Miss Kathrine Babbitt, the new teacher. The class is a good sized one, and the prospects for good work are excellent.

Chronic constipation is a painful, disasgreeable and life-shortening difficulty. It deranges the system, causes sickheadache, bad breath, and poisons the blood. It can be readily overcome by DeWitts' Little Early Risers. These little pills are great regulators. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

HOMŒPATHS AS WELL AS ALLOPATHS TO BE AT THE HOSPITAL.

An Amendment Made to the Rules Which Permits the New School Physicians to Practice at This Institution Hereafter.

The hospital question in Plainfield has been settled for a while at least, and the homœpathic physicians will not need a hospital of their own to accommodate their patients, for last evening the Board of Governors of the Muhlenberg Hospital passed an amendment to the constitution which opens that institution to all legally qualified practicing physicians.

The amendment is to section 7, which refers to the admission of patients. After stating that any member of the medical staff may send private patients to the hospital and treat them privately, subject to the rules of the Board, the amended section says:

"And any legally qualified physician, not a member of the medical staff, may send patients to the hospital to be there treated by such physician privately, after having obtained from the medical director a written order for the admission of each patient, subject, however, to such rules and regulations as shall from time to time be established by or with the approval of the Board."

The amendment was introduced at the annual meeting of the Board last May, when there was a movement on foot to establish another hospital.

No other business of importance was transacted at the meeting last evening, although there was, of course, the usual general discussion of the hospital and many suggestions were made for its welfare.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Burt Bodine, of Grandview avenue, has returned from a visit with friends in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. David Bodine, of Somerset street, has been entertaining her sister from Paterson.

Wm. V. Mundy, of West Fifth street, is very ill at his home suffering from an attack similar to the grip.

Mrs. Walter Irving Clarke, of Hartford, Conn., who has been visiting Plainfield relatives, returned home this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Price, of Bernardsville, were the guests Saturday and Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Wood, of Lincoln place.

Miss Bertha F. Warman returned to her home on Grove street, Saturday, after a month's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Eli Long, at Bluff Point, Yates county, N. Y.

Mrs. H. J. Brooks and family, who have been occupying George L. Howard's residence at the corner of Mercer and Rockview avenues for the past four months, will leave for their home on Halsey street, Brooklyn, Oct. 1st.

Mrs. Hauser, wife of Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, Craig place, returned to her home on Duer street, corner Park place, yesterday afternoon, after a pleasant visit at the home of her parents in Jersey City.

Dewitt C. Skaden and family, of East Sixth street, will leave Thursday for Minneapolis, where they will take up their residence. Mr. Skaden has been associated with Rockfellow, the grocer, for years, and was also superintendent of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school. Both he and his family will be greatly missed.

—Fireman Stalls, of the electric light station, is ill at his home, and Jeremiah Cash is filling his place.

—The case of White against Busher for wages alleged to be due is set down for trial before Justice Mosher tomorrow at 10 o'clock a. m. Arthur P. Miller will represent the plaintiff.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

STILL AGAINST THE DAM

A CORRESPONDENT RECITES PAST INUNDATIONS FOR ARGUMENT.

The Township Committee Has Not Granted Permission to Build the Dam, But Has Appointed a Committee to Investigate.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Having noticed an account in the columns of your edition of Friday evening concerning the dam now in course of construction at Washingtonville by the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, I would like to make an answer to some of the assertions made therein.

In the first place, I am informed by the Township Clerk that the petition presented to the township committee by a number of property owners in the vicinity of the proposed dam was not put upon the table nor was permission granted to the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company to erect the said dam, but that the Committee, recognizing their duty to protect the property owners of the township, appointed one of their number to investigate concerning the proportions, situations, etc., of the dam, to consult counsel concerning their rights and duty in regard to the case and to make a report to them as soon as possible.

In the second place, Mr. Nelson makes the assertion that the dam will not be carried away suddenly in case of a freshet, but will be gradually eaten away. Will you kindly make note of the fact that the property owners are not willing to run the risk of the dam breaking gradually? When the water is once released the effects will be the same, whether the dam breaks suddenly or is insidiously eaten into and finally crumbles or falls.

In the third place, Mr. Nelson makes the assertion that it is well nigh impossible for the water in the proposed pond to rise high enough to effect a breakage in the dam. Leaving out the fact that the dam may be broken through even if the water does not rise to the extreme altitude of the dam, it is well-known that the brook in the vicinity of Washingtonville, although comparatively insignificant in dry weather, rises very suddenly in times when a shower or a heavy rain is falling and for these reasons: This brook carries off the water shed from both the first and second mountains. Both of these mountains are filled with small water courses fed by numerous springs which in times when rain is falling become turbulent torrents. The fall of the land in this vicinity will average fifty feet in the mile and according to a well-known law in dydrostatics the velocity of the water will average over sixty miles an hour. In the fourth place, Mr. Nelson makes the assertion that in case a breakage of the dam was affected the waters would become dissipated before they reached the place known as the "Notch," and no damage would be done. This by reason of the fact that the valley broadens below the point where the proposed dam is to be situated. Although this assertion is very nice as far as theory is concerned, I am afraid that if it were put to a practical test it would prove fallacious. Just below the place where a dam now controlled by this company is situated the valley broadens in a similar manner to the way it will broaden in front of the proposed dam.

Yet during the freshet of 1889, when the dam first spoken of was broken through and carried away, instead of the waters dissipating themselves harmlessly over the broadening valley below they remained in one solid body, carrying away two bridges in this vicinity, washing out the road immediately above the tavern owned by George Demler, Sr., to repair which the township was put to an expense of over $1500, and seriously injuring property owned by Messrs Miles, Chase, Hudson, J. F. Wilson and others, and doing other damage which space will not allow to be mentioned. In the fifth place, the company claim that this dam will be erected in a safe and proper manner under their personal supervision. This company consists of men who have owned or controlled dams and ponds in this vicinity in their individual capacity before they became members of this company. Were the dams they erected previously safe? Were they never carried away? Was no damage effected by reason of their existence? Could they answer these questions to the community satisfactorily they might be justified in making the statement that the proposed dam will be erected safely and properly. But the fact remains that the dams erected by them in the past have not stood the test of the elements, but without an exception have broken in times of a heavy rainfall, in some cases more than once.

In view of the facts I think I am justified in objecting to the erection of this dam and in doing so I but voice the sentiment of the community. "Man wants but little here below" but among those "wants" is protection in the peaceable enjoyments of his life and property. C. P.

PORTER AT THE HEAD

New York Democratic State Ticket as Revised.

SCHRAUB FOR LIEUT.-GOVERNOR

Danforth Decides at the Eleventh Hour Not To Permit His Name To Be Used To Fill the Vacancy Caused by Thacher's Declination.

New York, Sept. 29.—The regular democratic ticket of the state of New York, revised by the state committee last night, is: For governor, Wilbur F. Porter of Watertown. For lieutenant-governor—Frederick C. Schraub of Lowville. For associate justice of the court of appeals—Robert C. Titus of Buffalo. It was supposed to be settled that Elliot Danforth, chairman of the state committee, would be placed at the head of the ticket to fill the vacancy caused by the declination of John Boyd Thacher. At the eleventh hour Mr. Danforth, who had been in communication with senator David B. Hill, decided that he would not permit his name to be used. It is said that the extreme silver men who were the first to push Mr. Danforth as the best man to take Mr. Thacher's place began to have doubts as to the genuineness of his silver views. To top it all, William J. Bryan came to town just before the committee met and counseled putting Judge Porter at the head of the ticket and naming a German for second place. As these complications arose there were talks over the long-distance telephone between Mr. Danforth and Senator Hill, which ended in advice from the senator that Mr. Danforth quit the race.

SENSATIONS PROMISED.

Gov. Morton To Hear the Gun Contract Collusion Charges.

Albany, Sept. 29.—Sensational developments are promised at a hearing to be had before Gov. Morton next week. For the past few weeks the governor has received a number of protests from gun manufacturers against his approval of the report of the special commission, which he appointed to select a gun for the rearmament of the national guard of the state. This commission, after testing a dozen guns of different manufacture, submitted a strong report to the governor in favor of the gun manufactured by the Savage Arms company of Utica. Many of the other competitors in the gun test before the special commission have filed protests with the governor against his approving the report. They allege collusion with regard to the selection of the Savage gun, and claim that they have evidence which would tend to show that favoritism was exercised in the tests which led to its selection. The Winchester Arms company of New Haven are the principal movers in the endeavor to upset the report of the commission before the governor. It is understood that Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy of New York and Attorney David Welch of New York have been retained to represent the Winchester company before the governor. At the latter's request Gov. Morton has agreed to give the protestants a hearing next week on Wednesday at 11:30 o'clock. If the governor should approve the report, the adjutant general in pursuance of a legislative enactment, is authorized to contract for 15,000 rifles at a cost of $300,000 with which to rearm the state militia.

Test of Machine Guns.

Washington, Sept. 29.—A test of machine guns has just been made at the Washington navy yard. Three guns—the Maxim, the Hotchkiss and the Colt—will be tested as regards their accuracy, speed and endurance. Six months ago these three arms were tried, the Colt proving successful, and fifty of that class were ordered for use on naval vessels. The service will require fifty additional guns of the machine type, and the winner of the present contest will probably receive the award.

Tennessee Centennial Celebration.

Albany, Sept. 29.—Gov. Morton has named as additional commissioners to represent the state of New York at the Tennessee centennial celebration to be held in Nashville in 1897, Thomas C. Platt, Thomas W. Evan and Horace E. Garth, all of New York city. These appointments were requested by commissioner general A. W. Wills of the Tennessee centennial. These commissioners serve at their own expense.

The Three New Torpedo Boats.

Washington, Sept. 29.—On Thursday, Oct. 1, torpedo boat No. 3 will be launched from the yards of the Columbia Iron works at Baltimore. This addition to the navy, which must make a speed of 24 1-2 knots an hour, is one of the three under construction at the same yards, each of them being of 142 tons displacement. They will be ready for service next March.

St. Winifred Statue Unveiled at Hudson.

Hudson, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The bronze statue of St. Winifred, modeled by sculptor George E. Bissel of Poughkeepsie and cast in France, was unveiled and dedicated with public ceremonies in the presence of 5,000 persons yesterday afternoon. The statue was a gift of Gen. J. Watts De Peyster of Tivoli to the city of Hudson.

MALONEY SEES LIGHT.

But It Was a Long Time Before This Event Occurred.

Park Commissioner's Family Goes Abroad in Darkness on His Beat and Escapes Police Interference for a Long Time.

"Whiniver I see thim bicycle lanterns driftin' down the road loike witch lights I feel loike a farmer," said Maloney, the "sparrow cop," dejectedly, to a Chicago Tribune reporter.

"To begin with, me job, ye should understand is, to use a Frinch term, the perquesit of a park commissioner by the name of Watson, a great man he is too. He should be Irish and prisident.' Well, I got me job through a frind of mine, who is the frind of Watson's, so the name is swate to me ears.

"The beginnin' of me trouble was an order to pinch the min as were ridin' without lanterns—sure 'twas no use orderin' Maloney to disturb the ladies. Not bein' acquainted at the toime with the min of influence I wan night ran in a man with a pull and was near losin' me job for the same.

"'Use your discreshun, Maloney,' said the captain to me. 'Use your discreshun.' 'I can't,' said I. 'I'm Irish.' 'Well, remember this is a republic,' said he to me, 'and lave min with pulls alone.' 'I will,' said I, and that was the second cause of me trouble.

"Well, the nixt noight, as I was standin' in the droive, along comes two min, with nary a loight on their bicycles. 'Be cautious, Maloney,' said I, and I sized 'em up. Sure, they looked harmless, and I grabbed 'em. 'Come along wid yez,' said I. 'Fur what?' sez wan of thim. 'Fur what?' sez I; 'fur ridin' without a loight,' sez I. 'We was goin' to a banquet,' sez he, 'whin our lamps wint out.' 'An' where did they go,' sez I, fur they had not a lantern on their bicycles.

"'Now, look ahere, Mr. Orficer,' said the other wan, 'our name is Watson, sons of Park Commissioner Watson,' said he—sure, I thought I would drop dead at the mintion of the name—'and I think ye should let us go this toime,' said he. I did. I dropped 'em loike the divil would holy water.

"WE'RE WATSONS."

"They wint, and the noight after along comes three more without a lantern among thim. This toime it was a man and two wimen—they was ladies, but 'tis the stoile to say wimen, ye know. Sure it wint to me heart to frighten them, but 'twas me duty, so I jumped out and said: 'Halt!' said I. 'Halt and loight thim lanterns.'

"'Our name is Watson,' said they. And before I could be beggin' their pardon they was gone.

"About tin o'clock the next noight I seen a party of no less than twinty bicyclers ridin' along without loights. Sure 'twas so dark among thim they moight all been engaged. 'Maloney,' said I, 'the toime has come to earn a reputashun.' So I jumped out in the road and drew me club. 'Halt!' said I. 'Ye are under arrist.' And what do you think they done? Halt? Niver a bit. 'Git out of the way,' said the leader to me, 'we're Watsons,' and away the whole twinty wint. Sure a baby could ha knocked me down and bate me, I was that surprised.

"'I wonder if all the commissioners have such multitugenous families,' said I to meself. 'Sure, an' if they have I don't want the job, thin,' said I. So next day I asked our mutual frind: 'What nationality is this man Watson?' 'He is an American,' said me frind, 'and a great man.' 'He is, indade,' said I.

"That noight near midnoight I seen two riders come a wabblin' down the road without lanterns. I knew all the Watsons were good riders, so I grabs 'em—they bein' min. 'Ye are under arrist,' said I. 'Git out, will ye,' said one. 'Our name is Watson,' said he, with a brogue. 'You're no Watson,' said I. 'You're Irish.' 'Faith an' I'm as good,' said he. 'I'm the Watson's cook'—and sure 'twas a woman, a woman in man's clothes—them things they call bloomers, ye understand. 'An' what have ye on?' said I, pointin' to the bloomers. 'The English groom's roidin' suit,' said she. 'And who is this?' said I pointin' to the other, a little wan. 'That's the English groom,' said she. 'Let me be, ye ruffian.'

"'An English groom,' said I, an' I gives him a shake, fur me grandfather was hung in '98 fur killin' a cunstable. Then I said to the cook, 'go home,' said I, 'an' don't be disgracin' your race and imployer by wearin' such things,' said I, pointin' to the bloomers. As fur the little Inglish groom, I locks him up. And thin the light began to dawn on me.

"So the next day, seein' Mr. Watson oin the park I said to him: 'Axin' your pardon,' said I, 'how many children have you, sor?' 'Four,' said he, 'but I hear some people have been usin' me name to avoid burnin' oil in their bicycle lamps,' said he. 'But they will not use me name any more.' 'They will save no more oil,' said I. And they haven't; but iviry toime I see thim lanterns I feel loike a farmer. The idea of an Irishman bein' caught loike that."

VETERAN PREFERENCE LAW.

The Massachusetts Statute Sustained by the Supreme Court.

Boston, Sept. 29.—The judges of the supreme court, in compliance with an order adopted by the executive council last June relative to the constitutionality of the veteran preference act, passed at the last session of the legislature, have submitted opinions to the acting governor. The constitutionality of the act is sustained in a majority report signed by Judges Field, Holmes, Knowlton and Morton. A minority report is signed by Judges Allen, Lathrop and Barker. The act provides that in appointments to any position in the public service, under the civil service act, any veteran who passes the prescribed examination shall be preferred to all persons not veterans. It is also provided in the act that veterans may apply for positions in the classified service without examination, and appointing officers are given the power, though they are not compelled, to appoint or employ such veterans in the office or position sought. No veteran holding an office or employment in the public service in any city or town can be removed or suspended, without his consent or transferred, except after a hearing before the mayor or selectmen. The statute does not give the veteran quite the unlimited preference which was accorded by the act which was last year passed over Gov. Greenhalge's veto and subsequently declared unconstitutional by the court. He has absolute preference, however, if he has the appointing power on his side.

THE TRENTON FAIR.

Exhibits Said To Surpass Those of Former Years---Big Crowds Present.

Trenton, Sept. 29.—The Interstate Fair opened at the fair grounds in this city yesterday, in the presence of a large crowd. The threatening weather did not put much of a damper on the people who are accustomed to attend the big fair on the opening day. Great crowds of bicyclists were in the grounds, because the first day was set aside for them. There were races during the afternoon, for professionals and amateurs, for which prizes amounting to more than $1,000 were given. The grounds of the association are beautifully laid out, and the exhibits arranged attractively. The cattle and farm produce on exhibition this year are said to be better than for several seasons past. There exists a good-natured rivalry among the exhibitors in the different classes, and all are confident of carrying off prizes. There are about 200 horses entered for the different trotting races, which will be held every afternoon during the fair, and some of them have good records.

MISS JEFFERSON WEDS.

President Cleveland Sees the Actor's Granddaughter Made Mrs. McDonough.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Sept. 29.—Miss Margaret, daughter of Charles B. Jefferson and granddaugher of the veteran actor, Joseph Jefferson, was married to Glen McDonough of New York yesterday. The wedding was at the residence of the bride's father, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Herman Page of Fall River, in the presence of about fifty guests. William W. Jefferson, a son of the actor, was best man, and Miss Ada Wood of Boston was the maid of honor. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. The President and Mrs. Cleveland, who are personal friends of the Jeffersons, were present. They arrived in their carriage from Gray Gables a few minutes before the wedding, and remained but a short time after the ceremony.

W. C. WHITNEY'S WEDDING DAY.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE COAL DEMON

has an unsatiable thirst for money, hasn't he? Eats it up faster than anything else, doesn't he? The only way to save money on coal is to get the most for your money—to get clean, solid coal that will burn down to fine ashes without stopping half way between coal and ashes. We know we can give you perfect satisfaction, but don't want you to buy here until you know it.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices
We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00.

WHY CAN'T I BE WELL?

Must I Always be Weak and Sickly?

Serious Questions for Thousands of Sufferers. A Definite Answer from the Best Authority.

You are not in good health. There is weakness, a pain, or a tired feeling, your blood is bad, your nerves are weak, or some organ in the body is out of order and you need building up. Don't neglect such a condition, for delay is dangerous.

You can get well and have perfect health just as well as not. Follow the advice of Mrs. F. Cullen, of 772 Grand ave., New Haven, Ct., who will tell you how she got well and just how you also can be cured.

"I was very weak and nervous and could not hold anything in my hands. I felt tired and nervous all the time, and had no ambition to do anything. In fact, I was nearly in my grave. I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and it has done a world of good for me.

MRS. F. CULLEN.

"I am now strong and able to do most anything. Dr. Greene's wonderful Nervura cured me, and I am sure it will help every man, woman or child who is weak and nervous."

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is a very giant among medicines, performing cures which seem little short of miraculous. You can make no mistake in trying it.

It is the prescription and discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful specialist in nervous and chronic diseases, who gives free consultation, personally or by letter.

PARROT BETRAYED HIM.

Arrest of an Alleged Counterfeiter Under Peculiar Circumstances.

William Sands, or Dr. Clarke, as he calls himself, would not now be lanquishing in the Essex county (N. J.) jail awaiting trial for counterfeiting had he not been so fond of his parrot.

The parrot in question is a magnificent bird, highly accomplished, speaking French, Spanish and English and possessed of more than ordinary intelligence. Dr. Clarke, who has for some time been carrying on a magnetic-healing business at Buffalo, is a man of much education and personal charm and has performed some wonderful cures in cases where physicians were obliged to acknowledge themselves beaten. He was in receipt of a good income from this source, though the defectives claim that it was only a side issue and the counterfeiting business brought in most of his income. He had a great fascination for women, and when the woman had eloped with him to Buffalo died he practically had the choice of a number of infatuated ladies.

He chose Mrs. Knapp, an intelligent, remarkably attractive woman, who left her husband for Dr. Clarke. She was devoted to him, and is so still, refusing to discuss her case—she also was arrested as an accomplice—for fear of injuring the doctor. Clarke, on the contrary, has made no effort to shield her and seems more concerned about his parrot. The detectives on his trail lost the scent, and would not have found him had it not been known that he invariably traveled with this parrot. He was traced west to Chicago, to the Catskills, Albany, Troy, Jersey City, and finally to his last stopping place, all through the fact that people remembered him as the elderly gentleman who traveled with a parrot. When taken to the hotel where Mrs. Knapp was arrested the parrot sat in its cage and Dr. Clarke said as the bird welcomed him with "Hello:" "Oh, Polly, I'm in trouble!"

The bird dropped its head and then plaintively and profanely remarked: "Oh, h—l!"

Too Many Pipes for the Tobacco.

When Judge Charles B. Andrews, of the Connecticut supreme court, was a freshman at Amherst it was the custom to "smoke out" freshmen. A party of a dozen or more of the fellows would enter the room of an unsuspecting boy, light their pipes and smoke until the victim gave in and offered a treat. When they came into Andrew's room they were without their pipes and had no tobacco about them, but with a stern voice one fellow handed Charles a dollar and ordered him to get out and procure pipes and tobacco for the crowd. Charles went out and soon returned with 99 pipes and one cent's worth of tobacco. They did not smoke him out that night.

SENSATIONAL TRAGEDY.

A Prominent Duncannon Doctor Shoots a Druggist and His Own Wife.

Duncannon, Pa., Sept. 29.—Yesterday afternoon Dr. T. L. Johnson, one of the best known physicians in the county, called into his office druggist George S. Henry, a prominent business man, and, taking a large revolver from his pocket, deliberately fired three shots at him, two lodging in his shoulder and one in his stomach. He then walked into the hall and meeting his wife he shot her twice, once in the arm and once in the shoulder. He then walked up to his stable two blocks away, had his team hitched up and drove down to his office, where he got his ledgers, and taking in a constable, gave himself up and started for New Bloomfield, the county seat, ten miles away. Mrs. Johnson's wounds are not considered dangerous, but it is thought that Henry cannot live.

MORRISON'S SHORTAGE.

Proceedings Against Rensselaer County's Treasurer Suspended.

Troy, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Reports were current here that George H. Morrison, the county treasurer of Rensselaer county who was on Saturday found short in his accounts about $300,000, and who turned over to his bondsmen securities of the face value of $306,000, estimated to be worth at least 40 cents on the dollar, would be rearrested. He had been taken into custody on Saturday on the complaint of City Chamberlain Morey. No such action will now be taken. The board of supervisors, at a meeting held yesterday, decided to postpone further proceedings until the books of the treasurer are examined. An examination has been ordered, and in the meantime Mr. Morrison is still acting as treasurer.

DIVORCED AFTER FIFTY YEARS.

A Long and Happy Union Shattered in the End by Drink.

Fishkill Landing, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Anson W. Bailey and his wife, Mary, celebrated their golden wedding last year. They were married in 1845. Until 1895 the couple lived most harmoniously. They appeared devoted. Then all at once the husband developed a fondness for intoxicants, so the wife claims. According to her affidavits, he used every means to smuggle whiskey into the house, although his wife had pledged all the local liquor dealers not to sell her husband liquor. In despair she left him, and applied for a divorce, which has just been granted to her by Judge Hall of the superior court. The Baileys lived just over the line, in Connecticut.

STORM ON MEXICAN COAST.

Many Small Towns Flooded and Great Damage and Suffering Caused.

City of Mexico, Sept. 29.—The western coast of Mexico has been visited by a terrible storm, which has caused great damage. The town of Altata, port of the state of Sinoloa, is inundated and the capital, Culiacan, has suffered severely. Many small towns have been flooded. The little railway from Altata to Culiacan has been badly washed out. Waves poured into the principal streets of Mazatlan and the new embankments for the protection of the town were torn to pieces. Aid has been requested for sufferers, who have lost a large amount of property.

THE SOUDAN EXPEDITION.

A Further Forward Movement Said To Be Unlikely.

London, Sept. 29.—The Times, in an editorial, speaking of the order of Sir Herbert Kitchener for the return of the First Staffordshire regiment from Dongola to Kosheh on the way to Cairo, says that the inferences to be drawn from the order are that the Dervish power has collapsed, and that it is not intended that there shall be a further forward movement on a large scale at present. Other newspapers suggest that it is merely an economical move on account of the difficulty of victualling the expedition, only dates being obtainable at Dongola.

Activity on the Canal.

Buffalo, Sept. 29.—The canal boats are very busy. Considerable flour is going east and up-bound coal business is brisk just now. Reports from Tonawanda state that the lumber boats are all busy and that there is money in the rates.

THRONGS AT CANTON

Another Busy Day for the Republican Nominee.

FIVE DELEGATIONS ARE SCHEDULED

Several Thousand Strangers Will Pay Their Respects to Major McKinley To-day. A Delegation Received from the A. M. E. Conference.

Canton, O., Sept. 29.—To-day and Saturday will probably be the busiest days of the week for Major McKinley. As early as 8 o'clock the visitors began to arrive in the city and at noon there were probably 10,000 strangers on the streets. The delegations booked for to-day are the Baltimore & Ohio railroad men, farmers and business men of northern Indiana; the old soldiers of Sandusky, O.; Ladies' McKinley club of Cincinnati; the farmers of Geauga county and the locomotive engineers of Chicago. Major McKinley received only two delegations yesterday, one from Lisbon, the home of his ancestors. Although the weather was very disagreeable the nominee broke the rule to make only short speeches hereafter and addressed his old constituents at some length, and the reception from old friends was remarkable for its fervor. The second delegation came frome Cleveland. It was made up of 300 colored people. Among them were the clergymen and delegates who have been attending the northern Ohio conference of the African American M. E. church. State senator J. P. Green introduced bishop B. Lee, who in turn introduced bishop B. W. Arnett. Arnett made a spirited address, and, after Major McKinley had finished speaking, he stepped forward, grasped the candidate's hand and said: "Major McKinley, I have shaken hands with every president from Lincoln down and I want the honor of conferring the presidential succession on you." In his speech Bishop Arnett said to Major McKinley: "Eight millions of colored people look upon you as the star of hope for their race and for the country." Major McKinley in response to the spokesman's greeting said, in part: "This is to me a most interesting and inspiring call. I appreciate the kind words, the earnest words, the eloquent words, spoken by Bishop Arnett. They move my soul. They inspire me with confidence. I wish his voice and his patriotic sentiments, so well expressed, might have been heard by thousands rather than by a few hundred gathered about me to-day. I am glad to meet the ministers of the African Methodist Episcopal church. That you should have set aside the business of your annual conference long enough to pay me a visit, is an honor which I greatly appreciate and shall always remember. The history of your race is one of wonderful progress, under the most trying and difficult circumstances. You have been looking carefully after the intellectual and have not neglected the moral condition of your race. You and the race to which you belong have my hearty congratulations upon the progress you have already made and my prayer for still greater progress in the future. May God bless and keep you all."

FISHING PARTY DROWNED.

Capt. T. F. Clisby, a Missionary, and Four Eskimos Meet with a Sad Fate.

Boston, Sept. 29.—A Sydney, C. B., special says: The steamer Hope, bearing the sixth Peary expedition which arrived here last night, brought the sad news of the death of Capt. T. F. Clisby, in charge of the American whaling station at Signula Point, Cape Haven; Capt. Hall of the Scotch station at Black Lead island, Mr. Farker, the missionary assistant and four Eskimo, who were drowned off Black Lead island, in Cumberland sound on the morning of the 11th of August. They had started in a whale boat for Salmon river, about twenty miles up the coast, and their boat was found three days' later by the missionary, Mr. Peck, partly filled with water. Capt. Clisby was a native of Nantucket and unmarried. As a result of this accident this American station, owned by Boston parties, will be closed for the winter.

Diphtheria at Salem, Mass.

Salem, Mass., Sept. 29.—There are twenty-seven cases of diphtheria in this city, about half the victims being convalescents. The schools in the upper section of the city were closed yesterday and will remain closed for two weeks. The board of health has also ordered St. Joseph's parochial school closed. Over forty men are engaged by the city watching infected houses.

Ex-Prison Warden's Son Sentenced.

Boston, Sept. 29.—Gideon Haynes, lawyer and son of ex-Warden Haynes of the state prison, was sentenced in the superior criminal court yesterday afternoon by Judge Bishop to the house of correction for three years upon his plea of guilty to the indictment which charged him with forgery.

Boston Stock Exchange Officers.

Boston, Sept. 29.—At the annual election of the officers of the Boston Stock exchange the following ticket was elected: President, Linman B. Greenleaf; vice-president, Elisha D. Bangs; chairman, Murray R. Ballou; treasurer, Sidney Chase; secretary, Murray R. Ballou.

Naval Transfers.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Lieut. J. M. Helm has been detached from the Terror and granted three months' sick leave. Lieut. Eniles has been ordered to the Vermont, and assistant surgeon R. G. Broderick has been detached from the Franklin and granted two months' leave.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Fred Adams has purchased a new Triumph wheel.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Trueleben, of East Fifth street, rode their wheels to Staten Island Sunday.

Manager Mills, of the United States Express Company, enjoyed a wheeling trip about New York on Sunday.

Edward TenEyck, of South Plainfield, rode second in a ten mile road race at Metuchen last Saturday. The winner's time was 32:30.

LAWN TENNIS.

The tennis courts of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club have now been permanently located in the close vicinity of the new club house on Plainfield avenue, and the club has given up their old courts on Watchung avenue. It was not expected to open the new courts until Spring but the grounds committee went to work with a will, especially the chairman, W. L. Glenny, whose indefatigable efforts aided materially, and the courts were completed in a remarkably short time and were ready for play last Saturday at the opening of the club house. Next year the club proposes to have the courts as good as the former ones of the club which had a reputation of being equal to any in the State. Interest in tennis will be stimulated by tournaments and various matches, while the pretty location of the courts near the dainty little club house will attract many.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Charles C. Brower won a seven-heat race at Minneola last Friday and Saturday with "Highland Boy."

C. C. Brower shipped the trotter "Highland Boy" from Minneola, L. I., yesterday, to Trenton, to trot at the Inter-State Fair.

AROUND THE BASES.

On Saturday afternoon the Bound Brooks were defeated at Somerville by the Somersets of that place by a score of 18 to 3. Brampton and Newhouse and James and Ferguson were the respective batteries.

GOLF.

The play off of the tie in Saturday's golf tournament at the links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will take place tomorrow afternoon on the links on Plainfield avenue.

Teachers' Union.

The regular meeting of the Teachers' Primary Union was held yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. building. The devotional exercises were led by Mrs. Bailey. The lesson was taught by Miss Beeching in the absence of Miss Runyon, who had been appointed teacher for that day. A paper was read by Miss Rocap on the topic "Our Union," and then followed a number of testimonies by the teachers of the help the Union had been in the Sunday.schools.

Went Astray.

An Italian and his wife, with about 350 pounds of luggage, walked from Bound Brook to this city early this morning and perched on the sidewalk in front of the Friends' meeting-house on Watchung avenue. They had been engaged through an Italian agency to go to South Plainfield, and went astray. The couple picked up their traps and started for Dunellen by trolley, and from there they hoped to reach their destination on foot.

A Strong Summing Up.

Hon. A. A. Clark made a strong appeal to the jury in summing up in the interests of the Central Railroad Company, this morning at Somerville, at the trial of Andrew Lane against the railroad company, for damages to his mill and store by water on the South Branch river, alleged to be caused by the action of the railroad company in placing braces under the arches of their bridge, thus causing the river to overflow its banks.

GOVERNORS' MEMORIAL

HOSPITAL OFFICIALS RECORD GRIEF OVER E. N. ERICKSON'S DEATH.

Second Time in Fifteen Years That One of The Members of the Board Has Died, But the Sense of Sorrow is Acute.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, assembled in special meeting to take action in regard to the death of Eric N. Erickson, president of the board, directed that the following memorial be placed upon the minutes and that a copy of the same be duly engrossed and forwarded to his family:

The Board feel greatly blessed in that during the fifteen years of their existence they have but twice been called upon to bewail the loss of members by death, but that after so long an interval the blow should have fallen upon their president, seems to have taken from them the power to express in words their sense of loss, both as to official and personal relations.

Mr. Erickson was one of the corporators of the hospital and from its inception gave freely of his intelligence, his substance and his time towards its establishment.

The most modest and unobtrusive of men, his foresight and wisdom were remarkable, and he was faithful and conscientious in execution as he was wise and cautious in council.

There were many occasions during his period of service to his city when the limit of endurance seemed to have been reached and when he might with reason have asked to be excused from giving time and labor to hospital work, but never once did he ask to be released from any duty or seek to shift a burden from his own shoulders.

And the same word may be said of him in all the relations of life in whatever position he was found; his conduct was governed by conscience, loyalty, faithfulness and a wisdom that was rare and comprehensive.

But beyond our official estimate of this good man and our feeling of loss in the death of an invaluable member of our board, is a deep sense of personal loss to each individual. It is as if each one of us had lost a brother, and while we must accept the chastisement in humble belief in the love and wisdom of the Divine power which has taken him home, the mystery of the taking of such a man in the prime of life and in the midst of such activity for good must remain inscrutable and past our knowledge.

We convey to his family our tenderest sympathy and to this entire city a sense of our regret at the loss it has sustained in the decease of such a citizen.

At a special meeting of the staff of Muhlenberg Hospital the following resolutions were unanimously passed:

Whereas, Death has removed from us Eric N. Erickson, President of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital.

Be it resolved, That the medical staff of Muhlenberg Hospital has for years recognized in him a staunch and loyal friend to the hospital. He has given freely of his time and thought to further the advancement of the institution he loved so well. His sound judgment was always valued, and we felt that we had in him a friend to true medical charity.

Resolved, That we extend our sympathy to the wife and family in this the hour of their sorrow.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family and to the Plainfield papers. E. H. Hedges, Sec'y pro tem.

NECK CUT FROM EAR TO EAR.

A Valuable Horse Found With a Big Gash in His Throat.

A strange and peculiar accident happened to a valuable four-year-old bay mare owned by William Baldwin, of West Fourth street, sometime yesterday afternoon. The animal was found in the stable about nightfall with its throat cut from ear to ear. As soon as discovered Veterinary Surgeon Knott was sent for, and he took a dozen or fourteen stitches to sew up the exterior wounds, and the under muscles were also stitched together. There was also another wound extending almost diagonally from the larger one.

Dr. Knott is not prepared to say how the wounds were inflicted, but he is of the opinion that they were not done with a knife. Still another thing which leads to the belief that the horse's throat had been deliberately cut, is the fact that nothing about the stall could be found where the animal might have caused its own harm. The barn was unlocked and Mr. Baldwin was away from home, so there is no direct proof as to how the accident happened.

Rabbit That Took to Water.

From Seneca, S. C., comes a story to the American Field about a rabbit hunt in a rainstorm. It rained hard, but the dogs put up 15 rabbits, and all were killed by the dogs, but there was one rabbit that knew a thing or two, though not enough to rescue it from the combined wits of several dogs. The little creek there had been filled to overflowing by the rains, and the bottom or flat lands were sloshy—hummocks were sticking out here and there and to this bottom the bright rabbit fled. Most rabbits do not like water, and they do not ordinarily take to it when hounded. But this rabbit seemed to have learned a trick from the deer, which seek the water when the dogs are on the trail. The rabbit took to the hummocks, leaped from one to another, but finding that this did not mislead the dogs, it swam the creek back and forth three times, then, being well tired out, the dogs grabbed it.

Lieut. Mahoney's Case.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Ensign Thomas Washington, the judge advocate of the court martial which recently tried Lieut. Mahoney at New York on charges of intoxication, has arrived at the navy department, bringing the record of the court. As the accused man pleaded guilty, the only thing that remained to be fixed by the court was the sentence.

Mexican Cotton Mills Closed.

Queretaro, Mex., Sept. 29.—The Hercules cotton mills of this city, three of the largest cotton factories in Mexico, have closed down for an indefinite period. Sixteen hundred operatives are thrown out of employment. The cause of the shut down is stated to be an overproduction of the manufactured goods.

FIRED AT INTRUDERS.

THIEVES MAKE ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO ENTER EMORYSIDE STATION.

The Proprietor Was There, However, and When an Entrance Was Attempted He Fired at Them, But They Escaped.

It is only a few days ago that The Press told of an attempt that was made to enter and rob the Emoryside station at the Dunellen end of the street car railroad. So, fearing another attempt, Proprietor A. Emory and two of his friends decided to stay in the station Sunday night, in the hope that the intruders might come around again and sample his appetizing stock of edibles. Fully equipped with shooting irons, Mr. Emory and his friends sat quietly in the waiting room from 9 o'clock until midnight, when they heard footsteps approaching and presently four men were noticed about the place. One of them, with a cold-chisel or some other blunt instrument, pried off a weather-board and another one was working away at a side window, when Mr. Emory and his friends rushed out and fired a volley of shots at the fast disappearing fugitives. But whether or not any of the shots took effect is not known. At the first sound from the pistols two of the men started on a run toward Dunellen and the other two ran toward Plainfield to a point opposite the Craig property, where they branched off and ran through the fields to the railroad and escaped.

Mr. Emory is a law-abiding citizen and has built up a well-paying business. Now he intends to sleep in the building every night, and woe be unto the man or men who makes a third attempt to enter the place at night.

ENTHUSIASTIC REPUBLICAN MEETING IN MUSIC HALL.

Addressed by a Laboring Man, Who Says That McKinley is One of the Best Friends the Laboring Man Ever Had

The voters who like wild campaign enthusiasm were all remembered at the Republican mass meeting held at Music Hall last evening. Of course, you can't expect to pack the hall with the rain coming down by the bucketful outside, but considering the storm the audience was surprisingly large. The lower floor was comfortably filled, while there was a good showing in the gallery. While some of the seats were vacated before the speeches were over, most of the audience remained as interested listeners until the band struck up a closing selection and the leading McKinley men of the town filed off the platform.

The Plainfield Cornet Band was to have paraded the streets before the meeting to draw out a crowd, but the torrents of rain that was falling made that impossible, and the band played at the entrance to the hall instead until 8 o'clock, when the musicians adjourned to the hall.

After an opening selection, a medley of patriotic airs, President Charles J. Fisk, of the Plainfield McKinley and Hobart Club, stepped to the front and called the meeting to order, welcoming all to the meeting. He then announced that Donald McInnes was chairman, and that gentleman took the chair. He read a list of the other officers of the meeting which was as follows:

Secretaries—P. N. Kline, W. Harrison Simpson, J. E. Flannery, E. H. Bird, Martin Lance, G. W. F. Randolph, Chas. H. Randolph and William C. Baker.

Vice-presidents — Herbert Schillinger, D. C. Allen, Chas. Davis, John Clifton, Wm. Carson, Robert Gow, A. Martell, Walter Pearson, Wm. McArdle, James Stewart, David Morning, Andrew McConnell, Wm. Jukes, John W. Poole, Jos. Chapot, Alex. Gilbert, J. P. Mason, D. W. Littell, David Titsworth, E. R. Ackerman, F. W. Runyon, Morris Sorensen, William Messerschmidt, Howard Cooper, Rob't Armstrong, Harold Serrell, W. W. Coriell, F. C. Lounsbury, J. L. Moore, Wm. H. Moore, F. S. Runyon, John McInerney, James Carney, James Muldowney, J. F. MacDonald, Alex. Mallinson, Fred Dunn, Wm. Addis, I. L. McVoy, Samuel P. T. Wilbur, H. W. Force, Randolph Marsh, A. Sargeant, James Clarkson, W. J. Ford, Paul Symons, C. Jones, W. E. Alpaugh, Joseph V. Morrison, Samuel Wilson, Louis Peterson, Aug. Boutren, John S. Foster, D. P. Hicks, J. P. Rogers, John Porter, Wm. Rankin, Fred Sears, Richard Higham, S. A. Ginna, J. B. Dumont, W. R. Cosgrove, Leonard Spangenberg, Fred Hand, Clif. Wharton, Jr., Wm. Scribner, Howard Templin, Michael Doyle, Ed. Schuck, Frank Carver and C. W. Smith.

After the usual remarks of the chairman, he stated that some objected to gold bugs, others to silver bugs, so that they had a common "clay" bug to say something. Fred Walker, one of the principal representatives of the laboring class in the pottery interest at Trenton, was then introduced, and spoke for over an hour on the leading political questions of the day. Mr. Walker is a potter himself and he showed himself to be thoroughly espoused to the cause of McKinley and the two most important planks in the Republican platform, the gold standard and protection.

After a few preliminary remarks on the inclemency of the weather, he said he brought the greetings of the west to the east, especially from the native State of the Republican candidate, Ohio, which, he said, was going to give a majority of 100,000 to McKinley.

He then turned to the issues in the coming election. For the workingman, according to his statement, on one side stands sound money, low taxes and protection, and on the other, repudiation, tariff reform, or, in other words, free trade and anarchy. The financial question was one no one could ignore. He then began an arraignment of Bryan and how he promises all sorts of things without telling how he expects them to be accomplished. He called history to his aid and declared that Bryan's plan to create a new value for silver was impossible. No act of any country could regulate or create the value of money, that it must depend on the markets of the world.

It was all, he declared, a scheme of the western mine owners and was a fake boom similar to the boom of free trade several years ago. He then went on to explain that the argument of the silver men was that free silver was going to increase the circulation,

HOW TO GET STRONG.

William Blaikie Tells the Ins and Outs of Muscular Development.

The inclement weather, coupled with the several other meetings and attractions, last evening, was undoubtedly the cause of the small attendance at the lecture given in the Y. M. C. A. course by Prof. William Blaikie in the Association Hall.

There were, nevertheless, about 100 persons present, and they were amply repaid for going. President William D. Murray announced the lecturer and his subject: "How to Get Strong."

Prof. Blaikie said in part: We spend $100,000,000 annually to educate the mind. Plato says we should give money to educate both bodily and spiritually. The average city boy couldn't milk a cow if you'd give it to him, but in the gymnasium he's right at home. In the gymnasium it requires brains the same as in school. Hanlon, the oarsman, and Sullivan, the prize-fighter, each developed a different set of muscles. The average athlete aspires for money and honor. Go, if you will, from New York up through the Connecticut Valley and you'll find craned-neck men and pigeon-toed women, all the result of contracted muscles. Low heels, broad soles—so the toes can get near the ground—is essential, and walking, preferable to street cars, is a point in favor of muscular development. It has been said that a woman laughed herself out of dyspepsia and her children inherited the complaint. Now they are laughing children.

Here the lecturer told an amusing incident of a farmer, known as "Uncle Josh," who was visiting city friends and was about to converse with his wife miles away, over the telephone. Just then a flash of lightning run in over the wire and knocked the farmer down. "That's her," said the farmer as he left the phone in disgust.

Dr. Shrady, the specialist, says dyspepsia is not a disease of the stomach, but of the legs. One of God's noblest men, Gladstone, now verging on his ninety-first year, said: "Of money and brains there are plenty, but what is required is a vigorous heart and one of great resistence."

Comparing the health of children, Prof. Blaikie said that in New York the average playground was about the size of a postage stamp. Nothing, he considered, pays better for the general health than a well-kept gymnasium. Muscles or intellect can never be obtained by study alone, but it requires good, sound judgment and practical exercise to develop the muscles and thus become strong in body.

Here the speaker paused while certain questions were asked him. Concerning basket ball, he replied that it was good healthy exercise and bicycle riding, he conjectured, would materially aid in developing the muscles, provided it was not indulged in to excess. The man who runs half an hour each day is far better off, physically, than the average bicycle rider.

FREEMAN O. WILLEY'S CANDIDACY.

Union County Democrats Will Probably Give Him Congressional Nomination.

Former Judge Freeman O. Willey, of Orange, will, from all present indications, be the man who tomorrow will receive the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Eighth New Jersey District, says a news dispatch from Elizabeth. Mr. Willey's friends have been quietly, but none the less energetically, working for him in Elizabeth and Union county, which can alone nominate the candidate if its vote is polled solidly for him. This, added to the vote of Orange, which he will undoubtedly have, will secure him the nomination.

Mr. Willey made a favorable impression Monday night, at the Caledonian Rink meeting, where he spoke on less than two hours' notice, and he promised, if nominated, to contest every inch of the county with the Republican candidate.

There has been a quiet conference of the leaders among the silver Democrats here during the past few days, and it has been practically decided, since James E. Martine will not permit his name to be used, to support the candidacy of the Orange man.

Westfield Y. M. C. A. Disbands.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Westfield Young Men's Christian Association, held in the association rooms on Elm street, last Thursday night, the president and a majority of the board decided to hand in their resignations. As no effective plan could be suggested to improve the financial affairs, it was voted to discontinue the work and disband the organization.

BRYANITES IN MAJORITY

MORE FREE SILVER MEN THAN GOLD MEN PRESENT.

A Poll Showed Eight Bryan, Three McKinley and Two Palmer Men Were at the Gold Meeting—E. C. Pearson Talked Gold

The wet weather did not keep everybody away from the sound money meeting held in the West End under the auspices of the National Democratic Club, of this city, last evening, and there was a fair audience present. The meeting was called to order by President Atterbury, who introduced the speaker of the evening, Edward C. Pearson, who spoke in part as follows:

"For the first time in twenty-six years there has been a great revolt against the Democratic party. The cause of the first revolt twenty-six years ago was during the war, and the present revolt is just as serious and means just as much. The question now is how will free coinage affect us as wage-earners? For I am a wage-earner. I get my money from a corporation, and I am just as anxious to make it go as far as possible. The government alone can coin money, and free coinage means that the government would coin all silver bullion into money for anyone without charge. Our government certificates pass unchallenged everywhere, but it is not so with silver. All money must have a value independent of the government stamp. In 1894 one-sixth of the product of the silver mines was used in the arts. The silver certificates we use is not money, but a promise of the government to pay money."

Mr. Pearson then went on to tell how prices would rise under the free and unlimited coinage of silver, while the wage-earner would not have as much money. He said that there would be a terrible panic under the change of money standard and wages would be the last thing to recover from the depression.

Mr. Atterbury then spoke briefly substantiating Mr. Pearson's remarks. John Neiland, a mechanic in the audience, took occasion to criticize Mr. Atterbury several times and expressed his loyalty to Bryan. He thought Mr. Atterbury was all wrong.

A vote was taken at the meeting showing that eight favored Bryan, three McKinley and two Palmer. Mr. Atterbury said he was glad that the Bryan men were in the majority, for the meetings were held expressly for them. It was then announced that E. C. Perkins would speak at the meeting to be held tomorrow evening.

A GREAT CATCH.

Counselor McClure Captured a Three Pound Trout Up In Maine.

The average fisherman has wonderful stories to tell of his catches, but the result of his prowess is for some reason not at hand. The friends of Counselor William K. McClure have heard great tales of his experiences on the preserves of the Megantic Fish and Game Corporation during the summer, but now he has produced the finny hero of one of his stories and even the incredulous cannot help but believe.

It is a very large brook trout weighing three pounds and measuring a trifle over twenty inches long. He captured it after a battle of about fifteen minutes and his guide, John Boyle, skinned the victim.

The skin, with head and tail attached, is now on exhibition in the window of The Daily Press office, as is also the rod with which he captured this speckled beauty.

Frightened by an Empty Pistol.

Nicholas Schoonmacher, of Westfield, got into an altercation Saturday afternoon with Thomas Manning and threatened to shoot him with an empty pistol. Manning did not know that the pistol was empty, and he was badly scared until Irving Ross disarmed Schoomacher. Manning made complaint against Schoomacher and he will be tried.

An Inspiring Influence.

Prof. John Dalziel is in receipt of the following:

1334 Chestnut Street,
Philadelphia, September 28th, 1896.

It gives me pleasure and satisfaction to contribute a word for Mr. John Dalziel, who was a teacher of my own some years past, and for ability and character has been respectfully remembered as a conscientious and inspiring influence on my early career in my work. Respectfully inscribing my name to this testimony, I am sincerely yours,

Alice Barber Stephens.

A Westfield Divorce.

Mrs. Nellie Claxton Wroe, of Westfield, has just received from the Court of Chancery a decree of absolute divorce from her husband, John E. Wroe. The decree gives Mrs. Wroe the custody of their five year old child. The grounds were neglect and desertion.

Speed and safety are the watch words of the age. One Minute Cough Cure acts speedily, safely and never fails. Asthma, bronchitis, coughs and colds are cured by it. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

CAN'T PAY A DOLLAR FINE

AGED MAN SENT TO JAIL FOR ALLOWING FOWLS TO TRESPASS.

Carl Neustitter, of Scotch Plains, May Remain in the County Jail Indefinitely Owing to His Inability to Settle a Fine.

In default of $1 fine, imposed for permitting his chickens to trespass on a neighbor's property, Carl Neustitter, seventy-five years old, of Scotch Plains, was placed in the Union county jail at Elizabeth yesterday, to remain until the fine and costs are paid —says the New York Herald. This imprisonment is likely to be indefinite unless sympathetic friends come to his rescue, as the old man has not a dollar in the world.

Neustitter was arrested at his home yesterday on the complaint of Alexander McCauly, a neighbor, who charged that the old man allowed his fowls to trespass upon McCauly's farm. The old man told Justice Clark, of Fanwood, before whom he was arraigned, that he was unaware that his chickens were bothering his neighbors and would endeavor to prevent any further trouble.

This defence did not suit the Justice, who declared Neustitter guilty and imposed a fine of $1, the costs to follow. The aged prisoner declared that he hadn't a dollar in the world; that the small sum he managed to earn as a helper on a stone crusher was barely sufficient to furnish food and clothes for himself and his seventy-year-old wife. Even this plea failed to touch the heart of the Justice, who, in default of payment, committed the old man to the county jail, where he arrived yesterday.

Surprise and indignation are expressed over the summary action of the complainant and Justice in forcing so old a man to jail for so trivial an offence.

Two News Untruths.

Last evening the News devoted nearly a half column in telling its readers how the members of Grace M. E. church were going to build an addition to their church. A Press representative called on a prominent officer of the church to ascertain how much truth was contained in the article He was informed that there was not the first grain of truth in the article and that it was the first he had heard of it. The News is given to publishing such stories. Only a short time ago they told how the members of the Church of the Redeemer had purchased the lot at the corner of Grove street and Prospect place and were going to build a church there. The fact is that no property has as yet been secured and the members have no idea as to where they will erect their church. These are only two of the many instances where people have been misrepresented and placed in a false light before the public.

Democratic Delegates.

Owing to the rain last evening no Democratic primary meetings were held in the Third and Fourth wards. In the First ward the delegates elected were John F. McIntyre and Michael J. DeCourcy. In the Second ward Charles Stover was chosen chairman of the meeting, and Frank Stover secretary. James Guttridge and Frank Vosseller were elected delegates. The Congressional convention will be held tomorrow at Elizabeth, at which time a candidate for Congress will be named.

Ready for the Winter Season.

The bulding of the Plainfield Catholic Club has, during the past summer, been undergoing a thorough rejuvenation, and the alleys are now being put in shape for bowling, which will probably begin the latter part of this week. The reception rooms, halls and smoking rooms have been generally overhauled and put in first-class shape.

Remodeling the Glove Factory.

The H. Texier glove factory at Washingtonville has been undergoing great repairs. The building is being thoroughly remodeled. A new waterwheel is being put in by C. Mooney, and the stone foundation walls, which have stood intact since 1816, are being torn away and new ones substituted.

Taking in the Sights.

Among the Plainfielders who are attending the Inter-State Fair at Trenton today are John Ross, Henry Clay Randolph, J. D. Runyon, Mr. Randolph, Geo. Mehl, James H. Manning, J. J. Kenney, Geo. Cole, H. Southard, Geo. Feiring, E. Nelson and G. S. Whitlock.

County School Superintendents.

The State Board of Education met in Asbury Park, yesterday, and elected the following County School Superintendents: Cape May, Aaron W. Hand; Middlesex, A. Brewster Willis; Sussex, Luther Hill; Morris, M. L. Cox; Somerset, J. A. Metz; Ocean, F. A. North.

—There will be special music at the prayer meeting of the Congregational church this evening.

ELABORATE DECORATIONS.

Plainfield Will be in Gala Attire for the Knights' Field Day.

All that the Knights Templar need tomorrow to make their field day a success is fine weather, and the present prospects are that they will have it. A large crowd is assured and at the rate that the decorating is going on the city is likely to present a gay appearance. Professional artists and amateurs are at work on the various buildings on the principal thoroughfares, giving them their holiday dress that will, most of it, remain for a week. While the Stars and Stripes and tri-colored bunting are principally used by those who desire to decorate especially for the Knights, many will use black and white. The emblems consist of a Passion and Maltese cross and a cross and crown.

The following line of march has been selected: The line will form at 2 o'clock p. m. sharp on Park avenue, right resting on Seventh street, and the centre will be at the Revere House.

The dress parade will start promptly at 2:15 and will proceed as follows: Park avenue to Seventh street, to Liberty street, to Eighth street, to Crescent avenue, to LaGrande avenue, to Franklin place, to Watchung avenue, to Seventh street, to Park avenue, to Somerset street, to Craig place, to Grove street, to Mercer avenue, to Sycamore avenue, to Miller street, to Washington avenue, to Prospect place, to Grove street, to Front street, where the Grand Commander and other Grand officers, together with distinguished guests, will review the parade.

The work of decorating the arch across Park avenue at the corner of Front street was begun this morning and it has now assumed a very pretty appearance.

ARRANGING THE DETAILS.

Endeavor Leaders Talk Over Plans for the State Convention.

The '96 Christian Endeavor convention committee met last evening and considered several minor details. F. H. Burke, the musical director, of Chicago, who will assist in the music at the convention, was present. He was also in attendance at the rehearsal of the choir. The hall and decorating committee decided to commence the work of decorating the convention hall today, and people will be asked to decorate their stores and houses. The entertainment committee reported that 1,400 delegates had been assigned outside of the hotels. During the evening the evangelistic committee and F. H. Burke held a short conference in regard to the music. It was stated that Mayor Gilbert had given permission to allow the Junior Christian Endeavorers to parade on Friday afternoon of the convention week, and also to hold public meetings at noon on Thursday and Friday near the Babcock building. The last meeting of the convention committee will be held next Tuesday evening.

For the Endeavorers.

The following notes are taken from the official programme of the Christian Endeavor convention which was issued yesterday:

Evangelistic Committee Headquarters—Room at right of entrance to hall. Please call there.
Historian's Headquarters—Room at right of entrance to hall. He wants to see you.
Missionary Headquarters—Y. M. C. A. building. Don't forget to call, or you will be sorry you didn't.
State Officers' Headquarters—Revere House.
Plainfield '96 Committee Headquarters—Y. M. C. A. building. Always glad to see you.
Registration and Assignment Committee Headquarters—First Baptist church. Go there immediately on arrival; register and receive your badge and programme. You must register in person.
Convention Postoffice and Bureau of Information—In registry room at First Baptist church. Have your mail addressed in care of the convention, and call for it there.
Reception Committee—Will meet you at depot and escort you to Registry Hall, where guides will be provided to show you to your boarding place.
Ladies—Big hats are pretty, we know, but do not wear them in the hall or churches; they don't encourage a devotional spirit in those back of you.
Sing if you can; if you can't, sing anyway.
Think of others. Pray for others. Help others. Work for others.
Remember the great aim of our Convention—To be helped that we may help others. Pray that God will send you home inspired and consecrated to serve.
Don't be afraid to applaud; it helps the speakers and helps the audience.
Be all sunshine in and a blessing to the home at which you are entertained. You may help to save a soul there.

Soon to Be a Thing of the Past.

The matter of moving the freight-house, over which there has been so much talk, will soon become a reality. It is now thought that on Sunday next at least a portion of the old freight-house will be transferred on flat cars to the new location near Grant avenue. Sunday is the day selected because there is less travel over the road at that time than any other day in the week, and besides, on account of the width of the building, it will be necessary to block up several of the tracks while the transfer is being made. This morning workmen commenced to take off the roof, platforms, etc., preparatory to removing the building.

Miss Lottie Cockley, of Manson place, is learning to be a compositor at the News office.

GOT THE RIG AT LAST.

UNCLE DAN ROBERTS FINDS HIS PROPERTY UP IN CONNECTICUT.

A Persistent Search Was Kept Up and Reward Finally Came in Its Location—The Thief Now in Jail in New York.

The old saying that "Murder will out" is equally true of horse thieving, and a verification of the fact has just come to light. Eleven months ago a man named Towers, giving his residence as New York State, walked into "Uncle" Dan Roberts' livery stable and hired a horse and buggy. He said he was only going to be absent a short time, but it proved to be very long, for Mr. Roberts did not see the rig again until yesterday. Every effort was made on the part of the owner and Chief Grant to secure the rig, and many trips were made, but all for naught. Last December the police of Yonkers arrested Towers in that city for horse stealing, but he would give no definite information regarding the rig owned by Mr. Roberts, except to say that it was in Connecticut.

All the time a still hunt has been in progress. A few days ago Mr. Roberts received word that his rig was located at Stamford, Conn., and in reply to a letter sent to Chief of Police Bowman of that place by Chief Grant, sufficient evidence was secured to suspect that the missing rig was at Stamford. Yesterday Mr. Roberts and Chief Grant went to Stamford and at last found the horse and buggy. The horse was found about five miles from the city, in possession of a milkman. The buggy robes etc., were found in charge of Dr. J. G. Palmer, a veterinary surgeon, Mr. Palmer told the story of how he secured the rig from Towers. He sold the horse to the milkman, who had been using him every since. The buggy had been repainted but "Uncle" Dan recognized it, and also the robes. He offered to sell the horse to the milkman and the buggy to Mr. Palmer. They will consider the offer and if they do not accept it, they will return the rig in a few days to the original owner.

TAKEN TO AN ASYLUM.

H. M. Clark's Mind Seems to be Affected—Threatened to Kill His Wife.

H. M. Clark, of Grandview avenue, was arrested yesterday by Chief Marshal Wilson for threatening to kill his wife and burn the house. Mr. Clark's actions for some time past have denoted that his mind is not perfectly sound. A few months ago he attempted to end his life by taking laudanum, but his efforts were foiled. Frequently he breaks out and his family are in deadly peril of suffering at his hands. Yesterday afternoon, Drs. Tomlinson and Carman made an examination of Clark and decided that he should go to the asylum. Today requisition papers were secured at Somerville and Clark was taken to Trenton, where he will be properly cared for.

Hackmen's Continuous Show.

Hackman Charles Barry is in trouble again and it is likely that the trouble will prove quite serious for him. Wm. Drake, another hackman, made a complaint this morning charging Barry with leaving his horse's head and soliciting customers from the curb this morning. Drake says that he can prove the charge without trouble. Barry has been arrested two or three times already on similar charges and found guilty. Only last Saturday he was brought before Judge DeMeza and the latter cautioned him that any future breaking of the ordinance would bring him a heavy fine.

Run a Nail in His Foot.

Louis Bennett, one of the efficient clerks in the grocery of J. A. Smith & Bros., on West Front street, met with a painful accident this morning. He was hurrying through the store when he stepped on a box cover out of which a wire nail projected with point up. The nail went through his shoe and into his foot for over an inch inflicting a very painful wound. The wound was dressed at Randolph's pharmacy, and he was able to hobble about.

Withdrew the Application.

When the Seguine application for a license was taken up in New Brunswick last Friday, Judge Coddington, of this city, arose and stated that he was there to oppose the granting of the license. Counsel Schenck, for the applicant, then withdrew the application.

Frey Discharged.

Charles Frey was last night discharged in Justice Newcorn's court on two charges of assault and battery brought against him by his wife and an officer. The alleged assault took place sometime ago, and since then he has been under $100 bonds on each charge.

THE TAMMANY RALLY

Mr. Bryan Addresses a Big Gathering of the Braves.

WAS BOOKED FOR OTHER SPEECHES

So Greatly Exhausted, However, That He Merely Bowed to the Crowds That Gathered at the Open Air Meetings.

New York, Sept. 30.—The Tammany organization last night formally ratified the nomination of William J. Bryan and Arthur Sewall for president and vice-president respectively, and the candidates nominated by the democratic convention at Buffalo, and endorsed the Chicago and state platforms. Mr. Bryan was present at the meeting held in Tammany hall, and the audience numbered probably 5,000 people, all, in fact, that could be crowded into the hall, and those who succeeded in getting inside were compelled to stand throughout the proceedings, as the chairs had been removed to make more room. The audience was good-natured despite the uncomfortable environments. The hall had been sparsely decorated with flags and banners. Over the platform were portraits of Bryan and Sewall, though they in nowise resembled the candidates. In the gallery was stationed a brass band, and the patriotic airs rendered aroused the exhuberance of the crowd. The "What's the matter with so and so," and "He's all right" men were in full evidence during the meeting, and the air was kept stirring with their cries all evening. Tammany was determined that every word uttered by Mr. Bryan should be heard by those in the hall, and with this end in view had erected a sounding board, in the shape of a canopy, directly over the speaker's position on the platform, the candidate standing under it while speaking. The meeting was called to order by John W. Keller, the presiding officer. Mr. Keller delivered a short speech laudatory of Mr. Bryan and Tammany hall and in denunciation of Mr. McKinley. Resolutions were read endorsing the platform adopted at the national convention held in Chicago and the state democracy convention at Buffalo, and the candidates named on those occassions. The British government was denounced for its inhuman treatment of Irish prisoners, and sympathy with the Cuban cause was expressed. Immediately after the adoption of the resolutions Mr. Bryan, accompanied by Mr. Sewall, Senator Thomas F. Grady, Senator Daly of New Jersey and George Fred Williams of Massachusetts appeared on the platform. A great outburst of cheering greeted Mr. Bryan's appearance. After the cheering had ceased. Mr. Bryan was introduced by the chairman, and he at once launched into his speech. His remarks were, as usual, confined mainly to financial issues. He cut his remarks rather short, as he was booked to speak at other places during the evening. The second, third and fourth speeches of the democratic candidate's were to have been delivered from stands erected in the open air, but owing to the fact that he was thoroughly exhausted by his Tammany hall effort, and because of the inclemency of the weather, he merely bowed his thanks to the large crowds that surrounded them. The open air meetings were at the Union square plaza in 17th street, three blocks from the wigwam, at Washington square monument, and at a stand in front of Tammany hall. Six other stands had been constructed in the neighborhood, and from these speakers of national prominence made speeches. One of the meetings was exclusively for the benefit of laboring people, and thirteen wage-earners made addresses there. Then there was an Italian stand, and from this local supporters of the Chicago ticket from the land of wine and olives talked in their native language to an audience of fellow countrymen. Lord Russell, lord chief justice of England, Lady Russell and Lady Lockwood occupied seats on the platform during Mr. Bryan's address at Tammany hall.

Vessel Badly Damaged; Cargo a Loss.

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 30.—The two-masted schooner Richmond, Capt. Jameson, from New York for Camden, Me., which went ashore Monday night on Triangle ledges off York, Me., has been towed into this harbor on her broad side, in a badly damaged condition. The schooner's cargo consisted of 2,000 bags of grain which will be a total loss. It is doubtful if the present condition of the vessel will warrant repairing her.

Missing Man's Body Recovered.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Late yesterday afternoon the workmen who had nearly cleared the first floor of the building on Thirty-first street, Georgetown, wrecked by a gasoline explosion Monday, stumbled across a foot, the end of which barely projected above the debris. The face was clotted with blood and the arms were in a position as if to ward off falling walls. The body was that of Frederick Lentz, the missing man.

For Joint Debate.

Louisville, Sept. 30.—It has been decided by the free silver democratic state central committee to ask for a division of time between secretary John G. Carlisle and senator J. C. S. Blackburn for the four speeches the secretary of the treasury is to deliver in Kentucky.

Erie Railroad Statement.

New York, Sept. 30.—The statement of the Erie Railroad company for the month of August shows gross earnings of $2,687,666, a decrease of $158,813; working expenses, $1,825,479, a decrease of $248,290; and net earnings, $852,166, an increase of $89,477.

PROGRESS IN SURGERY.

Connecticut Baby Supplied with a New-Fangled Ear.

As an Organ of Hearing It Will Not Be Much of a Success, But It Adds Greatly to the Little Tot's Appearance.

Ears can be made to order now—almost "while you wait."

If your next baby, instead of having a fine, shapely shell of an ear that the nurse and all the women of the neighborhood will rave over, should happen to have just a kind of a bump that doesn't look like anything at all, don't be discouraged.

Modern surgery is not dismayed by any such trifle as that. It goes to work and builds noses and ears and anything else almost that the human face and figure lack to be symmetrical.

One of the most ambitious, most delicate, as well as the most successful of the recent ventures of the new surgery, was the construction of an ear to supply the sad deficiency of a Connecticut baby.

The patient in this very skillful operation was an infant with the euphonious name of Michael Kopeske. The child's parents keep a thriving boarding house in Union City, Conn.

Michael was a healthy baby, says the New York Journal, and comely in all respects, save that some mischievous fate had sent him "into this breathing world" scarce half made up in the matter of ears. It was the source of vast embarrassment to the fond father and mother that the baby should be thus incomplete, and they knew that their discomfort was small compared with that which the lack of the ear would cause Michael when he grew older. His left ear was nothing more than a meaningless lump, and the absence of a genuine ear made the child look sadly one-sided.

The father and mother consulted Drs. Clemens, De Wolfe and Ford, of Bridgeport. They decided to see if some means could not be devised of making an ear—not alone an outer ear that would improve the youngster's looks, but an orifice through which he would be able to hear, for there was no opening at all in the shabby substitute for an ear with which nature had provided him.

The baby, now scarcely seven months old, was taken to Dr. Clemens' office and the council of physicians set to work upon it.

The child was carefully examined, but it was impossible to find any sign of an opening whereby sound might be transmitted to the ear drum and thence to the brain.

The first step, after an anaesthetic had been applied and the child made unconscious, was to locate the spot where the opening should have been. Then the operation began — an operation which, so far as records tell, has never been undertaken before.

An incision was made in the place where the ear ought to be and a way found from the exterior of the lump to the tympanum. It was found that the interior formation of the hearing apparatus was all normal. Dividing and turning back the unornamental knob of flesh which had disfigured the infant, the three doctors sewed the flaps to the head to hold them back and stitched the four sections together.

That was plastic surgery with a vengeance. Then a spectrum was inserted in the opening, to prevent its closing as the healing process went on. Altogether, the operation was a very successful one. It was a bold one, too, but was performed deftly and very quickly. In all, the child was under the influence of chloroform for less than an hour.

His health and strength were not impaired by the ordeal, and the "made-to-order" ear is growing into a really good-looking member. Dr. Clemens is afraid that as an organ of hearing it will not be in any great degree serviceable. He thinks that the cartilaginous structure about the inner ear may have developed a tendency to ossification from having been so long kept in an unnatural condition.

Dog Saves Her Master's Money.

John A. Staats, proprietor of the Sheridan house at Elizabeth, N. J., has a valuable setter, for which he has refused several large offers of purchase money. He now thinks more highly of the dog than ever. Mr. Staats made up his cash and checks recently and put them into his bank book to deposit. When he reached the cashier's window at the bank the book and money had disappeared. It contained Saturday night and Sunday business receipts. He retraced his steps hurriedly to locate the missing roll if possible, when Fannie, the setter, came running down the street with the missing bank book in her mouth. Mr. Staats dropped it near the hotel as he pulled a handkerchief from his pocket. Fannie discovered the loss and ran after her master with the money.

NAVAL MATTERS.

Monitor Puritan To Go into Commission—Important Pending Changes.

Washington, Sept. 30.—The monitor Puritan, at the New York navy yard, has been ordered to be completed and prepared for being placed in commission by Nov. 1. This is the last one of the modernized double-turreted ships of the low free-board type to be made ready for active duty. The Miantonomyh, Amphitrite, Terror and Monadnock having been her predecessors. These vessels, which were associated with the alleged Roach scandals, though formidable, are of a type not found in foreign fleets. It is thought that Capt. Colby M. Chester or Capt. Charles J. Barclay will command her. Capt. Chester has not been to sea since 1888. Capt. Barclay will be promoted in a day or two on account of the retirement of Capt. James O'Kane. He is now inspector of ordnance at Boston navy yard. Among the most important impending changes at the top of the naval list is that of Capt. Robley D. Evans, of the battleship Indiana, who is expected to return to Washington in a week or two as a member of the lighthouse board. He will take the position vacated by Capt. John R. Bartlett, who will be sent to sea. Capt. Henry C. Taylor, president of the war college, will relieve Capt. Evans on the Indiana. Capt. Bainbridge-Hoff will shortly succeed Capt. Merrill Miller, in command of the Raleigh. Capt. Francis A. Cook has been elected to command the Brooklyn when that vessel is ready for sea, and Capt. Robeson is ready for duty, being available for a big ship on account of his position near the head of the list. He now commands the Kittery navy yard.

MORRISON'S BIG SHORTAGE.

Rensselaer County Supervisors Demand an Additional Bond of $100,000.

Troy, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The Rensselaer county supervisors yesterday afternoon adopted a resolution requiring the county treasurer, George H. Morrison, to give an additional bond of $100,000 within twenty days. In event of failure to give the required bond the office will be declared vacant. From an examination of the books of the county treasurer it is found that there should be in the neighborhood of $250,000 to the county's credit. The finance committee of the supervisors is engaged in making an examination of the accounts and it is expected that a report will be presented at a meeting of the supervisors Friday. Hon. L. E. Griffith has been engaged by the county in the prosecution and senator Myer Nussbaum has been engaged as counsel for Mr. Morrison.

ANOTHER FENIAN RUMOR.

New Irish Republican Organization Said To Have Been Formed in London.

London, Sept. 30.—The Daily Mail asserts that there is no doubt that a Fenian revival meeting was held in the west of London on Sunday at which a letter was read from William Lyman stating that he was prepared to finance a new movement entitled "The Irish Republican Federation," on condition that an inner circle should be formed of which he should have control from America. "This was agreed to," the paper says, "and yesterday a manifesto was printed for circulation in Ireland. The officers will be taken to London and Dublin and an envoy will proceed to New York to see Lyman." The manifesto appeals to Irishmen to raise the standard of revolt, and vehemently denounces the tribe of "kid-glove patriots" in parliament.

Democratic Campaign in New York.

New York, Sept. 30.—Chairman Danforth of the state democratic committee was one of those who attended the conference at the Fifth Avenue hotel last evening. He was reluctant to talk about what had transpired. It was learned this morning that the situation in New York state was particularly discussed, and it was decided to put up a hot fight here. The details of the plan of campaign to be pursued in this state will be perfected, in all probability, at the meeting of the state executive committee to-day at the Hotel Bartholdi.

Some say that the hypophosphites alone are sufficient to prevent and cure consumption, if taken in time. Without doubt they exert great good in the beginning stages; they improve the appetite, promote digestion, and tone up the nervous system. But they lack the peculiar medicinal properties and the fat found in cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites are valuable, and the cod-liver oil is valuable.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites contains both of these in the most desirable form. The oil is thoroughly emulsified; that is, partly digested. Sensitive stomachs can bear an emulsion when the raw oil cannot be retained. As the hypophosphites, the medicinal agents in the oil, and the fat itself are each good, why not have the benefit of all?

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

is careful work. Decripit aged drugs won't do. They must be young and feesh—full of life and strength for the sick.

They must be pure and they must be carefully put together. Too much of this and not enough of that, won't do. We make a specialty of putting up prescriptions—we can do it better than the man who doesn't make a specialty of it. If you want careful, thoughtful work, come to—

ONE OF THE MANY TESTIMONIALS:

Mrs. E. E. Waldron, who conducts the ladies' shampooing parlors at 504 Watchung avenue, says of Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine Hair Tonic that she uses it exclusively in her massage and shampoo treatments, and it is the only tonic she can recommend to prevent the hair from falling out and to thoroughly eradicate dandruff. Mrs. Waldron has had considerable experience in the treatment of the scalp, and feels that she cannot praise Randolph's tonic to highly.

Does It

—you do—we do. When we enter a room we immediately glance at the wall paper. We do it instinctively, for while the wall decoration is seemingly insignificant and unobtrusive, it lays the foundation for the beauty of the room. With inartistic paper you may work forever, and there will be something wrong about the rooms. While the right paper, well, it will almost furnish an empty room. No where else will you find so much beauty for so little money as here. Painter's supplies. Discount to the trade.

EIGHT-FOOT COUGAR.

Brought to Bay by a Pack of Nineteen Trained Deer Hounds.

An eight-foot female cougar until a few days ago had been committing depredations near Tolt, Wash., and her ravages became unbearable when she killed four calves and a colt in a single week. The great strength of the marauder may be estimated when it is known that she bounded down into a pasture, picked up the colt by the throat, swung it like a tiger does his prey across her back, and then sprang lightly over a high fence into the thicket. When the lioness became so bold Pearl Ames, the 23-year-old son of J. O. Ames, ferryman at the Snoqualmie river, resolved to put a stop to her ravages. He gathered up a pack of 19 trained deer hounds, put them on the track of the cougar and followed them with his rifle. There was great music when the dogs struck the trail, and the woods resounded with their cries when they had once opened up. Away they went, like racers upon the course, their noses close to the ground and their agile bodies speeding along in the ecstasy of the chase.

The pack swept out of sight, and in a few seconds the cry changed, and Ames knew they had sighted the cougar. Then there was terrific outcry of the hounds as they closed in with their fierce antagonist. Ames hurried forward, and as he caught sight of the cougar at bay, and savagely striking her claws at the dogs, the beast sprang into an adjoining tree. The hunter's rifle was leveled in an instant, and a second after he pulled trigger the gaunt, tawny body slid down the tree trunk and back into the midst of the waiting pack. Watching his opportunity, Ames sent a bullet through the cougar's brain, and she fell dead.

An examination of the carcass showed that the first shot had entered far along the back, ranging up the spinal column, and had come out in the mouth. Some of the dogs fared badly, their ears having been sliced in shreds. The cougar's mate is still in the woods, and an effort will be made to run him to earth.

BIRD-CATCHING RAT.

The Industrious Rodent Eats a Juicy Sparrow Every Morning.

A rat that catches and eats birds is the latest novelty in Chicago. Under a sidewalk at Twelfth and Loomis streets lives a rat. From the size of the rodent and his gray whiskers it is evidently an old resident in the neighborhood. Unlike some other rats, it does not depend on cheese and bread for its living, but prefers a nice, juicy sparrow. On the corner stands a building occupied as a saloon, and in front of the saloon is a watering trough where teamsters allow their horses to slake their thirst. The teamsters also find the place a very convenient one to feed their horses while they sample the proprietor's free lunch and lager beer. As a result the pavement is thickly strewn with oats pushed out of the feeding sacks by the hungry horses. An army of sparrows has been attracted to the place, and each morning the pavement is covered with the little fellows eating their breakfast. The rat, having cultivated a taste for sparrows, now has one for breakfast every day. Hangers-on around the place have come to watch the manœuvers of the rat every morning. Soon after daylight the sparrows make their appearance and the rat slyly crawls out of its hole. After looking around to see that the coast is clear, the rat selects a plump sparrow, and, while the little bird is busy filling its crop, the rat makes a spring and secures its prey. The bird is dragged under the sidewalk and nothing more is seen of the rat until the following morning, when he comes out for a fresh victim. So expert has the rat become that those who have seen it say it can catch and kill a bird as cleverly as a cat.

Mind Power During Sleep.

There are many authenticated examples of increased power of mind during sleep. One of the best known is that in which the great naturalist Agassiz successfully reconstructed from certain remains the skeleton of a fossil fish, at which he had been working unsuccessfully in his waking moments for several weeks.

IMPORTS OF GOLD

Another Big Consignment Now on Its Way from Australia.

TO BE RECEIVED AT SAN FRANCISCO

The Bank of England Expects To Lose $5,000,000 to the United States Before Saturday Next—Will Swell Treasury Reserve.

New York, Sept. 30.—A dispatch from Syndey, New South Wales, conveys the news that the British steamship Monowai, had sailed for San Francisco having on board $2,375,000 gold for this country. It was said that nearly all the importations of gold from Australia, aggregating about $4,000,000, should be credited to Lazard Freres as agents and owners of the London, Paris and American banks, to whose office in San Francisco the gold is consigned. A representative of the firm of Lazard Freres in this city, however, declined to corroborate the report or give any information on the subject. J. & W. Seligman are also reported to have imported some gold direct from Australia to San Francisco. That firm represents the Anglo-California bank, limited, of San Francisco, and the Bank of Commerce of San Francisco. It is believed that the actual gold reserve of the United States treasury to-day is $128,000,000, and with the gold actually on the way here and in sight it will be, by the end of the week, $132,000,000. A dispatch from Washington said: "The director of the mint has received a telegram from the San Francisco mint stating that about $4,500,000 in gold was expected to arrive there from Australia a week from next Friday. Information also comes from London that the Bank of England expects to lose $5,000,000 to the United States before the end of the week. Both of these shipments are expected ultimately to reach the treasury, which, together with the amounts already in sight, will bring the gold reserve approximately to $133,000,000."

AGAINST DRAWBAUGH.

Court of Appeals Decides That He Did Not Invent the Telephone Transmitter.

Washington, Sept. 30.—The court of appeal of the District of Columbia has rendered a decision in the case of Daniel Drawbaugh, who was refused patents for certain alleged new improvements in telephone transmitters. The decision was written by Chief Justice Alvey and affirms the decree of the commissioner of patents. The case was divided into two parts and argued before the court last November. The decision was withheld because of the application of Mr. Drawbaugh to congress for relief. This application was withdrawn by Mr. Drawbaugh, whose petitions for patents were filed in 1883 and 1884. The court of appeals held that Mr. Drawbaugh never was the inventor of the transmitter.

Strike Against Wage Reduction.

Ware, Mass., Sept. 30.—About 250 weavers in the Otis company's cloth mills in this town struck last evening on account of a reduction in wages of two cents a cut of cloth. Agent Tucker asked the men to continue work two weeks on the old pay, but the help refused and marched out in a body. There was no trouble or disturbance, and a settlement is soon expected. The mills started on full time this week after running half time for six months.

Rear Admiral Chandler's Son Wed.

Geneseo, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The marriage of Miss Mary Wharton Wadsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Wadsworth, to Porter Chandler, son of Rear Admiral Chandler of the navy, took place at St. Michael's church at high noon. The newly wedded couple left for New York, and will take a steamer for Japan for an extended wedding tour. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Chandler will locate in the Genesse valley and Mr. Chandler will engage extensively in stock raising.

Chief Makoni's Execution Sanctioned.

Cape Town, Sept. 30.—A special court martial has acquitted Major Watts, who was tried with reference to the summary execution of the Matable Chief Makoni within twenty-four hours of his capture, and without referring the decision of the court martial on which the execution was based to the high commissioner for South Africa.

Serious Riot over a Tract of Land.

Greensburg, Pa., Sept. 30.—A riot occurred yesterday near Ligonier over a disputed tract of land, in which superintendent George Senft of the Ligonier Valley railroad was shot in both legs. A number of others were badly hurt, being beaten with clubs. The shooting was done by Dixon Houston, owner of the land. All were arrested.

Fugitive from Justice Caught.

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—George O. Warren was arrested while at work in the chief clerk's office of the Missouri Pacific company's offices yesterday afternoon on a charge of being a fugitive from justice. He is wanted in Baltimore on an alleged charge of obtaining money under false pretenses from a client. Warren is a lawyer.

Jettisoned Part of Her Cargo.

London, Sept. 30.—The British steamer Persia, Capt. McDonald, from Baltimore, Sept. 2, just arrived at Londonderry, was compelled to jettison part of her cargo. Her deck fittings and steering gear were damaged by the storm which the vessel encountered.

Gov. Morton Returns to Ellerslie.

Albany, Sept. 30.—Gov. Morton returned to Ellerslie last night. He is not expected again at the capitol before Tuesday next.

A CARPING CRITIC.

The constant and apparently willful perversion of the truth by the News in reporting matters concerning the North Plainfield Public School, is causing no little comment among residents of the borough. Since it has been the aim of the new Board of Education and the new superintendent to enlarge the curriculum and raise the standard of the school, the News has taken it upon itself at every opportunity to belittle the reforms instituted and misrepresent the innovations adopted until its position has become one of a carping critic and unfair reporter. Only a day or two ago it devoted a half column of space in exploiting what it considered a burning shame in detaining the kindergarten pupils from 8:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. As a matter of fact, the kindergarten pupils do not go to school till 9:30 a. m. and are given an intermission for lunch and play, and then dismissed at 1:30 p. m.—a schedule of which no parent can reasonably complain. The attacks of the News are entirely uncalled for.

WHAT MR. M'CLURE SAID.

Counselor William K. McClure says that he was wrongly quoted yesterday in reference to the remarks he made at the meeting of the Democratic National Association Monday night. What he said was that if the law compelled him to vote, and he was to choose between Bryan and McKinley, he should vote for Bryan as representing the lesser of the evils, though he believed that neither one deserved the suffrage of an honorable man. Now, however, that Palmer and Buckner were in the field he believed every Democrat could vote for a sound money man and a Democrat.

The New Brunswick Daily Times, the Democratic organ of Middlesex county, has come out in a strong editorial for Palmer and Buckner.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Hebert, of Mercer avenue, has taken up her residence in Brooklyn for the winter.

C. J. Day and family, of Rockview avenue, have moved to New York for the winter months.

Charles Farlee, the expressman, will go to Easton tomorrow and witness the firemen's parade.

A. W. Haviland and family, of 26 Rockview avenue, have returned from Hill County Club, Garrisons, N. Y.

James D. Laing, of New York, who has been visiting Mrs. S. L. Schoonmaker, of Central avenue, has returned home.

Mrs. Gussie Seymour, of Jersey City, has returned home after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Noah Pike, of East Front street.

Miss Helen Boice, of East Front street, entertained a number of her friends Monday afternoon with a rowing party on Tier's lake.

Borge Olson and his nephew, Leo Thorson, of Hoboken, arrived in town this morning and are the guests of C. Johnson, of Dog Corners for a day or two.

Frank Haurand, of East Front street, went to the county seat this morning to get married, to the United States, as he told it. He went for his naturalization papers.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sandford, of Sandford avenue, have returned from Old Point Comfort, Va., where they went to escape the hay fever, which Mr. Sandford is subject to.

William Mundy, wife and daughter of West Fifth street, are all very ill with the grip. It was reported yesterday that Mr. Mundy was dangerously ill, but today his condition is much improved.

Silver or Gold.

On receipt of ten cents, cash or stamps, a generous sample will be mailed of the most popular Catarrh and Hay Fever Cure (Ely's Cream Balm) sufficient to demonstrate its great merit. Full size 50c.

ELY BROTHERS,
56 Warren St., New York City.

Since 1861 I have been a great sufferer from catarrh. I tried Ely's Cream Balm and to all appearances am cured. Terrible headaches from which I had long suffered are gone.—W. J. Hitchcock, late Major U. S. Vol. and A. A. Gen., Buffalo, N. Y.

Many political speakers, clergymen, singers and others who use the voice excessively, rely upon One Minute Cough Cure to prevent huskiness and laryngitis. Its value as a preventive is only equalled by its power to afford instaneous relief. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

Fence rails and refuse was found in heaps in the gutters and on the sidewalks on Somerset street, this morning.

THEATRICAL.

"Sue" and Annie Russell are still enjoying their double triumph at Hoyt's Theatre. The time is close at hand, however, when their run at Hoyt's must end; October 12 is as long as they can stay there, and Manager Chas. Frohman is looking for another theatre to which he can transfer the piece. Great interest centres in Annie Russell's interpretation of this Bret Harte heroine which has revived recollections of her great leap into histrionic prominence on this same stage in "Esmeralda" and later in "Elaine." In it she is doing the finest work of her career. Nobody who sees the sweet and gentle creature that Miss Russell transfigures from Bret Harte's pages can help falling in love with her or applauding the actress who so charmingly embodies the character.

One of the Great Successes of the Day.

During a recent interview with the manufacturers of "Battle Ax" Plug Tobacco they said had been amply repaid for the enormous amount of money which they have spent for newspaper advertising by a wonderful increase of business. They claim that they have had an excellent opportunity to test the advantage of newspaper advertising, because ever since they started, manufacturers of other brands of plug tobaccos who for years made enormous profits by giving to the consumers a small piece of tobacco no better than "Battle Ax," immediately recognized the fact that on account of the superior quality and liberal sized piece of "Battle Ax," their businesses were in great danger of being curtailed. In their endeavor to prevent this they waged bitter war against the manufacturers of "Battle Ax" and resorted to methods of all kinds which seem questionable to business men who possess a higher sense of honor and fair dealing. Notwithstanding all this handicap, the manufacturers of "Battle Ax," through the medium of their newspaper advertisements, were able to tell the consumers of the high grade and fine quality of "Battle Ax" and the great economy derived from using it, until today "Battle Ax" is pronounced by all the greatest success on the market and more pounds of it are sold than of any other brand of plug tobacco. So much for advertising.

—Fine oysters 30 cents a quart at Rogers'.

—The Gesang and Turn Verein will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow evening.

—Unity Lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias, will meet tonight and act on the remainder of the proposed by-laws.

—On Friday evening the first fall social will be held at Monroe Avenue chapel under the auspices of the Epworth League.

Sent it to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

Our Fall Millinery Opening!
Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 29-30. October 1st.
This is a special invitation to you to come and see the Latest Parisian Patterns and Fall style in Millinery. Also, save time and money by making your selections from our beautiful and extensive Fall line. We have again been most fortunate in procuring the services of Madam Gassner, who will have the department under her control, and having spent the Summer among Parisian Fashions, is now fully prepared to give you the latest and best for the most economical cash prices.

Fall Dress Goods.
We have a good variety of selected dress patterns in new fall novelties, all wool, and only one dress of a kind. We have the exclusive sale of these goods; they are choice, and prices range from 73c. up to $1.29. We also carry a variety of all wool 34 inch dress goods at 19c. These goods are desirable styles and you would do well to see them. At 49c. we have a large selection. These goods are all wool, good weight, and range from 36 to 50 inches in width. You will find the styles correct. Cape cloth. We have them in all colors, many fancy novelties, and they range in price from 49c. to $1.75. Have a few words as to our lining and notion department. Here we are second to none. We carry many grades and varieties, starting with kid cambric, at 4c. and 6c. Black and grey rustling Cambric from 5c. to 25c., and waist linings in all colors. Silesia from 9c., extra value, to 20c., and double-faced linings at 12c. to 25c. In notions we carry all things, but you are familiar with this department, and it will suffice to say that we have lowered many things in this department, in accordance with the cash values throughout the store.

In Our Kid Glove Department!
We are giving great inducements, having a warranted Kid Glove for $1, newest novelties in stitching and best in finish. Also, all colors and evening shades for same value. Now, as to the cheaper Gloves. We have them from 69c up. They will wear you well and give good satisfaction. Persons desiring Black Gloves will find them from 69c. up to $1.75.

Our Handkerchief Department is creating a sensation. We can give you a Handkerchief from 3c up to $2, but call special attention to our 5c Handkerchief, embroidered in four corners and fancy edge.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

William Lee returned from Paterson, yesterday, where he has been for a day or two visiting his mother, who is quite sick.

William Clark is a bicyclist of no amateur ability. On Sunday, paced by a tandem, over the Springfield road, he rode a half mile in 38 seconds.

Scotch Plains Democrats proposed to raise a Democratic flag or banner there on Thursday evening, from Emery's hotel to a point on the opposite side of Front street. There will also be speaking from an improvised platform.

The people of the quiet and sedate little village of Scotch Plains have now come to the conclusion that their prayers are about to be answered and that the hum of the trolley will no longer be a mere dream but an actual reality. On Saturday last the route leading directly from Plainfield to this place was staked out and according to the survey it runs within 65 feet of Thomas Paff, Sr.'s, house to the southwest. John Tice is said to be anxious for the road, yet he wants the company to make a forty foot curve around his grape arbor, which they will hardly do.

DUNELLEN.

Mrs. M. L. Rarick is spending a week with her parents at Freehold.

William Craig has gone to Trenton and Philadelphia for a week's visit.

John Peters rode to Plainfield and visited the Mountain Park Inn on Monday.

Charles Enander has gone to New York to attend a lodge meeting of his father's society.

Valentine Boone died at his home, Harris' Lane, Monday night, aged seventy-five years.

Mrs. Charles Matthews and child, of Brooklyn, are visiting Charles Dickson and family, of West Dunellen.

Adam Herlich and William Liable went to Paterson with the Crescent Division, U. R., K. of P., of Plainfield, Monday.

Individual checker games are being held almost nightly at W.H.Coles' office, but as yet no match games have been scheduled.

August Waterling, who has been a guest at Milligan's boarding house, since last June, will return to his New York home this week.

The firemen expect to have a lively meeting tomorrow evening, as there are some three or four candidates in the field for the office of chief.

Abraham Vail is putting up a new barn on the John Case farm, just west from here. The new building will be completed before cold weather sets in.

William VanMiddlesworth and Jacob Snell took a run from here through the Oranges on Sunday by wheel, and arrived home late at night without an accident.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Barker, who died on Monday, was buried from the house yesterday afternoon. Interment was made in the cemetery at Samptown.

Work on the new Town Hall was not retarded in the least by the rain yesterday. The contractor and his men worked all day, and before nightfall the building was ready for weatherboarding.

C. Schepflin is having his hot air furnace and engine overhauled by A. S. Giles. Mr. Schepflin intends to have plenty of heat this winter for Chronic constipation is a painful, disasgreeable and life-shortening difficulty. It deranges the system, causes sickheadache, bad breath, and poisons the blood. It can be readily overcome by DeWitts' Little Early Risers. These little pills are great regulators. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking, if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

EARLY INTELIGENCE.

—The carnival committee will meet at the Board of Trade rooms tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

—The first annual meeting of the Primary Teachers's Union will be held next Monday afternoon at the usual place.

—The annual election of officers in the Sunday-school of the Congregational church will take place next Sunday.

—E. M. Jaquett carries a full stock of everything in the clothing and gents' furnishing line, and of the latest style, too.

—Many hundred cakes of Leggett's famous witch hazel soap have been sold and in every instance the utmost satisfaction has been the result.

—The Republican banner has been taken down for repairs. It is now in Dore Vroom's art parlors and is being prepared to float again.

—The annual meeting of the Relief Association will be held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock. All interested in the work of the association are invited to attend.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps start tomorrow morning at 5:10 o'clock for Somerville to join the Somerville Hook and Ladder Company and then proceed to the firemen's parade at Easton.

—A very interesting missionary talk was given by Miss Carleton, of Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. D. E. Davis to the ladies of the First M. E. church. Miss Carleton spoke particularly to the young ladies.

—Miss A. E. Lincoln, the Park avenue florist, furnished and arranged over twenty of the beautiful floral tributes sent to the funerals of last Sunday and Monday. They were very elegant and artistic and reflect credit on the designer.

—The case of White against Boucher, on contract, came before Justice Mosher this morning. Boucher's attorney, City Judge DeMeza, applied for a non-suit, and the request was granted. Summons were issued in a new suit at once.

—The name of the Drake Opera house, in Elizabeth, which was sold by the Sheriff two weeks ago, has been changed to the People's Theatre, and will be opened next Monday night by Col. W. M. Morton, formerly manager of Miner's Newark theatre, with a vaudeville company.

THE MYSTERY NOT YET SOLVED.

The Dead Man Was Not Identified by Either of the Searchers.

Instead of identification, the mystery that surrounds the dead man, found in the woods near Fanwood, grows deeper. Yesterday, Miss Louise Plancon was almost sure that it was the body of her father who has been missing since June 18th. But this morning Undertaker Casey, in whose morgue the body lies, received a letter from her stating that she had taken the sample of cloth of his trousers to the tailor who made her father's suit and he declared that the material was not the same. Her mother was quite sure that it was not Mr. Placon for several reasons.

The other clue also proved false. Mr. Fleshley's son and a friend went to the morgue yesterday and immediately declared that the stranger was not Mr. Fleshley as the latter is six feet high and the dead man not over five feet three inches in height.

A Big Calendar.

The October term of the Union County Court will begin next Tuesday. The civil and criminal calendar is not very long.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

ANIMAL WAIFS.

A horse died at North Andover, Mass., the other day, in whose stomach was found over a pound of nails.

Barnum's trick horses are fairly beaten by a team of old work horses in Wesley, Me., that the driver left standing in the field for a moment, hitched to a mower. In his absence they cut two neat swaths completely around the field, without missing a spear of grass, turning the corners accurately.

All efforts to trace the capercalzie and black game imported in Aroostook, Me., from old Sweden last spring have proved fruitless. Now and then comes a rumor that they have been seen or heard. They have doubtless retreated to the deep Canadian pine forests, and the benefits of their importation will be reaped in future years.

Few hunters have returned from the woods with more satisfaction than that felt by Miss Jennie Eliot, of South Sebec, Me., who recently saw two deer grazing in her father's mowing field, and succeeded in getting an excellent photographic snap shot at them. In the picture one of the deer is in the attitude of leaping, all four of its legs being off the ground.

A swordfish strayed away from home and friends a few days ago and lost his life while exploring the old basin inside of the old breakwater at Block Island, R. I. When his presence became known half a dozen men, one with a harpoon, went on the breakwater, and, when the fish was near the instrument was thrown, with the desired result. It is said that this is the first fish of the kind ever known to have been seen in the basin.

TWO DELEGATIONS DUE TO-DAY

The Presidential Nominee Finds Time Now To Attend to His Correspondence. Several Assuring Letters from the West.

Canton, O., Sept. 30.—Only two delegations of visitors are booked to call on Major McKinley to-day, people of Bellefonte, Pa., and citizens of northern Ohio, and with the extremely disagreeable weather now prevailing it is probable that not many will venture on the journey, if the proposed visits are not postponed. Major McKinley continues to be in the best of health and spirits, and with his secretary spent several hours this morning answering his correspondence. Several letters were received in this morning's mail from district managers in western states, two of which contained very confident expressions of a gain in republican sentiment in the silver strongholds. Three of the five delegation sscheduled to arrive here yesterday postponed their coming and the two remaining ones did not to go Maj. McKinley's house on account of the rain, but were addressed in the Tabernacle. A delegation of 500 hundred union veterans from the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors' home at Sandusky with 100 citizens of that town came in during the afternoon. Sergeant Hopkins introduced the spokesman, L. W. Hull, who addressed Major McKinley at some length. Major McKinley's greeting from the old soldiers was ardent. The second and last delegation of the day arrived an hour later. It was composed in the main of employes of the B. & O. railroad in northern Indiana. With the delegation were 200 farmers and about sixty ladies. There were upwards of 500 railroad men in the delegation, and Major McKinley had not had a more attentive and enthusiastic body of visitors since his nomination, nor had he listened to a more effective address than was made on behalf of the B. & O. railroad men by their spokesman, Judge W. L. Penfield of Auburn, Ind.

SPAIN CANNOT WIN.

Opinion of the London Times Regarding the Situation in Cuba.

London, Sept. 30.—The Times has a letter from its Havana correspondent describing the forced-currency issue in Cuba, in the course of which he says: "Both the custom house and the Spanish bank itself refuse to accept the banknotes. It is therefore ridiculous to hope that Capt.-Gen. Weyler's decree will maintain them at par." The correspondent predicts that within a few months the banknotes will be at 50 per cent. discount. He says that the bitterness of the Spanish officers in Cuba against the United States is constantly on the increase, as it is seen that nothing stops the landing of filibusters. The Times also has an editorial on the Cuban situation which says that the letter from its correspondent shows that nothing has occurred to justify a more cheerful view of the situation there. "Spain," says the Times, "is incapable apparently of such resolute and continuous effort as is needed to reconquer the island."

Fishing Disasters During the Year.

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 30.—A summary of the fishery disasters during the year ending with the present month shows that seventy-four lives have been lost, as compared with an average of ninety-nine for the past twenty-two years. Many of the men left wives and children, who were dependent on their earnings. The number of vessels lost is thirteen, which is less than last year. The tonnage was 823, 65-100; valuation, $60,000; insurance, $46,648.

New England Baseball Championship.

Providence, Sept. 30.—In the first of the series of games between the Providence and Boston clubs for the championship of New England, the Bostons were outbatted and defeated by the score of 7 to 4. It was a funny game, full of free hitting, lively fielding and there were misplays bunched in the early part of the game in an alarming fashion. After the second inning both teams settled down and made it an interesting contest.

Report of Commissioner of Education.

Washington, Sept. 30.—William T. Harris, commissioner of education, has submitted his annual report. It shows an increase in the attendance of pupils in all schools, notwithstanding the business depression. A large part of the report is devoted to the elucidation of Dr. Sheldon Jackson's scheme of stocking Alaska with reindeer. The commissioner advocates maintaining two large herds as a base of supplies.

End of the Corbett-Sharkey Fake.

New York, Sept. 30.—The alleged match between Corbett and Sharkey has been formally declared off by the former. As a matter of fact, no match ever really existed between the men. They had a sort of agreement to get a big purse for a go and pretended to have $5,000 a side posted. No stakeholder could be found, neither could any athletic organization be induced to offer a purse.

Fighting in Matabeleland.

Salisbury, Matabeleland, Sept. 30.—There has been serious fighting on the Mezoe river during the last three days. During one engagement a British force was hemmed in for ten hours by a strong force of insurgents.

Du Maurier Seriously Ill.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand recycling. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE COAL DEMON

has an unsatiable thirst for money, hasn't he? Eats it up faster than anything else, doesn't he? The only way to save money on coal is to get the most for your money—to get clean, solid coal that will burn down to fine ashes without stopping half way between coal and ashes. We know we can give you perfect satisfaction, but don't want you to buy here until you know it.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

HISTORY OF A TURTLE.

The Creature Has a Strong Attachment for Its Home.

It Has Lived in the Same Place for More Than Fifty-Two Years—Its Back Decorated with Many Curious Inscriptions.

In 1840 Miss Davie Peele lived with her parents in Paoli, Ind., the seat of Orange county. She was then ten years of age. One day during that year she, with some young companions, went into the deep woods about two miles from her father's house to pick blackberries. After awhile she became tired and stopped to rest on a green and shady bank beside a tiny pond. She observed a small object moving in the grass at her feet. Upon investigating she discovered the object to be a distant relative of the great and ancient family of tortoise, or testudinata, known in the vernacular as the "land terrapin."

This little creature has most interesting and peculiar habits. It is usually found near ponds, or in deep recesses of woods where jungles of foliage provide the moisture and coolness without which it does not seem to be content. It is wary, cunning, inoffensive and remarkably beautiful. It is armed cap-a-pie with a firm shell, in color a scrambled red of the prevalent Persian mode. It exhibits the strongest attachment for the place it has selected for a home, and if removed will return again and again, even in spite of great difficulty.

Miss Peele took the little creature into her hand, admired its mottled armor, laughed at its ludicrous haste in ensconcing itself within its tough shell, slipped it into her pocket, and took it home. She placed it in a box, but, as the little prisoner refused food, she concluded to release it. It was suggested that she carve her name on the little fellow's shell, and, as this would cause the terrapin no pain, she did so, together with the date.

The occurrence passed out of Miss Peele's mind, and ten years rolled by. In 1850 she married a Mr. Wible, who subsequently was clerk of Orange county several times. In the course of the summer after her marriage she found herself at exactly the same spot she had visited ten years before. As she stood musing upon the occurrence of that day, her attention was attracted to a small moving object in the grass. Her surprise and delight may be imagined when she found the object was the terrapin she had found there before. There was her name in living letters upon the creature's shield, and she thought no knight errant of old had ever more faithfully protected his sweetheart's insignia than had this armored knight protected hers.

She took the terrapin home to show her friends. She lightly traced her new name under her former one, also the date 1850, and sent her knight forth upon his errantry. After many years Mrs. Wible became a widow, and removed to Hutchinson, Kan., where she married a physician, Dr. McKinney, and yet lives.

During the summer of 1872 she visited her old home at Paoli. While she was there her terrapin was found at the identical spot where it had twice before been captured. Mrs. McKinney cut her changed name beneath her two former ones, smiling as she did so at the knight's constancy and the maid's fickleness. She returned to her western home, and in time ceased to think about her experiences with the terrapin.

In the summer of 1895 Mrs. McKinney received a letter from a friend at Paoli, together with a copy of a local paper which contained a statement of the above facts with the information that the terrapin had lately been captured at its old home, and brought into town, after which the date was carved upon its shell, and the creature released.

The terrapin was not perceptibly larger when last found than it had been when first found 55 years before. Each time it had been released near the center of the little town, and at least two miles from its habitat.

Probably no more remarkable manifestation of an animal's attachment for its home is known than this furnishes.

Coyotes and Their Pups.

An amusing incident occurred the other day on the Lemon farm, near Garfield, Wash. Burt Lemon and an employe of the farm were plowing, when they came across three young coyote pups which had not yet opened their eyes. While they were examining them the old ones appeared and approached to within 50 yards. Mr. Lemon went to the house for a gun and a sack and placed the young ones in the sack, which was tied up and left in the field until time to go in from work. The old ones kept a respectful distance from the men, but hovered around. Several turns of the field were made with the plow, and finally, when the men came in sight of where they had left the sack containing the young coyotes, they saw one of the old ones with the sack, puppies and all, streaking it over the hill, and that was the last seen of them.

POLICE RAID DENOUNCED.

A Philadelphia Judge's Opinion on Certain Rights of a Citizen.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30. — Judges Thayer, Wilson and Arnold in the quarter sessions court yesterday heard testimony on a writ of habeas corpus taken out for Michael Woelper and seven fellow-Italians, who were recently held in $3,000 bail each for an alleged assault and battery, with intent to kill, upon eight policemen. The officers were engaged in making a raid on a house on September 20, where it was alleged Woelper conducted a "speak easy." The occupants resisted and a general fight followed, during which Michael Pezza, one of the inmates, was shot and killed while on the roof. In delivering the court's opinion, Judge Thayer said that the raid and arrest were both infamous and outrageous, and that all the prisoners, with the exception of Woelper, who would be required to enter $600 bail to answer the charge of selling liquor without a license, should be discharged. He further said that when an armed force of policemen made an onslaught on a dwelling on Sunday for the purpose of serving a misdemeanor warrant the occupants had a perfect right to use every brick on their chimney to resist the illegal attack. In the opinion of the court, he said, it was not through any instrumentality of the prisoners that Pezza was killed. All the prisoners, with the exception of Woelper, were then discharged.

IN DISTRESS AT VIENNA.

An American Woman Given Shelter at the U. S. Consul's Home Attempts Suicide.

Vienna, Sept. 30. — An American woman named Constance Elroy visited the American consulate in this city Monday. She was in great distress and her story so affected Consul-General Judd that he sent her to Mrs. Judd, who insisted upon her remaining as her guest until her circumstances should improve. Miss Elroy appeared very grateful for the kindness shown her, but was very despondent. Shortly after she had retired Monday night groans were heard in her room and upon investigation it was discovered that Miss Elroy had taken a large dose of poison. Medical assistance was summoned and most of the poison was removed. The woman may possibly recover, but her condition is still very critical.

ASSISTANT IN SOCIOLOGY.

Dr. Dubois the First Colored Man to Receive a Fellowship in the U. of P.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—Dr. W. E. Dubois, colored, who was graduated from Harvard college several years ago and who has studied in the German universities, has been appointed to a fellowship in sociology at the University of Pennsylvania. He is the first one of his race to hold such a position in this university. He will be an assistant to Dr. Samuel Lindsay in sociology. Dr. Dubois will not be considered a member of the faculty and will not lecture at college. His work will be among the colored population of Philadelphia. He will make a house-to-house investigation of the colored settlements, giving to the university authorities the results of his observations.

MASSACRES RESUMED.

Report of the Murder of a Thousand Armenians at Mikde Last Saturday.

London, Sept. 30.—The Berlin correspondent of the Standard telegraphs that a dispatch received in that city from Constantinople says that the governor of Kharput reports that a thousand Armenians were massacred at Mikde on Saturday last.

The Turkish Situation.

Paris, Sept. 30.—A semi-official note issued to-day says that the embassies at Constantinople are unanimous in regarding the representations made to the sultan by M. Cambon, the French ambassador, as having exercised a most effective influence upon the Turkish government, and as being destined soon to deprive the eastern question of much of its acuteness.

College Football Match.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—Manager McAvoy of the Pennsylvania university eleven, has succeeded in securing the Gettysburg, Pa., college to play in place of Columbian. Gettysburg has a fair team, and as it is stronger than Columbian an interesting game can be looked for.

TRAINS ARE DELAYED

Operators' Strike Causes Serious Trouble on the Canadian Pacific.

ONLY A LITTLE FREIGHT MOVED

Trains Sent Out Under the Flag System and Strikers Predict a Serious Smash-up — Officials Say Things Will Soon Be in Good Shape Again.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 30.—There is no doubting the fact that there is serious trouble on the Canadian Pacific Railway company's system. A reporter called at the dispatcher's office at the Union station this morning and there met Supt. Leonard. The superintendent appeared to be perturbed, but found time to explain why his division was to-day being operated under difficulties. He said two of his dispatchers here, Messrs. Smith and Joyce, had obeyed the order issued from Montreal to go out on strike and a number of operators at intermediate points between Toronto and Montreal and Toronto and Windsor had also left their posts. Two operators at Toronto Junction, one at Parkdale and one at Leeside ceased work as soon as the dispatch from their master workman was received, but Supt. Leonard states that all of these positions have been filled by good men. In his opinion the through freight and passenger traffic will not be materially interfered with, as these trains run on schedule time and can be operated quite as easily by three operators between here and Windsor and three between here and Smiths Falls. But the way freight trains will probably be delayed, although they were all sent out from the eastern and western ends of the division to-day. Mr. Leonard estimates that on his division some eighty operators have quit work, but a number of these are men who also do station agency work and are still at their posts so far as this work is concerned. They refused to do any operating until the difficulty between the Brotherhood and the road had been settled, and this will likely have the effect of wiping their names off the payroll. There is no question about the strike being general over the Canadian Pacific railway system as only three out of eight night operators worked after the order from headquarters was received between Smith's Falls and Havelock, and between Havelock and Toronto only two out of five night men remained at their posts. It is claimed by the strikers that all these men who remained at the key are students. While the strike, so far as can be learned here, appears to be general on the Canadian Pacific, there does not seem to be much danger of its extending to the commercial system of the Canadian Pacific at present. Freight trains that are now being sent out are run under the flag system and the strikers say that if there is not a serious accident it will only be due to pure luck.

Passenger Train Eleven Hours Late.

North Bay, Ont., Sept. 30.—Only two or three operators are working between Chalk River and Sault Ste Marie, along the line of the Banadian Pacific railway. A passenger train from the east due here at 9 a. m., arrived at 8 o'clock last night, eleven hours late. No freight trains are running to-day.

Traffic Greatly Retarded.

Windsor, Sept. 30.—Traffic on the Canadian Pacific at this point is greatly retarded as a result of the operators' strike. At many stations where the operators have gone out, trains are at a standstill and communications with the dispatchers is, in many cases, being carried on by telephone. On the eastern portions of the Ontario division there is a blockade of trains which will cause heavy loss in the case of perishable freight.

Hamburg's Horticultural Exhibition.

Washington, Sept. 30.—The secretary of agriculture is in receipt of a communication from the department of state inclosing advices from the German ambassador of the horticultural exhibition to be he held at Hamburg during the year 1897. This exhibition, which will be open from May to September of that year, is designed to embrace the entire field of horticulture and all kinds of plant culture, and it is confidently expected that it will be the most comprehensive and important horticultural exhibition that has ever been held.

Montreal's First Leper.

Montreal, Sept. 30.—The first case of leprosy ever discovered in this city has just resulted fatally at the general hospital. Lee Lung, a Chinaman, who arrived here about a year ago, was taken to the hospital recently suffering from a disease which on being diagnosed was known to be leprosy. A strict examination is to be made among the Chinese colony to discover if any other cases exist.

Republican Congressional Split.

Johnstown, Pa., Sept. 30.—The republican conferees of the Twentieth congressional district split yesterday afternoon, the Somerset and Bedford county conferees nominating F. J. Koeser. The Blair and Cambria conferees left for Harrisburg last night to consult with the state officials. Mr. Koeser also went to Harrisburg, as the nomination papers had to be filed before midnight.

Elected Lord Mayor of London.

London, Sept. 30.—Alderman George Faudel Phillips, sheriff of the county of London, has been elected lord mayor of London to succeed Sir Walter Wilkin.

Nominated for Assembly.

Middletown, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The republicans of Sullivan county have nominated George McLaughlin for member of assembly

THE STORM'S HAVOC.

Immense Damage Done All Along the Atlantic Coast.

[Special to The Daily Press.]

New York, Sept. 30.—All the telegraph wires as far south as New Orleans, having been rendered useless by the hurricane which passed over this city early this morning, the local weather official, E. B. Dunn, was in consequence unable this morning to tell the extent of the damage by the storm.

Its centre today, he said, was over Michigan, and as it was now moving in a northeasterly direction, later on the hurricane would return and deluge this section again. The storm covers all the lake regions, and the winds along the coast and inland as far as the Mississippi valley during the night were blowing from thirty to fifty-six miles an hour.

The storm last night created great havoc along the Southern Atlantic coast. The greatest damage occurred at Savannah. A number of lives were lost there and property worth over $1,000,090 was destroyed. Telegraph wires south of Baltimore were in such bad condition this morning that communication was practically broken off.

Early Closing.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The following gentlemen have declared their willingness to close their places of business at 6:30 p. m., during the days of the Christian Endeavor convention, and we trust their good example will be followed by others:

G. W. Rockfellow, R. O. Howell, F. W. Dunn, J. A. Smith & Bros., Neuman Bros., J. F. MacDonald, Barnes Bros., Scheuer, A. Love, Van-Emburgh, Edsall, Peck, Berkaw, Willet, Force, White and H. W. Marshall.

Westfield Wants Free Delivery.

An inspector of the Postoffice Department visited Westfield last week to report upon the advisability of free postal delivery in the town. The fact that the houses are not numbered seemed to him to be a drawback to the introduction of the system.

Freeholders to Inspect.

The Board of Freeholders of Somerset county met at Somerville yesterday and decided to go to Washingtonville next Thursday and inspect the location for the proposed ice pond and dam. The subject was discussed considerably at the meeting.

A Still Alarm.

A fire in the chimney at the residence of Frederick Schriener, 440 West Sixth street, resulted in the sending of a still alarm this afternoon. No. 2 hose wagon responded and the fire was finally extinguished with the extinguishers.

Telephone Exchange Burned.

The Greenpoint exchange of the N. Y. and N. J. Telephone Company, at the corner of Greene street and Manhattan avenue, Brooklyn, was burned out early this morning, involving a loss of $30,000.

PROTECTION AND GOLD.

and how, in reality, it would have the opposite effect. In case of Bryan's election, the gold would all be hoarded and hidden away and it would take the mints nearly fifteen years to coin enough silver to take the place of the precious metal. He gave statistics and figures to prove his statement.

"Do you think they will carry the House and Senate? Never, while there are as many patriotic Democrats as there are today!" was the way he started a fresh burst of eloquence, in which he made an appeal to his hearers to support McKinley and Hobart and defeat the man who, he stated, is exciting the masses and trying to array class against class. The capitalist, he declared, was not an enemy of labor but a necessity, as without capital there would be no employment for the workingman.

Another result that he predicted would follow Bryan's election was the reducing by one-half of the value of the deposits in the savings banks, and thereby the workingmen, women, boys and girls would have to suffer as most of their savings were kept there. The building loan asssociations, which also contain money of many a poor workman, would be affected the same, so he said, and their savings reduced by one-half. Pensions were referred to. Mortgage-holders would be affected similarly, he predicted, and a clause would be added making them payable in gold instead of either gold or silver as at present.

For the information of his hearers he stated that it was not necessary to elect a Democratic House and Senate to have free siver, but that the President can compell the mints to open their doors for the unlimited coinage of silver.

The Mexican dollar and its present value was again rejuvenated as an example, while Japan and China were given as examples of free silver countries.

The speaker then left the financial question and reverted to the tariff and laid the present financial depression to the Wilson bill. In contrast he suggested the good times between '65 and '92 when the Republicans were in power. The present tariff, he said, did not yield sufficient revenue to support the government.

He then told something of his own experience as a labor representative before the committee of ways and means of the house when the Wilson bill was considered.

He compared the characters of the two candidates for president according to his estimation. McKinley was the best champion labor has every had, so he said. He closed his remarks with another appeal to the voters.

Chairman McInness followed a selection by the band with the announcement that Judge Wilbur A. Mott was indisposed and that William B. Sutherland, of Newark, would speak. Mr. Sutherland did not prelude his speech with the usual eloquent nothings but got down to business at once. He said he was not going to indulge in statistics and theories but stick to plain facts. He was of the opinion that the tariff question was one of personal interest and convenience but the financial question affects all alike. To begin at the begining, he said that money is a measure of value and therefore there must be a standard. Although we thought that for some time we were maintaining two standards, he said, one was really rated by the other. Silver was not really demonitized but retained its same relation to gold, the real standard.

The silver movement he characterized as a catch-penny affair, intended to catch the popular fancy as free trade did four years ago, and its chief exponent, Bryan, he went on to say, was trying to arouse labor against capital without real reason. He then discussed what free silver meant. Under the present conditions it would mean that the government would have to give one dollar for fifty-three cents of bullion, and that that would necessitate the taxing of the people to supply the forty-seven cents for every dollar coined. This taxation would be forced by the silver mine owners, he went on, and thus there would be taxation without representation.

Judge Mott was present and concluded the meeting with a few remarks, stating his sorrow at his present inability to speak, and his willingness to take part in some future meeting if so desired.

An $8,000 Fire in Rahway.

The works of the Turner Manufacturing Company in Rahway were destroyed by fire early this morning, causing a loss of $8,000, which is partially covered by insurance. There was a high wind blowing at the time, and the firemen found it almost impossible to check the flames.

MUSICAL NOTES.

Dresden now has a concert hall on the model of the new Gewandhaus at Leipzig that will seat 1,400 persons.

Mascagni is composing an opera on a Japanese libretto by Sig. Illico for the fall season at La Scala, Milan.

Wagner's violin teacher, Robert Sipp who is now 90 years of age, was present at this summer's performances at Bayreuth.

Reginald de Koven, who has set to music a number of Eugene Fields' poems, is writing new music for some of the poet's later lullabies.

Lasalle, the baritone, who, it was supposed, had left the stage, will appear in "The Flying Dutchman" at the Paris Opera Comique next winter.

Vienna will celebrate the hundredth anniversary of Franz Schubert next year by an exhibition of objects connected with the composer and a series of performances of his works.

Paul Dresser, the song writer and author of "Just Tell Them That You Saw Me," has written a new piece called "Don't Tell Her That You Love Her," which is to appear in an early edition of Ev'ry Month.

Paderewski has written a new minuet for the piano. He has dedicated it to his American admirers and calls it "Menuet Moderne," in contradistinction to his famous "Menuet a l'Antique," which was written in 1883.

Queen Elizabeth of Roumania, Carmen Sylva, has written an opera libretto in French on a Turkish plot for M. Massanet. The queen is probably the only living author who has written verse in four languages, French, German, Swedish and Roumanian.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The wife of Li Hung Chang is said to possess 2,000 frocks and has half that number of waiting women in attendance upon her.

The late Jules Simon's library contained about 25,000 books, to which he could go, he insisted, with his eyes closed and find the exact volume which he wanted.

A suit of armor has been discovered in the old Chateau di la Tour de Pinon, which is thought to be the one ordered for Joan of Arc by Charles VII., during the siege of Orleans, and presented to her at Bourges. It is said to correspond exactly in the description handed down and was made for a woman five feet three inches in height.

The girl who sat as model for Sir John Millais' "Cinderella," "Callin' Herrin'" and "Sweetest Eyes Were Ever Seen" is now a married woman, residing in a pretty home in Richmond, where one of her dearest prizes is a signed proof of "Cinderella" on the wall. She also possesses a beautiful gold locket given her by the artist as a remembrance of the famous picture.

England is taking quite good-naturedly the fact that a bold snap-shot artist caught the prince of Wales and Princess Charles of Denmark recently and is now exhibiting them through the medium of the cinematographe, in which the prince gravely lifts his hat from his head and strokes his hair much as any man does, while the charming princess calmly adjusts the ruffles about her throat in exact imitation of all her sisters who wish to know that they are "all right."

STAMPS AND COLLECTORS.

Belgium has issued a railway packet stamp of 60 cents, lilac and black.

Cape of Good Hope, 2½ pence is now blue, and the two shillings yellow.

In Italy a new postal card is to be issued, on the occasion of the inauguration of the monument to Victor Emanuel. It will be of the value of ten centimes, and bear the effigy of that monarch.

Stamp dealers give valuable aid to government officials in capturing stamp thieves, but, of course, solely on their own account. If they can make the thief disgorge, or pay for their plunder, they drop the matter right there, whereas the government never forgets or forgives.

The ancient feudal castle of Abin, near Huy, in the province of Liege, Belgium, which was sold some years ago by Count of Looz-Corswarem, has been purchased by the heirs of the count. One of the curiosities of the castle is a room papered entirely with old Spanish stamps of nineteen cuartos, which are now very rare.

Philadelphia has a Philatelic society, with nearly a hundred active members. It meets twice a month throughout the year, and at the meetings the issues of new stamps are discussed, also the fluctuations in values. Very rare stamps are occasionally exhibited, as many of the members are advanced collectors, and some have priceless albums.

By a fire in the Rumanzieff museum at Moscow the Panin hall, containing the public library of the city, was destroyed. The collections in the adjacent Rumanzieff and Dolgorouki galleries are damaged by water.

Robinson Crusoe's island, Juan Fernandez, is said to have disappeared in the earthquake which shook up Chili last March. The Chilian government has sent a vessel to verify the story.

In the banks of London are deposits to the amount of £6,543,017, which have remained unclaimed for 30 years. During that time the depositors have not added to their accounts, nor drawn upon them; consequently they are supposed to be dead.
